GIL READY TO RELINQUISH THE PRESIDENCY OF MEXICO

After Reviewing the Achievements of His Administration in a Message to Congress, President Gil Declared That the Government Would Remain Aloof From the Presidential Elections November 17—Listed Among the Achievements Suppression of the Revolution, Settlement of the State-Church Controversy and Preservation of a Sound Financial Program.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 1.—(AP)— Declaring he had initiated the era of institutional government proclaimed necessary by General Plutarco Elias Calles in his memorable address to congress last year, President Emilio Portes Gil told congress today at the opening of the regular fall session that he had no intention of endeavoring to prolong his term in office and that the government will remain entirely aloof from the presidential election November 17.

In a message which required two hours reading, congress was given a complete account of the ninth months of provisional administration's activities.

Among the outstanding achievements were listed suppression of the revolution which broke out March 3, settlement of the state-church controversy and subsequent termination of the cristero rebellion, retrenchment and economy in the army, maintenance of the agrarian policy, expansion in the educational field and preservation of a sound financial program.

In regard to foreign relations, the report referred especially to Nicaragua, setting forth that Mexico had not established diplomatic relations with the present government there because it had not, in Mexico's opinion, received the sovereign's duly due test nation.

"I believe I have fulfilled the offer made in my inaugural address to substitute in the government men loyal to men for men loyal to principles," the president said. "thus conforming with the desire expressed by General Calles in his speech here last September when he declared that the era of 'caudillaje' (one man military rule) should be ended and a government of institutions set up."

He replied to recent rumors by declaring categorically that he does not wish to remain in office after completion of his provisional term next February. "I do not possess the proportions of a 'Caudillo' capable of leading the army or the people on a venture so absurd as that which heated imaginations have conceived," he said. "Prolongation of my mandate would bring bankruptcy of the law. There is not the slightest reason to suspect that I endeavor to initiate, suggest or lend my spport to any movement tending to alter the date of the presidential elections and prolong my mandate."

Felipe Canales, acting secretary of the interior, reported on settlement of the church-state controversy, declaring that the Catholic church agreed to subject itself to the Mexican laws governing religious activities and that the government achieved that in settling the controversy. "It complied strictly with its duty."

In the field of foreign relations, Jenaro Estrada, acting secretary, said that Mexico had presented its points of view to the United States government to prevent "exaggerated application" of immigration regulations to Mexicans, and had made opportune observations to Washington as to the proposed tariff increases on importations from Mexico, notably on tomatoes and cattle. The United States exports to Mexico last year, he revealed, totaled about $135,000,000 while its imports from Mexico amounted to $124,000,000.

"Furthermore, the wage earners in the south have awakened to the necessity of organization. The organization activities are not confined to a few localities or to a few states, but are widespread below the Mason and Dixon line."

ARRESTED AS HE LEAPED FROM TRAIN AT WESTERLY

BOSTON, Sept. 1—(AP)—Taken into custody after he had leaped early today from a swiftly moving New York-Boston train at Westerly, R. I., John D. Sandulo, 27, of Newark, N. J., mystified police when brought here tonight with the story of his "arrest."

He said he had been arrested Saturday night in New York's Chinatown by two men who told him he was wanted in Boston on a default warrant. Police here said this was true, but they knew nothing of the two men. No one had been sent to New York for Sandulo, they said.

The three men Sandulo said, boarded a Boston bound train and at Westerly, he leaned from the platform, rolled down a steep embankment and disappeared in the woods. One of his two "captors" notified Westerly police and after a search of several hours, he was captured. Boston police were notified from the Westerly station.

Candulo and his wife, Margaret, were found guilty in March in Suffolk superior court, of larceny of goods valued at $1,500. Their cases were continued for disposition and bail furnished by Patrick Long of Boston, a professional bondsman. Both defaulted. Until today, police had not been able to find either.

A street gang at work in the vicinity of the building heard the report which they described as a kind of distant rumbling. They paid no particular attention until they saw the police and fire department arrive in great numbers.

GRAF ZEPPELIN FLYING SOUTHERLY COURSE HOME

Dirigible Took Off From Lakehurst at 7:18 A. M., E. S. T., Sunday—Dr. Eckener, Who Had Piloted the Graf Around the World, Waved a Handkerchef as the Airship Departed Under the Command of Captain Lehman—Graf Probably Will Reach Friedrichshaven Wednesday.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Sept. 11—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin sailed back to Germany today and Dr. Hugo Eckener, the man who piloted it around the world, stood on the ground and watched.

It was a curious parting, this first separation of the man and the machine which have shared so many adventures, for to those who watched it seemed that of the two, the machine showed the greater reluctance.

Having made up his mind to stay in America for a few days and send his dirigible back under command of Capt. Ernst Lehman, Dr. Eckener stood in the morning sun by the hangar door and saw the ship depart at 7:18 a. m. eastern standard time, with scarcely any show of emotion.

The great ship, on the other hand, seemed for several minutes to be fighting the will of the navigators directing it into the element in which it was accustomed to sail only under the guidance of Dr. Eckener.

When the command "up ship" was given, the ground crew heaved and the lines rose easily, but the tail dragged and even when pulled upward by the mounting prow hung at a steep angle below the dirigible's prow. Then the engines roared and the staggish ship at last straightened out, melting then into the east toward the ocean it was to cross for the fifth time in less than a year.

Dr. Eckener drew a white handkerchief from his pocket, waved once, and without a glance over his shoulder marched back into the hangar.

The Graf's commander prepared to leave for Cleveland tonight for the air races. From there he will go to Akron, Ohio, for business conferences with officials of the Goodyear-Zeppelin company, which holds the American rights to the Zeppelin patents.

Capt. Lehman, a diminutive sailor of the skies, who led the first dirigible raid against London in the war and who has commanded half a dozen airships smaller than the Graf, said he expected to start due east and then, if weather permitted, to swing on a southerly course by way of Bermuda and the Azores. He thought he would probably reach Friedrichshafen on Wednesday.

It had seemed for a time that the Graf would not be able to get out of the hangar before late tonight. Until dawn today gusty cross winds that delayed her start, originally set for midnight, were still creating an area of atmospheric turbulence about the hangar.

All precedents were upset when the Graf was walked out about 7 o'clock. Experience with the Los Angeles has taught the navy that the safest time to take her out of the hanger is between midnight and dawn, and Capt. Lehman, when he released the ground crew last night, said that, if the wind did not die down by 4 a. m. the chances were he would not be able to start before late tonight.

The twenty-two passengers, the less experienced of whom were twice disappointed last night by bugle calls and orders which sounded as though they were about to start moving, finally slept aboard ship.

A 75 mile race for civilian pilots in Cabin ships with motors of 500 cubic inches or less piston displacement was won by W. Cantwell of Tulsa, Okla., whose Lockheed Vega flashed around the five mile course at 152.27 miles an hour. SYRACUSE ENDURANCE FLIERS STILL ALOFT

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 1.—(AP)—The Syracuse endurance fliers, 155 hours in the air at 10 o'clock tonight, saw their hopes of breaking the record endangered this afternoon when they discovered a cracked exhaust manifold in the engine of their plane, The Empire State.

But shortly afterward, Aaron (Dizzie) Kranz, stunt airman, and close friend of the endurance fliers, Clyde E. Pangborn and Carl A. Dixon, went aloft in another plane, transferred to the Empire State by means of a rope ladder and during a two-hour visit made temporary repairs to the manifold. Kranz then dropped in a parachute.

Exhaust fumes, which threatened to force down the endurance plane, were minimized by bending back three exhaust pipes which were firing into the cockpit. A replacement taken up today did not fit, but another will be transferred to the plane tomorrow.

Arraigned on a charge modified from driving while under the influence of liquor, Reginald L. Herring of Norwich and Essex pleaded guilty to speeding at the session of police court Saturday morning and was fined $10 and costs. Mayor Leroy Robbins of Norwich appeared as counsel for the accused. The original charge was placed against Herring by the police during an investigation of an accident at the foot of Dunraw hill, on the South Windham road. Friday evening when a car driven by the Norwich man figured in a collision with machines owned by Harold C. Wiggins of this city and Morris Berman of Hartford, badly damaging all three cars. Herring pleaded unfamiliarity with the road which curves at the point of the accident. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Frank P. Fenton recommended that the charge be modified with a statement that he had investigated the circumstances and believed that a speeding charge would suffice to meet the ends of justice. In addressing the court Attorney Robbins pointed out the dangerous condition of the highway at the location of the accident. He also said that a Massachusetts car proceeding ahead of Herring contributed to the causes of the accident.

Nathan Schwartz of R. F. D., No. 2, Yantic, who was arrested at the scene of the accident for driving without a license presented a certificate in court today and the charge was nolled upon the payment of costs. Schwartz rushed out to the scene after receiving a call from Berman, driver of the Hartford car.

Button, proceeding by motorcycle to duty in the Pierce street section, recognized from description given him a fugitive from justice, and passing by without slowing down, awaited his man around the corner. Taken by surprise and seized by the officer the man was placed in a commandeered auto and taken to police headquarters.

The fugitive was John Sandulo, 27, a baker, born in Newark, N. J., wanted in Boston for embezzlement of $2,000. To escape from the authorities he jumped from a moving passenger train about 6.30 a. m. Sunday, after eluding Officer Conn of Boston, returning with him to the Massachusetts city from New York. He had agreed to return without the formalities of extradition. The leap was made from the side door of a passenger coach of the Federal express which was over a half hour late. After the train had left the Westerly station Officer Conn succeeded in having the train make an emergency stop under the West street highway bridge and the officer had only the man's straw hat to show where once was his prisoner. A brakeman reported seeing the escaped man roll down the embankment near the gas plant north of the tracks at the Pawcatuck river railroad bridge.

A hurried search showed the Boston officer no trace of his man and then he proceeded to the Pawcatuck river bridge at Broad street with the idea that the man might attempt to secure an auto ride back to New York. Deputy Sheriff Casey when interviewed was able to secure the officer's motor passage in a hurried search along the Norwich-Westerly state road without result. The motorcycle officer, completing his tour of duty, was sent along the Westerly-Stonington highway as far as Stonington by Motorcycle Officer Madison but found no trace of Sandulo. The New Haven railroad police were notified and the Connecticut and Rhode Island state police. Patrolman A. D. Hill of Pawcatuck and Officer Conn then searched the railroad embankment on the Connecticut side of the river. Officer Paul McCarthy, of Westerly, on duty in Dixon square accompanied the Boston officer in a fruitless search of the railroad property on the Rhode Island side adjoining the station and even took a hurried trip through the Pierce street section without getting any trace of the fugitive. It was about 10 a. m. when Officer Button saw the man, who was bareheaded, and identified him by a patch of white hair on the side of his head. He was going along Canal street and the officer shortly after had him at the Westerly police station.

Sandulo was ordered to go to the police station and explain his destination. Here he readily admitted he was the man wanted and detailed how he had professed to be ill, making frequent trips to the train toilet and each time trying to open the side door of the vestibuled car, a process which he had repeated for more than a dozen times and did not find the two catches until the train was pulling into Westerly, when he made his leap for liberty. He stated that he had slightly bruised both knees and said it was a tough break to take the chance he took on jumping and then get caught, admitting that he had also been in previous "jams". He said on this trip he had been away from Boston for five months.

Officer Conn was chagrinned at losing his prisoner and stated that he supposed there always had to be a first time and that he had even gone to Europe and landed his man safely back in Boston. When he decided that all effort to locate the man had shown no result he secured a ride back to Boston in a passing auto, to report the man's getaway.

Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, notified Sergt. Caverly of the Boston narcotic squad and Sergt. Percell of the Boston police force and they promised to send a Boston officer for Sandulo. Inspector Caffrey at the police station mugged the man before the arrival of the Boston officers.

CHIEF EGGER'S CONDITION MORE COMFORTABLE SUNDAY

Fire Chief George E. Egger, elected at the annual meeting of the Westerly fire district last Wednesday evening for a two year term, on Friday afternoon, about 4 o'clock, suffered a second shock. His first shock was sustained after he had been named a member of the building committee for the new central fire headquarters building. His condition later improved to such an extent that he was able to be about and gave active attention to the details of its completion.

On Friday morning Chief Egger complained of a feeling of dizziness which continued into the afternoon after he had gone to the station. When his condition was noticed he was taken to his home. Dr. Michael H. Scanlon found that an embolism had occurred and Chief Egger, in a weakened condition was put to bed, it being found that his left arm and leg were affected. Sunday Dr. Scanlon reported his condition as more comfortable.

WEDDING.

Bromley-Williams.

Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Rev. Inor Partington, in North Stonington Miss Katherine Williams, daughter of George H. Williams of 1 Main street, White Rock, R. I., was united in marriage with Leslie Bromley. The attendants were the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Brown, of Ashaway.

The wedding party numbered about forty and following the ceremony autos were taken to the Golden Spur, where a reception was given for them by the bride's uncle, Arthur Rudd. Later they took the New London boat for two weeks' stay in New York. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Bromley will occupy a furnished home on the Westerly-Stonington road.

Trouble Over Right of Way.

Troubles of the Montagues and Capulets were equalled to a certain extent Saturday by those of the family of Patsy DePlacido, of 203 Canal street, and officials of the South County Public Service company. The difficulties grew out of the attempt of a construction gang to complete a survey along a formerly used right of way adjoining the properties of each party. When there was danger of a breach of the peace or an assault being committed Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown was called and a police officer visited the premises. When the situation involved the interpretation of a deed to the properties, Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell was summoned and Attorney Herbert W. Rathbun and Attorney Clarence E. Roche were also called to represent the warring parties. It was found that one of Mr. DePlacido's daughters pulled up stubs, also sat on the shovels of the workmen while the workmen were ordered from the premises, with threats that if there was any trespassing the use of firearms might become involved. There were also threats of injunction proceedings and the matter may yet find its way into court.

MRS. WM. P. STEVENS WAS CAUGHT IN UNDERTOW

At Misquamicut beach, Saturday forenoon, Mrs. Beatrice Stevens, wife of William P. Stevens, and daughter of Deputy H. L. Hart of Hartford, was caught in the undertow. It was feared that she had swallowed a quantity of water. Her condition was first noticed by a swimmer who saw her collapse on the beach as she emerged from the water. The place was just in front of the Wigwam hotel, where she has been a guest for a number of seasons. Dr. A. L. Damon of North Wilbraham, Mass., a guest at the hotel gave first aid and with the help of volunteers her condition had improved to the extent that she could be taken to the hotel.

COURTLAND B. BLIVEN DEAD— PROMOTER OF PLEASANT VIEW

Courtland Bradford Bliven, 78, proprietor of the Wigwam hotel, at Misquamicut, died at the Westerly hospital Saturday at 3 a. m. Mr. Bliven was known as the founder of Pleasant View beach, and the builder of the first and practically the only theatre in Westerly. Following months of illness at the beach, he had been at the hospital but a week.

Mr. Bliven was born March 16, 1851, in District No. 6, Westerly, the son of Bradford and Anne J. Barber Bliven, of Exeter, R. I. He attended the public schools and the old Union street academy. On graduation from the latter he taught school for two years before entering into his life's work as a hotel and theatre man. He sold his theatrical interests, the Bliven Opera House, in 1923 but continued active as a hotel keeper up to the time of his death.

Nov. 9, 1879, Mr. Bliven married Eugenie Lanphere of Mystic by Rev. Lewis A. Platts. She died a few years ago.

In connection with Mr. Bliven's management of the Bliven Opera House, he frequently found that he had the opposition of the clergymen of Westerly a matter which grieved him as his practice to have reputable shows. The episode of the showing of "prize-fight motion pictures" was a characteristic one when clergymen brought the matter before the Westerly town council with the request that a permit be denied Proprietor Bliven. Mr. Bliven was present at the council hearing and when the argument was the hottest extended an invitation to councilmen and ministers to go to his theatre and witness the fight pictures in a preliminary hearing and then decide if they were objectionable. Councilmen and ministers attended and the town fathers declared they could see nothing indecent or unfit and the show went on.

Mr. Bliven leaves a daughter, Mrs. George P. Winship of Cambridge, Mass., a son, Ralph Bliven of Westerly and four grandchildren, Ralph Bliven, Jr., Westerly; George O. Anu and Stephen Winship, of Cambridge.

SAMUEL H. COHEN FAILS TO SECURE BONDSMAN

Samuel H. Cohen, 32, of Allston, Mass., held on conspiracy charges, in several parts of Rhode Island, was photographed and fingerprinted Sunday afternoon at Westerly police headquarters by Superintendent Herbert B. Caffrey of the Rhode Island state bureau of criminal identification. Supt. Caffrey came to Westerly from Warwick, where he had photographed exhibits in a murder case which occurred there Saturday night.

Cohen had the experience of being arraigned twice within five hours in Rhode Island Saturday in Rhode Island courts on charges of conspiracy to defraud two Little Compton women and another in Canonchet, of sums totalling $27,500. Samuel H. Cohen, alias Coleman, of Allston, Mass., was put in Kingston jail when he failed to furnish $10,000 bond in the Third District court at Westerly, after having been released in superior court, Providence, on $5,000 bail.

Before Judge Oliver H. Williams in the Westerly court Saturday night he entered a plea of not guilty and waived examination. When found that his attorney, Mr. Pettiner had not secured a bondsman, Cohen was taken by Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell Sunday afternoon to Washington county jail, West Kingston.

He was brought to Providence Saturday from Portland, Me., where he had gained his freedom under $5,000 bail last Friday after being bound over to the grand jury on three charges of obtaining money under false pretenses in stock sales there. He and Jules A. Perreault of Boston were arrested last week by Portland police and are accused of violations of blue sky laws in Maine. Perreault, probably will be brought back to Rhode Island Tuesday.

Attorney William W. Blodgett, who appeared to represent the state police at Friday session of the Third District court in the case of alleged drunken driving against former Rhode Island State Senator Stephen D. Wells of Richmond, R. I., is now the fourth assistant attorney-general of the state. Announcement of the appointment of Mr. Blodgett, who resides in Pawtucket, and who is the son of Presiding Justice Edward W. Blodgett of the R. I. superior court was made Saturday by Attorney General Oscar L. Heltzen.

JEWETT CITY

SAILOR FROM 0—7 ORDERED TO TELL WHY TO THE COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Sept. 1.— Tuesday morning, in the Griswold town court, it will be necessary for Robert L. Hultz, a member of the crew of U. S. submarine 0-7, to tell it to the judge. Friday night, after smashing the Main street crossing gate, he attempted to evade responsibility and beat it for Stone Hill. In the wilds of the reservoir district Hultz and his party stopped at a wayside farmhouse, and begged for information how to get to Norwich without passing through Jewett City. Not being able to submerge, the under-sea man was taken in Norwich where he landed a $10 fine for speeding. Norwich police held Hultz for local Officer Vegiard. An officer from the sub-base guaranteed a bond of $100, adding much of a complimentary nature relative to the normal behavior and character of the accused.

Trip Of 1550 Miles

Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Gardner are home from a week's delightful automobile trip in the wonderlands of Pennsylvania, New York state and Vermont. Their itinerary, covering 1550 miles, included the great farming, oil and coal sections of the Keystone state, the central and northern mountain summer-lands of New York, an over-night visit at Niagara Falls, then home by way of the new Lake Champlain bridge, and points of especial interest through the Green mountains of Vermont.

With pleasure, worshippers at the Baptist church, Sunday morning, listened to the sermon by Rev. A. H. Clement. His discourse was filled with profitable points of interest, taken from the theme "Satisfaction." Mr. Clement has been over 50 years an active Christian minister, with pastorates through New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

Following closely upon a cool September morn, the silver climbed to 88 at 3 p. m. Sunday.

CHILDREN ARE INJURED WHEN MACHINES COLLIDE

In mid afternoon Saturday, Edward Gomes, of Russell street, Jewett City, and William A. Hitt, Jr., of 11 1-2 No. Main street, Norwich, figured in an automobile collision, corner of Brown avenue and North Main street.

Mr. Gomes was driving a Dodge touring car owned by Jessie M. Jacobs of New London. In the car were several of his children. Mr. Hitt was bound north, driving a Chevrolet coach, with a number of passengers, including small children.

Dr. J. H. McLaughlin was called after the crash and found Mr. Gomes' baby badly cut and bruised. Later at his office he found medical attention necessary for Mr. Hitt's small child. Patrolman Vegiard gave notice to the driver of the Norwich car, to appear in the Griswold police court, Tuesday morning, when he will be charged with failure to grant the right of way. Mr. Hitt, declares that in pulling over to the left, he believed that Mr. Gomes was intending to stop at a corner store. The latter, coming out of Brown avenue, crossed No. Main to proceed down the street on the right, as traffic regulations require, evidently Hitt misjudged Gomes' intentions.

The record amount of local various matters advertising in this column during the month just ended, is satisfactory evidence that local merchants, fearful a decade ago that their future business was doomed by the automobile and the big city, can now report business better than ever. They have found a new way to hold the home trade. They have copied the system of their metropolitan competitors and are advertising special week-end trade leaders in a style to which they were not accustomed a decade ago.

DANIELSON

MISS M. F. PORTER BADLY INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 1—Miss Mary F. Porter, secretary to Joseph W. Alexander, member of Powdrell and Alexander, operating six mills here, was badly hurt late Friday night at Westwood, Mass., while driving her new automobile to her home on Standish road, Watertown, Mass., from here for the Labor day period. Miss Porter is now a patient, with a broken leg and broken arm and other injuries, at a hospital in Norwood, Mass., and her companion, Miss Joseph Powers, has a broken arm, among other injuries.

Miss Porter, an experienced driver, had a new Ford delivered to her by a local dealer on Friday a short time before she was about to leave for her home. At Westwood she crashed headon with a trolley car. The automobile was reduced to mere wreckage and the front end of the trolley car so badly battered that another car had to be sent out to tow it to the car barns. The motorman was cut with flying glass, but not seriously injured. Miss Porter has been located here only a short time, coming here from the Boston offices of the mill company.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Bennett, 41, wife of Edwin S. Bennett, died during Saturday at their home on Center street. She had been in failing health for a long time and dangerously ill for a number of weeks. Mrs. Bennett was born in Jewett City, August 4, 1888, a daughter of Elmer and Mary M. Miner Mamitt. Between a few minutes before midnight last night and just before sunrise this morning, Lieut. Ross J. Urquhart, Sergeant G. L. Gardner and a squad of state officers from the Danielson barracks, the party also including Rowe Wheeler, county investigator, raided two places in Thompson in search of contraband liquors.

At the Green Lantern inn on the Thompson-Webster lake road the officers located a quantity of beer and whiskey hidden in a haymow in the barn. They placed Victor Perreault, formerly resident here and the alleged proprietor of the place, under arrest and also a waitress, Miss Elsie Carter. Reich will be charged with manufacturing and keeping with intent to sell, his son, Harry, with actual sales. There were no frequenters when the raid was staged.

Only one accident of any consequence, and that was really a minor, had been reported in territory hereabouts between Saturday morning and late this afternoon though the traffic appeared to be about the heaviest this section has experience during the holiday period. At West Wauregan Saturday afternoon, near the Sacred Heart church, cars operated by Desire LaBelle of Lawrence, Mass., and Raymond Kelsey of Stafford were in collision. No one was injured and the cars probably not damaged more than $50 each. State Officer John Murphy who investigated the accident ordered LaBelle to appear in court to answer to a charge of making a left turn without giving the proper hand signal.

Richard Buckley, operator of one of a fleet of heavy trucks that run out of Worcester into this territory, was on Saturday ordered to appear in court by State Officer Theodore Strand, who observed Buckley coasting the ponderous vehicle down Shippee hill, just over the southern border of the town of Killingly in Plainfield. The coasting constituted a violation of the motor vehicle laws.

PUTNAM

LUCIER BADLY BURNED BY A LIVE WIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 1—Alpherie Lucier, 8 Vandale street, a trouble man employed in the electric service department of the Putnam branch of the Connecticut Light and Power company, was badly burned by high voltage wires with which he came in contact at the plant of the National Rhea company on Canal street. Mr. Lucier was taken to the Day Kimball hospital where he remains in a serious condition. At the hospital this afternoon it was stated that Lucier is suffering from severe burns of the face, hands and arms. According to the hospital report, the lineman's right hand, which it is thought came into contact with the high tension feed wire, bears horrible traces of the misfortune. Hospital authorities when commenting on Mr. Lucier's afflictions said that several weeks will be required before he will fully regain his health, but the use of his hand will not be lost.

Exact details as to how the accident occurred were not to be had today. Subordinate officials of the power company were either uninformed or were not privileged to relate any incidents pertaining to Lucier's mishap and Supt. Ralph E. Thurston could not be reached tonight for a statement.

Lucier is an experienced lineman. He has been in the trouble department of the local power company for a number of years. From information collected at the manufacturing plant today, Lucier was endeavoring to effect repairs to the disabled mill power plant. During a test at the control board he touched a live wire. In his presence of mind, he closed his eyes, according to a bystander, thereby protecting his vision from the onslaught of electricity that flower partially through his body.

Adrian Lucier, a brother of Alpherie, also a lineman, while making repairs on power lines in the business section of the city, about two years ago, came into contact with a live wire and met his death by electrocution.

A vote passed by the town of Woodstock in a special town meeting, by a small number of the legal voters of the town approving the plan of removing the town clerk's office from its present spot in North Woodstock to Palmer Memorial hall, a town-owned building on Woodstock hill, has created more or less dissension among a great number of voters whose claim it is that they did not receive sufficient forewarning of the coming meeting and who are opposed to the change.

At the present time the land records and vital statistics of the town are stored in safes in North Woodstock in a wooden building. On one side of the clerk's office is a grocery store and on the other side is the shop of a painter. The building is by no means fireproof, although the records and all other valuable data concerning the town is stored within the fire-resisting safes, mounted on concrete bases. Town Clerk Frank M. Barrett is a member of the faction opposed to the change. Mr. Barrett admits that while his office is situated in a remote and inconvenient section of the town, it is handy for him, since his residence is nearby and it enables him to accommodate record searchers and persons desiring to interview him on matters pertaining to his office at any hour of the day or night.

LABOR DAY.

Marked is the contrast in the method of celebrating Labor day at the present time from that which characterized it 45 years ago when it was first observed and in the early days of the movement.

Instead of being a day of big parades and much agitation it is a day now largely given over to recreation, outings and picnics. It is the day that marks the close of the vacation season and as the result it serves as a signal for the flocking home of families which have been spending the summer at the shore.

Even labor organizations themselves pay little attention to the day in the way of arranging celebrations, convinced unquestionably that such measures are not necessary in order to obtain recognition for the betterments which they seek. In the beginning Labor day was a challenge and a protest. It was believed that capital was getting an unjust advantage to the exclusion of labor. It was encouraged by many agitators who came to this country from abroad, aroused by conditions which existed there and believing that there was need of instituting similar measures to combat them in this country.

There were years when the observance of the day was given over to much excited oratory and feverish exhortations on the part of leaders in addition to the impressive street demonstrations. Conditions have changed, whether because of or in spite of such efforts, and along with the changes have come improvements, new and better opportunities and a different method of tackling labor problems. Labor has obtained recognition and there has long since been a growing demand for peaceful rather than violent adjustment of differences.

Labor day continues to be observed, but more in the way of pleasure and rest. The cause it represents is justification enough for it in these days of improved conditions and it can well be celebrated as a day of thanksgiving for strength to work, the chance to play and the opportunity to give a day's work for a day's pay.

ERECT YOUR SIGNBOARD.

In these days we cannot imagine the city, town or village that would declare, if asked, that it wasn't seeking good advertising.

And yet as you make note of the various communities which you pass through while motoring, how many of them do you find putting up a signboard indicating the community's name?

It will have to be admitted that it is being done more than it ever was before, but there are plenty of conspicuous instances which help to prove that it isn't being done enough. Strangers who are traveling by maps are pretty certain of the names of cities as they reach them, but there are many attractive villages which are never tagged. Frequent are the inquiries as to "What place is this?" and they come often from those who are not so far from home. They would quickly recognize the name of these places if informed and they would be glad to have a chance to know that they were in or passing through towns which they had often wanted to see, but through the lack of thought or enterprise on the part of those communities the real big opportunity to do some good advertising is lost.

Along some of the main highways efforts are made to have the names of towns placed on special markers along with the route numbers. On others, as here in Connecticut, there are signs indicating where one town ends and another starts, but even that does not provide the name of the villages which are invariably something different.

"So this is ——! Let's stop, I've always wanted to see it," is the way more than one motorist has responded to the roadside signboard "This is ——." Others will crane their necks endeavoring to discover a sign somewhere but in failing express regret in not having been able to get the information as they rode.

The opportunity for the erection of signboards for communities as well as signboards for thoroughfares is certainly a real one. It shows enterprise and it is good advertising.

CONSERVATION WORK.

Announcement to the effect that pulp and paper interests are increasing their production and locating new mills in the southern part of Alaska in order to tap the large resources in that region indicates the resort to new fields in order to meet the ever increasing demand.

When we stop to realize that in this country there are 5,000,000 cords of pulp wood cut annually from the forest lands, meaning the stripping of 500,000 acres, which supplies only a small part of the pulp that is required in the manufacture of the paper needed in the United States, it can be appreciated what a dependence is placed upon the resources of the forest lands to the north.

Furthermore it causes us to give heed to the advice that is so frequently offered concerning the saving of paper and preventing it from being wasted. We are told, for instance, that the utilization of paper waste prevents the depletion of American forests amounting to some 300,000 acres of virgin timberland every year. When account is taken of the fact that every six tons of waste paper produces the equivalent in pulp of an acre of timberland it is evident that there is real work that can be done in waste prevention through the saving and reworking of scrap paper.

In the interest of forest conservation frequent warnings are issued for the purpose of checking the waste. Great inroads have been made into the woodlands because of the seeming large areas, without realizing that the supply was being depleted much more rapidly than it was being replaced. It was years ago that it became evident that we could no longer obtain all we needed from our own wooded areas. It was necessary to go to our neighbors and even while drawing upon the resources of Canada we have found it necessary to engage in reforestation and to make a better utilization of the trees that are cut. Further than that it has long since been appreciated that by saving and reworking old paper additional protection to our resources could be provided. Wastefulness has brought us to a realization of the fact that unless more care was used exhaustion of supply would be only a matter of a comparatively few years.

ESCAPING FROM SUBMARINES.

Highly pleasing have been the results of the tests made by the submarine branch of the navy of the so-called "lung" device which permits those in submerged underwater craft to come to the surface safely. It means a most valuable protective appliance in case of accident since there is a reasonable chance for any who may be trapped in a sub to escape. Had this been available when two of the submarines were sunk when struck by other vessels it is probable that there would have been no such loss of life as occurred.

So successful have been the tests of this appliance for use in case of accident which traps the crew that all of the underwater boats will be equipped with it. That will require some time, but it will also make it necessary for the crews to be instructed in its use. This will become part of the training of those who enter the submarine service since it would be ridiculous to equip the vessels with such a device and not train the men in its use in case of emergency.

That this training is already underway is indicated by the test that was made at the submarine base on the Thames a few days ago. With the crew of the submerged craft leaving the vessel and making their way to the surface from the bottom of the river successfully it is proved that the device is accomplishing what was expected and that the instructors are finding apt pupils. Required to go through the experience of making a get-away under favorable conditions cannot represent an emergency situation, but it is as near to it as it is hoped any of them will ever get. If the undesirable does happen they will be in a position to help themselves.

THE BARLOW CASE.

J. E. Barlow is an American citizen who believes that he has a just claim to property in Cuba and is persistent in his endeavors to get possession of it. He is given encouragement in his efforts by the fact that seven years ago the highest court in Cuba gave him an order for the return of the property, consisting of 32 lots in the heart of Havana covered by city blocks and also claimed by a member of the Cuban congress. Because of the immunity against being sued which goes with that office, Barlow has experienced plenty of difficulty in getting the court's order honored. In fact it hasn't been carried out and he is losing no opportunity to press his claim, the property having a value of several millions.

The outcome of his efforts was the bringing of a civil suit against him which resulted in his being thrown into prison and subjected to what he terms "inhuman punishment for my unwillingness to talk or make statements for prison officials. The experience was one that I would never undergo again for all the money I'm asking from the Cuban government."

Barlow attributes his inability to get satisfaction and his subsequent difficulties, including the imprisonment, to Cuban officialdom. He has put his case before various authorities in this country and he has been encouraged to the extent that they declare he is right and has been unjustly treated. How long there could continue to be a stalling by the authorities of the island republic is uncertain, but with the matter brought to a focus by his experience and an investigation underway by this government he should be in a position to get at least civil treatment in the future while standing up for his rights.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

With the coming of September there is the return of the oyster.

September, Labor day, school; they follow each other like night does the day.

September is one of those delightful months which usually leaves a good impression.

If those birds were wild geese which were observed flying south in August, how far behind can the icebergs be?

Henry Ford has purchased an abandoned Virginia gold mine. He was supposed to have a paying one in the automobile business.

Those who entertained the fresh air children as well as those who are entertained will have many pleasant memories of the experience.

Brattleboro, Vt., has stopped its road work because of a lack of funds. That is the big reason why more cities are limited in their road construction work.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

If a window sash sticks rub it with furniture polish.

Rice will be tough if salt is placed in it when it is first put on to cook.

Place asparagus tips on triangles of toast and serve with mushroom sauce.

When making raisin bread soak the raisins before placing them in the dough.

Always serve cheese with apple or pumpkin pie.

A little salt will remove stains from teacups.

A six-pound iron is said to be best for home laundry work.

It is said warts will disappear if rubbed night and morning with castor oil.

Chloride of lime strewn around the cellar will keep away any roaming mice or rats.

The well-equipped kitchen always has these three things, a clock, a trash backet, that may be washed, and a pad of paper with a pencil attached so that no one may borrow it.

Hooks in the hall closet low enough for little boys or girls to reach have developed the habit of neatness.

If you keep your gayly colored candles in the icebox for several days before using, they will not bend or drip as they burn.

Put the egg beater and potato masher into cold water as soon as finished with them. They will be much easier to wash.

A cheesy smell or dark spotches or streaks in the cake of yeast denotes spoiling and the yeast should be avoided.

When making sauces for puddings always stir in the same direction. It makes no difference what direction so long as it is always the same.

An artist's easel frequently comes in handy to hold reading matter for the invalid, as it will extend slightly over the bed.

STOVE-POLISH STAINS

Stove-polish stains are not easily effaced and some are so stubborn that complete removal is almost impossible. If fabric is washable, try cold water and soap, rubbing this thoroughly on the stain. If material is unwashable, first treat the stain with a good absorbent powder, and after that is brushed off immerse the stain in one of the solvents. Chloroform, gasoline, benzine and kerosene are all good. While stain is immersed, rub it gently or use a soft brush.

BERRIES

Do not wash the berries until ready to use them. Put them in a well-ventilated container such as a wire sieve with the handle removed or in the original wooden box if clean and dry. But remember not to crowd the berries, for they will resist mold longer if the air can circulate freely around them.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

In hot weather avoid burdensome clothing, heavy hats and tight shoes. These retard the circulation and add considerably to the general discomfort of hot weather.

Protect the baby's eyes from the direct sunlight and guard the child from flies—two very necessary health and comfort precautions.

Do not eat large meals in hot weather and get your necessary proteins largely in the milk and cheese, especially cottage.

A wise mother will not continually give her children pennies to be spent in a corner store for cheap candy. Rather keep a box of pure candy tucked away and "treat" the kiddies after their meal with one or two pieces and thus keep their stomachs in order.

CLEANING THE CELLAR

After the housecleaning is all done and the furnace has been taken apart and cleaned, comes the cleaning of the cellar. This is a man's job; let the son tackle it. He will be pleased that you consider him capable of bearing this responsibility, and it is good training to have the boys of the family assume their share of the home management.

Now is the time to discard all the accumulation of rubbish. Dispose of newspapers, magazines, old iron, shoes, etc. Allowing the lad to keep what he realizes from his sales to the junkman will be an incentive to a thorough cleaning up.

Unplastered walls should be whitewashed. The light color will reflect the light into the cellar, and as whitewash is a germicide it is better for this purpose than paint. It also absorbs moisture and will keep the cellar dry.

LEFT-OVERS

Hot cereal should occasionally be on the breakfast menu even during the summer. Of course, the finer grain cereals should be chosen for this season, such as farina, cream of wheat, etc.

That which is left over will make delicious hot-day desserts. By the way, no left-over cereals should ever be thrown away. Even a small quantity of oatmeal can be used to fill the cavities of cored apples that have been cooked in a syrup made by boiling half a cup of sugar in one and a half cupfuls of water.

Farina, hominy and any of the wheat cereals can be sliced when cold or poured into small molds or cups and chilled, then served with crushed fruit or cream. They can also be molded with fruit and served with sugar and cream.

PAPER NAPKINS

Paper napkins save time and energy for the mother with many children during the warmer weather. Any cuts in the laundry work should be employed.

RUBBER BANDS.

Narrow rubber bands are nice to hold the papers on the tops of jelly tumblers instead of string. They are much more easily adjusted and, when doubled, fit quite as tightly.

SOUR CREAM

If one-half cup of butter is required in making a cake and you have only one-fourth cups add three tablespoons of sour cream and you will have a light, fluffy cake.

DICTATES OF FASHION

A black and deep rose dressing gown has an ermine flower decorating its shoulder. Ermine edges its wide sleeves.

The little handkerchief with dark center and light outer portion printed or monogrammed in the color of the center is new and smart.

The outside is black silk but the underneath part is of black and gray plaid and it is one of the best looking umbrellas shown this season.

No evening ensemble is quite complete without one of the very large decorative, colored chiffon handkerchiefs to contrast with or pick up the dominant tone of the gown.

Coral comes back to fashion, not only the large beads but twisted strings of very tiny ones held together with an ornamental clasp. They are especially pretty with white frocks.

The trick this summer is to have several grosgrain hatbands to every chapeau and to tailor them, bow and all, and snap them shut. This way it is no work to change the band every time one changes the frock.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

To set colors in ginghams and other colored cotton materials use a solution of boiling hot water and 4 ounces of pulverized alum to 1 pound of goods. Experiment with a small piece first.

One of the most important aids to successful ironing is a satisfactory ironing board. It should be well padded with felt or blankets that have become too badly torn to serve their original purpose. Whether the ironing board cover is made of old sheets or is one of the ready-made kind, it should be kept clean, smooth and unscorched.

Before cleaning and pressing clothing hang the garments up on the line. Choose a sunny day, because the sun will bring out all the spots and soil. Then give them a gentle beating with a rattan to dislodge dust and let them get a blowing before cleansing.

WASHABLE PARASOLS.

It's a far cry since the days of grandmother's sunshade. The modern parasol is a chic and dainty affair that is usually chosen to harmonize with milady's ensemble. Many of the new parasols are made of materials that are washable as well as sunfast. Washing them is a simple matter if the drying process is hastened so as to avoid rust spots from the frame.

First open the parasol and dust it thoroughly inside and out. Dip a soft brush or a sponge into a basin of thick, lukewarm soapsuds and go over the surface until it is perfectly clean. Rinse several times with a cloth wrung out of clear, warm water, then remove as much of the moisture as possible from the fabric and the frame with a Turkish towel or some other absorbent material. Leave the parasol open, and place it in the sunniest spot you can find to dry.

HOW TO WASH SILK

Silk manufacturers have given considerable attention to the matter of dyeing their products in such a way that they can be washed. While it has been found possible to use certain dyes that will withstand high temperatures, the silk itself suffers if put into too hot water. Both colors and fabrics come out best when lukewarm water is used for washing.

Use lukewarm and neutral soapsuds. Do not rub hard. Squeeze and work the garments in the suds. Do not twist the fabric.

MADE INTO CHAIR.

An old camp stool may be made into an attractive extra chair if the canvas is removed and a cretonne used in its place. Paint the legs of the stool with one of the brilliantly colored paints that will harmonize with the colors in the cretonne.

RUGS.

Don't forget to mark the rugs in some way before putting them away for the summer so that they may be put back differently and receive the hardest wear in a different place. If this is done each housecleaning it will greatly prolong the life of the rug because of even wearing.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

At almost every important dog show in England women now outnumber the men exhibitors.

As secretary and treasurer of the Texas Wheat Growers' association, Grace Webster handles millions of bushels of wheat each year.

Miss Frances Shakerly, of Trigony, Scotland, who has just celebrated her 98th birthday, is still producing paintings. She reads and writes without the aid of glasses. She has taught in Sunday school continuously for 78 years.

A woman discovered the first oil well in western Texas. Mrs. Carl Cromwell saw a water well blow over the top and cried to her husband "There is something wrong with that well." She was right and her husband now holds an interest in a well that is reputedly the country's deepest.

WHISK BROOM.

Trim the end of the old whisk broom into a V-shape. It will prove excellent for cleaning corners of rooms, stairs, etc.

GINGER SANDWICH.

A delicious tea sandwich is the ginger one. Chop preserved ginger fine, mix it with creamed butter and spread on thin slices of brown bread.

THE TAFFETA COAT

The original coat, designed by a famous Paris couturiere has a flaring ruffle just above the line of the knee and two ends that tie at the back of the neck. It comes in yellow or lime green and is the prettiest of all wraps to wear over trailing chiffon frocks.

MATCHING BERET AND FROCK

A sport frock of washable silk moire has much to commend it in the way of chic, for it is sleeveless and accompanied by its own cardigan of the same material. With it is worn a charming beret made of angora wool, which matches the dress perfectly.

PIQUE BLOUSES

An interesting fashion come-back this season is the marked vogue of pique, not only in the sleeveless tennis and sport dresses but in blouses, which are worn with tailored suits in town. One especially pretty model designed for junior girls is sleeveless and has three narrow bands that tie in flat little bows in front. It comes in violet, peach and other light colors.

ORGANDIE FROCKS

Few materials are so well adapted to the new silhouette with its flounces and tiers, and its flaring peplums as organdie. Crisp and charming, it is especially lovely in printed effects, which are used by one of the best designers for evening frocks. One particular model, designed for a young girl, has a crisp little bow on the shoulder and a chic tailored belt of organdie, fastened with a plain silver buckle.

RECIPES.

Custard Cake—Cake part—Mix one cup of sugar with half a cup of butter, two and one-half cups of flour, half a cup of milk, three eggs, one teaspoon of baking soda, and one teaspoon of vanilla. Bake in layers.

Custard part—Mix three-fourths cup of grated chocolate with three-fourths cup of brown sugar, half a cup of milk and the yolke of an ebb. Mix all together and cook in a double boiler, then let cool.

Filling—Mix one cup of powdered sugar with two tablespoons of butter creamed, two tablespoons of hot coffee, two tablespoons of chocolate, and one teaspoon of vanilla.

Frozen Fruit Salad—Soften one teaspoon of gelatin in two tablespoons of sirup drained from canned fruit, then dissolve over boiling water. Whip one cup of cream and combine with half a cup of mayonnaise the melted gelatin, one-fourth teaspoon of salt, two tablespoons of powdered sugar and two and one-half cups of dried fruit. Pour into a mold, seal carefully and bury in equal parts of salt and ice for three hours. The cream should be frozen, but the fruit is more palatable if not allowed to freeze. Serve on lettuce with or without French or mayonnaise dressing or whipped cream. Garnish with maraschino cherries or other fruit. Almost any mixture of fruits may be used in this salad.

3,000,000 Public School Children Have Defective Hearing.

By Alice G. Bryan, M. D., Boston.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute.)

We need to realize that lip-reading for the hard-of-hearing is something inseparable from their lives, something essential to their well-being and progress.

The hard-of-hearing rightfully should share the full educational opportunities of the public schools; the hard-of-hearing are not at fault, but our system of education is at fault, when we impose upon them the heritage from the past by denying them lip-reading.

Lip-reading is fundamental and an imperative necessity for the hard-of-hearing. It enables them to avoid waste of effort, to work harmoniously and understandingly, and to share in a broad-minded and purposeful view of life. A defective training for the hard-of-hearing does not lead to a broad education. We claim the true function of the school is to encourage individual effort and not to stifle individual initiative.

Lip-reading for the hard-of-hearing may be considered one of the necessaries of life, and it serves as an element of freedom in the life of the hard-of-hearing.

Lip-reading enables the hard-of-hearing to find themselves: and by the adequate individual instruction of their teachers, it removes the former fitful gleams of education and avoids a policy of "wait and see."

We must have the justified spirit of the interests of the hard-of-hearing in our very souls, and then through a strong medium maintain and proclaim these interests and continue to do so if progress is to be looked for.

No school curricula are too crowded or even over-crowded to admit lip-reading. The hard-of-hearing child has true grievances when repetitions of class-room work are permitted to become a habit. Such handicaps make for despair. They are unjustifiable and unnecessary. They may mean a series of human breakdowns at the oncoming years of life.

A general weakening and discrediting of the educational opportunities of the hard-of-hearing child exists when he is deprived of lip-reading.

Educators are beginning to appreciate the importance of lip-reading. They recognize the worth of hearing tests, and they may have reached the stage when the audiometer is looked upon as of supreme value in the school-room.

"There are more than 3,000,000 children in our public schools with defective hearing." This is an arresting statement. It brings the subject to the very hearths of our homes.

Let us remember the hard-of-hearing children claim the capacity for efficiency and in the school-room they are confronted and influenced by the factors that control and influence such efficiency.

The hearing individual is too often a disturbing element in the life of the hard-of-hearing, for he is too willing to scrap the knowledge and ability of the hard-of-hearing.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—It must sadden the heart of Rear Adm. William A. Moffett, long air chief of the navy, to read that the cruiser York, nee Chester, has been cleared for her last voyage to the scrapheap or the dull uses of commerce.

He was her skipper some 15 years ago in stirring moments, moments that were the foundation of Moffet's career.

It was those qualities of leadership that led to his being handpicked as navy champion against the separate air service crusade of ex-Col. Billy Mitchell. That was how he became air chief.

The scene of the Chester's big moment was Vera Cruz in 1914. She was off down the coast on mission when the late Adm. Frank Friday Fletcher, on orders from Washington, moved his men ashore to seize the customs house at Vera Cruz and set going the forces that swept Huerta out of power in Mexico to self-evile, political oblivion and early death.

But the Chester's far reaching radio got word of the street fighting at the old port. Northward through the night Moffett brought her foaming at top speed, to join in the fray.

On Through Dark

Navigation lights ashore had been doused, but Moffett swept on to slip through the narrow entrance of the sea-walled inner harbor, shoulder his way through congested commercial craft and "observing" French, British, Dutch and German cruisers, and find bow and stern moorings in the dark to lay his ship broadside to the waterfront.

He put the Chester in the front row for the show, bullets from the intermittent firing ashore crackling around the head of his sailors as they did the job.

Daylight showed the newcomer with the whole city under the menace of her guns. Just beyond her lay the marine transport Prarie, Fletcher's poste de command. Outside the breakwater lay Fletcher's battleships, and those of his senior, Badger, arrived in the night.

With the latter had come the Bystander and a handful of press colleagues, direct from Washington, to be dumped ashore at night to seek the cable office.

But the censor was out aboard the Praerie and to the Bystander's lot it fell to gather all waiting press copy and take it out for an official o. k. So that second morning he was aboard the transport, dressed by Badger's order almost like a marine, when Fletcher ordered the advance to clear the city of snipers.

No one blocked a seeming marine and the Bystander had climbed to the Prarie's high bridge, where Fletcher and his aides stood, in time to hear the advance order given to be wigwagged to Captain Rush, commanding ashore, and see the columns move off up the streets.

The Battle

A gale of rifle and machine gun fire broke out. Vera Cruz boiled and roared with gunfire. Along the waterfront went a column of sailors in the motley of their coffee-dipped whites, closing in on the wide front of the naval school.

Counter fire from the windows of the low buildings crumpled the line back.

Then the ships guns woke in retaliation. The Chester, the Prarie and the San Francisco banged away at the naval school front.

Great holes appeared beneath each window. Huge clouds of black smoke and dust leaped from the roof. Fletcher sent "cease firing" to his ships, but the Chester failed to note it. The other two stopped; the Chester's guns drummed on.

Not until a boat went putt-putting to the Chester's side were her guns silenced.

The shore forces moved on, clearing the city of snipers.

Surely Moffett recalls that night and day and his old command now to vanish in the limbo of forgotten ships.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY.

Flip and Jimmy Meet Again.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

His knowledge he has truly earned
Who through experience has learned.

—Old Mother Nature.

For a while after his experience with Jimmy Skunk, when Jimmy had taught him very great respect, Flip was a very subdued little dog. He was not nearly as inquisitive as he had been. When he had first been allowed back to the house he had worn a somewhat shamed look. Bowser the Hound would look at him and grin slyly, and Flip knew just what that grin meant. But Flip had nothing to say. He remembered that Bowser had warned him to keep away from Jimmy Skunk, and had he heeded Bowser's warning, nothing like this would have happened.

Always as he went about Flip had an eye open for Jimmy Skunk. He had a feeling that sooner or later he and Jimmy would meet again. "I want to see him first," Flip would say to himself. "Yes, sir, I want to see him first. It would be dreadful to run into him suddenly. He might not understand that I have no intention of hurting him."

But the days passed with no sign of Jimmy Skunk, and gradually Flip ceased to watch for him. A little dog's memory is not too long and when you happen to be a little dog in a new and strange place, there are so many things to learn that unpleasant memories are soon crowded out. It was just so with Flip. He had become his old lively self, interested in everything.

And then one day as he raced around a corner of the barn he came face to face with Jimmy Skunk. In fact, he almost bumped into him. It was as much of a surprise to Jimmy as it was to Flip. Flip put the brakes on in a hurry. That is to say, he did his best to stop. Jimmy Skunk never hurries. It is never necessary for him to put the brakes on. But he did stop. And then that big tail of his began to lift.

Flip's eyes looked as if they would jump out of his head. He turned like a flash. If his stub of a tail had only been a long tail, it would have been between his legs. His eyes were rolled back as he shot away and around the corner of that barn again. He was a picture of fright.

Now it happened that Bowser the Hound was sedately following Flip, although Flip didn't know it. So when Flip whirled around the corner of the barn he ran right into Bowser. In fact, he hit Bowser so hard that he knocked him over. Bowser really didn't know what it was all about. He snarled. Flip, too scared to know who it was he had run into, ki-ved in sheer fright, scrambled to his feet and headed for Farmer Brown's house.

Bowser got to his feet. "Well," said he, "I wonder what has happened to Flip. "He acts as if he had lost his wits from fright."

Just then Bowser saw a head appear around the corner of the barn. Then Bowser grinned. That head was the off down the coast on mission when the late Adm. Frank Friday Fletcher, on orders from Washington, moved his men ashore to seize the customs house at Vera Cruz and set going the forces that swept Huerta out of power in Mexico to self-evile, political oblivion and early death.

Stories That Recall Others

Verbatim.

It was a busy day in the department store. A wrapper girl was trying to attend to many things at once, when a clerk rushed over and said: "Call a messenger, sweetheart."

Promptly the strange call rang out over the main floor: "Messenger, sweetheart."

Unanswerable.

Martha and Alice presented that rather trazic combination of two little sisters of whom one was pretty and the other one plain. Martha was something of a coquette, too, while Alice was blunt and outspoken. One morning they were heard in conversation with the ice man.

"My hair's naturally curly," piped Martha, shaking her yellow ringlets.

Alice was not to be outdone. "And my hair's naturally straight" she proclaimed with emphasis.

TYLER CRUTTENDEN SUES STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

Tyler Cruttenden, owner of Clinton Manor inn at Clinton and also of Moose Hill inn in Guilford, has brought suit in the superior court at New Haven against State Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald in protest against the state taking a part of the Clinton Manor inn land in order to widen the highway.

The proposed change in the road would widen the highway 20 feet for a distance of 200 feet. Taking his property at Clinton would mean the destruction of a row of beautiful shade trees on the lawn in front of the inn.

The state highway department seeks to take the property under an act passed in 1925 which allows the department to relocate the lines of any state highway, the boundaries of which have been lost. Cruttenden claims that this statute is unconstitutional as it permits the taking of property without due process of law, without compensation and without condemnation proceeds.

This act will be attacked also on the grounds that it is not valid because it was one of the acts voided by the McCook decision of the supreme court and was not legally reinstated by the passage of the healing act at the special session of the general assembly.

GASOLINE FIRE AT AUTOMOBILE AND SHORT CIRCUIT BLAZE IN WOODYARD

At 10:08 o'clock Sunday morning the fire department responded to an oral call for a blazing automobile at the West Side garage, conducted by Louis Rosenberg, at No. 194 West Main street. A machine owned by Theodore Klaimer, No 2823 48th St., Astoria, L. I., was driven to the garage and the gas tank filled. The tank overflowed somewhat while it was being filled.

The cap was placed on the tank and the garage attendant started to put oil into the engine. Suddenly the rear end of the machine was in flames. Engine No. 3, Engine No. 6, Squad A, and Deputy Chief D. J. Brennan responded to the call. The flames scorched the spare tire and the glass in the rear window of the machine was cracked. Another machine was at the gas station at the time the auto caught fire and it is thought that someone in the other machine threw a lighted match, accidentally into the gasoline on the ground beneath the tank.

BLAZE IN WOODYARD THROUGH SHORT CIRCUIT

A short circuit of wiring is thought to have been responsible for a small blaze shortly before 9 o'clock Sunday morning in an ell at the rear of No. 303 West Main street, used as a woodyard. A man in the neighborhood saw the fire and not understanding how to pull in an alarm from a fire box, sent in a telephone call to the fire department.

Chief Henry R. Taft, Deputy Chief D. J. Brennan, Engine No. 6, Engine No. 5, and Squad A responded. Three lines of hose were laid but only two streams of water were used on the blaze, which was quickly extinguished with but slight damage. The premises are owned by Mrs. Carrie V. L. Pierson and the estate of M. V. Pierson.

SUIT AGAINST DOCTOR FOR $20,000 DAMAGES

Dr. Thomas Plunkett, a Derby physician, formerly of this city where he graduated at the Norwich Free Academy in 1900, is made the defendant in a suit brought against him for $20,000 damages in the New Haven superior court by Miss Anna Hannou of 197 Kimberly avenue, New Haven. The suit is brought on the grounds of malpractice because of the treatment given Miss Hannou when she was a patient of Dr. Plunkett in Griffin hospital after an automobile accident in Derby on June 3, 1924.

Her left arm was fractured, and after a course of treatment by the defendant physician, she was informed, the writ says, that the member had healed, despite severe pains she suffered. She went to Dr. Robert J. Cook of New London, who x-rayed the arm and found that a medical operation was necessary. The operation was performed by Dr. Cook at Grace hospital on Jan. 2, he removing a large splinter of bone from the arm.

CORONER MAKES FINDING IN PAUL BRUSSO DEATH

That Paul Brusso, late of this city, died from accidental electrocution at Bozrah, July 20th, is the finding of Coroner Edward G. McKay, who investigated the circumstances of the man's death. Mr. Brusso was electrocuted while stringing wires in Lebanon. In his findings the coroner says:

The said Paul Brusso was employed by the Bozrah Electric company, as a lineman and had worked off and on for this company for a few years. He had had considerable experience as a lineman and knew the fundamentals of stringing wires. His technical knowledge of electricity was small. His work with the Bozrah Electric company was confined mostly to outside work stringing and connecting wires.

On the above mentioned date he was working on a line of the said company, located on the Norwich-Colchester road, near the residence of Mr. Miller. He was engaged in stringing secondary wires for connecting the electric service from the main line to houses in the vicinity. He was assisted in this work by Lawrence Gilman of Bozrah. Mr. Gilman had little experience in the construction of the power lines and worked on the ground exclusively. When it was necessary for work to be done on poles or connecting wires this work was done by the said Brusso.

The particular job that these two men were doing on the said date was stringing secondary wires along a series of poles of the Bozrah Electric company. These poles each carried a cross-arm with four posts on each arm. Two on one side of the pole and two on the other side. The poles in the neighborhood on which they were working carried the main current of 4,600 volts, on the two posts on the westerly side of the pole. The said Brusso had strung the dead wires for the secondary line on and over the cross-arm of the poles so that these dead wires were hanging over the cross-arms near the two posts on the easterly side of the poles.

When the said Brusso and Gilman had very nearly completed their day's work in this territory they were standing on the ground pulling the secondary wires along the ground and over the cross-arm. Neither of them at this time had gloves on but were working with their bare hands. In order to finish their work for the day and leave the wires in position for the resumption of work the next day they had wound the wires around a tree and were anchoring them to another tree. As they were pulling the wire Brusso said that he had felt a slight tickle or shock from the wire. Gilman told him that he thought they ought to pull the plugs to cut off the current. However, Brusso said that they would finish up the work and tie the wires. He pulled the wires again and received the full force of the 4,600 volts. At this time he was standing near the tree and was held up against the tree by the wires. Gilman started for him to take him off the wires but stopped and went to the automobile in the vicinity and secured a pair of rubber gloves. He returned and pulled the said Brusso away from the wire.

Brusso at this time appeared to have been so severely shocked that life was extinct. Gilman laid him on the ground and prepared to perform resuscitative operations on him following the usual method. However, this operation was not continued. Gilman then immediately went out into the road and succeeded in having a passing motorist stop and render aid. The said Brusso was picked up and put into the car and the hospital was notified to send its ambulance. Brusso was carried towards Norwich and the ambulance was met on the way. Brusso was transferred to the ambulance and rushed to the hospital but life was extinct when he reached there.

Investigation immediately after the accident disclosed that the dead secondary wires that Brusso and Gilman were pulling had become engaged with live primary wires carrying the 4,600 volts. On one of the poles the secondary wire had gone over the top of the pole and had become engaged with the primary wire. When the secondary wire was pulled it had formed a slight contact. This, most likely caused the first tickle or shock that was felt by Brusso. When the secondary wire was pulled again and more strongly, it caused a contact that allowed the current of the primary wire to pass through the secondary wire and into and through the body of the said Brusso.

After the said Brusso was taken from the wire resuscitation methods were started. However, these were not continued. In cases of this type knowledge and experience is of the utmost importance for the relief of the persons injured. It is necessary that artificial respiratory methods be started immediately and continued for a considerable period. The effect of the shock of electricity is to paralyze the breathing appartus and the injured person must have outside help in order to start his lungs functioning again. In this case the said Gilman had little or no experience in resuscitation methods and had not been sufficiently instructed and cautioned about the importance thereof. There is a question whether or not the injured man was beyond help when he was taken off the wire. Gilman did what in his judgment was best under the circumstances and rushed him to competent medical aid as soon as possible.

Investigation into the management of the company disclosed a lack of any course of instruction in safety work for employees. While facilities for obtaining knowledge of a safety program were at hand or could have been obtained from various sources there was nothing done by the officials of the company to instruct employees nor to provide tests or experiments for them. In this case the knowledge for safety work that Brusso gained from his own work was of no value to his helper when Brusso himself was in difficulty.

Proper instruction in safety work and strict enforcement of rules pertaining to this work, together with careful supervision by those responsible for the management of any business dealing with the supply of electricity are duties which rest upon those in charge. In this present matter the fact that these duties were not carried out resulted not from any wanton carelessness or negligence but existed from a lack of knowledge of the responsibilities incident to the business.

I am satisfied and find that the death of the said Paul Brusso was not caused by the criminal negligence omission or carelessness of any other person or persons.

STATE TO DEFEND LAWS PASSED IN EXTRA SESSION

The state, through the office of the attorney general, will endeavor to be heard in court whenever the first test case under the re-enacting laws of the special session of the legislature is brought. This was announced last week by Deputy Attorney General Ernest L. Averill, who said the state will ask to be entered in the case as "a friend of the court" and to file a brief in defense of the constitutionality of the legislative action. The special session, by adopting six bills, endeavored to repair the questionable status of some 1,500 enactments, signed more than three days after adjournment of the legislature, and therefore open to attack under the decision of the supreme court of errors in the McCook case.

Colonel Averill had no certain information as to which case of the several under which the laws may be tested will be the first and so the one in which the state will ask to be allowed to enter. Frederick J. Runbaken of Hartford is counsel in a case in which he amended his appeal following the McCook decision to set out that the automobile guest law, the statute on which the case was decided, was signed more than three days after adjournment of the legislature. There is also a report that counsel in guest law cases already decided by the supreme court may ask permission to reargue them, and there is the Carroll against Boland case, decided in New Britain, in which Thomas F. McDonough, counsel for Mrs. Carroll raised the question of the late signing of the guest law. He has given notice of the appeal of this case to the court of common pleas.

ARTHUR WRIGHT REACHES FINALS IN EASTERN CONN. TENNIS PLAY

Arthur Wright, of Hartford, captain of the Yale tennis team, became finalist in the lower half of the bracket in the eastern Connecticut tennis tournament which started Saturday at the Norwich Golf club courts. Wright had little difficulty in reaching the finals having an easy time in first and second round matches. However, he encountered stiffer opposition in Fairchild in the quarter-finals and was forced to three sets in the semi-finals by C. N. Krauss, of Providence. After dropping the first set 6-8, he came back strong to win the other two sets, 6-3, 6-2.

In the upper half of the bracket S. Snider and J. Hene, of Scarsdale, N. Y. met this morning to decide who will meet Wright in the finals. Snider defeated Henkle of New London, 6-1, 6-3, to reach the semi-finals while J. Hene met stiff opposition in Percy Harwood of Norwich in the quarter-finals winning 8-6, 1-6, 6-3. Snider is the favorite to beat Hene and Wright is favorite to win the title in the finals.

The doubles reached the one-half of the semi-finals when Fairchild and Haynes beat the Sullivan team from New London, 6-2, 6-4, and D. Jesanis and DeNeville, defaulted. Many of the third round matches will be played today with the finals being played in the afternoon. There is one second round doubles match to be played today. The summaries:

RUTH'S 40TH HOMER HELPS YANKEES TO WIN

BOSTON, Sept. 1—(AP)—Babe Ruth hit his 40th home run of the season as the Yankees defeated the Boston Red Sox 6 to 4 before 30,000 at Braves field here today. Ruth's mate, Tony Lazzeri, hit for the circuit twice and fielded brilliantly.

Ruth's homer came in the first inning with two out and nobody on. It was a line drive into the deep right center-field bleachers. Lazzeri smashed one with the bases empty in the second and followed with another in the third, this time scoring a man ahead of him.

The Red Sox outhit the Yankees 14 to 10, but Tom Zachary, veteran southpaw, managed to keep them comparatively harmless.

BRAVES TAKE EASY GAME FROM GIANTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 1—(AP)—The tail-end Boston Braves stopped here for a single game today and walked off with an 8 to 4 victory over the Giants. The Braves hammered Larry Benton from the mound with a four run attack in the fourth inning. They added two more counters at the expense of Joe Genewich. Harry Selbold started brilliantly for the Braves, yielding only one hit in four innings, but he grew wild and was removed in the fifth, Leverett finished the game.

Carl Mays, Giant pitcher, was ordered from the field after an altercation with Umpire Pfirman.

GOODMAN CLEARED OF CHARGES OF PROFESSIONALISM

PEBBLE BEACH, Cal., Sept. 1—(AP)—Although no official announcement was forthcoming from the United States Golf association, it was established definitely today that Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, Neb., one of the middle west's star contenders, has had his amateur status cleared and will start play tomorrow in the national championship.

Issue arose over Goodman's status after the withdrawal of Johnny Dawson, Chicago star, because of his connection with a sporting goods firm in New York. Goodman was employed by the same firm for a time.

It is understood the young Nebraskan satisfied U. S. G. A. officials that his former business connection was not such as to involve capitalizing his golf skill.

Who knows more about driving an automobile than a woman? Nobody, if you ask the woman.

It's a ten to one bet that the woman don't know whether she's driving a car with four or a hundred cylinders, and thinks spark-plugs are something to plug up the exhaust with.

She probably can't back within two feet of a curb but she'll tell you to the fraction of an inch by how much you missed that other car. If a tire goes flat on the road she expects some man to help her out of her difficulty.

The other night I had the pleasure of sitting in on a family monologue between wife and husband relative to how a car should be driven. I say monologue because friend wife did all the talking.

The monologue started when the car was backed out of the garage and ended only when friend husband put on the breaks and says to friend wife "if you think you can drive this car any better than I, why you get right in back of the wheel and do it."

"Now, John," says Mrs. John, as they backed out of the garage, "do be careful and not hit the gate post because I haven't got a scratch on the car since I've been driving it." Mr. John just grunts.

"And John, be careful when you get out into traffic. I see so many cars getting bumped every day. Now John, don't let your clutch in so fast you nearly snapped my head off that time." Mr. John merely grunted.

"There, John, you almost hit that car. Do be careful. I'd rather be a few minutes late than go so like the Old Harry and smash us. Well, you don't need to drive like you was going to a funeral just because I said not drive fast." Another grunt from Mr. John.

"Don't put your brakes on so quick, the road, they just oiled it yesterday and you'll get the car all sand. Just because I said that you don't have to drive in the middle of the road. There, didja see the dirty look that driver gave you because you were too far over in the middle?" Mr. John says "Uh, Huh."

"Don't put your breaks on so quick, that car in back of us almost hit us. Yes, I know that fellow in front stopped without putting out his hand but you shouldn't be following so close. If you'd hit him it would have been your fault."

"Now John, don't try to pass that car there may be a state cop following us. I don't care if there is no one in sight there's no use taking chances. I'd rather be safe than sorry."

"And John, don't grind your gears when you shift. I don't. There, John, you didn't put out your hand when you turned that corner. Please remember those things, you know how you hate anybody else who don't put out their hands."

"Why, what are you stopping for, we don't want to get out here?" And about that time Mr. John speaks his little piece. "Say, woman," says Mr. John, "I ain't had any accidents in driving this car and you have, but if you think you can do any better you just get behind this wheel and drive. I'm through."

And out piles Mr. John into the road. Well, finally Mrs. John says, "you know, dear I don't want anything to happen to you, that's why I'm so afraid when you drive." Well John gets back into the car but I notice Mrs. doesn't say any more.

BIG CROWD SEES CUBS TROUNCE CARDS EASILY

CHICAGO, Sept. 1—(AP)—An overflow crowd of 50,000 saw Chicago trounce St. Louis 10 to 3 here today and maintain its pace in the National league pennant race.

Hack Wilson hit his thirty-fourth home run of the season to open the sixth.

Fred Blake pitched good ball for the Cubs. He permitted ten hits, six of which were bunched in two innings.

Chicago and St. Louis play a morning and afternoon game here tomorrow and then both clubs go to St Louis for four games.

JONES STARTS DEFENSE OF NATIONAL AMATEUR GOLF TITLE TODAY

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

PEBBLE BEACH, Cal., Sept. 1—(AP)—The royal and ancient game that knew its alibis in merrie old England long before there was any rush to California for gold has shifted its main battleground to this modern Eldorado for the first time—but there is no change in the star role. Bobby Jones has come west to conquer with spade, mashie and putter where the old-timers used pick and shovel.

The great Georgian starts tomorrow the defense of the national amateur golf championship against a hand-picked field of the world's foremost players. He has dominated all the preliminaries to the most widely heralded title tournament the game has known and if he fails to do the same thing in the more serious business of championship competition the echoes will be heard as loud in New York and Atlanta as they will be up and down the Pacific slope.

Golf has seldom, if ever, had a more picturesque setting for one of its principal affairs than the Seaside links of Pebble Beach, whose hazards are just as dangerous as they look. Neither has the game had a more commanding figure than Jones, who will start as almost an even favorite against a field of 140 of the best amateurs of the United States, Great Britain and Canada.

Tolley is the most conspicuous of the British challengers but Eustace Storey and Thomas Bourn both have impressed the galleries with their preliminary play.

Principal pairings in tomorrow's qualifying play include:

9:00 a. m.—Francis Ouimet, Boston and George Ritchie, San Francisco.

9:10—Johnny McHugh, San Francisco and Jack Mackie, Jr., New York.

9:25—Eustace Storey, England, and Dr. Paul Hunter, Pasadena.

9:30—Eddie Held, New York and Maurice McLoughlin, Los Angeles.

10:00—Cyril Tolley, England and Harrison R. Johnson, St. Paul.

10:20—Bobby Jones, Atlanta, and Jack Neville, Belmonte.

10:35—George Von Elm, Detroit, and W. K. Lanman, Jr., Columbus, Ohio.

10:50—George Voight, New York, and Clarence Wolff, St. Louis.

10:55—Dr. O. F. Willing, Portland, Ore., and D. Clarke Corkran, Philadelphia.

1 p. m.—Frank Dolp, Portland, Ore., and Denis Lavender Abilene.

1:15—Chick Evans, Chicago and William Little, Jr., San Francisco.

1:20—Joe Sweetser, New York and Gus Novotny, Chicago.

1:30—Phillips Finlay Redlands, Cal., and Ross Somerville, London, Canada.

2:15—Chandler Egan, Medord, Ore., and Fred J. Wright, Jr., Albemarle, Mass.

HOLLOWAY BLANKS WHITE SOX WITH TWO SMALL HITS

CHICAGO, Sept. 1—(AP)—Kenneth Holloway limited the White Sox to two hits this afternoon and the Indians won 5 to 0 in their final appearance of the season in Chicago. The victory gave Cleveland two out of three in the series.

Only four balls were driven out of the infield by the White Sox. The Indians clouted Al Thomas and a lad named Byrne for a collection of eleven blows, one a four bagger by Bib Falk, who drove in two of the Cleveland markers. Johnny Hodapp enjoyed a big day at the plate with two singles and a triple in four times up.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

At the regular meeting of the board of directors of the Thames bank, held Aug. 21, 1929, the following resolution was passed:

Nathan A. Gibbs, vice president and cashier of the Thames bank, died suddenly at Noank, Connecticut, on Thursday, August 29th, 1929, in the 73rd year of his life.

Mr. Gibbs first became connected with this bank in 1881, when as a young man he accepted a minor clerical position; he won deserved promotion, filling successively the positions of assistant teller, teller, assistant cashier and becoming cashier in November, 1918; in 1914 he was elected a member of the board of directors and in 1926 vice president. Thus for nearly half a century he served this institution in various capacities. This service was characterized always by the strictest integrity on his part, by faithfulness to duty in every particular, and by a sincere loyalty to the bank and all its interests. Mr. Gibbs was a man of warm heart and cheerful disposition, always giving freely of his time and strength to those who called upon him for advice and aid. He will be missed by all with whom he came in contact and especially by those who were so closely associated with him in the management and operation of the Thames bank.

Resolved, that this tribute to Mr. Gibbs' memory be recorded at length upon the records of the bank and a copy sent to the members of his family and the press.

Attest,

WALTER F. LESTER,
Secretary pro tem.

Andrew Crevier, a member of the crew of the Coast Guard destroyer Davis, is in Lawrence-Memorial hospital for treatment for spinal meningitis. Record Motor Traffic

Autoists who were on the road late Saturday night declare that there were more cars in use on the Norwich turnpike, the Boston post road and the Hartford turnpike up to a late hour this morning than they ever knew to be in use on these highways at any previous time this season. The cars were going from New London, or headed for this city, forming an almost continuous line.

WORKERS HOPE GOVERMENT WILL SPEED UP WITH PLANS

Mechanics and laborers are anxious for work to begin on the construction of the proposed Coast Guard academy. But the beginning of that work will be long delayed as the transfer of the property from the city to the federal government, or at least to the United States treasury department, has not yet been completed in that detail must be accomplished that will require time. Naturally the labor to produce the buildings, to effect the grading of the land, the layout of roads and the construction of wharves will be of vast proportions and will provide employment for a large number of men for a considerable time. In the event that the work is commenced in the fall, it will provide employment that otherwise will not be obtainable. It is not known here how far the supervising architect's department of the government has proceeded with the plans for the academy, but that the work is well in hand is the report that comes to New London.

Immense Throng at Beach

Ocean Beach had what is believed to be the largest number of people there it has had at any time during the summer season. They apparently came from every section of the state and from adjoining states. Automobiles were parked wherever there was space for them, and they stretched out along Bentley avenue, and lateral streets, up Pequot and Ocean aveneus and into the highways leading to these avenues. Today, the last Sunday of the season, the number of persons who sought to take pleasure from it was tremendously large.

The weather was perfect, and the water warm enough to attract bathers. The coming week will see an evodus from the beach that will take hundreds of residents away from the shore, for the schools will resume sessions a week from Monday and vacations will end. The season has been one of throngs at the beach, almost from the beginning of the summer, for pleasant weather has been the rule, and that is what stimulates people to go to the shore.

DR. ALBERT A. BISHOP DROWNED FROM POWER BOAT

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 1.—Dr. Albert A. Bishop, about 65, well known dentist, residing at 2 Nameaug avenue, was drowned in the Thames river this afternoon. He is survived by his wife and a daughter.

Dr. Bishop, accompanied by Walter Stalins, of Waterford, and Mrs. Lottie Usher Lubchansky, entered a power boat owned by the dentist, apparently for the purpose of going into the sound fishing, as bait and fishing equipment were in the boat. Stalins was operating the launch and Bishop and Mrs. Bubchansky were seated in the stern. Without warning to either Stalins or Mrs. Lubchansky, Bishop suddenly arose from his seat and in another instant he was thrown into the river, just when the boat was opposite the state pier. Mrs. Lubchansky cried out in alarm and Staplins, without shutting off the power, leaped overboard. He succeeded in reaching Bishop, while Mrs. Lubchansky attempted to guide the boat, the woman taking the steering wheel and driving the boat in a circular course. While Staplins struggled with Bishop in the water, W. J. Clark and Kurt Gerl, United States Coast Guardsmen jumped overboard and went to Staplins' assistance. The three men succeeded in getting Bishop to the state pier, but he was dead when the rescuers reachd there. A pulmotor was used in an effort toward resuscitation, but without success.

Broadway Theatre

Even the suave Philo Vance, peer of detectives, debonair, polished, yet keenly observant of every smallest detail and alert to every chance word or act that might develop into a clue, met a stone wall in attempting to unravel The Greene Murder Case, until—well, it's too good to tell in this column, but you'll see it anyway at the Broadway starting today. The fascinating story of the "House of Greene"—a house divided against itself—with every member of the family suspicious of the others—and with mysterious murders following fast on one another's heels—parallels no other mystery story that has ever been written. Different in conception, in plot and in solution, S. S. Van Dine famed author of the "Canary Murder Case," and other thrilling detective stories, all of which have found their way to the screen as all-talking pictures, has here a story that will hold its audiences breathless almost to the last flicker of film, so fast is the action, so cleverly contrived the suspense. For comedy relief the Broadway is showing "When Caesar Ran a Newspaper," a howling burlesque on what the "noblest Roman" would have accomplished if he'd had one of the now popular "Tabloids" to sway public opinion. The "Talking Collegians" are also on the bill with "Sporting Courage," their latest talking release. Other attractions include the latest Paramount Sound News, with the big parade of 500 aircraft in Cleveland, celebrating the winning of the women's air derby, James J. Davis, U. S. Secretary of Labor, in a vivid Labor day speech, Martha Norelius winning the Wrigley $10,000 swim prize, and the Zepp landing at Frisco, with a touch of humor in the latter, when a baby blimp, one fortieth the Zepp's size greets the giant air monster.

Palace Theatre

Without a single doubt, "The Fall of Eve," the Columbia all-talking comedy drama which opened at the Palace theatre last night, made a hit. From the moment the picture opened until the final fade-out, the audience roared. Seldom have I seen incorporated in one picture so many hilarious situations. It will provide an evening of delightful entertainment for all.

A true farce, the entagled and ludicrous situations follow on the heels of each other thick and fast. Tom Ford, Sr., who has just married his second wife, has a son Tom, Jr., who is secretly in love with Eve Grant, his father's private secretary. In order to hold the business of one of his biggest customers, Mr. Mack, who loves the ladies, Ford promises to make up a party. Not knowing any young girls, he asks Eve to come along. WORLD WAR VETERANS OF 56TH REGIMENT HELD REUNION HERE

Welcomed to the city by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, who was later a guest at the reunion dinner, the veterans of the 56th Regiment, C. A. C., held their business meeting Sunday morning at 10:30 at the state armory for their 11th annual reunion. President Leslie Manchester, of Bridgeport, formerly of this city, opened the business meeting and introduced the speakers who followed the cordial welcome which was given to the assembled veterans of service in the World war by Mayor Robbins.

Those to make interesting remarks which held the close attention of the veterans and were received with much applause were Rev. Edward Reilly, of Erie, Pa., chaplain of the regiment; Brigadier General Morris E. Payne, of New London; Colonel Henry S. Dorsey, of New London, who was commander at Fort H. G. Wright during the formation of the regiment; Secretary Christopher R. Barry, of New London, and Treasurer Harold T. Robinson, of this city.

William L. Fletcher of this city, whose son, Robert Ogden Fletcher, was the first member of the regiment to make the supreme sacrifice in France, was an honored guest of the reunion and spoke briefly in appreciation of meeting with the comrades who had gone overseas with his boy.

It was voted to hold the reunion next year in Waterbury, jointly with the Torrington association, the date to be as usual on the Sunday before Labor day. Conrad Mueller, of Waterbury, was elected president, and Richard Burns, of Waterbury, treasurer with George Knox of Bridgeport as state association secretary.

Following the business meeting, the members to the number of about 400, journeyed to Happyland casino by automobile with police escort, and the reunion dinner was served in the grove by the Wauregan hotel with the following menu:

Cream of Tomato Soup
Fruit Salad
Roast Chicken du Chrystal Palace

Cafe

After the feast a programme of entertainment was put on that consisted of three snappy boxing bouts and late in the afternoon the reunion was over. Those attending came from all parts of the state with the Stamford delegation of about 80, carrying off the honors for the largest group coming the longest distance.

Preliminary to the business meeting on Sunday morning at the armory, there was a stag party Saturday night in the rooms of R. E. Hourigan post, No. 594, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in the Olmpic building, at which a fine entertainment was given by a troupe from Hartford which gave a varied programme of singing, dancing, sketches and variety numbers.

The reunionists extended a hearty vote of thanks to the local committee, Leslie Manchester, Harold T. Robinson and Christopher R. Barry, for the fine time which the programme of entertainment provided and for the hospitality extended to them while attending the reunion in Norwich.

RECOVERED SCHLIEFER BODY FROM PRESTON POND

The body of Meyer Schliefer, 32, of New York city, who was drowned Saturday afternoon about 12:30 o'clock in Preston City pond, was sent Sunday to his home in New York by Undertakers Church and Allen. The body was recovered about 4:30 o'clock, having been in the water about four hours. Dr. N. B. Lewis, medical examiner for the town of Preston, conducted an investigation at the scene, and declared death due to accidental drowning.

Schliefer, father of six children, arrived Friday from New York to spend the Labor day holidays at a Hebrew boarding house in Preston. Saturday he went out in a boat with two girls and was amusing himself by jumping into shallow water from the boat.

The boat gradually drifted into deep water and Schliefer, unable to swim, went to the bottom, when he made his last jump. Squad A, with the inhalator, responded to an emergency call received by telephone at central fire headquarters, but found on arrival at the pond that the body had not been recovered.

CHASED BY POLICEMAN, PAYS FINE IN COURT

On a charge of speeding, Robert L. Hultz, U. S. N., of the 0-7, was fined $10 and costs in the city court Saturday morning. He was arrested late Friday night by Sergt. Matthew Delaney who had to chase him for some distance in Greeneville.

The sergeant was watching for Hultz, as a report was made to police headquarters from the Jewett City authorities that he had driven through the safety gates while they were down at the Jewett City railroad crossing and failed to stop. He was wanted in Jewett City on a charge of evading responsibility.

Sergt. Delaney tried to stop Hultz near the city line in Greeneville, but Hultz refused to stop and drove at a fast rate down North Main street. Sergt. Delaney chased him in his machine and finally caught him at the Marguerite corner. After his trial in the local court Hultz was taken to Jewett City to answer to the evading responsibility charge.

NEW YORK MURDER VICTIM FORMERLY VISITED HERE

It was recalled Sunday that Rudolph Suschik, 17, for whose murder Michael Majestic, 18, is being held by the New York city police, was in Norwich about a year ago. Last October, Suschik and two other youths came to this city and were arrested by the local police after they had gotten into minor trouble at the Falls. Suschik and the two youths came to this city to visit Majestic, with whom Suschik was acquainted.

Early last week, on a New York street, Majestic, a former Greeneville boy, stabbed young Suschik through the heart, after, it is claimed, the murdered boy had taunted him by calling him "Dopey." Suschik died before an ambulance could reach him and Majestic was captured by the police while running from the scene of the fatal stabbing.

RICHMOND CO. PRESENTS INTERESTING NEW RADIATOR

Richmond Radiator company, which has headquarters in New York and one of its factories in this city, has just announced a new type of radiator, which will bear the name "Richmond Floorline Radiator." It is made of steel or copper fins welded on pipe. It is light in weight and easy to handle as it is made with units 8 1-2 inches high, 2 1-2 inches thick, and either 36 or 18 inches long. It occupies much less room space than equivalent cast iron radiation. The units may be installed separately or joined end to end or placed one above the other to give the required heat. It is claimed that this ankle height radiator radiates the heat near the floor where it is most needed. When painted to match the trim of the woodwork it is quite inconspicuous. This radiator may also be half recessed within the wall or completely recessed.

Richmond Radiator company feels that its product has a wide market and has released an extensive advertising campaign to appear in the fall issues of trade and national publications.

Bailey, Reginald Avery and Robert Stott. At smaller tables on the lawn, patrons were served ice cream, etc. There was a large attendance and all tables were well patronized. Those assisting at the several tables were: Vegetables, Reginald Avery; cake, Miss Louise Avery; home-made candy, Misses Elizabeth Avery and Helen Schwenk; fancy and domestic articles, Miss Lucille Browning; ice cream, Robert Stott, who was assisted by other young men on the committee; hot-dogs and coffee, Mrs. John L. Browning and Mrs. Charles Barber; grabbag, Miss Rose Durr; lemonade, Junior Intermediate C. E. society, under direction of Miss Jessie E. Hyde, leader. Miss Elizabeth Avery was also in charge of the sale of flowers and in the fortune telling booth was Miss Carol Walden of Boston, a guest of Misses Doris and Lucille Browning.

The program in the evening in the chapel included vocal selections by Miss Walden, a gifted soprano, Miss Doris Browning accompanying at the piano; readings, by Miss Margaret Chapin, who also gave a vocal selection, playing her own accompaniment. Little Miss Betty Browning sang with Miss Browning at the piano. Another feature of the entertainment was the stunt, "Crossing the Railroad Track."

Pastor Returns From Vacation

Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey resumed his pastorate, Sunday morning at the Congregational church, after several weeks' vacation. Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Bailey's sermon theme was "Alone." The text was Matthew 26:40. And He cometh unto the disciples, and findeth them asleep and saith unto Peter: What could ye not watch with Me one hour?

The choir was assisted by Miss Carol Walden of soprano in the First Baptist choir of Boston. Miss Walden has a very pleasing voice of high register, a voice fully casable of filling the church. Her support to the other members of the choir, Miss Margaret Chapin, alto, Dr. Charles H. Lamb, tenor, and Clyde M. Beebe, bass, was greatly appreciated. Organist Herbert L. Yerrington arranged a special number for the anthem, "O' Lord, Most Holy," Franz Apt. The communion service for September followed. Rev. Charles E. Reeves, assistant Rev. Mr. Bailey in administering the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

At Methodist Church

At the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning there was an attendance of 60. The pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter preached on "The Gospel of Christ," Romans 1:16. For I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth, to the Jew first, and also to the Greek. Miss Doris Rose played the organ in the absence of the organist, Mrs. Lewis H. Aldrich. The church was decorated by Misses Alice Brown and Mary Waters. In attendance was Everette Thornton, organist of Jewett City Methodist church, who was a dinner guest of Rev. Mr. Potter at the Methodist parsonage. After several days stay at the parsonage as guest of Rev. Mr. Potter, Richord B. Pascall has returned to Portland, Conn.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES
Song of the Open Road.

Out of the heat of the city street,
Out of its stifling air,
We mount and ride to the countryside,
Where the world is fresh and fair;
To a land of play
And of new-mown hay
To the peaceful, pure abode
Of hot dog dumps
And the gasoline pumps,
And the signs by the side of the road.

The rural scene with its sylvan green
Brings peace to the weary eye;
And the heart is light at the seemly sight
Of the speed signs flashing by,
The road unrolls
Through the telegraph poles,
And the world is glad and gay,
With the hot dog dumps
And the gasoline pumps,
And the signs by the side of the way.

Oh, banish the pain of the great for gain,
And the city's toil and strife:
And find release in the country's peace,
In the home of the simple life,
And there let us raise
Our songs of praise,
And join in a festive ode,
To the hot dog dumps
And the gasoline pumps,
And the signs by the side of the road.

A Child.

With awkward grace one time she walked
Where sea-winds whipped a curling dune,
Invisible with whom she talked,
Intangible her tune.

Her eyes were memories of sky,
And but another cloud her dress:
The grey gulls left her, wheeling by,
Alone with happiness.

Alone, to watch rare jewels fling
Their fire in spindrift of the foam
As, freighted with a fairy king,
A ship came sailing home.

And, free to stray where wonders led,
She answered when old Triton called,
And saw a castle rear its head
From dreaming emerald.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES.

The biological survey has carried on the investigation of sapsuckers the country over, and finds that the birds, ours and the two western varieties, really attack about every tree that grows. They show much evidence that trees that are not killed by the birds are often spoiled for lumber. It is known, too, that the sapsuckers sometimes makes man's orchards their own and persistently girdle fruit trees. Lawn trees also sometimes suffer from them and the survey cooly recommends that these birds be poisoned at their drinking places by putting strychnine in the drinking cups.

Now this seems altogether too bad. It may be true, as the survey estimates, that sapsuckers destroy a million and a quarter dollors worth of lumber annually in the United States. But even then it is more than probable that the useful work the birds do in their destruction of insects offsets this several times over. Sap and cambium layer forms but a sixth of the sapsuckers' diet. The remaining five-sixths bark beetle, an insect that does more harm to the lumber interests in a year, by killing the southern pine trees, than all the sapsuckers of the country would do in ten.

Even in that the balance of evidence seems to be on the side of the sapsucker, and it is probable that we do not know half the good he does. The ban has been placed on other birds and has been removed. Once we shot the robins and cedar birds, the catbirds and a half dozen other varieties, because they stole the cherries. Now we know that we need these birds for the preservation of the cherries.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES.
The Squirrels.

Dear Uncle Jed: Chattering, scampering and jumping the squirrels show their happiness. First in one tree, then in another, then on the ground again. What fun they must be having! Their big bushy tails are just as big as their bodies. Oh, aren't those tails graceful. With their mouths full of nute they scamper to their store houses. Some have them underground, some have them in trees. They fill them with nuts which they eat in the winter.

Do they fear the winter? Oh, no, they seem to be happy about it.

A Tea Party.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing a little story about a tea party a few friends and I had last summer.

It was a very beautiful day and everybody was happy. The birds were singing in the tree-tops and the breeze was blowing gently. My friends came over and asked my mother if I was home, but she said, "No, Leah is not here, she has gone to the store, but she will be home presently." Pretty soon I came back and found my friends waiting for me. They asked me if I wanted to have a tea party, so I said, "Yes." So I took out my dolls and started to play. My dolls' names were Marian, Barbara and Hazel. While I was getting dinner ready my children went out to play. When everything was ready I called the children to dinner. We had bread and jams, sandwiches, cake and tea. "Don't you think we had a good time Uncle Jed?"

A Country Hike

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the third time I have written to you and I hope you and the Wide Awakes enjoy my letter.

Our Sunday school class made up of four girls planned to go on a hike.

Monday we went down to our teacher's house to plan where we were going and what to eat.

We planned to go to Edward Howe's place and to roast hot dogs and toast marshmallows. We had cake, cookies, pickles rolls and grape juice to drink. We also planned to go the next Friday morning at 10 o'clock and arrived at 11:45.

None of us had been there before so we never knew the way. We just followed the path that looked as if it had been traveled on the most.

When we arrived we started right in roasting our hot dogs after we had found our stones and wood for the fire.

Then we ate all the rest of our food and also played games. About 3 o'clock we started home and arrived there very hot, but enjoyed our trip very much.

Her Rabbits

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing a few lines to let you know I have not forgotten you. I am writing a letter about my rabbits. Sunday my father went for a walk. He brought me home some rabbits. I call them Muffie Face and Cotton Tail. My father made them a little house on the piazza. They ate all my mother's flowers. I asked my mother for some cabbage leaves. She gave me two for each rabbit.

Visits Aunt at Winsted

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you and the Wide Awakes about my trip to Winsted. I left Willimantic about 8:30 a. m. by bus. I had to change in Hartford. I could hardly wait until I reached Winsted. I reached there about 11:00 a. m. My aunt was glad I come. About a week afterwards my uncle took me to Torrington for a ride which I enjoyed very much. I stayed in Winsted three weeks. I also came home by bus. It was raining hard when I reached home. Mother was glad to see me. Hope the Wide Awakes will enjoy my story.

A Day at Rocky Point

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to you. I will tell about my trip to Rocky Point.

My folks and I started in the morning at 8:30 and arrived there around ten.

We first had a dinner which consisted of clam chowder, steamed clams, clam cakes and watermelon.

We went to the midway. I had bushels of fun riding on the hobby horses, electric autos and on the rapids and other amusements.

The penny arcade drew our attention next. We saw moving pictures and had our fortunes told.

As it was getting late we bought ice cream and started on our journey home.

I went to bed tired but happy thinking about the good time I had.

A Trip to Bozrah

Dear Uncle Jed: About a week ago I went with several other persons to Bozrah. We had a picnic in the woods with all kinds of food you'd want.

It was a beautiful ride out, although the road was rough. When you did go over a bump you felt it.

The farm we went to first had all kinds of animals. There were two kittens. One was black and his name was "Old Pal." The other was black and white and his name was "Pet" because he came first.

Then the dog, whose name I don't know, was black and white. He is a good watch dog. When we rode into the lane he began to bark. The other animals and fowls were hens, cows, and a horse, also a gobbler or turkey.

We ate our lunch under the trees. There was a big ledge and I climbed up it. Gran was afraid I'd slip and fall so I came off it.

We had a splendid time.

Only a Dream.

Dear Uncle Jed: One day as I was lying under our cherry tree, I felt as if I were sailing on a boat, and sure enough, I was on board a yacht with a group of friends.

Soon we heard some one say, "We are hearing Brazil." About five minutes after this remark, the captain told us that first we'd anchor in the harbor of Rio de Janerio.

Rio de Janerio you know is the capital and largest city in Brazil. Over 5,000,000 people live there, and it has one of the nicest harbors in the world.

Our next stop was at Sao Paulo, the second largest city in Brazil.

Then we stopped at Santos, the port for Sao Paulo, where over 15,000,000 bags of coffee are shipped annually and 2,000 vessels enter and leave Santos each year.

Next we came to San Salvador where coffee, cacao and cotton are raised in large quantities.

On the fifth day we came to Recife one of Brazil's chief sugar centers.

The next day the captain told us we would make one more stop and then start for home.

So the last stop was at Belem, an important rubber port. This city is located a degree and a half south of the equator, and so is very warm.

As we were nearing home, there came a loud noise.

Crash! Bang! I awoke to find myself on the ground!

My trip was only a dream!

A Queer Surprise

Dear Uncle Jed: Thursday morning while I was tatting I remarked laughingly to one of my friends, "my nose itches. I am going to have a surprise," although I had no idea that I should.

That afternoon my grandmother called me and I came to see what she wanted. She took me out back of the workshop and told me to listen. I did, and soon I heard some little chickens. Whether or not it was because of my nose I was certainly surprised. The mother hen had found a hole in the wall large enough for her to get through and she had stolen her nest.

We caught her and the chickens. There were four chicks. I took the chickens into the house and put them in a basket. There were two black ones, one brown one and a Rhode Island Red. They are very cute and it's lots of fun to watch them.

TWO WOMEN BURNED TO DEATH IN CRACK-UP OF PLANE AT MISQUAMICUT

Mrs. Marie A. Hunter of Westfield, Mass., and Miss Marie Day of West Springfield Were the Victims—Pilot Was Thrown Out While Making Landing—The Women Were Strapped in Their Seats and the Plane Burst Into Flames—The Two Women Victims Were Holiday Guests at Misquamicut.

WESTERLY, R. I. Sept. 2—(AP)—Two women were burned to death and a pilot severely burned and injured in airplane crackup at the flying field at Misquamicut, a nearby shore resort late today. The women were Mrs. Marie A. Hunter, 31, of Westfield, Mass., and Miss Marie Day, 26, of West Springfield, Mass. The pilot was Arthur Manning of Hartford, Conn.

Manning, a commercial pilot, had just taken off and climbed to a slight altitude when his motor began to miss. He turned and tried to make the field again. In landing, the ship struck its left wing, throwing the pilot clear. Manning, although badly hurt, scrambled to his feet and took after the plane which had righted itself and was skidding dangerously along the field.

Manning, in his haste, tripped. When he reached the plane it was a mass of flames. Alone and hurt, he was unable to help the two women strapped in their seats.

The flaming plane was first discovered by George E. Phillips of Providence, who summoned aid. Manning was taken to Westerly hospital.

Dr. Arthur H. Scanlon of Westerly ordered a coroner's inquest.

The two women victims were holiday guests at Misquamicut.

(Special to The Bulletin)

An eyewitness to the accident was Mrs. Hunter's seven-year old daughter, Phyllis, who sat in an automobile, with Ann Ashe of Westfield, Mass., and who pathetically cried, "My Mamma is burning up." Another was James McGarvie, proprietor of a fishmarket, who heard the crash and running out saw the plane a mass of flames.

The Misquamicut fire department was called and brought their truck to the field and prevented a spread of the fire. The firemen also helped in keeping the crowd back.

The bodies were taken to the morgue of a Westerly undertaker. The bodies were horribly burned and it was almost impossible to recognize them.

The pilot of the machine is burned about the face and chest and is at the Westerly hospital where he is held and no one allowed to talk to him until the arrival of a federal investigator.

INJURED PILOT WELL KNOWN IN HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Arthur S. Manning, who was seriously injured in an airplane crash that cost the lives of his two passengers near Westerly, R. I., today, is well known in Hartford. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Manning, of 464 Woodland street. Before he took up aviation several years ago he was an automobile salesman. He served with the 115th observation squadron, Connecticut National Guard and has been chief pilot and general manager of the General Airports, Inc., of New York city. Last year he was with the Harlem Valley Airways, Inc., a subsidiary of the New York concern and did much flying in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and through the Hudson river valley.

HAD BEEN WARNED TO REFRAIN FROM FLYING

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Miss Marie Day of West Springfield, who was burned to death today in the airplane accident at Misquamicut, had been warned by her mother, Mrs. Amelia Day, to refrain from riding in an airplane while on her holiday trip. Miss Day recently passed two weeks at Westerly and had returned with Mrs. Marie A. Hunter of Westfield, who was also burned to death, for over Labor day.

Mrs. Hunter's mother, Mrs. Rose Gamache of Westfield, is in a private hospital in Westfield suffering from a nervous breakdown with which she was stricken several weeks ago, and has not been told of the death of her daughter. Besides her mother, Mrs. Hunter leaves her husband and a daughter, Phyllis.

BELIEVE TWO PERSONS WERE BURNED IN BARN

SUFFIELD, Conn., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Two persons are believed to have been burned to death tonight when a barn owned by Mrs. Anna Bell of Hartford was destroyed by fire. The barn is located on a farm owned by the Hartford woman.

A short time before fire apparatus arrived at the scene neighbors living in the vicinity heard screams for help coming from the place. When they arrived the barn was a seething furnace of flame and they were unable to enter it. Police and firemen will search the ruins late tonight if possible.

It was understood that a picnic party was held at the farm today and several of the people remained on the place after the majority had departed.

IN PURSUIT OF 421-HOUR ENDURANCE FLIGHT RECORD

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—(AP)—After surpassing all airplane endurance flight records except one at 6:31 p. m., today, Russell Mossman and Earl Steele in their plane "Chicago We Will," swooped low over Sky Harbor airport and then zoomed upward in pursuit of the 421-hour mark now held by the St. Louis Robin.

At 6:31, they had beaten the 246 hour record of Loren Mendell and R. B. Rinehart, established in the "Angeline" at Culver City, Calif., by one hour. Their motor was functioning perfectly, and in a note dropped at the air field, the fliers expressed their intention of remaining aloft until the motor failed.

89-YEAR-OLD MAN HELD ON DRUNKENNESS CHARGE

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 2.—(AP)—W. Charles Breckenridge, 89, who claims to be the nephew of General John C. Breckenridge, vice president of the United States during the administration of James Buchanan, was lodged in a cell at police headquarters here early today on a charge of drunkenness. The arresting patrolman declared he picked up Breckenridge in a drunken condition on Boston road, in the eastern section of the city. Breckenridge explained he was on his way to Worcester to visit relatives. He will appear before district court tomorrow morning.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD FOR SKEET SHOOTING

WOBURN, Mass., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Ray Goodwin of Billerica, member of the Woburn Sportsmen's association, established a new world's record for skeet shooting today with 175 consecutive hits. The previous record of 87 was held by Louis Verza of the Lynn Rifle and Revolver club.

Goodwin began his record shoot at 4:30 and continued until darkness compelled a halt at 7:40. Earlier in the day he had gotten 24 out of 25. He was shooting at a holiday shoot of the club under rules of the National Skeet Shooting association.

RECORD VOLUME OF TRAFFIC ON POST ROAD

WESTPORT, Sept. 2.—(AP)—All existing records for volume of traffic on the Post road here were shattered today and tonight when, according to town officials and state police more than 26,000 automobiles crossed the State street bridge.

The only major arrest made today was that of Steve Homer of Fairfield for drunken driving. Homer was not involved in any accident.

TWO SEAMEN LOST THEIR LIVES IN COLLISION

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The bodies of the two seamen who lost their lives when the cargo steamer Dorothy of the Bull line, sank off Fisherman's Point, in Chesapeake Bay, this morning, following a collision with the Isthmian line steamer Eurana, had not been recovered tonight.

The dead men are Lewis B. Paris, second assistant engineer of Baltimore, and Gilbert Ruiz, fireman of the same vessel, of San Juan, Porto Rico, both of the Dorothy's crew.

The two men were trapped in the interior of the vessel when the bow of the Eurana was driven into her amidships and went down with the ship.

According to the story today, told by officers of the Dorothy, who were brought to Norfolk, the Eurana kept her bow in the breech as long as possible so that the crew of the ill-fated ship were able to walk to her deck within the 30-minute period before the Dorothy disappeared beneath the surface.

POLICE EXACTED TRIBUTE FROM BOOTLEGGERS

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The federal prohibition office disclosed today that sixty-two Los Angeles police officers, ranging from captains down to patrolmen, had been listed by them as members of an asserted "shakedown" ring exacting tribute from bootleggers.

It also was disclosed that Harry D. MacDonald, Whittier bootlegger, who made a 42-page statement to District Attorney Fitts last week, accusing 24 police officers of similar practice, had been arrested as a result of a federal investigation which extended over several months.

Deputy District Attorney David Clark revealed that MacDonald had declared an empty Main street movie theatre was the liquor storage and "pay off" station used by the police. He was quoted as confessing because he was "tired of the continued tribute" exacted by the police.

SPECTACULAR FIRE IN PAWTUCKET LUMBER YARD

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Sept. 2.—(AP)—A raging, spectacular fire that broke out at 12:15 o'clock this morning in the lumber yard of the Atwood Crawford company, at the corner of Front and Central streets, Pawtucket, and within 10 minutes had ignited the roof of the Acme Finishing company, across the street at 185 Front street, resulted in a general alarm being sent in to bring more than a dozen fire companies from Pawtucket and Central Falls to the scene.

CAR WOOD SHATTERED MORE SPEED RECORDS

DETROIT, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Shattering more speed records Gar Wood today won the second and final heat of the Harmsworth trophy race with his Miss America VIII on the Detroit river course. His average speed for the 20 nautical miles course was 75.287 statute miles per hour. In the first heat Saturday he averaged 67.932.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

PARIS, Sept. 2—(AP)—The condition of former Premier Raymond Poincare, which recently caused anxiety to his doctors, obliging them to postpone an operation planned some week ago, was improved today, though M. Poincare must remain in bed for some time.

SHANGHAI, China, Sept. 2—(AP)—Foreign Minister C. T. Wang declared today that China would not consent to replace the present chairman of the Chinese Eastern railway. Such action was made a condition by the Soviet government on Friday to a joint declaration for settlement of Manchurian questions.

LONDON, Sept. 2 — (AP) — Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer and now acting prime minister, arrived in London yesterday from the Hague where he attended the government's reparation conference. A crowd estimated at 3,000 enthusiastically greeted him and would not allow him to proceed to his residence until he had made a short talk.

WON OPENING RACE OF THE FISHING FLEET

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Progress, smallest of the four Gloucester fishing schooners competing, today won the opening race of the series for the sailing championship of the north Atlantic fishing fleet.

She went around the 37 5-8 nautical mile course in five hours, 30 minutes and 53 seconds, which would have been enviable time under existing conditions for a racing yacht. The southwesterly breeze was light and variable throughout the race and this favored the Progress. It could not, however, be disputed that her skipper, Capt. Manual Domings drove her around the course with all the skill of a sailing master although he virtually retired from the sea 15 years ago.

From start to finish, the race was a battle between the Progress and the Arthur D. Story, sailed by Capt. Ben Pine, the only veteran of previous fishermen's races competing in the present championship.

The Progress was tardy in getting over the starting line, as she was yesterday and the day before, when a failing breeze prevented the contestants from finishing within the seven-hour limit. She was third to cross the line, but the 18-mile mark she had not only cut down the lead of the Elsie, Captain Norman Ross, in second place but left her more than half a mile astern.

From then on it was a hard fought race between the Progress and the Story and it was not until the vessels were headed for home on the final six miles windward leg that the little schooner forged past the Story and drew into the lead.

LABOR DAY QUIET IN EAST MARION MILL VILLAGES

MARION, N. C., Sept. 2—(AP)—With double guards of troops on duty in the Clinchfield and East Marion mill villages labor day passed quietly here.

Hundreds of union men from all sections of the state attended a mass meeting at union headquarters, heard addresses by leaders.

Officials of the city of Marion made no effort to interfere with a parade of 70 automobiles filled with union men and headed by a truck load of provisions being brought here for strikers.

National guardsmen on duty at the Clinchfield and Marion manufacturing mill villages did double duty throughout the day.

Adjutant General Van B. Metts of Raleigh, who arrived today to take charge of the troops, announced that the troops would be used solely to aid civil authorities in enforcing the law.

The automobile caravan of labor leaders and union members from Raleigh, Greensboro, Durham, Charlotte and other points assembled at Hickory shortly before noon and arrived here at 3 p. m. without incident.

N. A. Townsend, executive counsel, went to Shelby today for another conference with Governor O. Max Gardner.

CLEVELAND AIR MAIL PILOT WAS AWARDED $5,000 PRIZE

CLEVELAND, Sept. 2—(AP)—Henry J. Brown, veteran Cleveland air mail pilot, tonight was awarded the $5,000 first prize for winning the non-stop Los Angeles to Cleveland air race. He finished the flight yesterday in 13 hours 13 minutes.

Meanwhile fears were felt for the safety of Major John T. Wood, of Wauau, Wis., who left Los Angeles early today in the non-stop race, but tonight he had not been heard from.

Lacking word as to his whereabouts, air race officials believe he probably had met with an accident.

The contestants in this event were free to make the race on different days. Lee Schonhair, of Los Angeles, made the flight a week ago and finished in 13 hours and 51 minutes. He was awarded the $2,500 second prize. The fourth entrant, Lieutenant Colonel Roscoe Turner, finished the race but was disqualified because he arrived here after six p. m.

WENT SAILING IN BATHING SUITS; BECALMED OVERNIGHT

BASS RIVER, Mass., Sept. 2—(AP)—George A. Walcott of Park avenue, New York, and his two sons Roger and Henry Walcott of Pelham, N. Y., set out for a brief sail in their Knockabout yesterday clad only in bathing suits. They were becalmed overnight two miles out to sea with only a little drinking water for sustenance.

Calls from anxious members of the family here today sent an airplane piloted by Robert Ayling from Hyannis and Captain William Hurst in a motorboat in search of them. Ayling and Hurst both sighted the Knockabout just as a brisk wind sprang up. The Walcotts waved aside a tow-line and sailed home.

ELEVEN PERSONS INJURED IN HEAD-ON COLLISION

CANTON, Mass., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Eleven persons were injured here today in a head-on collision between a truck carrying a holiday party and a sedan. Five were seriously hurt in the crash which overturned the sedan, pinning the occupants, and hurled those in the truck onto the roadway.

Those seriously hurt and kept at the Norwood hospital were Mrs. Agnes Harrahan, 45, Mrs. Margaret Davis, 50, both of Boston; Mrs. Samuel Ruboy, 65, and Louis Ruboy, 36, their son, all of Chelsea.

The truck was driven by Jacob Prober of Chelsea. Mrs. Harraban was driver of the sedan.

Annual Assembly Of League Of Nations

Ramsay Macdonald Reports Progress on Negotiations For Naval Disarmament

GENEVA, Sept. 2—(AP)—[illegible] the opening of the tenth annual assembly of the league of nations today, Premier Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain discussed in a press conference with optimism and appreciation American participation in the world movement for peace.

The head of the British labor government announced his expectation that favorable progress of Anglo-American conversations on naval disarmament would be such as to overcome all difficulties and reach an agreement.

He said that the great American republic was a friend of all good causes whether connected with the league or not and told journalists representing more than a score of countries that the United States would never do anything to interfere with the purposes of the league.

Premier MacDonald spoke of his hopes of visiting America "some time this autumn," but admitted circumstances might not permit it.

"I cannot say at present whether it will be possible for me to go. My friends in parliament have not got a majority in the house of commons, therefore there is a great burden on a government like ourselves facing difficult national problems."

The chief of the labor government then unfolded his hopes for a happy outcome of his conversations with Ambassador Dawes.

"I believe we are going to find a solution of the problems which up to now have defied solution.

"Conversations are going on between Ambassador Dawes and myself. We are examining every proposal that is likely to bring these conversations to a successful termination and the result of our examinations up to the moment I left London Saturday makes us believe the problems will be overcome and an agreement reached."

The proposal is that the naval agreement should be pursued with other powers and that anything between President Hoover and myself separately is purely provisional until other powers have fitted it into their scheme and a wider and more comprehensive agreement has been reached."

Meanwhile the league assembly in its opening session honored a Latin American statesman. Dr. J. Gustavo Guerrero of the Republic of Salvador, who was elected its president.

Fifty-three of the 54 nations of the league responded to the gavel of the black bearded portly Persian Prince Forough.

There were six premiers, 22 foreign ministers, four former premiers and 15 former foreign ministers at the opening of the assembly. Argentina was the only member of the league without a delegation present. Two women from England and one each from Canada, Denmark, Finland and Rumania testified to the increasing share of women in international politics.

BODY MAY BE THAT OF YOUNG SWISS AVIATOR

LISBON, Portugal, Sept. 2—(AP)—Diario de Lisboa today expressed belief that the body of a fair-haired youth clad in a yellow rubber suit and wearing aviation goggles washed up on Ericeira beach was that of one of the two Swiss youths who set out to cross the Atlantic on August 19.

Persons who found the body last Friday described it as that of a youth of about 20 years, with fair hair and blue eyes. This description would fit either Oscar Kaeser or Kurt Luescher.

It was unidentified, however, and after legal formalities was buried in the local cemetery. When the description and report reached the capital it roused belief that it was the body of one of the young fliers. It has been suggested that the clothing be brought here to have friends attempt to identify it.

The fliers when they took off from a beach near here had hoped to make a non-stop flight to North America, preferably to New York. They were sighted about 175 miles west of Lisbon by a steamship and there was a report that they had been seen over one of the islands of the Azores. Nothing more was heard of them.

Thirty-five Jews were arrested in Haifa and 17 in Tel Aviv on the charge of possessing firearms.

FRUIT GROWERS TO MEET AT EXPERIMENTAL STATION

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Fruit growers will meet Wednesday at the Connecticut experimental station to discuss the introduction of a natural enemy to combat the oriental peach moth, an agent of destruction which has cost the state of Connecticut thousands of dollars.

Harold M. Rogers, of Southington, president of the Connecticut Pomological society, has called the meeting.

The peach moth destroyed one third of last year's crop, causing a loss of between $150,000 and $300,000. Experiment station officials say that no artificial means, such as poison, remedy or prevention, is satisfactory in the control of the insect and growers have been helpless to protect their fruit. One man lost $25,000 through the moth.

Dr. Philip Carman, entomologist at the station, who will address the growers, will discuss two species of parasite to be set in every orchard. One which looks like a mosquito, attacks the larvae of the peach moth family, and the other, with the appearance of a minute fly, eats the eggs.

Dr. Carman points out that these parasites, used in a Wallingford nursery and orchard, reduced the infestation tremendously, while New York workers with the parasites also report success. About $10,000 would finance the plan, and the meeting will discuss methods of raising the funds. The state and the growers will be asked to work on the problem jointly.

GRAF ZEPPELIN REPORTED 200 MILES N. W. OF AZORES

Owing to the High Speed the Zep Has Made All Coastal Stations in France Have Been Ordered to Be on the Outlook For the Dirigible Beginning Early Today—The Zeppelin Had Navigated Around Several Thunder Storms.

(By The Associated Press)

The fleet dirigible Graf Zeppelin, holder of the world-girdling title, continued to put miles of over water flying behind her last Monday night as she headed for her home hangar at Friedrichshaven.

French radio stations received word that at 4:00 p. m. M. E. S. T. the position of the airship was 200 miles north and slightly west of the Azores. The French marine ministry immediately instructed all radio stations and lighthouses to begin a sharp look-out at daybreak on Tuesday with the expectation that the Graf would cross the French coast line between Bordeaux and Nantes soon afterward.

The position given indicated that the Zeppelin, making its fifth trans-Atlantic crossing within a year but its first long flight under the command of Captain Ernst Lehmann, had already covered about 2,400 miles in slightly less than 51 hours after leaving Lakehurst at 7:18 a. m. (E. S. T.) Sunday. This would mean an average speed of about 77 miles an hour. The first part of the flight had been at a rate of about 95 miles an hour, indicating that the Zeppelin after passing mid-ocean no longer had such strong assisting winds.

Most of the flight across the Atlantic had been far south of the usual steamship lanes but as the Graf neared European waters sightings were expected to be more frequent.

The Zeppelin, through its radio, kept both sides of the Atlantic informed as to its progress. After the earlier reports to American stations, early yesterday, contact was established with German stations.

ZEP NAVIGATED AROUND SEVERAL THUNDER STORMS

BERLIN, Germany, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Hamburg-American line reported this evening that the Graf Zeppelin had navigated around several thunder storms last night on its eastward voyage and at 5:00 p. m. (11:00 a. m. E. S. T.) 35.30 north and 38.10 west, about 500 miles west of the Azores.

GRAF ABOUT 920 MILES DUE WEST OF GIBRALTAR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The navy department announced tonight that a message intercepted from the Graf Zeppelin gave the ship's position at 7 p. m. (E. S. T.) as 35.22 north latitude and 26.40 west longitude.

The position indicates that the dirigible was about 920 miles due west of Gibraltar.

It was the first position report picked up by the navy since 11 p. m. last night and shows the Zeppelin is taking a course considerable south of that followed on the first leg of its around-the-world flight.

9-YEAR-OLD BOY BURNED TO DEATH HIS PLAYMATE

NEW YORK, Sept. 2—(AP)—A frightened nine-year-old Brooklyn boy, deserted by his parents, was held in custody by the Children's society today on a charge of homicide for the burning to death of his playmate, Rita Garcone, age 6.

Detectives found the boy, Anthony Tramontano, hidden in his home, from where his parents already had fled, fearing, police said, revenge from the dead girl's relatives.

Last Friday while Anthony was playing in the street, Rita came up clad in a paper dress that she had worn to a party. Anthony had a box of matches. He lit one and threw it at Rita. Her dress immediately blazed up over her head.

Rita died late yesterday in the hospital. Detectives said that Anthony's parents had been threatened with death if the girl should die. In terror they fled to the homes of relatives, leaving Anthony behind to be cared for by others.

The parents have been ordered to appear in court tomorrow.

Mrs. Severson was shot when she ran to her husband. Entering the house, Benson encountered Baker and shot him down. He entered his wife's bedroom and shot her as she jumped off the bed where she was sleeping with a younger sister Stella. The girl escaped through a window. Benson then went into the yard where he placed the muzzle of the gun under his chin and pulled the trigger.

SELECTING JURY FOR TRIAL OF 16 MURDER DEFENDANTS

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—There were only two vacant chairs in the jury box late today when Judge M. V. Barnhill announced a recess of the court trying 16 defendants on the charge of murdering Police Chief O. F. Aderholt of Gastonia.

Three jurors were added to the seven selected last week to make a total of ten now seated and attorneys and court attaches tonight were hopeful the jury taking could be completed tomorrow.

The death of the police chief came as the climax to several months of labor troubles at the Loray mills in Gastonia. He was shot as he and other officers entered the tent colony of the strikers of the sixteen on trial, the thirteen men are charged with first degree murder and the three women with second degree murder.

The three jurors selected today were: G. L. Benson, 26, railroad clerk at Newell; Conrad G. Torrence, 24, non-union textile worker of Davidson; and G. L. Shuford, 42, of Charlotte, car repairer.

Not one of us admits the possibility of a revision of her frontiers."

Epoka says M. Locquin emphasized in his speech the point this declaration was made in the name of all French parties of the French chamber, from the right to left.

THREE PERSONS HURT IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 2. — Three people were hurt and a driver was arrested for reckless driving in a holiday accident at the junction of Natchaug and Ash streets shortly before 2 o'clock this afternoon. The injured were E. L. Converse, 48, of 21 Ashley street, Hartford, his wife, of the same age and address, and Angelo Mucciarone of Franklin, Mass. Mr. Converse, a hatter by occupation, sustained a severe cut on the right wrist which severed nerves and arteries and temporarily paralyzed some of the fingers. Mrs. Converse suffered a severe laceration on the scalp, cut under the eye and laceration on the right leg. Both are overnight patients at St. Joseph's hospital where they received treatment by Dr. A. J. Girouard. Mucciarone received treatment at the scene of the accident by Dr. N. Spector for a scalp wound. Angelo P. Evangelista, of 84 Cross street, Franklin, Mass., was the man arrested.

The collision occurred at the street junction in front of the home of H. E. Cady. According to the police version of the accident, Evangelista swung his car, a Ford tudor, in a circle on the triangle that forms the junction, heading his machine in a westerly direction from whence he had come. Converse was coming into the city in an easterly direction and he turned his car sharply to the left but the right front part was struck by the front bumper of the Massachusetts machine. The front end of the coupe collapsed upon receiving the broadside blow. The two front wheels, radiator, hood, right front fender and windshield were demolished, the latter accounting for the injuries to Mr. and Mrs. Converse. Damage to the Evangelista car was confined to the radiator and bumper. Mucciarone, riding with Evangelista, was hurt when thrown against the frame of the car-body. Officer Arthur Hurley who investigated the accident, placed Evangelista under arrest on a charge of reckless driving. The accused furnished a bond of $100 for his appearance in police court September 7.

In driving away from the curb in front of Cohen and Rothblat's store on Main street early this afternoon, a sedan driven by Vincenzo Giordano of Windham road was struck a glancing blow by a light car operated by Rosario Giguere of 16 Victoria place, Chicopee Falls, Mass. Giguere notified Officer William Hurley that he would assume responsibility for his own damage, there being no damage to the local car.

The driver of a Rhode Island car was unwittingly the cause of a crash on Ives street about 8:15 o'clock Sunday night in which a woman was slightly injured and a machine driven by David Cogan, of 3 Perkins street, Peabody, Mass., was quite badly damaged. Cogan, operating a Chrysler sedan, was traveling east on Ives street, which is serving as a detour during the construction of a section of Main street. The Rhode Island machine cut in front of Cogan, causing him to take a sharp right, and land the machine against a tree, smashing the right front fender, bumper and windshield. Dr. Edith Cogan sustained a scalp wound and bruises on the left knee. She was taken into the home of Edmund Houle, 133 Ives street, and treated by Dr. C. A. Jenkins.

The Rhode Island machine continued on its way, the driver, whose name was not secured, apparently not being aware of the damage caused by his action. The accident was investigated by Acting Sergeant Roderick Lariviere and Officer Joseph LaChappelle.

Heavy Holiday Traffic

Motorists took advantage of the first Labor Day week-end without rain in five years and all records for motor traffic through Westerly were broken. Following the Saturday rush there was a lessening of traffic Sunday as compared with summer Sundays, but on Labor day the streams of shore-bound auto traffic combined with returning and leaving motor trip vacationists and the result was a seemingly unending procession.

William H. Jackson, of Kenyon, R. I., received a summons for a court appearance next Friday as the result of a Main street automobile collision Saturday near the Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church. He was driving an Overland Whippet when he collided with the rear of the Paige sedan driven by John Pickering, of East avenue. The Paige had a bent frame and the Overland had a broken right fender and splash pan and a bent frame, the bumper bent and axle pushed in. Officer Paul McCarthy investigated.

Four automobiles of a string of nine were passing a truck near the Dobridnia greenhouses Saturday when the sixth auto driven by Gustav M. Gunduson, 19 Calumet road, Holyoke, Mass., met a line of traffic coming in the opposite direction and stopped, as did the following cars, with the exception of the two-wheel brake Essex coach driven by Sidney E. Hoyt, of 40 Fenno street, Wollaston, Mass. This bumped into the car ahead and each one in turn was slammed into the auto ahead. The second auto in the string driven by Mary J. Splaine, of 311 Lincoln street, Worcester, Mass., was a Chrysler coach which had a bent tire rack and gas tank, front bumper broken off, frame and cross bar bent. The first or sixth car in line, a Daniels sedan owned by George B. Gundyson had a broken tire carrier on rear.

The third auto, a Nash coach of Francis T. McConey, 1001 President street, Brooklyn, had a bent tire rack and gas tank and ada maged radiator, headlight, fender and shock absorber broken. The fourth car, an Essex coach of Sidney E. Hoyt, 40 Fenno street, Wollaston, Mass., sustained a bent frame and damaged radiator, broken headlight and windshield.

Officer Charles E. Button investigated finding that all parties were covered by insurance and disposed to agree as to settlements.

A CHILD'S HEAD CUT WHEN CARS STOP SUDDENLY

Labor Day afternoon, Charles Richmond, of 56 Mechanic street, Pawcatuck, was proceeding along the Watch Hill road near the Westerly and Watch Hill Ice plant when cars ahead stopped suddenly and his car was so damaged that he had to have it towed to the Rhode Island garage.

Miss Dorothy P. Stillwell left Monday afternoon to return to her duties for the sixth year at the Washington Junior High School for Girls, Rochester, N. Y., as an accompanist, after the summer vacation spent with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Stillwell, White Rock.

The meeting of Westerly Town Council, held the first Monday in each month, will be held this (Tuesday) morning. The legal holiday, Labor day, was the reason for the postponement.

TRUCK DRIVERS EQUIPPING [illegible]RS WITH REFLECTORS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 2—Truck drivers—owners of all sorts of commercial vehicles registered in Connecticut—have a new chore to do. It concerns equipment of such machines with reflectors, in compliance with House Bill No. 985, passed at the last session of the legislature, and requiring that this be done by Sept. 1, 1929, which date has already arrived and gone.

Within the past two days the state police barracks here has been showered with telephone calls relative to the matter. Unofficially, it may be stated that Sec. 20 of the bill referred to provides that any commercial vehicle shall after Sept. 1, 1929, in addition to such rear-lights (tail-lights) be equipped with a reflector of such size, color and type as shall be approved by the commissioner of motor vehicles, so located in the rear of such vehicle as to reflect rays of light thrown upon the reflector. Sec. 1 of the same act provides that the commissioner may require any commercial motor vehicle more than six feet in width to carry such lights or reflectors as he shall direct for the purpose of showing the width of such commercial motor vehicle.

Specifications under Sec. 20 are understood to call for one reflector, to be either amber or red, in color to be mounted to the left of the center on the rear of the commercial motor vehicle at a distance not less than 24 inches nor more than 48 inches above the ground. These specifications require that the reflector shall clearly reflect light at all angles from 0° to 30° from a distance of not less than 200 feet. Under Sec. 21 all trucks over six feet in width must have two reflectors on the front and two in the rear, all four to be amber in color. They must be placed on the outside extremities of the truck and must not be more than six inches from the outside dimension. These reflectors are in addition to the one called for under section, seemingly indicating that these large trucks must be equipped with five reflectors in addition to the taillight. Such equipment is intended to reduce accidents.

MAKES COMPLAINT AGAINST ANOTHER BUT GOES TO JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 2 — Lawrence Sweiard, who has been living over in the Masentuck district of the town, took a ride over to the county jail in Brooklyn this morning with State Officer John Murphy, but did not come back to Danielson, nor will he for the next six months.

Sweiard made a bit of an error last night when he drove his car into the yard at the state police barracks on North Main street to make complaint about some person who had done him an alleged injustice. The officer who took his complaint listened patiently and then invited the visitor to remain. Later a charge of operating an automobile while he was intoxicated was entered against Sweiard, who was continuing to broadcast his grievances to the world at large, and he was locked at the police station for the night, being too noisy to be kept at the barracks, where officers must get some rest, and because in the police station he would disturb no one. This morning when he was presented before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court he was sentenced to serve six months in jail as a second offender under the driving while intoxicated regulation. Sweiard's first conviction for a similar breach of the law was in July, 1927, and in the local court he was fined.

Henry Fontaine, 41, a native of Canada, and for years resident in Moosup, is dead at the home of his brother-in-law, Arthur Bonin, in that place. He was unmarried. Mr. Fontaine was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fontaine. By trade he was a carpenter.

A forest fire that has been giving more or less trouble since Saturday in territory east of Half Hill, and in that territory generally, continued to smolder today and was under watchful observation. Approximately a square mile of territory was burned over during Saturday and Sunday. A force of men that fought it found it breaking out at new points after they had controlled it and spreading to new areas. A. E. Hall, of South Killingly, and Norman Ross, of Danielson, are among those who have holdings in the woodland area that was swept by the fire, the worst in this immediate section this year. Much of the territory in the fire zone was sprout land, with growths of six or seven years, but there is heavier growths on other parts of the land. One possibility, when the fire was at its worst, was that the buildings on the Hiscox place would be destroyed, but this did not come to pass. The origin of the fire is unknown, but may have been due, it is believed, to some careless act of a visitor to the point where the fire started. Lack of rain for upwards of two months has left the woods in a condition where dangerous fires may start unless great care is exercised in discarding matches, cigarettes or anything else with a bit of fire or flame about it.

The people of the South Killingly Congregational church and all of those who came to enjoy their annual Old Home day with them had a delightful time this Labor day on the grounds about the church. Those assembled came from far and near, for this Old Home day has become something of an institution. Weather was perfect, though more than ordinarily warm for a September day, and the fact helped swell the attendance.

A fine shore dinner was served by King George Jaques and his assistants from East Killingly and surrounding territory, and was partaken of by a large number. The hours preceding the dinner were given over to renewals of friendship and acquaintances and in very happy manner. Rev. Henry A. Coolidge, who is to be the new pastor at South Killingly, and Mrs. Coolidge were in attendance and were greeted by a large number of those attending. During the afternoon there was a formal program at which announcements were made covering the business of the church during the past year, and the plans and hopes for the coming year discussed. The Old Home day was a success from every viewpoint.

Mrs. Walter L. Hoyle of Academy street returned to her home here today after spending a vacation with relatives in Worcester.

Miss Carrie Oates has been at Pleasant View spending a week with Mrs. Herbert H. Pepler.

One hundred cars passing a given point in the business section in two minutes and five seconds was a fact checked by an observer today, and indicates the density of motor traffic for Labor day in this territory.

Rev. Augustin Chapignac, M. S., member of the faculty of LaSalette college at Hartford and formerly an assistant at St. James' church, has been spending a few days in Danielson.

A few from Danielson were at Norwich Sunday for the 11th annual reunion of the 56th Coast artillery regiment that served overseas during the World war and in which the local company of the National guard at that time was incorporated.

Eastern Windham County granges that usually exhibit at Brooklyn fair will again be represented at this month's exhibition. These displays for several years past have been among the very best at the fair, and are thoroughly representative of home, farm, dairy and domestic arts.

There is no indication—and no hint from official circles—that much will be done about Danielson's sidewalk building program this season, though the borough, by vote of its citizens, has authorized its undertaking, and arrangements for financing the work were made weeks ago.

Miss Blanche Gauthier of Broad street is having her vacation, and will spend some of it at Groton Long Point, where the Gauthier family has a summer home.

A. B. Webb, 83 year old resident of the Allen Hill district of the town of Brooklyn, has made the interesting record of having personally cut 60 tons of hay this season. Mr. Webb is a former selectman of the town of Brooklyn and also a former representative in the legislature from that town.

Jeremiah Hopkins, who lives at the Soldiers' home in Bristol, R. I., and who lived here on the West Side for years, has been visiting in this territory. Mr. Hopkins, a veteran of the Civil war, will be 90 years of age next spring.

Mrs. Kimball Hargraves of Brooklyn, who has been a patient at a Norwich hospital for a long time, was reported very dangerously ill today.

Richard Tillinghast, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett T. Tillinghast of North Main street, is to resume his studies at a preparatory school in Suffield later in the month.

Early this afternoon the temperature touched 90 degrees, the heat comparing with the hottest days of the mid-summer season.

Albert Derosier of New Bedford, desident of Danielson for many years, was a visitor with relatives here today.

Rev. and Mrs. Chester J. Armstrong have been spending part of their vacation at Rockport at North Billerica, Mass.

Charles Creighton, of Dayville, has gone to Bermuda to visit with his father, manager of one of the large hotels there.

George W. Lyon remains seriously ill at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam. His condition has necessitated two surgical operations.

NEW HAMPSHIRE MEN STEAL TADPOLE LILY PADS

Local people who have known the beautiful lily blossom time at Tadpole pond for many years, are watching the steady encroachment of the persistent button bush, which, with each returning summer claims a little more of the bloom area. Saturday there appeared another menace, which has not showed up for more than twenty-five years. Three men, with a boat, grappling rakes and a hatchet, fixed two sugar barrels with the great main roots as large in circumference as a stove pipe. These they hooked up from the muddy bottom and chopped off across the gunwale. The car was said to have borne New Hampshire numbers.

Back 40 years ago a gang with a foreman came here from a park on Long Island. During three days' work the gang partly filled one of the old Norwich and Worcester freight cars. The late S. E. Phinney, then the station agent, billed the shipment as 22 barrels, selected stock.

A Wilting Day

Labor day was a sizzler in this section, with the mercury hanging at 88 and 91 for five straight hours.

Reservoir Measurement

The water at the Jewett City reservoir was 43 inches low Sept. 1st. In the Quinebaug this afternoon there wer the merest trickle along the rocky bed. The Ashland and Fisk mills were not letting a drop go by with the big Aspinook dam bone dry. No water was entering the upper Quinebaug, evidence that the river mills up the line were holding everything. Labor day fishermen at Pachaug pond were walking along the channel banks, casting in the muddy water with the normally flowed area all about, hundreds of acres, appearing like mowing fields.

Calendar observers have noted that September, a 30-day month, has five Sundays, while August and October, both 31 day months only show 4 Sundays. Also that there are but 25 days more on the daylight saving schedule. The time goes back to "standard" Sept. 29th, at 2 a. m.

PUTNAM

N. A. WILLIAMS AND MISS GOSLIN ARE MARRIED AT ST. MARY'S

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 2—An early September wedding took place this morning at nine o'clock in St. Mary's church when Miss Lillian Goslin, ward of Mr. and Mrs. William Jollie of Mill street, was married to Napoleon Arthur Williams, son of Mrs. Daniel E. Williams of Church street. The nuptial high mass was celebrated by Rev. Ernest J. Boileau, curate at St. Mary's and the ceremony was solemnized by Rev. U. O. Bellerose pastor.

Just before the bridal party entered the church the choir, with a violin accompaniment played by Ulysses LaBossiere, sang "O Promise Me." The bride was attended by Miss Juliet Brodeur as bridesmaid. The bride's gown of bridal satin was a bouffant model with dipping hemline in back. Her veil of tulle was fashioned in bonnet effect and was fastened with a wreath of valley lillies. She carried an arm bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was becoming in a frock of peach colored taffeta, with hat and shoes to match. She carried an arm bouquet of tea roses and bride roses. Urbin Peloquin was best man.

A reception was held in the auditorium in the Eagles building on Providence street, after which, Mr. and Mrs. Williams left for a wedding trip to New York and Washington. For traveling Mrs. Williams wore a charming frock of transparent velvet, a tan coat and a tan hat and shoes and stockings to match.

Mrs. Williams is well known in the city's younger set. For the past few years she has been a member of the clerking force in the Bugbee company department store. Mr. Williams, like his bride, is widely known in Putnam. He attended Putnam high school, was prominent in athletics and for the past three years has been an inspector in the service department of the New Haven railroad.

The fire department was called out at 9:10 p. m. Sunday evening to extinguish a blaze in a lot on Church street in the rear of the Bloom Silk company. The property was unshielded by buildings and a light breeze fanned the flames and made the fire a most stubborn one for the firemen to cope with. Chemicals from the hook and ladder and Eagle hose apparatus and water from the booster tank on the pumper was used. No property loss was reported by the fire officials. The firemen returned to quarters at 10:30 o'clock.

Department officers and Commander Conners of the county council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars paid an official visit at the post rooms of the Albert J. Breault post of V. F. W. Thursday evening. Following the conference of the New London department officials the local ex-soldiers served their guests with a buffet lunch.

Clark of New Haven, driver of a car that struck the youth was acquitted of charges placed against him by state police after an investigation of the accident in a session of town court in Grosvernordale last Tuesday. Babbitt is suffering from a fracture of the skull and other injuries.

OVERDOING LENIENCY

Massachusetts allows boys and girls 16 years of age to drive automobiles, but it has been experiencing so many accidents from that source that it has been decided time to try something that will prevent it.

It has had numerous cases of unlicensed 16 year old drivers and it has likewise been bothered by persons taking cars of other people for joy rides without obtaining permission. As the result of these conditions the registrar of motor vehicles has let it be known that unlicensed youths caught driving machines will not be able to get a license until 18 or possibly 21, while the threat of blacklisting is held out for the type who runs off with machines, in addition to other punishment which may be deemed necessary by the courts.

With these offenses increasing the question arises as to whether too much leniency is already being shown in the treatment of such cases. There has been a growing disposition to cover up such offenses and to give so many chances to youthful offenders that they appear to be taking full advantage of it by disregarding all efforts to restrain them. This doesn't apply to the illegal use of automobiles, but is to be found in many cases where children cause damage to private property, raid gardens and orchards, insult those who try to restrain them and engage in various acts wthere they give the impression that even the police are not able to stop or deal with them. And when it comes to getting police protection against their conduct the answer is frequently given that the hands of the police are tied by the laws which throw protection around the children and they are powerless to act. This is perfectly well understood by many children and the parents who should exercise responsibility are not responding to their duty.

Making excuses, giving chances to and extending blind leniency to youths who know they are doing wrong, and yet persisting in it because they are certain they'll get no more than a slap on the wrist, may be in the interest of better citizenship but it might be difficult to prove. The mistake of overdoing it cannot be ignored.

OCEAN SAFETY ISLES

Some years ago there was very much doubt about the possibilities of a flying machine. There were some fascinating stories in regard to what could be accomplished with one and it was also possible to draw some interesting pen pictures of the armored automobile and the underwater boat.

If they were dreams in the days when they were conceived such is no longer the case. They are now stern realities and those who indulged in the fiction of the past were simply ahead of their times. Their dreams have come true. Aviation is progressing by leaps and bounds, submarine construction has been carried to surprising limits both as to the construction of the vessels and their cruising radius while the armored auto is not only one of the war machines in the form of "tanks" but the armored car is frequently seen in large cities for the handling of payrolls and valuables.

There was quite as much skepticism regarding these inventions as there is now concerning the seadromes which it is hoped to construct in the ocean as landing places for transoceanic flying machines. Edward R. Armstrong is responsible for the idea. He has been making some extensive tests to determine the feasibility of his project and construction of the first big landing deck is underway. It has never been undertaken before. It is a departure in such construction and while it may seem fantastic it is entitled to its chance and there is the possibility that it will be quite as much of a success as other radical ideas.

By this scheme a landing deck 400x1200 feet, 70 feet above the sea level with a displacement of 15,000 tons will be anchored in the ocean, with 85 per cent of the displacement below the line of maximum wave disturbance so that the structure would not suffer from waves or storms. It would act as a filling station, a haven in case of trouble, and a series of them across the ocean would provide isles of safety for those crossing the ocean in the air.

By next summer an actual test of the real thing is expected and it will have to be judged by the actual results and not solely by general doubt.

ARBITRATION WINS

Sober second thought appears to have prevailed on the part of China and Russia relative to their dispute over the Chinese Eastern Railway in Manchuria. Those countries have maintained from the start that they did not desire war and wished to carry out their duties under the Kellogg peace treaty, but there were developments, actual or misrepresented, which indicated otherwise.

With the conclusion of an agreement whereby the matter will be submitted to arbitration the proper method of adjusting the differences is to be adopted. It is a case where a trial of the peaceful settlement is to be made.

Inasmuch as the two countries have come to an understanding it is apparent that they have appreciated the advice offered by other leading countries and, if the truth were known, they may also have appreciated the fact that they were not in condition to wage war and were unwilling to accept the responsibility of insisting on war.

From the statement of the agreement it would appear that both had made concessions. China couldn't afford war and its conditions are not such as to warrant risking the dangers internally in case one should be started. It has virtually met the demands of Russia that the previous condition of the railway be restored by agreeing that there shall be a Russian manager while the Chinese are to name the chairman of the board. Russia is pledged against communistic propaganda in Chinese territory and China is to prevent white Russians establishing a base in Manchuria, Germany is to act as mediator and as the world receives the news of the understanding there are renewed hopes that the prevention of an actual clash between the two nations has been accomplished.

Was it the result of the Kellogg peace treaty? Unless and until there is a better reason given for the preventive work it should be entitled to the credit. Certainly the countries were reminded of their responsibilities under it and following such pressure as has been brought upon them by the other countries the agreement has been reached. It is the sensible way and a successful outcome is hoped for.

HUMANITY IN DANGER

It would be intesting to know how many buildings are properly equipped to give protection to those therein in case of fire.

Frequent are the instances where it is disclosed that structures where many people are being entertained, where many families live or where there are many employed are not properly safeguarded against fire and have not been provided with means of escape should a fire break out.

Too often are such conditions encountered as those which were revealed at Winnepeg, Man., where eight persons lost their lives in a five-story apartment house fire. The cause of the blaze is not revealed but the construction was such that the stairway offered a chimney for the flames and smoke to such an extent that escape through that avenue was shut off and no other means appeared to be available. Even those who managed to get to the roof were helpless with no means of getting down.

Such cases place due emphasis upon the need of fire prevention through such construction as will safeguard against fire, the need of adequate fire escapes that humanity may have more than one means of exit and the prevention of fires through the use of a little care. Without a doubt those eight lives could easily have been saved had some slight precaution been observed. If it hadn't prevented the fire the erection of fire escapes at another part of the building from the entrance and stairway would have furnished an avenue of escape for those trapped on the upper stories and who had died before firemen could reach them.

How many other fires like that at Winnipeg are possible through just a little carelessness?

PUSHING THROUGH FOG

Close upon the collision of a passenger carrying vessel with a tanker in the Pacific, resulting in a large loss of life, comes the news of a freighter piling up on the southern shore of Newfoundland and being abandoned. In both instances navigation was in dense fog and either because of lack of proper precautions as to signals or surety as to location life and property were sacrificed.

That vessels which are blowing fog horns can come together was not so long ago demonstrated when a government vessel collided with a coastwise passenger ship plying between Boston and Nova Scotia. Running through fog and being certain that another ship is not in front is one of the chances which navigators take in sticking to schedules. It has been the cause of many marine accidents and many are the instances where wrecks have followed when the presence of shoals and reefs were not suspected.

In these days it is possible for the careful navigator to learn whether he is in deep water and for those equipped with wireless to know whether other ships, similarly cuipped, are in the vicinity. Furthermore, it is possible to get radio bearings for guidance, so that it is not without protective measures aside from the blowing of whistles and the ringing of bells that navigation proceeds through fog blankets.

Fog has always been a serious handicap to navigation. It is as unwelcome as the heavy snowstorms, and despite the measures that are provided for the protection of those who operate ships many costly and distressing accidents are caused by it. Navigating through fog calls for the exercise of every means for safety and even then there will be no assurance that the unexpected will not happen.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.— Senator Bingham's flying trip to Cleveland for the air session was the most conspicuous feature of the Connecticut delegation this week. While congress is in recess the members are scattered far and wide, except Mr. Bingham who has been on duty all summer as a member of the finance committee.

As president of the Aeronautical association, he was an important member of the groupo that greeted the Graf Zeppelin at Cleveland. The senator has been closely following the development of experiments in the navy in matter of detail of tests relative to dirigibles and planes.

The senator has the principal place on the Cleveland program, delivering his annual report of the national organization.

When tariff debate begins Mr. Bingham will be in the foreground of debate for, as an administration member of the finance committee, a powerful and eloquent speaker, with well founded arguments at the tip of his tongue, the Connecticut senator will be one of the "big four" assigned to protect the tariff revision from the republican standpoint.

Over in the house it will be Col. Tilson, floor leader, who will bear the brunt of attacks against the president's insistence that a tariff bill be passed at this session, so Connecticut will be in the limelight from the rising of the curtain on the first act of the reconvening of congress after practically four months recess.

One of the interesting features of Washington newspaper life is coming into close touch with political and social leaders of the various political parties and factions. That applies to both men and women. I have in mind the decided contrast between the wives of the three most prominent and of the highest rank in the national house. They are the wives of the speaker, the republican and the democratic floor leaders. The speaker outranks the others, so let us see first what are the chief characteristics of Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, wife of the speaker.

Mrs. Longworth has inherited many of the most marked traits of her distinguished father, the late President Roosevelt. She is the leader of that branch of Washington official society that spells itself with a very large, round and very black capital "S." She is a generous and lavish hostess to her friends, yet she is a law unto herself, to a degree that marks her as the only woman ever filling the high position of wife of the speaker of the house, who failed to conform to the century old custom of "receiving" on a certain day each week, when all who wished might drop in and pay their respects. Mrs. Longworth receives only when and whom she pleases. She "favors" her father in the way of living her own life in her own way. She is delightfully cordial to those she likes, and doesn't take the trouble to mix with those to whom she is indifferent or finds little in common. Yet everyone worth while from a political viewpoint, longs to be included in those delightful suppers and dinners that Mrs. Longworth gives in the handsome residence that is the Longworth's Washington home. There she maintains what can be well called a "salon" without stretching the term beyond its narrow limits. Folk high-up in political circles like to drop in and talk things over with the witty, wise, and brilliant lady who knows the game of politics from A to Z. Mrs. Longworth is keen of wit, but warm of heart. She will go far out of her way to do a sympathetic or kindly act, even if she doesn't resist making a clever pun at the expense of a friend.

Mrs. John Q. Tilson, wife of the republican floor leader, is next in official rank, as the leader of the majority party out ranks the leader of the minority. Mrs. Tilson is charming, cordial, yet never effusive. She is devoted to her distinguished husband and to the three Tilson children, yet finds time to drive her own car, run her own motor boat up at the camp at Lake Sunapee, is fond of travel, and has made many trips abroad and to southern waters. She is fond of flying, even making air trips on a balloon, where the landing place is at the mercy of the wind. Yet you couldn't call Mrs. Tilson a "sport" by stretching your imagination to the limit. She does all those things, and enters freely into social life, but perhaps likes better than all else the big Colonial Tilson home in New Haven.

Mrs. Garner, wife of the democratic floor leader, is still another distinct type. She is a real home body, by preference and in her daily life. She takes great interest however, in the splendid work done by her husband, and rejoices in the affectionate regard by which he is held even by his political opponents. She "helps out" in the leader's office now and then in rush times. Like her distinguished husband, Mrs. Garner is a real Texan, heart and soul. She cares but little for the social side of Washington life, but enters into it on occasions where she believes it to be her duty.

It is no new thing for visitors or delegations seeking an interview with a president of the United States to be required to state the purpose of their visit. That has been the universal custom for many years, but the pinch comes when visitors state they are merely calling to "pay respects to the president," and then after admittance, attempt to press to the presidential notice some controversial matter, and on so doing make their visit savor of propaganda. All presidents have given such attempts the cold shoulder, but more strenuous efforts are being advocated to prevent the abuse of presidential courtesy. No person is admitted to the presence of any president without producing proper credentials; no delegation is ever received without its purpose having been previously announced. But often there has been abuse of the privilege accorded, some time by preconcerted plans and sometimes by ignorance of what is improper in such interviews.

As I recall it, from memory, one of the most notable instances of the latter reason for abusing the privilege came when the Passion Players called to pay respects to President Coolidge, soon after he came into office. He greeted Anton Lang, and the other players very cordially, then, as I recall it, someone stepped forward, from the little groupe of players, and delivered a brief plea for recognition of some matter, then the subject of international controversy—I do not recall the details, but remember vividly the face of the president slowly settling from a cordial smile into grim disapproval, as he tersely reminded the speaker that such propaganda could not be present at that time. The reception came to a rather sudden and silent end.

Representative Edith N. Rogers, is trying to get the government to show the world how to keep cotton cloth garments from wrinkling. Mrs. Rogers feels sure that except the cloth is so easily "mussed" it would be in heavy demand for dresses. If that objection can be eliminated, Mrs. Rogers feels it would be a big stride towards booming the New England textile trade

THE ADROIT MR. BIVINS

"My dear," announced Dot enthusiastically, "the club has secured Mr. Templeton Bivins to address the quarterly guest meeting." Bob blew smoke rings toward the ceiling and regarded Dot playfully.

"Who is Templeton Bivins?" he inquired. Dot's indignation was instantly aroused.

"Why, Bob Perkins, Templeton Bivins is Templeton Bivins. That's who he is."

The hall was packed. Dot took a plait in her expectations. What if this Bivins fellow should not say much after all? Bob hated being dragged about at night. She drew a breath of relief, however, when the gentleman in question opened his address by touching deftly on the subject of "Foreign Affairs."

Here was a topic on which Bob doted. So often of late when she had asked him important questions like: "What sore of bargains were there in the paper?" or "Whose picture was on the society page?" he had replied that he hadn't noticed—he'd been reading up on "Foreign Affairs."

"Maybe," thought Dot, "other men are afflicted with this same malady, and Mr. Bivins knows it. I shouldn't be surprised if he were opening his lecture this way in order to snare the masculine attention."

A little later, when he brought his talk around to home life and the modern couple, a wee voice within Dot cried, "I knew it: I knew it," and she sat enraptured with what followed. Mr. Bivins dwelt at length on the conflicts that wage beneath the smooth surfaces of appearances and the petty injuries and injustices that married people heap on one another's heads.

Dot felt that here was a man who was indeed a friend to womankind. He stressed the great importance of starting the day right and spoke of careless habits so prevalent at breakfast tables. At this she cheered silently. Such shortcomings had been growing on Bob of late. Often he appeared at breakfast looking undeniably sloppy.

The ritual of shaving and donning a clean collar he reserved until the meal was finished, as though it did not matter to him how he appeared before his wife. She resented this insinuation, considering hardly less than an insult that he should be more particular for strangers than for herself.

In fact, she had hinted broadly at the matter many times, but Bob seemed entirely oblivious. And now here was Mr. Bivins gallantly championing the very workings of her mind. She stole a sly glance at Bob. He appeared to be impressed. A man would listen to a man when he would pay no attention to a woman.

"That guy knew his stuff." Bob remarked on the way home.

"Didn't he?" fluttered Dot. "He seemed to be keenly aware of little things that are likely to go unnoticed, but that really amount to so much. I was particularly impressed by what he said about starting the day right and the stress he laid on breakfast table etiquette."

"Did you get that, too?" questioned Bob eagerly. "I just wondered if you would."

To have Bob confess his shortcomings was beyond Dot's most rambling dreams. Her heart sang jubilantly. From now on he would come to the table shaved, he would wear a clean collar, and he would walk in shoes, not shuffle in house slippers. But now what was he saying?

"You know, I've often felt as Bivins does, only I hate to say anything kinda thought you might get sore. Women are so touchy. But, then, it doesn't look as though it would be a whole lot of trouble for a woman to slick up her hair, and powder her nose, and leave her apron off when she gets breakfast.

"Any fellow appreciates seeing his wife look pretty. Yes, I liked Bivins. He kinda seemed to have got hold of something. Straight shooter he was, anyway.

"'Smatter, Twinkles? Are you asleep?" And when Dot did not reply Bob slipped his free arm protectingly about her drooping shoulders.—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

Eat and Live Abundantly

(By Miss Amaila Lantz, University of Chicago, Ill.)

Vitality, poise, energy, steady nerves, a good disposition, endurance, pep are a boon not only to the individual, but to all the people with whom the individual comes in contact. These qualities, typical of health, are necessary, as never before, in the rapid pace of modern American life. Is it any wonder that health, as a basis for abundant living, is increasingly stressed?

Our bodies are flexible, intricate, highly geared machines, capable of an amazing output of energy in work and play. It is obvious that any machine must be built of the best materials and receive sufficient energy in the form of electricity, oil, gas, coal, or other suitable fuel to do efficient work.

While there are many factors which contribute to human health, such as sleep, air, exercise, work, mental attitude, inheritance, and so on, there is one fundamental thing which builds our bodies and supplies us with the energy to run them. That fundamental thing is food.

To know what to eat in order to build a strong body, we must first be sure of what the body is made. Our muscles are made of protein, water, fat and minerals. The rigidity of bones and teeth is due to calcium and phosphorus. Blood is largely made of water, together with protein, fat sugar, and minerals, of which iron is exceedingly important, for it is essential to the carrying of the oxygen we breathe from our lungs to all our body cells. Minerals in general throughout the body regulate various functions, as do also the vitamins, necessary also for proper growth and for disease prevention.

In addition to the actual materials composing our bodies, we must take in our food sufficient of the right kind of fuel to provide the energy for our ceaseless bodily activities. For this purpose, we include in our diets carbohydrates and fats which together with protein in burning produce the energy we need. This energy we measure in calories.

A third point of importance to consider in planning the diet is the regulation of the digestive tract. To insure normal gastro-intestinal functioning, we plan to eat our meals at regular intervals, eat sweet foods at the end, instead of before or between meals and make a point of including enough bulk in our diets to produce regular bowel movements.

Thanks to the nutrition authorities, a simple plan to insure the inclusion of all the necessary food constituents, protein, minerals, vitamins, fats, and carbohydrates, has been worked out. The diet should have in it each day:

A quart of milk for all children and young women, and preferably all adults.

2. At least one serving of a leafy salad, such as lettuce or raw cabbage.
3. At least one vegetable in addition to potato.
4. At least two fruits, of which one should be a citrus fruit or its juice, for which tomatoes may be substituted.
5. A serving of meat or fish, preferably sea fish if this can be secured.
6. An egg, egg yolk, or serving of liver or other organ.
7. At least one serving of coarse bread or coarse cereal.
8. Starchy foods, as potatoes, breads, and cereals, and also fats and oils, and last of all sugars and sweets; to keep the body neither thin nor fat.
9. At least 6 glasses or cups of fluids.

It is, indeed, worth while to check over our daily food according to this simple plan, for while all foods except sugar and pure starches, fats, and oils are composed of several food constituents, each food on the list makes a special contribution to the dietary. So milk insures sufficiently large amounts of calcium and phosphorus, eggs and meat raise the iron content, and sea food is rich in iodine, while all these animal foods are high in protein value. Salads, citrus fruits, and tomatoes are especially rich in vitamin C, while milk, vegetables, and fruits in general, as well as coarse cereals, are high in both mineral and vitamin content. Further, the fruits, vegetables, and coarse cereals supply the bulk necessary to insure proper intestinal action. Starchy foods, together with fats and oils, are added to the diet to furnish adequate calories. The sweets are used to satiate appetite and finish off a meal when all the other more important foods have been included. Fluids supply the water needed for body construction and regulation.

It has been proved by experience that an adequate, well-balanced, regular diet containing what the body requires in building material and fuel will promote health, and so efficiency, happiness, and general well-being. Only with good health can we endure and meet effectively the many demands that come to us day by day. Let us invest in the nutritional aspects of our daily food at once! The investment will pay large dividends of abundant life and vitality.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The Bystander often has thought it would be interesting to discuss with the Hon. Joseph Patrick Tumulty, now of Washington's large and flourishing lawyer fraternity, but once—and for eight eventful years—right hand man of President Wilson at the white house, various aspects of the Hoover secretariat.

Three hand picked men now divide the functions once exercised by the Hon. Joe. Yet there was a time when he seemed to fill out that now subdivided job so completely that a definite movement to name him by law not secretary, but assistant to the president, provoked uproar in congress.

Ideas of Washington reporters and commentators as to which of the present trio of white house secretaries, George Akerson, Writer Newton and Lawrence Richey, is the uncrowned boss of the secretariat seem to differ.

It depends, apparently, on which man each news writer finds himself best able to deal with. Some say Akerson, with his long newspaper career and important share in the Hoover presidential boom, is it; others think Newton rates the premiership because of his political background.

Sink Or Swim

Back in his commerce department days Mr. Hoover had a fashion of putting several chaps to work on more or less the same job and then letting nature take its course.

That system produced good results then. Possibly it has something to do with the white house secretariat, although the functions of each of the trio are supposed to be quite distinct.

The two Minnesota products, Akerson and Newton, cover between them all of the contact points of the white house, Akerson for the press and public, Newton for congress and non-cabinet executive branches of government business.

And quite clearly Newton has made a sacrifice to aid "the chief," for his house career, with six consecutive elections, had been one of promise. Newton's majorities have been fluctuating, running as low as under 6,000 and as high as 32,000 up to the last election, when he rolled up more than 49,000.

And on the heels of that smashing victory, Hoover drafted him for secretariat service. He is supposed to have fought desperately to retain personal freedom and carry forward his own political career. Who knows what dreams of senate service or even greater aspirations he might have had?

Dominated

It always has been clear that folks who come under Hoover influence for any length of time have difficulty in avoiding his effort to put them in the place where he thinks they will do the most good.

There are several instances of that in the Hoover cabinet. Newton's surrender of independence as a member of the house to go into the semi-obscurity of the white house secretariat is another.

He risks being forgotten by the district where he had spent a dozen years working up trust and confidence as a Washington legislator. Had he stepped up to a cabinet office or to any other that had good personal publicity sidelights, it might have made no difference to his political future.

But in any white house set up there is not much room for anybody but the president to walk in the front page limelight.

In the case of President Hoover it seems as though it would be especially hard for any of his secretaries to become figures in the news by name as was Mr. Tumulty in his day.

Mr. Hoover is his own mouthpiece, speaking for direct quotation on many things.

Little Talks on Thrift

Constructive Thrift Means More Than Saving of Pennies

"That fellow knows how to get along. The pennies do not escape him."

Such a statement as this is not infrequently heard; it reflects the conception of thrift as held by many.

Thrift, however, means more than just saving pennies. Attempting to limit thrift to the saving of money is merely an effort to accept a half-truth.

Altogether too much encouragement has been given to the false doctrine that the thrifty man is a penny saver. As an effect of this false viewpoint, harmful resistence to thrift has been created.

It is true that saving pennies is one of the rudiments of thrift. But it is just as thrifty to save moments; to save one's health; to save one's energy.

Thrift is efficiency. Thrift is eliminating waste. Thrift is spending wisely as well as saving systematically.

Many a successful career and many a great enterprise were founded on penny saving. But to say that thrift consists of saving pennies is as far from the whole truth as to say that the alphabet is literature or that those who know the multiplication table have mastered mathematics.

Let us have more penny savers, both literal and figurative. Let us all learn more and more the value of little things. Let us do all we can to encourage the thought that a penny saved means a great deal more than a penny earned. But let us not foster miserliness or encourage the belief, already too prevalent, that there is nothing to thrift but the hoarding of pennies.

Save the pennies, but do not stop there. Money is the symbol of wealth, but it is not the symbol of human progress. The value of thrift as an essential element of individual development cannot rightly be measured from the standpoint of saving pennies. —By S. W. Straus, president of the American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

Not a Thoroughbred

Harry was proudly displaying a tiny Boston brindle puppy to some neighbors. "How much would you take for him?" inquired one of the interested spectators.

"Oh, $15 or $10," said Harry.

"Why my goodness!" said the inquirer, "he isn't a thoroughbred is he?"

"Oh, no," said Harry, "He's a Boston brindle."

The Dog Again

Martin, age three, is the proud possessor of a six months old dog. The pup is quite mischievous and so is Martin.

The other day the mother found her freshly iced cake in a deplorable condition. Martin was hurrying out the door when mother halted him with: "Sonny, have you been in this cake?"

He looked up innocently and sweetly said: "Mother, it's that dog again."

Miami, Fla., likes tourists—even touring birds. Four bird baths and drinking fountains for the benefit principally of migratory fowl, have been presented to the city.

Restless Children

Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

WILLIAMS WINS FREE-FOR-ALL IN GARDNER LAKE MOTORBOAT RACES

Outboard motorboat races, held at Gardner lake under the auspices of the Gardner Lake Yacht Club, Inc., provided a thrilling afternoon of sport Monday as the boats skimmed over the triangular course of a mile and a half, with the starting and finishing points off Whittle's beach. Water conditions were ideal and a big throng of spectators was gathered on the shore by the time the races were to start at 2:30, but it was an hour later before the gun was fired for the first race, due to waiting for late comers to arrive.

Julian L. Williams of this city, in a boat he had built himself, and Dave Paragoni of Westerly, were the two outstanding performers of the day. Williams started by winning the Class B race in which his boat was much too fast for his opponents. In the Class C race Williams, with a Class B motor, met Paragoni and had to admit defeat by the Westerly man's boat, but the same two contestants met again in the free-for-all, with Williams having a more powerful engine in his boat, and this time he beat the Westerly man by nearly two minutes in a 15-mile race.

E. J. Russell of Westerly, took second place in the Class B race, but was forced out of the others by engine trouble.

Milton Green, of this city, was another who was forced out by engine trouble.

Louis Hawkins provided the thrill of the afternoon when his boat threw him out into the water as he turned short to starboard and the boat kept running around in circles while Hawkins swam after it until he was picked up by the patrol boat which came out to rescue him. The patrol boat than maneuvered close to the spinning motorboat till Hawkins got a chance to make a flying leap into the boat where he grabbed the tiller and headed for the starting line.

A. W. Benson, of Hartford, who was driving the Cutie Flying boat, got a surprise in the third lap of the Class B event when he rounded the first turn and his motor became loosened and flew out of the boat, sinking to the bottom of the lake. It is expected it can be located and pulled up with grappling irons.

State police had charge of the automobile parking in the grove and the course on the lake was patrolled by George Chase and Harold Billings. Life guards on duty were William Steuber, Walter Wiedman and DeWitt Parsons.

Clam chowder was served to the drivers by the club.

Prizes were awarded as follows: $25 in gold for 1st, $15 for 2nd, and $10 for third in Class B, C and free-for-all, making $150 in gold.

SUICIDES FEWER IN SIX MONTHS IN STATE

There were 102 suicides in Connecticut for the first six months of the year as compared with 125 for the same period in 1928, a decrease of 22, according to the records of the state department of health. In a comparison of the mortality for a selected list of the causes of death the department reports a total of 6,575 deaths in 1929 as compared with 6,059 in 1928, an increase of 516 for the first six months of the year.

Two of the principal causes for the increased mortality list were influenza and heart disease. The department records reveal that from Jan. 1 to June 30, inclusive, there were 546 deaths in Connecticut attributable to influenza as compared with 264 in 1928, an increase of 282, but the greater number of deaths from all causes considered was due to diseases of the heart, which claimed 1,666 victims as compared with 1,383 in the first six months of last year, a gain of 283. The pronounced increase in these two causes totalling 565 for the six months' period was greater than the total increase for the 22 causes of death from which the record is made.

Typhoid fever claimed five victims in the first six months of the year, one less than last year. Measles claimed 45 victims, the same as in 1928, and ten died of scarlet fever, ten less than in 1928. Whooping cough claimed 26 victims as compared with 65 in 1928, a decrease of 39. Diphtheria was responsible for 30 deaths in the first six months of the year, showing a decrease of 18 for the period. There were but two cases of poliomyelitis resulting in fatalities, two less than during the first six months of 1928.

Epidemic encephalitis claimed 12 victims during the six months, the same number as in 1928. There were 11 deaths from cerebrospinal meningitis, three more than in 1928, when eight deaths from this disease were reported. There were 38 less deaths from pulmonary tuberculosis this year than last, the figures comparatively being 487 and 525, and tuberculosis in other forms also showed a decrease, there being but 59 during the first six months of 1929 as compared with 73 last year, a difference of 14, the decrease of 52 in both departments being very encouraging for those who are waging a fight against tuberculosis in the state.

Deaths from cancer showed an increase this year, the total for the six months being 887 as compared with 849 in 1928, a gain of 38. There were 121 deaths due to diabetes mellitus as compared with 164 in 1928, a decrease of 23. Broncho-pneumonia claimed 550 during the half year, 19 more than in 1928, when the figures were 531, but there were 12 less deaths from lobar pneumonia this year than last, the comparative figures being 604 and 616. Under the category of pneumonia undefined there were 27 this year and 23 last year. The records show an increase of 23 deaths from diarrhea and enteritis, (under two), for the six months of the year, the figures being 69 as compared with 46. Nephritis claimed 661 victims as compared with 620, an increase of 41. There were 17 less deaths this year from puerperal diseases, the figures being 74 as compared with 91 and completing the list. There was a gain of 19 deaths resulting from accidental causes, the total of 560 from January to July of this year being compared to 541 for that period in 1928.

ARRANGE FOR DEDICATION OF NEW GROTON SCHOOL

Plans are well under way for the dedication of the new Robert E. Fitch high school at Poquonoc Bridge which will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the school auditorium.

The high school building will be closed to visitors on Wednesday, to enable the janitor and contractors to clean up in preparation for the dedication the day following. The building will be open for inspection until that time, and after that date, in particular, it will be open all day Friday until 9:30.

Dr. Louis M. Allyn, chairman of the school committee, will preside at the dedicatory exercises. Other speakers will be Lieut. Gov. Ernest E. Rogers, representing the state: Geo. S. Sturgess, representing the board of education, and Homer K. Underwood, who will bring greetings from the neighboring high schools.

Arrangements for the presentation of gifts have been made by several organizations. It is expected that the American Legion posts of Groton, Mystic and Noank will assist in the ceremony of raising the flag, which will come at the conclusion of the dedicatory exercises.

BATTLE AGAINST MOSQUITOES IS REDUCING PEST

Connecticut shore folk suffer less this year from mosquitoes, as a result of extensive mosquito elimination, much of which they undertook only last summer. It was a rainy season and mosquitoes were so aggravating that nine towns raised $32,000 for control work, which was placed in the hands of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station.

Most of the salt water marshes on Long Island sound, from New York to Rhode Island, have been ditched to break up the mosquito breeding places, at the direction of the station or the towns themselves.

Salt water marshes encourage a particularly nefarious mosquito. It bites both day and night, rather than night only, as the fresh water mosquito does. It flies farther and reproduces in millions. The pest is controlled simply by draining off the shallow water where it breeds. Not only do the ditches drain marshland, they allow fish to swim in with the tide and feed on larvae.

Men trained to the task dig ditches 10 inches wide and 24 inches deep through the marshland. The job costs approximately $12 an acre and it will remain effective for many years, if the ditches are cleaned every year.

Twelve men are working this summer at the direction of R. C. Botsford, station deputy, to maintain salt water ditches of the 12 towns for which the state of Connecticut has assumed responsibility, as provided by statute. More acreage will be accepted for maintenance, as appropriations are made. In 1928, the station ditched 2,062 acres.

Mosquitoes have little chance west of Bridgeport. The six towns of Greenwich, Stamford, Darien, Norwalk, Westport and Fairfield have ditched all of their salt water marshes and they are maintained carefully from year to year by the city or town.

From Bridgeport to New Haven the mosquito breeding places are only partially cared for, but on the east, Branford, Guilford, Madison and Westbrook have ditched all of theirs. New Haven and Clinton are almost complete.

Old Saybrook, Old Lyme and East Lyme ditched several hundred acres in 1927 and 1928 and Groton ditched 50. Old Saybrook and Old Lyme have the largest single salt marsh area in Connecticut, almost 2,000 acres.

New Canaan, in an experiment with control of fresh water mosquitoes, under supervision and help of the station, has succeeded in doing away with most of her mosquitoes. Raymond F. Hart is in charge of the work, which consists of spraying oil on the inlets and coves of Five-Mile river, where they breed, cleaning up the stream bed and introducing small fish to eat the larvae. It was organized by New Canaan selectmen and a committee of citizens.

CHICAGO ART CRITIC PRAISES H. B. SELDEN CANVAS

The Chicago Evening Post's Magazine of the Art World, which on Aug. 20th devoted several pages to an illustrated summary of the recent annual exhibit of the Lyme artists, refers to Henry Bill Selden, who is the son of Mrs. Joseph H. Selden, of 279 Broadway, Norwich, in this complimentary manner:

Superlatives will never do justice to Henry Bill Selden's "Abandoned" house. The title will be a misnomer when the original is discovered on that Vermont hill. A broad deep sky makes this cottage look like an orphan lost in a wide, wide world, and yet it is the most animatedly abandoned creature in the history of that world. Mark Twain might have been born there.

DUNLAP SHOOTS A 69 TO LEAD JONES BY ONE STROKE IN NATIONAL AMATEUR

By Alan J. Gould
Associated Press Sports Editor

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Sept. 2—(AP)—The far west signalized its pretentious welcome to the National Amateur golf championship today by sending forth a 21-year-old youth to beat the king of them all, Bobby Jones, at his own par cracking game.

Unheralded and unsung, Gibson Dunlap, a junior in the University of California, took the lead for the first 18 holes of the two day, 36 hole qualifying test with a sensational 69, three under par and a new competitive record for the course.

The curly-headed youth who learned his game in Chicago before transplanting it to southern California, followed on the heels of Jones all the way and beat the great Georgian by a single stroke with a dramatic birdie on the treacherous 540 yard home hole.

Jones, followed throughout by a tremendous gallery that numbered close to 10,000 by the time he finished, came back in 34, two under par, for a total of 70, sinking a good ten foot putt himself on the eighteenth for his "bird".

The ovation for the champion had hardly died down, however, when young Dunlap came striding up, pitching confidently to the green and rammed home an 18-foot putt that gave him the lead. This stroke was the climax of an exhibition of putting skill worthy of the great Jones at his best.

Jones is the monarch of golf, hailed as the one and only as enthusiastically by Californians as he ever has been acclaimed by his fellow Georgians. He gave the big gallery today all or most of the stuff it anticipated but Dunlap furnished the main thrill, not only because it was so unexpected but because a comparative novice and a California entry to boot had displayed the courage as well as shot-making ability to outdazzle the chief dazzler.

"I was just going on the 18th tee when I heard Jones had finished with a 70 so I belted one down past the trees, trying so hard for distance that I pushed the ball into the rough. It was not a good lie but I caught the spoon shot well and stuck it up close to the green. I sure got a kick out of that shot and was confident then I would at least tie Bobby. I was lucky enough to get down the long putt for a birdie.

"Tomorrow? Well, I'll just hit 'em around again."

Tomorrow, the final 18 holes of the qualifying competition may see another tussle between Jones and his youthful rival.

Dunlap and Jones were the only players to crack par but five others equalled the "perfect 72" to demonstrate that the terrors of Pebble Beach can be conquered, the chasms hurdled and the ocean avoided.

Most of the stars, with the single and surprising exception of George Voight, New York's favorite, came through the opening test comfortably enough to indicate they will have little, if any difficulty gaining the bracket of 32 qualifiers tomorrow night. Voight, needed 40-40—80 for his round. He must stage a comeback tomorrow to avoid elimination.

The group at 72 comprised the two principal threats from Portland, Ore., Dr. Oscar F. Willing, and Donald K. Moe, present holder of the western amateur title—as well as the St. Paul star, Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston and Eugene V. Homans, of Englewood, N. J., the Princeton ace and Roland McKenzie of Washington, D. C.

Cyril Tolley, the big British champion, came safely through his first test with a 75, due to a fine 36 over the difficult homeward nine, and assumed the position of outstanding foreign threat. Only one stroke behind him, however, was his countryman, Eustace F. Storey, who cracked on the homeward nine, taking 41 after going out sensationally in 34. T. A. Bourn of England needed 80.

Bracketed at 75 with Tolley were George Von Elm of Detroit, the 1926 champion and two surprising contenders, Vincent Dolp, of Portland, Ore., and William K. Lanman, Jr., of Columbus, Ohio. Francis Ouimet of Boston, another former titleholder, compiled a comfortable 76.

GOOD PITCHING GIVE ROBINS DOUBLE WIN OVER PHILLIES

BROOKLYN, Sept. 2—(AP)—A pair of good pitching performances, combined with some heavy slugging, gave the Robins two victories over the Phillies today. The scores were 6 to 2 and 10 to 0.

Timely hitting helped Ray Moss beat Ed Brandt in the first contest while Watson Clark let the Braves down with only two hits in the second. Only 24 men faced Clark in the first eight innings. The Robins hit Percy Jones hard in the second game and continued against Peery. Frederick had two doubles in his three hits, bringing his season's total to 47.

What does the poor little golf ball think about during the day? Here's my impression.

"Well, here I am all dolled up in my nice new paint and resting quietly in my tissue paper covering on the pro's counter. It's a nice place and I'll be contented to stay here for a time."

"Oh, gush, here comes that old duffer who abused my pal yesterday. Gee, I hope he don't pick me out, I'd rather go out with a good player who don't spoil your looks in the first few holes."

"Just my luck, he's giving me the once over. Can you imagine that, he just asked if I was a good ball and if I was guaranteed. That old guy oughta play with iron balls, they'd last longer."

"Well I never did get a break, he's bought me and I'm in for a good pounding this afternoon. But believe me, he's gotta keep his eye on me or onod. Only 24 men faced Clark in the first eight innings. The Robins hit Percy Jones hard in the second game and continued against Peery. Frederick had two doubles in his three hits, bringing his season's total to 47.

"I'll bet I'll have to have a lotta plastic surgery done on me if I ever want to look right after this afternoon. Well, here I go for the first ride. Gee, I wish it was a regular guy that was going to poke me. I don't mind these high, straight rides down the fairway, I get quite a kick out of them."

"Wow, right on the top and my nose hit the ground an awful crack. I'll fool him, I'll stop right here in the rough. Say, just hear him crab and pass out the alibis. Why, that old fool couldn't hit a barn with a handful of birdshot. I don't blame the other guy for laughing."

"Say, ain't these caddies got any heart at all, the old bird's boy just found me. Well, I suppose he'll use a niblick and put a cut in my side like I'd been operated on for appendicitis. Ouch, that one hurt and I don't mean maybe."

"Believe me if this guy keeps that up I going to hide out on him or run and jump in the brook. That's an idea, the brook for mine and then I can look up at him and laugh in his face. Just wait till I get to that fourth hole, he always hooks and that's my chance.

"Well, whadda you know about that. The old boy's showing some mercy. That last crack wasn't half bad and I'll just show him I appreciate it by running up beside the cup I'd drop in but I'm afraid he's got a weak heart."

"Maybe it ain't going to be such a bad afternoon after all. Oh, Lord, I spoke too soon, another crack on the top and I'll bet a dime it knocked all the paint off my make up. Yep, it did. Hear him talk about me, saying that I'm cheap and anybody oughta be ashamed to sell me. Say if anybody ought to be ashamed it's him for the way he's treating me."

Ouch, another one and he darned near tore right through my hide. That ain't no way to treat a perfectly good ball. I'd do a lot better if he'd just take his time and kinda stroke me instead of hitting at me like he had an axe in his hand."

"Believe me, I know how Firpo felt when Dempsey got through with him. Well, that didn't hurt so much but he gave me an awful twist that'll make me hook around and then he'll be sore, but it's his own fault. Well the next hole is the fourth and I'm going for that brook."

"Well here's the fourth. Yep, he hooked me and here's my chance. So long, old timer, I know this'll break that old flinty heart of your's but I'm through for today. Splash. Well here I am in the nice cool water. Gee, but don't it feel good."

"Say just look at him look at me. Ha, ha, brother, you and me is through. Just hear him mutter to himself, but who cares. I feel kinda sorry for the ball that's going to take my place."

"He's gone but here comes a caddy looking for lost balls. Yep he's spotted me and I'm out. What's that? Going to sell me to another player? Gee, ain't this a tough life. Well, it ain't so bad this guy's a good player and I won't get much abuse."

"Just imagine, I was worth 75 cents a few holes ago and now I'm being sold for a dime. Well, well, well.

SENATORS SPLIT WITH RED SOX IN HOLIDAY BILL

BOSTON, Sept. 2—(AP)—The Washington Senators and the Boston Red Sox divided a holiday doubleheader here today. The Senators won the first game 10 to 7 and the Red Sox took the second 7 to 2.

Cronin, the Senators' shortstop, gave Washington an edge in the first game by hitting a single, two doubles, a triple, and a home run in five times at bat. Judge backed up this terrific stickwork by knocking a home run into the right field bleachers with two on base.

Gaston, last year with Washington, held his erstwhile teammates to 7 scattered hits in the second game and was never in serious danger. The Red Sox, particularly Bigelow and Rothrock, backed him up by heavy hitting. Rothrock and Goslin slammed homers in the nightcap.

NEW LONDON

That many houses will be built in the city during the last four months of the year is indicated in that seven applications for permits to build new houses have recetly been filed with Building Inspector William Gunn, Jr. These new applications provide for an outlay of more than $50,000.

The list consists of applications for new houses efor Dr. Clarence G. Brooks in Gardner avenue, to cost $10,000; Fannie Goldstein in Rogers street to cost $8,500; J. Walter Libby in Grove street to cost $3,500; Francis J. and Anne O'Connor in Parkway to cost $8,000; Jensen and Olsen in Gardner avenue to cost $6,000; Archibald F. MacFarlane in Cedar Grove avenue to cost $5,000 and Joseph Conti in Beckwith street to cost $6,000.

Work on the construction of a new gymnasium which is to be built for the Coast Guard at Fort Trumbull is expected to be started within a week or two. Contract for the work was recently awarded to a Boston contracting firm. The new building is to be 60 by 110 feet, of frame construction and will cost about $25,000. It is hoped to have it completed in time for use in basketball activities of the Coast Guard cadets and enlisted men stationed at Fort Trumbull.

Plans have been drawn for changes to the residence of Antonio Basilico at 18 Shaw street. The work consists of the construction of a second story, 24x32 feet, of frame construction. Plumbing, heating and electrical work will be required.

A permit has been issued for a house on Pleasant street for Perry T. Shafner. The owner will have charge of the construction work. It will be a frame house, 26x48 feet, arranged for two families.

From private plans, work has been started on the construction of a house on Fitch avenue for S. J. Crouch. The house, which will be built by the day, will be 24x28 feet, of frame construction, arranged for one family.

J. Walter Libby has plans for the construction of a house on Grove street for himself. The plans show a one-family frame house, 25x22 feet.

The house at the corner of Connecticut avenue and West Colt street will be moved to a section of the same lot facing on West Colt street and will be altered for a rectory for the Roman Catholic Syrian parish. A chapel, 36x70 feet, is to be erected on the present site of the house.

MYSTIC

The Almas Yacht Corp. is contemplating the erection of a shop at the ship yard property at Pistol point in the Mystic river. Certain of the old buildings on the property are being demolished and it is understood that others will be reconditioned for the use of the present owners. The proposed new building will be approximately 50x150 feet.

ROCKVILLE

A building, one story high, 20x50 feet, of concrete is to be built in the rear of the Rockville House for A. L. Chapdelaine. It will be used as a dyeing and cleaning plant.

WALL FILLERS AS ADDED INSULATION

Nearly all builders of new homes are now installing some one of the many materials which will insulate their homes against ecessive heat and cold. They are doing this both to make their homes more comfortable in summer and winter, and to cut down fuel bills.

In these homes which are being built the types of insulators that can be used vary from the rigid or semi-rigid boards of the cane-waste, wood fiber, cork or gypsum rock to the dry fillers of wood mineral wool, cork or gypsum. But for the owner of a house already built who wants to install a material which will give him as much protection from weather as his neighbor who is building a new home, one of the dry fillers is the most practical material.

The standing house can be insulated by pouring a dry filler between the side walls. And if the rooms under the roof are used for living quarters, by installing an insulative material between the roof-rafters. If, however, the attic is used for storage space, the living quarters can be made comfortable by simply pouring the material between the joists of the attic floors, over the plaster of the ceilings below.

ATTIC SOLUTION OF PLAYROOM PROBLEM

Rainy weather always made it difficult for the children of Neal D. Smith, magazine writer, who did much of his work at his home in Riverside, Illinois. When they couldn't go outdoors to play they didn't have much fun as father must not be disturbed.

One rainy day Mr. Smith, finishing the work he had on hand, noticed that the children were not around. Mrs. Smith was out for the afternoon and he wondered why they were so quiet.

Searching the house he found them playing in the attic. The place was unfinished and given over to cobwebs, dust and old trunks but the children were having a good time and it gave them a place to play where they would disturb no one.

Mr. Smith decided then and there that he would fix the attic into a playroom. He took the necessary measurements and made some rough plans. With a semi-rigid insulating material which is easily cut and applied directly to the rafters and studding, he transformed the dusty old attic into a spacious playroom.

Due to the insulating quality of the material the attic, which in the summer had been a veritable bake oven, was cool and livable. He installed a radiator for use in the winter but found that it was hardly necessary due to the fact that the heat of the house from the furnace rose to the attic and was prevented by the lining from escaping through the roof.

WORKMAN IS KNOWN BY WORK HE DOES

A skilled painter, like an expert brickmason, plasterer, carpenter or electrician, pays for himself in the long run in the quality of his work. This has been demonstrated by repeated check-ups which included studies of work done by all classes of workmen. Unskilled workmen, it has been found, may put on a paint surface considerably cheaper than the figure asked by the thoroughly skilled workman. The difference becomes obvious, however, at the end of one, two or three years, and quite frequently within a few months.

The principal difference is in the ability of the skilled painter, and the inability of the unskilled, to diognize the needs of a surface to be painted. Where the former knows exactly what paint or paint mixture is needed, or what preparatory treatment is advisable before paint is applied, the unskilled workman as a general thing neither knows or cares. Perhaps his brushwork may look exactly as good as that of the skilled painter; but when paint begins to peel, or other defects develop, then the difference makes itself evident and one may judge how much was "saved" by giving an important bit of painting into the wrong hands.

Painting should be considered as an investment. A well-painted house this year will be easier to repaint a few years hence. Moreover, the skilled man takes pride in his workmanship. He knows that many will want to know the identity of the painter who did this job or that, whether the job turns out to be a good one or a poor one. In the case of a good one they are prone to consider the painter eligible for certain painting they propose to have done; in case of a poor job they propose to be warned against the man responsible for it.

It is easy to check up on painters. Either a person is satisfied to the point of enthusiasm, or else he is dissatisfied or doubtful. If one is satisfied, it is highly probable that others can be found equally satisfied with this particular painter's work, while the reverse is true with those who failed to enthuse over some other painter's work.

ATTRACTIVE NEW HAMILTON AVE. HOUSE

The above is a photograph of the new home of James Fraser on Hamilton avenue. The house is very attractive with its clapboard exterior and shingle trim. The building is a story and a half high, situated on a large lot almost on the street level. The first story is finished in clapboards with shingles in the gables and around the large veranda that runs across the front of the house. The dormer windows are in shingles while the roof has composition shingles. The windows are very attractive, the six-over-one type being used effectively.

The interior of the house is pleasant, large windows affording plenty of light for the modern finishings. The house has hardwood floors throughout and the walls are of hard-finish plaster. The bath is tiled with white tiling and the plumbing fixtures are of late design. The kitchen is very conveniently arranged with built-in cabinets and other kitchen accessories. The entire plan of the building is very modern and it is one of the most attractive places on the East Side.

DISAPPEARING STAIRS ADD CONVENIENCE TO HOME

Many owners of recently constructed cottages mistakenly believe that the space on the third floor is absolutely of no use to them because it can be reached only through a small ceiling aperture, located usually in the ceiling of the upstairs hallway. As they are now, it is true, they are virtually of no use whatever. But it is possible, and at small expense, to make them easily available for storage space, and in some instances where attics are higher studded, to convert such space into extra rooms.

This may be done through the use of disappearing stairways, several types of which are being produced by numerous manufacturers. These useful contrivances, operated by a series of cords and counterweights, fold up like an extension ladder, are equipped with hand rails which also fold up as the stair is pushed up out of the way, which the upper part of the steps, being finished on the counter side, completely closes the stair opening and leave the ceiling without break when the stairs are not in use.

The stair treads are of virtually the same dimensions as those of any ordinary stairway, except that they have no risers. Some are of wood and metal construction, while others are all wood with occasional metal attachments to give them added strength. They are "fool-proof" inasmuch as they can be operated from above or below. They could be used as an emergency refuge, although need for such in these days is quite remote. Like most modern house equipment the various sizes have been standardized to such an extent that one may be found to fit spaces of virtually any dimensions.

MASTER OF CABIN CRUISER TREBOR BURNED IN BOAT FIRE AT NEW LONDON

NEW LONDON, Sept. 2.—The 56-foot Elco standard cabin cruiser, Trebor, owned by L. B. Cleveland, of Larchmont, N. Y., was totally destroyed by explosion and fire this forenoon and the master, Captain John Ellson suffered severe burns to the face and hands. He is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. The owner and his daughter, the only occupants of the boat other than the crew escaped injury, but in order to avoid burns Mr. Cleveland and Miss Cleveland were compelled to leave the boat scantily clad.

What caused the explosion is not known, but it is believed that gas fumes issuing from the supply tank were ignited in some unexplained manner. The explosion occurred about 7 o'clock and in an instant the boat was enveloped in flames. It was with difficulty that Capt. Ellson and the crew escaped for they were close to where the fire broke out. Mr. Cleveland and Miss Cleveland were occupying quarters well to the stern and away from the supply tank, but they did not have opportunity to attire themselves and left the boat and boarded a speed launch, owned by Alfred Burr, which went to the rescue of Mr. Cleveland and the young woman. The launch conveyed them to the Hotel Griswold. The Trebor, which has been in this vicinity for a month was built in 1928. The loss is estimated at $25,000.

Burr Boat Ablaze.

One of the speed boats, used by Alfred Burr in supplying boats in the harbor with provisions, was threatened with damage this afternoon while at the pier of the owner on Pequot avenue. The boat became ablaze when a quantity of gasoline ignited. A still alarm caused Chief Thomas Shipman and the Ockford Hose company to respond, but before the firemen arrived the blaze was extinguished by employes of Burr. The boat was not damaged of consequence.

WALTER HARKINS DIES FROM DIVING INJURIES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 2.—Walter Harkins, about 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Harkins, 5 Jay street, who was fatally injured at Ocean beach Sunday afternoon when he suffered a broken neck while diving, died early today at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Harkins was with hundreds of other bathers at the shore resort and while diving from the raft went deep into the water at low tide, his head striking bottom. Harkins was rescued by other swimmers and when his condition was noted to be serious he was given emergency treatment and then rushed to the hospital.

Theft Of Watch.

Jacob Winkle, 78 Commercial street, New Britain, reported to the police last night that his watch and chain had been stolen from his room at the Ocean View hotel, Ocean Beach.

Patrolman George McCaskey 'was unable to perform duty today, being indisposed at his home on Maple avenue.

Mrs. N. L. Matthews, 79 Garfield avenue, notified the police at 11 o'clock last night that between 11 and 12 o'clock in the forenoon her wrist watch and bracelet was stolen from her home. The theft was reported to the detective bureau, but no trace of watch or thief was obtained.

Leonard W. Staubly, 83 Rosemary street, reported to the police last night that his automobile had been stolen from Huntington street. Staubly parked the car there early in the evening and was absent several hours. When he returned Staubly discovered his loss. The automobile is a Buick touring car and carries Connecticut registration, L-2064. The police of Norwich, Willimantic, Westerly, Hartford and New Haven have been requested to maintain a lookout for the car.

Clothesline Thieves Busy.

Frank Kenyon, 23 Marshall place, made complaint to the police last night that sneak thieves had operated in the yard of his home, also in the yard of a neighbor, for apparel and other articles had been stolen.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Flip Tries Some Digging

Much by persistence may be won:
And yet it may be overdone.
—Bowser the Hound.

"What shall we do this morning?" demanded Flip of Bowser the Hound.

Bowser yawned and stretched. "I don't know what you're going to do," said he, "but I'm going to take a good nap in the sun. I feel lazy this morning."

"Nap!" exclaimed Flip scornfully. "Nap! Didn't you sleep well last night?"

Bowser nodded. Then he grinned good naturedly. "Run along, little dog, and amuse yourself," said he. "When you are as old as I am, you will appreciate a good nap in the sun."

Now Flip didn't feel the least bit sleepy, so he promptly turned his back on Bowser and trotted off by himself. He decided he would go down on the Green Meadows and see what he could find there. So he trotted down the Long Lane, through the cornfield and onto the Green Meadows. There he was in doubt just what to do. He poked his nose into a lot of the private little paths of Danny Meadow Mouse, but nowhere did he surprise Danny. In fact, he didn't discover anybody and presently he began to feel a bit lonely. He was just about ready to turn and go back to Farmer Brown's dooryard and join Bowser in a nap, when he came to a hole. This hole had a nice sandy doorsten. Right away Flip began to investigate. He sniffed at that hole. He smelled some one. It was a strange smell that tickled his nose. It was the scene of some one whom he had never met. It excited him.

Flip barked. He stood back and looked at that hole and barked. Then he ran up and poked his nose inside and sniffed again. Once more he drew back and barked. Every minute he was growing more excited. The more he barked the more excited he became. He can always get himself excited just by barking. Most dog can.

"I wonder who that fellow down in there is," thought Flip. "That hole is almost big enough for me to get into. I believe I could dig that fellow out if I tried. It's a hot day to dig, but it would be a lot of fun to get hold of that fellow and shake him to death. I believe I'll try it."

So Flip began to dig. How he did make those forepaws go! The sand came out behind him in a stream. Every once in a while he had to stop and lie down to pant, rest and get his breath. Then he would go back at the digging again. Once in a while he would stop and bark, just out of sheer excitement.

Now, Bowser the Hound had found that he wasn't as sleepy as he thought he was. By and by he heard Flip's voice way over in the distance. Bowser cocked one ear and listened. Then he cocked both ears. Finally he sat up. "Flip has found something," said he to himself. "I wonder what it is, or who it is, this time. He is getting himself all worked up. If it were not so far down there I would just see what he is doing."

Bowser turned to lie down again. Then he thought better of it. He looked toward the Long Lane. He once more cocked his ears to listen to Flip. Then, at a comfortable trot, he headed for the Long Lane. He would go down and find out what Flip was making such a fuss about.

Meanwhile Flip continued to dig. Flip is nothing if not persistent. He meant to get to the bottom of that hole. Already he was two-thirds out of sight as he dug, and he was so intent on what he was doing that it never once occurred to him to look around.

Upon their return they will make their home at a newly furnished apartment on Preston street, Hartford.

DeMuth-LaRue

At St. Mary's church Monday morning at 8 o'clock a pretty wedding took place when Miss Louise LaRue of 378 North Main street was united in marriage by Msgr. Patrick J. McCormick to George DeMuth of 107 Fifth street before many friends.

Miss Blanche LaRue, sister of the bride was bridesmaid while Everett Watson acted as best man.

The bride was charmingly gowned in a white satin gown trimmed in Spanish lace, wore a tulle veil, caught up with orange blossoms and carried an arm bouquet of white carnations, asters and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was attired in a Nile green taffeta and wore a picture hat to match. She carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations and asters. After the church ceremony a wedding breakfast and reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis LaRue at 378 North Main street. The newly married couple left for a two weeks honeymoon trip, which will take them through the New England states and Canada. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. De Muth of 107 Fifth street. Among the guests present were people from Worcester, Hills Grove, R. I., Boston, New York and Hartford. Upon their return they will make their home with the bride's parents on North Main street. The groom is employed as a foreman at the Warner Firearms company while the bride was an employe at the Uncas Finishing company.

NORWICH JEWISH COMMUNITY TO PROTEST PALESTINE ATROCITIES

The voice of the Jewish community in Norwich is to be heard in protest over the massacres in Palestine through a protest and memorial meeting which is to be held Wednesday evening at 7.30 at the Brothers of Joseph synagogue on West Main street. Congressman Richard P. Freeman, of New London, is to be the principal speaker and it is the hope of those arranging for the meeting that every Jewish resident of the city will attend.

The meeting is being arranged for by the united Jewish societies consisting of every Jewish organization in town, and a resolution will be adopted there protesting against the Palestine government for laxity and indifference to the present conditions in Palestine. Besides Congressman Freeman, Reuben Taylor, a Hartford attorney, is to be a speaker at the meeting and there will also be remarks by the Norwich rabbis.

Wednesday is to be a universal day of fasting on the part of all Jews, having been so proclaimed by the national association of rabbis and announcement of this was made here last Saturday by the Norwich rabbis. It is the day before the new month, Elul, the sixth month of the year, and is the day usually used as a day of atonement and fasting whenever there is trouble in Jewish national life.

It is stated by those familiar with what the Norwich Jewish community has contributed in the last ten years for the upbuilding of Palestine that these contributions have been much above their means. This liberality has been largely because of the confidence that was inspired by the fact that Great Britain had the Palestine mandate and now the contributors feel keenly disappointed that Great Britain is allowing such atrocities as at present are being perpetrated in Palestine.

WIFE SUES HUSBAND FOR $10,000 MAINTENANCE

Maintenance and partition of property are sought in two suits brought in the superior court and returnable in September by Catherine Bowen of this city against her husband, Dennis Bowen.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowen were married Feb. 16, 1926. In one suit she asks for $10,000 maintenance and says in her complaint as follows:

"For a long time past, though living in the same dwelling house with his said wife, the defendant has ceased all association with his wife; has treated her uncivilly, insultingly and contemptuously, and ignored her as such wife; threatened to do his said wife grievous injury and bodily harm; has commanded and compelled his said wife to leave their said dwelling house; has failed and refused to provide his said wife with necessary food in their home; has ordered and commanded his said wife not to obtain, purchase or procure any food or other articles of support and comfort for herself in his name or on his credit from any merchants or dealers whatsoever, and has constantly refused to speak to his wife civilly; scolded her angrilly and made continually false, provoking, groundless and vexing accusations of domestic misconduct in household affairs with intent to malign, irritate and insult his wife."

She claims that as a result of these actions her health has been undermined and injured, and life in the house has been unendurable, because of the mental anguish, fears and sufferings. She was thereby forced, driven as well as commanded to leave the Bowen home without any provision for her support, and she says her husband still neglects and refuses to provide for and care for her. Claiming that her husband is a person of large means, she asks that Bowen provide a maintenance to the extent of $10,000 suitable to his means and sufficient to enable the plaintiff to support and care for herself. She has placed a $20,000 attachment on his property.

In the second suit, a partition of property owned jointly on Central avenue by Mr. and Mrs. Bowen is asked. Her husband, on May 10, 1929, transferred his half interest to his daughter, Elizabeth F. Daly, of Norwich, reserving, however, the income and use of the property during his lifetime. Mrs. Bowen asks for an equitable partition of the property, and an accounting of the income. She asks also that the superior court order the sale of a new Nash car, valued at $1600, which they own jointly.

WILL DISCUSS CONTROL OF ORIENTAL PEACH MOTH

A new and powerful means of combatting the Oriental peach moth, which is ruining the Connecticut peach crop, will be discussed at a meeting of growers Wednesday night at the Connecticut Agricultural Eperiment Station in New Haven. Introduction of natural enemies to control the pest will be discussed by the gathering, which was called by Harold M. Rogers, of Southington, president of the Connecticut Pomological society.

Severest pest of peaches in the state, last year the peach moth cost a third of the crop, a loss of $150,000 to $300,000. No artificial means—poison, remedy, or prevention—is known to be satisfactory in control of the insect. Growers have been helpless to protect their fruit.

Plans to be discussed Wednesday, which were proposed by Dr. Philip Garman, entomologist of the station, call for two species of parasites to be set in every orchard. One, which looks like a mosquito, attacks the larvae, and the other, with the appearance of a minute fly, eats the eggs.

"No enemy of the peach in Connecticut compares with the destructiveness of the peach moth where it becomes abundant," Dr. Garman, who is conducting investigations of the past, said Monday. "It raises three or four broods a year and no spray yet has been shown to be of much benefit in controlling it.

"Three facts contribute to the hope that introduction of parasites will be successful. First, the peach moth infestation in parts of New Jersey has been reduced almost to the zero point by parasites.

"Second, parasites already in the orchard of the Barnes Orchard & Nursery Company at Wallingford, in addition to some introduced there several years ago, have reduced the infestation tremendously.

"Third, workers in New York now report success with parasites.

"We do not offer them as an absolute panacea, but if they will cut down the percentage of infestation, then spraying or some other artificial means of control will be of benefit."

Growers are enthusiastic to try the plan and several have already made subscriptions to Mr. Rogers. It is estimated that $10,000 would finance the introduction of parasites into Connecticut orchards for two years. The state and the peach growers will be asked jointly to raise the funds.

FIRE DEPARTMENT PUMPS WATER FROM BAKERY CELLAR IN THAYER BUILDING

The cellar of the Community Bake Shoppe in the corner store in the Thayer building, was filled with water to the depth of about five feet Monday morning and the water also penetrated to other parts of the basement floor of the building when the two-inch lead pipe which supplies the building with water, burst on the street side of the shut-off.

John A. Cunningham, agent for the building, was notified of the break by the janitor, who investigated when he found that no water could be drawn in the building. Mr. Cunningham hurried from his home and when he saw that the break was beyond the shut-off so that he could do nothing to stop the flow of water, he got word to the city water department and one of its employes was sent to shut the water off.

Later the fire department was appealed to in order to get the water out of the cellar so that the bakers could go to work, and Chief Henry R. Taft had Engine No. 1 stationed in Bath street, alongside the building, running two 50-foot lengths of hose into the cellar and pumping it clear of water in about 45 minutes.

The bakery had a quantity of canned goods in the cellar, as well as some lard and compound, but no flour.

The water penetrated also to the Palace billard room and bowling alley conducted by Frederick J. Morin, in the basement of the building, but it was impossible to learn whether there had been any damage there as the proprietor was out of town on Monday, according to Agent Cunningham, who was not able to give any estimate of what the damage had been through the break in the water main.

Hawks

And as we walked the grass was faintly stirred:
We did not speak—there was no need to speak,
Above our heads there flew a little bird,
A silent one who feared that we might seek
Her hard-hid nest.

Poor little frightened one!
If we had found your nest that sunny day
We would have passed it by; we would have gone
And never looked or frightened you away.

O little bird! there's many have a nest
A hard-found, open place, with many a foe;
And hunger and despair and little rest
And more to fear than you can know

Shield the nests where'er they be,
On the ground or on the tree:
Guard the poor from treachery.

—James Stephens.

Poem (From "Fires")

Snug in my easy chair,
I stirred the fire to flame,
Fantastically fair,
The flickering fancies came
Born of heart's desire:
Amber woodland streaming;
Topaz islands dreaming,
Sunset-cities gleaming,
Spire on burning spire;
Ruddy-windowed taverns;
Sunshine-spilling wines;
Crystal-lighted caverns
Of Golconda's mines;
Summers, unreturning;
Passion's crater yearning;
Troy, the ever-burning;
Shelley's lustral pyre;
Dragon-eyes, unsleeping;
Witches' caldrons leaping;
Golden galleys sweeping
Out from sea-walled Tyre;
Fancies, fugitive and fair,
Flashed with singing through the air;
Till dazzled by the drowsy glare,
I shut my eyes to heat and light;
And saw in sudden night,
Crouched in the dripping dark,
With steaming shoulders stark,
The man who hews the coal to feed my fire

—Wilfrid Gibson.

PLANE MECHANIC FOUND WANDERING IN A DESERT

Ward Miller Was Picked Up Near Needles, Cal.,—Fate of Major Wood, Millers' Companion on the Flight, is Unknown—The Fliers Had Not Been Heard From in Nearly 36 Hours—All Miller Can Remember is an Explosion That Hurled Him From the Plane—Parties Have Started in Search of Major Wood.

NEEDLES, Cal., Sept. 3.— (AP) — Dazed and near collapse, Ward Miller, 25-year-old airplane mechanic, was found wandering in the desert near here today with a story that hinted of tragedy for the air race Major John Wood began from Los Angeles to Cleveland early Monday.

Miller, who was accompanying Major Wood, told a prospector who found him, that all he was able to remember was an explosion which hurled him from the roaring airplane and the lapsing into unconsciousness just as he pulled ripcord on the parachute strapped to his back.

When he regained his senses, Miller said, he found himself prostrate on the desert. As he tottered about, he saw bits of the wing of an airplane but he could find no trace of Major Wood nor other parts of the ship. Miller said he believed Wood had perished.

The finding of Miller provided the first intimation of the fate of the flier who had not been heard from for nearly 36 hours. Miller was riding in the cabin of the ship, pumping gasoline to the motor.

Parties were dispatched from here to search for the plane and Major Wood. Wood was 32 years old and president of the Northern Airways company. He was a veteran pilot and lived at Wausau, Wis.

Early Monday, he lifted his heavily loaded ship from the Metropolitan airport near Los Angeles as the last contrant in the Cleveland race, a feature of the national air races which closed there yesterday. It was his second attempt, motor trouble having forced him down in New Mexico last Friday and he returned to start again. Miller accompanied him on both flights.

The plane had a top speed of about 130 miles. Needles is approximately 300 miles east of Los Angeles and is the natural route through the Cajon Pass which is followed by all eastbound airplanes. A severe storm raged over the desert here Monday and it was possible that a bolt of lightning struck the ship.

Wood wore a parachute but he might have experienced difficulty in quickly extricating himself from the narrow pilot's cabin, it was pointed out. His ship was a cabin plane carrying 500 gallons of gasoline. Three other fliers in similar ships had made the same flight, Lieutenant Henry J. Brown of Cleveland, winning the race with a time of 113 hours, 15 minutes.

Estimates placed the time of the crash about 3 a. m. Monday.

Needles is about 300 miles east of the Metropolitan airport at Los Angeles, from where the flight started. It is at the eastern end of Cajon Pass, through which the transcontinental flying route lies and Wood probably would have passed through the country in about two and one half hours after leaving Los Angeles.

It was known that a severe storm was raging over the desert and this was believed to have been a factor in the reported tailspin.

IDENTIFIED WITH AVIATION SINCE THE WORLD WAR

WAUSAU, Wis., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Major John P. Wood, of Wausau, who fell with his plane near Needles, Calif. on the way from Los Angeles to Cleveland in non-stop derby flight, has been identified with aviation here since the World war.

He was born in Buffalo, N. Y., in 1896 and attended Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh until 1917, when he enlisted with the air forces. After a creditable career with the air corps, earning a commission as lieutenant, Major Wood entered commercial aviation. He was the winner of the 1928 national air tour and was a place winner in the national air derby from New York to Spokane in 1927.

Major Wood established the Northern Airways company here and is its president. The aviator also conducted two airports, one at Oshkosh and the other here.

Wood was made a major by Governor Walter Kohler recently. He is unmarried.

STILL SELECTING JURY FOR TRIAL OF LABOR LEADERS

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 3.—(AP)—The remaining members of the second special venire were disposed in short order this morning and at noon the court trying sixteen defendants charged with murder of the Gastonia police chief was adjourned while deputies scoured the county to serve summons on a third venire.

Only 156 are to be summoned this time and from this number court officials hope to secure the two jurors necessary to complete the panel.

The police chief, O. F. Aderholt, was shot on the night of June 7 as he and other police officers entered the tent colony of the Loray mill textile strikers. The defendants were labor leaders or strikers at the mill. Three of this number, all women, are charged with second degree murder. The others face first degree charges.

The new venire of 150 will bring the total number having been called up to 668. The regular venire of 18 was quickly run through a week ago. Then followed two special venires of 200 and 300.

A BOY AND A GIRL WERE DROWNED AT WINDSOR

WINDSOR, Conn., Sept. 3.—(AP) — Two persons, a girl and a boy, were drowned here today, within fifteen minutes of each other. The boy, Sylvester Holmes, 15, Negro, of Hartford was drowned in the Farmington river on the east side after he had been seized with cramps while swimming with several companions. While searchers were grappling for the body of Holmes, cries from across the river brought their attention to a second drowning, that of Miss Bertha Quimby, of Springfield, Mass.

The Quimby girl had gone fishing alone and in some manner had fallen into the water. On the bank where she had been fishing were found her watch, ring and bracelet near her pole. Police were unable to say tonight how she had fallen into the water or why she had removed her jewelry. She had been visiting friends in this town.

Neither of the bodies have been recovered but police will conduct a search Wednesday.

TOM HEFLIN, JR., WAS IN JAIL FOR DRUNKENNESS

PHENIX CITY, Ala., Sept. 3—(AP)—Freedom on bond pending a hearing was granted today to J. Tom Heflin, Jr., son of the senior United States senator from Alabama, after the young man and a companion had spent the night in jail on a charge of drunkenness.

Young Heflin was held also on a charge of violating the state prohibition law after officers said they found three bottles of "home-brew" in his automobile. The young man was arrested with E. M. Haines of Standing Rock, Ala., who was charged with operating Heflin's car while drunk.

The Rev. Marvin H. Heflin of Columbus, Ga., and attorneys obtained young Heflin's release today and a continuance of his recorder's court hearing until Friday.

Similar arrangements were said to have been made for Haines.

FED. GOVT. TO ESTABLISH AIRPLANE RUM PATROL

DETROIT, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Since the rum runners have taken to the air to smuggle liquor into the United States from Canada, it behooves the federal agents to do likewise.

Plans for the establishment of an airplane rum patrol over the Detroit river, Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair are being made by Walter S. Petty, collector of customs, it was learned tonight.

Petty said he was communicating with the customs department heads in Washington on the subject. He plans to make airplanes a regular division of the customs border patrol which now patrols the border in boats and automobiles.

Two confiscated planes, one taken from an alien smuggler and the other from a rum runner, will be the nucleus of the prohibition air force.

SINCLAIR DEPRIVED OF DAILY AUTO DRIVES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)— The board of public welfare today discontinued the duties of Harry F. Sinclair, oil operator, who is serving a term in the district jail, which permitted him to take several automobile rides weekly.

Sinclair, who is acting as an assistant to Dr. Morris Hyman, resident physician at the jail, had been permitted several times to accompany the doctor from the jail to a branch clinic at a wharf several blocks away. W. L. Peak, jail superintendent previously had denied that Sinclair was permitted to take automobile rides for pleasure.

N. Y. HOLD-UP MAN CHOSE DEATH RATHER THAN CAPTURE

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP)—An unidentified hold-up man who lost his nerve today chose death by his own hands rather than capture by his intended victim.

In flight through a vacant lot in the north Bronx he slashed his jugular vein with the same carving knife he had used in a futile effort to subdue the proprietor of the grocery store he had entered.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—(AP) —The intimation given by Prime Minister Ramsay Macdonald at Geneva that the exigencies of the home parliamentary situation might possibly interfere with his trip to Washington was not taken very seriously here. He had alluded to the fact that his ministry is a minority government liable at any moment to be overthrown by a combination of the conservative and liberal parties.

GENEVA, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay Macdonald of Great Britain today told the assembly of the league of nations that a preliminary understanding on naval matters had been reached with the United States on 17 out of 20 disputed points. His auditors applauded vigorously when he announced that the Anglo-American accord would be more than a mere agreement as to naval ratios and would be a document which will establish peace.

OPENING OF TRIAL OF MRS. LOIS PANTAGES

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3—(AP)—Six women and six men were tentatively in the jury box tonight at the end of the opening day of the trial of Mrs. Lois Pantages, wife of Alexander Pantages, millionaire theatre magnate, on a charge of second degree murder. The accusation followed the death of Joe Rokumoto, Japanese, from injuries suffered when Mrs. Pantages' automobile crashed into his last June, when the woman was alleged to have been intoxicated.

The prosecution expected another full court day to be spent in choosing the jury.

Mrs. Pantages, who was injured in the collision and spent several weeks in a hospital, appeared to be under considerable nervous strain.

Alexander Pantages, who is to go on trial September 23 on two statutory charges preferred by Eunice Pringle, 17 year old dancer, was a front row spectator throughout the day. With him were his two sons, Lloyd and Gedney, and his daughter, Carmen.

CONDITIONS IN PALESTINE ARE REPORTED QUIET

JERUSALEM, Sept. 3—(AP)—Palestine in general today was quiet with the authorities pushing their inquiries into the causes of the recent rioting and taking into at least temporary custody scores of Arabs and Jews.

Tiberias in upper Galilee was the only source of anxiety, for telephone communication with that district had failed after reports had been received of scattering Moslem attacks which had caused a few casualties.

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency correspondent reported that 14 Arabs were killed by troops when they attacked Yesod Ha'Maalah and two others were said to have been similarly killed near the colony Nishmar Ha'Yarden, both in Galilee.

The same source reported that 200 Arabs were arrested at Lifta and 120 at Hebron on suspicion of having participated in the riots.

DEATH OF VETERAN OF THE MEXICAN WAR

OBITUARY.

William E. Dever.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3—(AP)—William E. Dever, 67, mayor of Chicago from 1922 to 1926, died today.

Mr. Dever had been ill for nearly a year with a stomach disorder and had been confined to his north side home for most of that time.

He had been to the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., on two occasions for treatments.

Elected mayor in 1922 when a split in republican ranks enabled the democrats to carry the city, Mayor Dever chose his cabinet from among civic and business leaders of Chicago and carried through notable constructive legislation and epochal public improvement. It was during his regime that Wacker drive, the city's famous double-decked boulevard was constructed, and that legislation permitting the straightening of the Chicago river was enacted.

Though an ardent foe of prohibition, Mayor Dever directed the closing of an estimated 7,000 saloons during his term.

Hottest Day Of The Summer In New York

Temperature Reached 97 in Boston—Only Six Degrees Below the Highest Temperature on Record.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—For the third successive day [illegible] ures along the eastern seaboard [illegible] near to and in some cases [illegible] records for the date, and there [illegible] immediate prospects for ge[illegible]lief.

Starting at 71 at 7 [illegible] today the thermometer in New Yo[illegible] rose steadily and by mid-afternoon had reached 94.2 breaking by a fraction the record for this date and making the day the hottest of the summer. The reading marked the third successive day of better than 90 degree heat in the metropolis.

New England established the highest marks in the eastern territory. The reading in Boston in early afternoon was 97, only six degrees below the highest temperature on record. At Portland, Me., the mercury hit 95 and kept on climbing. A 94 at Providence gave that city the hottest September third in the history of the weather bureau.

Holliston, Lenox and Brookfield, Massachusetts towns, asked the state health department for permission to obtain water from sources other than their usual reservoirs, because of prolonged drought. Rainfall in some Massachusetts towns was about half the normal amount, authorities said.

Some consolation was had by sweltering easterners in the fact that humidity was relatively low, but the weather bureau forecast no cooling and general rain, although there were prospects for local showers.

The prediction for New York and southern New England was continued warm tonight and tomorrow. Showers were promised for western New York tomorrow night or Thursday, and rain was forecast in northern New England. The Maine coast would be somewhat cooler, but down around the vicinity of Boston the weather man said "continued warm".

NEW ENGLAND CITIES SWELTERED IN THE HEAT

BOSTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Three New England cities sweltered during the hottest day of the summer today and no immediate relief from the unprecedented early September heat wave was in prospect tonight.

The temperatures reached new heights for 1929 in this city with 97 degrees, in Portland, Me., with 95, and at Providence, R. I., with 95. Five prostrations were reported here. All bath houses in the metropolitan districts were kept open and were to be open tomorrow beyond the usual Labor day closing date, and state house employes were allowed to leave work early because of the heat. The thermometer touched 95 here yesterday and had climbed to 96 once previous during the summer.

BUDGET BUREAU TO BEGIN HEARINGS THIS WEEK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3—(AP)—Endeavoring to keep government expenditures for 1931 within the amount spent in 1929, the budget bureau this week will begin the hearings at which the final paring down of estimates will be made for the first budget President Hoover will submit to congress.

Mr. Hoover several months ago instructed the bureau to keep the 1931 expenses within the amount spent in the 1929 fiscal year, when the government paid a total of $3,848,000,000, an increase of $205,000,000 over the 1928 fiscal year. The bureau expects to be able to do this with ordinary governmental expenditures but congressional action in making new appropriations is expected to send the total for 1931 over the $4,000,000,000 mark.

The first hearings to be started this week will involve the independent establishments. Beginning Sept. 9 and running until November 2, officials of the huge departments will be given hearings to show the necessity of funds for which they have asked. No information as to the progress of the hearings or estimates of expenditures and income for the year will be made public until the budget is transmitted to congress next December.

MAIL PLANE SHUTTLE FAILS FOR THIRD TIME

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 3—(AP)—The third transcontinental refueling attempt of the Boeing mail plane Shuttle ended against the side of a mountain east of here today when a stoppage in the gas line forced Captain Ira C. Eaker and Lieutenant Bernard Thompson to land.

Neither pilot was injured and the damage to the plane, consisting of a broken wheel and wings, can be repaired, Captain Eaker said.

The two men walked to the nearest road and hailed a passing automobile, which brought them to Salt Lake shortly after noon.

Difficulty in connecting up surplus gas tanks was responsible for the trouble that forced the plane down, Captain Eaker said. It was necessary to set up extra feed lines he explained, and an obstruction in one of these shut off the flow of fuel and stopped the engine.

FURTHER CONTROVERSY OVER N. Y. SPEAKEASIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—The controversy between federal prohibition authorities and Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen advanced a step farther today when Maurice Campbell, prohibition administrator for New York, directed a letter to the commissioner asking whether the city's speakeasies, "as breeding places for crime" were not "a purely local problem to be handled by the municipal authorities."

In a previous letter Commissioner Whalen had returned complaints forwarded by the prohibition administrator and accused Major Campbell of attempting "to pass the buck" to the city police on a matter purely federal.

To Investigate The Outbreak In Palestine

British Government Has Announced Appointment of a Parliamentary Commsision to Act.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—With Palestine authorities, reinforced by the military, once more in control of the racial situation, the British government today announced appointment of a parliamentary commission of inquiry to investigate all circumstances of the Arab-Jewish rioting of the past 12 days.

The inquiry by the commission will be strictly limited to the circumstances of the present emergency and in the meantime the government will adhere strictly to its mandate over Palestine from the league of nations and the Balfour declaration concerning establishment of a national Jewish home.

One of the chief efforts will be to determine whether the outbreak which resulted in about 200 deaths was spontaneous or had been plotted. On the findings of the commission will depend whether any modification in government policy may eventuate.

Sir Walter Shaw, late chief justice of the straits settlements, was named chairman of the commission and will have associated with him three members of parliament representing each of the political parties. This news, together with a summary of the latest official reports from Palestine was contained in a communique issued by the colonial office tonight.

FOREST FIRES IN THE N. W. TIMBER REGION

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 3—(AP)—The far flung battle line of fire fighters advanced today on every front in the flame menaced northwest timber region.

Rains over a wide area and cooler weather generally brought reports of steady gains in western Montana and northern Idaho. Eastern Washington conflagrations were held, and in some instances subdued. Only in central Idaho where fires raged in four forests, all dry as tinder, did rangers fail to report definite improvement and even there the fires were slowed down.

The Selway, Clear Water, Kooskia and Nez Perce forests composed of mountainous timber country and with a series of fires large and small flaming in inaccessible spots offered a great problem to foresters who had a hard time keeping fighters supplied with food and relief forces.

From Montana came reports that many fires had been controlled though the big half moon blaze near Kalispell and other great conflagrations were burning too hard to be extinguished even by rain. Nine hundred men are fighting the halfmoon fire in the flathead forest. Most fires in the cabinet forest were described as small.

Forest officials here reported one of the most favorable days since the fire situation became serious with little progress being made in Washington by fires which have grown steadily in extent until many of them covered thousands of acres.

L. OF N. PROBLEM FOR THE LATIN AMERICAN NATIONS

GENEVA, Sept. 3—(AP)—Fourteen Latin American countries now participating in the assembly of the league of nations here are confronted with the delicate problem as to which Latin American country they will support for a seat on the council of the league in succession to Chile whose term expires this year.

Peru appeals to the largest number of Latin American nations, but Uruguay also would like to succeed Chile on the council. Unless Latin American nations go before the assembly in complete agreement concerning one candidate it is feared Scandinavian countries will reopen their old campaign to reduce the number of Latin American seats on the council from three to two.

This movement is based upon the contention that the gentlemen's agreement that three council places should always go to Latin America no longer is justified because Argentine has not yet resumed cooperation with the league and because Brazil has resigned. Scenting the danger of losing one of their three seats, delegates from Latin American states are planning a caucus before the election for the council in an endeavor to settle upon one nation as a candidate which will have the full support of all Latin America.

MUTINY ABOARD TANKER WHILE SHIP WAS ABLAZE

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 3—(AP)—Tales of a short-lived mutiny aboard the American oil tanker Paulsboro while the vessel was ablaze on the night of August 27, about 300 miles southeast of Mobile, were recited here today by members of the crew following arrival of the vessel to undergo extensive repairs as a result of fire which swept the engine room.

While seamen on the Paulsboro first charged there was a mutiny at a time the two-hour fire was at its height, Captain John T. Pearson, located at the offices of the harbor inspector making a report of the blaze, said he instructed a boat load of seamen preparing to leave the vessel to stay aboard. At the time he had an automatic pistol in his hand. Captain Pearson said, but he contended that he did not shoot.

Captain Pearson said he was forced to leave the life-boat loaded with sailors to visit the opposite deck of the ship where more men were preparing to leave. He asserted that while he was on the opposite side, the first boat loaded with 13 sailors left the vessel.

Members of the vessels crew charged negligence on the part of some of the ship's officers during the fire which threatened for some time to destroy the craft.

GRAF ZEP SHOULD LAND AT HOME BASE EARLY THIS A.M.

Passed Over Bordeaux, France, at 6.45 P. M., Tuesday, E. S. T.—Friedrichshafen is About 500 Miles Distant—It Was Midnight at Bordeaux and the Dirigible Was Brilliantly Lighted—All Appeared to Be Going Well on Board.

BORDEAUX, France, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin flew over this city at 45 minutes after midnight (6:45 p. m. Tuesday E. S. T.)

The cabins were brilliantly lighted as the huge bulg glided gracefully past at a height of about 1,200 feet. All appeared to be going well on board. The nose of the airship was pointed northeastward, apparently making for Lyons or Dijon.

At this point the Graf had only about 500 miles to go to its home port at Friedrichshafen and if the present rate of speed was maintained it should reach there in about eight hours.

The city had been expecting a glimpse of the airship following reports of its progress along the coast of Spain and the southern shore of the bay of Biscay. Apparently it left Spain at a point near Santander and picked up the French coast near Bordeaux for this was the first French town to report a sighting.

The pace of the dirigible was moderate and it was not so high but what the eager watchers had a good view of it during the few minutes it was flying over head.

The weather forecast was for slightly cloudy with some thunderstorms and moderate south to southeast winds.

The diagonal course across France selected by Captain Ernst Lehmann was the most direct line for its home port. From here, Lyons is 270 miles and Dijon, to the northward, 320 miles as the crow flies.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN READY TO WELCOME THE GRAF

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Sept. 3—(AP)—German federal, state and city authorities today put the finishing touches to the program calculated to give the officers and crew of the Graf Zeppelin the greatest welcome they have ever received.

Then as the Graf lands, federal government officers and representatives of foreign governments together with Wurttenberg officials and officials from the Friedrichshafen works of the Hamburg American organization will extend felicitations. After this the officers, crew and passengers are to parade through the festooned main streets in decorated automobiles supplied by the German touring club which sent 8,000 cars to Friedrichshafen from all parts of Germany.

This will give visitors, already estimated at 50,000 an opportunity to see the heroes of the Zeppelin at close range for only a chosen few will be admitted to the air field itself.

OVIEDO, Spain, Sept. 3.—(AP)— Reports from the village of San Esteban de Pravia said the Graf Zeppelin unfurled a Spanish flag when it flew over there. The airship made several circles over the town, apparently to orient itself because of the clouds.

AMENDED COMPLAINT IN $500,000 ALIENATION SUIT

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP)— Mrs. Mary E. Smith, in a motion filed in supreme court today, asking permission to file an amended complaint in her $500,000 alienation of affections suit against Miss Helen C. Meade, charged that her husband, George E. Smith, former president of the Royal Typewriter company, provided luxurious apartments for Miss Meade at the Park Central hotel and in the fashionable midtown section off Fifth avenue.

She said she learned of the apartments after she filed the alienation action last March.

In the last two months of 1927, Mrs. Smith said, her husband provided Miss Meade with an apartment at the hotel and during the last month of that year had established a home for her in West 55th street.

The Smiths were married in Buffalo more than 30 years ago. They had been happy, the wife said, until Smith in 1921 met Miss Meade and permitted himself to be persuaded to leave his home at Great Neck, Long Island, and to "New York city and elsewhere." From 1921, Mrs. Smith said, Miss Meade "has ever since harbored and detained George E. Smith, against the will of his wife."

STEAMER WAS SUNK BY PHILIPPINE TYPHOON

MANILA, Sept. 3.—(AP)—A typhoon which has lashed Luzon Island for three days sank the steamer Mayon yesterday with reported heavy loss of life.

A dispatch to the Manila railroad, owner of the Mayon, said the vessel was sunk off Pasacao in Ragay gulf, and that 28 passengers were missing. Nine passengers were saved. What happened to the crew was not reported.

The typhoon first struck the southernmost provinces of Luzon Sunday and Monday, causing much damage over several districts which were just recovering from the destructive storm of last November.

Passing out to sea, the typhoon whirled about and descended upon Manila, overturning some thatched huts of natives, hurling trees upon trolley wires and halting car service. The lower sections of the city were flooded by torrential rains. From Manila, the storm moved northward into the mountains.

The brunt of the typhoon is believed to have been heaviest in the provinces of Tayabas, Bulacan and Pampanga. Wires are down and details lacking.

SOVIET PLANE HAS COVERED 5,000 MILES OF 13,00-MILE FLIGHT

KHABAROVSK, Siberia, U. S. S. R. Sept. 3.—(AP)—Eager to win for the soviet union the honor of being first to cross the Pacific ocean by airplane over the eastward route, the famous quartet of red army aviators arrived here today in their airplane, "The Land of the Soviets."

They thus completed the first 5,000-mile stage of their 13,000-mile flight from Moscow to the United States in 55 hours actual flying time. This Amur river port in far eastern Siberia marks the end of the first overland stretch across the vast European and Asian domain of the soviets.

Here the wheels will be replaced by pontoons in preparation, for the long ocean flight. The course from here will lie across Sakhalin and the sea of Okhotsk to Kamchatka peninsula. They are expected to arrive at Petropaviovsk within a week. That will be their last stop in Asia and their course will then carry them across the Pacific along the far flung line of the Aleutian Islands.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENT BY BOOTLEGGERS PAY-OFF MAN

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3—(AP)— Information on alleged pay-offs to police officers in at least two unsolved murder cases was in the hands of state authorities here today.

District attorney's deputies announced that an additional statement had been made by Harry D. Macdonald, self confessed bootlegger and pay-off man.

Deputies Percy Hammon and David Clark, investigating Macdonald's charges that more than a score of police officers had taken tribute from him for protection of his illegal business, said he "gave us leads in the murder cases upon which we now are working."

Macdonald was quoted as describing meetings in his Seventeenth street camouflaged "bath house" of asserted gun men and police officers whom he overheard discussing various "unsolved murders." Macdonald told the deputies that names of guilty criminals were frankly mentioned in the conferences, along with the sums they were alleged to have paid police to "beat the rap." Hammon said Macdonald denied ever having been the payoff man in any murder case, but that "he knows what he himself paid (for bootlegging protection) and we believe can prove that."

Hammon said Macdonald partly corroborated and gave additional information to charges of Zeke Hayes, convict, who told a grand jury that the police received large sums to "square" the $50,000 holdup of a Pacific National bank messenger a year ago.

While the district attorney's investigators continued to check details of Macdonald's charges, federal prohibition officers and Assistant United States Attorney William Gallagher held a conference today. Afterward, it was announced that the reports of the federal investigation, which led to Macdonald's arrest, would be turned over to the district attorney if he so wished.

The reports involve sixty-two police officers.

Macdonald, who is charged with violation of the prohibition law, admitted today that his right name was J. B. Westman, and that he had served a term in McNeil Island penitentiary.

HIGH SCHOOL MUST BE ENLARGED FOR PUPILS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 3.—An apparent overcrowded condition now existing at Windham high school with the unprecedented registration of 685 students for the fall term can be solved with an expenditure of about $9,000. It was indicated today in a study of the plans of the building by Superintendent of Schools Egbert A. Case. Superintendent Case, who is also principal of the high school, a position which he has now held for 20 years, pointed out that there are building facilities on the third and top floor of the building for two additional rooms, or teacher stations, to accommodate over 70 pupils.

This expenditures of $9,000 would be reimbursed to the town in two years by virtue of tuition fees received from pupils coming from surrounding towns. Unless this addtional space is provided within a reasonable time it will become necessary to refuse admission to some 70 pupils attending on the tuition basis. The town of Windham receives on tuitions $100 a year per capita. In one year the income on 70 pupils is therefore $7,700. Deducting $3,200 for teachers' salaries a profit of $4,500 annually is shown, leading to the statement that the additional two rooms would be paid for in two years after which they could virtually be termed an investment. The additional cost of janitor service, heating, lighting insurance, etc., would be negligible.

Following the destruction of the old high school by fire in 1914 the present fine structure was erected to provide 24 teacher stations, auditorium and gymnasium. The original plans called for 28 teacher stations but there being a demand for only about one-third of the number at that time, two of the proposed rooms on the third floor were not built. The building of these two rooms now, as an alternative to closing the school doors to 70 or more tuition pupils is generally approved as a logical solution to the immediate problem, and action in this respect is expected to be taken in the near future by the town school committee.

RECORD ATTENDANCE AT ELKS' ANNUAL FAIR

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 3.—The eleventh annual Elks' country fair came to a close in a blaze of glory at Elks' park, Labor day evening, with a record smashing attendance of about 12,000 people coming from all parts of this state and many cities in Massachusetts and Rhode Island. The small white and green city of booths in the park teemed all evening with business.

The bathing beauty contest and pageant in which the four international bathing beauties, Miss Austria, Miss Ireland, Miss England and Miss France participated, was a colorful spectacle. In the contest Miss Roberta Hubbard of Hartford was adjudged "Miss Eastern Connecticut" and awarded the first prize of $75 in gold. Second prize of $40 went to Miss Marie Bantis, another Hartford beauty. The third prize of $25 was awarded to Miss Mary Kiss, pretty Mansfield miss. There were a total of 17 entries in the contest, the contestants other than the prize winners being: The Misses Dorothy LeConte, Dorothy Lokeman, Ann Walsh, Claire Butler, Alice Arms, Irene Gaudette and Flora Beaudry, of Hartford; Agatha Edwards and Emily Hubac, of Hampton; Myrtle Haren, Ethel Roy and Beaulah Monty, of Norwich; Eva Nagle of Taftville; and Fay Carpenter of South Coventry. The judging was by the four international beauties. Miss Leona Monoson (Miss Hartford) who competed in the Dallas, Texas, international contest this year, appeared on the stage as guest of the Elks, much to the delight of the crowd. The contest was in charge of Attorney Harry S. Gaucher, chairman of the entertainment committee.

47 Years' Practice Taught Dr. Caldwell

Many things about Men and Women

DR. CALDWELL loved people. He studied the habits of his patients and tried to improve their ways of living. His observations over a long period of time convinced him many people were ruining their health by a careless choice of laxatives. Then he determined to write a prescription which would get at the cause of constipation and correct it quickly and safely.

How successful his efforts were is best shown by the fact that the prescription he wrote back in 1885 has become the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness, and lack of appetite, or energy showed him that the bowels of men, women or children were sluggish. It proved successful in the most obstinate cases. So men liked it. Old folks liked it because it never gripes. Children liked its pleasant taste. And everybody is pleased with the gentle way it accomplishes its purpose.

By 1888, the demand for this laxative was so great that the doctor permitted it to be bottled and sold by drugstores. Today you can obtain Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from any drugstore in the world.

BURGLARS AT CHURCH STORE TRADE OLD CLOTHES FOR NEW

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 3—It was revealed today that the Church Co. store was burglarized some time during the holiday period. A check-up of the losses show that there were at least two burglars and that they helped themselves to complete new outfits of underwear, shirts, suits, hats and shoes, leaving their old rigs as souvenirs. The checkup of the stock had not been completed tonight, but it was regarded as possible that the men took a number of suits of clothing. One of the burglars was hoisted by the other to crawl through the front door transom to open the door and let his partner in. The store was closed Sunday and Monday. Clerks who entered the store Sunday found nothing wrong and another who entered the place Monday evening noticed nothing unusual, leaving it very difficult to actually fix the time of the robbery until Special Officer Hosea Greene tried the door just before Monday and found it open.

Killingly's school system began to function again today after the weeks that the school buildings have been quiet and deserted since graduation time in June. The arrangements that provide for closing some grades in some buildings in the smaller communities of the town and transporting the affected pupils to other schools are now in effect. These changes are expected to prove beneficial to the pupils and also, in a financial way, to the town. Under the new arrangement more transportation than formerly will be provided by the town, but under the plan there will be a net saving to the town at the end of the school year that began today.

At the high school building today 405 were registered, 160 of this number being in the seventh and eighth grades, constituting the junior high school. If the rule of other years holds true this September, this registration will be increased before the end of the week, as almost invariably there are delayed entries. The building has ample accommodation for the pupils that will attend school there this year, having been planned to care for as many as 500, when additions were built on and other changes made two or three years ago.

Organization of work at the high school went forward with rapidity today and by Wednesday the school will be working in its usual normal way. The graded school on School street was the center at which many more of Danielson's pupils gathered this morning to begin or resume their studies. As at the high school, there was prompt action in getting classes ready to take up regular routine work.

The total registration in Killingly's school had not been compiled late today, but will have been on Wednesday, and a comparison made possible with the figures for last year.

This afternoon at 1.30 funeral services for Mrs. Mary E. Bennett, wife of Edward S. Bennett, were conducted at the Methodist Episcopal church by Rev. Albert Abbott, the pastor, and Rev. A. E. Gallup of the Nazerene church. During the service Mrs. Albert Abbott sang Jesus Lover of My Soul, and Abide With Me. Mrs. Sidney H. Perry was the organist. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. Bearers were Frederick Miner, George Miner, James Moran, Joseph Williams, John F. Lewis and Harold Eastham. There were many beautiful floral pieces. A. F. Wood was in charge of the arrangements.

A death last night at the home here was that of Frank (Perreault) Lusignan. He was familiarly known to hundreds of Danielson people as "Doc". He is survived by his parents, two brothers and a sister.

Young, ambitious man wanted for store work in good line in Danielson. Apply at once, stating age and business experience to Box 426 Danielson.—adv.

At the September holiday shoot of the Danielson Rod and Gun club at the club grounds at the Dyer place on the Wauregan road L. H. Bradley was high with 96 out of a hundred targets in the 16-yard event. E. C. Griffith second with 94, and L. S. Ingalls and John B Tebo tied for third place with 92. In the distance handicap, L. H. Bradley and Dr. F. P. Todd tied for first place with 45. A. J. Carter and E. C. Griffith tied for second place with 44, and Mark W. Buck, L. S. Ingalls and E. A. Underwood tied for third with 43. In the doubles Stainton and Tebo tied for first with 40 each, and Griffith was second with 39.

The October registered shoot will be on the 6th of that month.

The forest fire that has been burning since Saturday over in territory east of Half hill has proved a stubborn one to bring under complete control and has given the men who have been fighting it a hard assignment. Seemingly completely out, it has broken out again and again. During last night men were battling with it and the area was again under observation this morning when it seemed as if the situation was well in hand. A heavy rain would quickly relieve any further danger of the fire getting going again, but no rain was in sight today.

Attention was called today to the fact that Danielson has gone through the entire warm weather season to date without having a concert on Davis park, where the band stand has fallen into disuse for musical purposes.

That all of Danielson's holiday visitors did not get away for their homes on Labor day was indicated by the large number departing today, numbers of them waiting over to escape the rush of holiday traffic.

PUTNAM

PERELLI BOUND OVER TO SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 3—Pasquale (Patsey) Perelli, 45, of lower Main street, was bound over to the next criminal term of superior court this morning after a hearing in police court before Judge M. H. Geissler. Perelli will face a charge of indecent assault upon his eight year old daughter, for which he was arrested early Sunday by Patrolmen Joseph G. Page and Frederick Dinsdale of the local police.

Perelli is the holder of one of the longest police records on file at the local police headquarters. He has been before city police court charged with various offenses the majority of which has been intoxication and the most serious being an assault upon Railroad Detective John Murray, former Putnam police captain, which took place in this city about nine years ago. Detective Murray at the time was patrolling a section of track in the yard limits, when he espied Perelli, with an accomplice hiding in a clump of brush alongside the rails. The officer ordered the men out of their hiding place and began questioning them as to their business. Perelli and Salvadore LaRossa made a brutal attack upon the officer and severely injured him. Their arrest took place after a long search by police of New England cities. Perelli was convicted of this and several other charges and was committed to the state's prison in Wethersfield. His release was obtained by a parole order, that he shortly afterwards violated and was returned to his prison cell. Since the expiration of his sentence Perelli has been the leading figure in many street brawls and on other occasions has been arraigned for alleged assaults upon his wife and family.

He was defended by Attorney Irving H. Miron in court this morning. In view of the seriousness of the offense with which Perelli was charged all defense evidence was withheld. Prosecuting Attorney Eric H. Johnson stated that probable cause has been found and recommended to the court that the many times prisoner be held for superior court. Bonds for his release were fixed at $5,000. At a late hour today the prisoner had been unable to raise the funds to effect his release and was committed to the county jail to await trial.

Among holiday matters claiming the attention of the state police at Danielson barracks yesterday was a telephone call from North Grosvernordale sent in by a woman resident of a remote section of the town who claimed that bandits were prowling about her home and at intervals were firing shots through her windows. Officer Elton T. Nolan was assigned to check-up the rather hair-raising occurrence. Upon reaching the little home situated on the Grosvernordale-Quinebaug road Officer Nolan proceeded to make inquiries. The woman's husband assumed the role of an old time pioneer defending his life and property, and when he answered the officer's knock on the door, confronted him with a double-barrelled shot gun challenging the policeman for his identity. With the weapon safely stored away in the family arsenal, Officer Nolan made a search of the surrounding countryside and also maintained a lengthy vigil over the roadway and premises but his efforts failed to reveal the presence of any trespassers. The officer believed that the broken window pane was the result of a loosened shutter clapping against the frame and by no means the work of a bullet.

The monthly report of the activities of the police department compiled today by Captain W. J. Jarvis showed that a total of 14 arrests had been made during the month of August. The majority of violations were intoxication, and included in the total were two arrests for liquor law violations and assaults that netted the city large amounts in fines. The court records showed that during the month closed a total of $890.58 had been raised through sessions of city court.

SCHOOL DAYS.

The long vacation is at an end. This morning the school bells will ring and there will be an army of children waiting at the doors. It will not be an entirely voluntary appearance, but all good things must come to an end. Vacation is one of them.

It will take a few days for the newness to wear off and adjustments to be made in new classrooms but soon the whole educational system will be working smoothly and well. Interest will be kindled in the various studies and activities that come with the changing seasons, and even those who think they do not like school will be appreciating their advantages and making the most of their opportunities.

The resumption of school days is a reminder even to young minds that all is not play and that provision must be made for the years that are to come. Those provisions must include those fundamentals of an education which are obtainable in school. It isn't a case of being allowed to do as a youngster might wish, for it is necessary under our laws that all receive an education and it is to the schools that we look for it.

School days represent some of the most delightful days of a person's life even though such a view may not be taken at the time they are being lived. There are the pleasures but there are also the satisfaction and delight that come as an education is being acquired. Great is the regret of those who might have progressed further in school but who elected to rush into work with as little schooling as was possible. They thought they knew what was best for them but they found out after it was too late that they didn't. Age has permitted them to recognize their handicaps and to envy those who insisted upon getting an education.

In the return to school there should be a determination to profit fully by all the advantages that are offered and to gather from school those hidden assets which are certain to be of priceless value in the years to come. Good honest work in school and full cooperation in all the school undertakings is the only policy that should be considered. Any other course means personal disadvantages.

AS THE ASSEMBLY MEETS.

With the assembly of the league of nations gathered at Geneva for its tenth meeting it is inevitable that its actions and its discussions will be closely followed by the nations which are not members as well as by those which are. Where world questions are involved there world interest can be expected to be centered.

There will be matters before the assembly concerning the world court, one of them involving the Root interpretation which, if it proves acceptable, should make the way easier for the United States to join.

It seems not improbable that there will be no little discussion relative to the Chino-Russian situation, including the fact that it was the Kellogg peace treaty rather than the league of nations which put a damper on the talk of and preparations for war between the two nations. Possibly the assembly will be called upon to accept the pact as a means of bringing closer cooperation among the nations of the world than is now possible under the league.

It will be surprising if part of the time is not taken up with the reviewing of the situation in Palestine. Here is serious trouble in territory that was placed by the league in the hands of the British to administer and there are interests that are much concerned over the developments that have taken place there.

Further than that there is the move being made by the United States and Great Britain relative to naval limitations which cannot fail to be of much interest to assembly representatives in view of the efforts which have been put forth by the league toward such a goal. There is no accomplished agreement to set before the assembly or the various nations, though it is the intention of the two countries to do so when there is, but such progress as has been made opens the way for interesting talk by those who are naturally watching the progress and wondering how soon they will have a chance to indicate their views thereon.

These and other matters should give the assembly plenty to talk about even though it may not have much actual business before it.

OCEAN WEATHER.

Nations work together for mutual advantage and there is no reason why it cannot be done in regard to the weather. It may not have been so in the past that it made much difference to the eastern hemisphere what was happening in the western, as far as general weather conditions were concerned, but it does today, and there is also a desire to know what the weather is in those areas over the broad expanses of water between the continents.

The demand for this information comes chiefly from the increased use which is being made of the oceans for flying purposes. It is possible for our weather observers to furnish some general idea of what may be expected in flights across the oceans, but it could be much more accurately indicated if there were daily reports regarding conditions at certain points in the ocean.

This it is hoped to obtain through the cooperation of Great Britain, Germany, France and the United States, and as the result of a gathering of meteorological experts in Copenhagen this month, it is expected that some plan will be worked out that will insure not only ocean reports from vessels each day but reports from stations in Iceland and Greenland maintained by Denmark.

Much dependence is placed upon such predictions as can be obtained by all those who contemplate a flight across the Atlantic. Accuracy cannot be claimed under present methods but with vessels reporting the conditions being encountered daily there would be a great aid to the experts. That would provide information from points in the ocean the same as is now being obtained from various points about this country and storm areas would be quite definitely revealed.

In crossing both the Pacific and the Atlantic the Graf Zeppelin made the most of advance knowledge of conditions and circled storm areas, and it is apparent that aviators planning such long distance flights are going to be guided by any definite information obtainable in fixing the time of hopping off. Ocean flying has done more than anything else to create a demand for knowledge of ocean weather conditions.

GREATER HIGHWAY SAFETY POSSIBLE.

Evidently the warning issued by the motor vehicle department about the necessity of being unusually careful over the Labor day week end was taken to heart by the automobile drivers, for it is declared in certain localities at least that the traffic was the greatest ever while the record of fatalities and accidents was much lower than last year.

This indicates, as has been persistently contended, that even though there is an increase in the number of automobiles every year there can be a reduction in the auto death and accident rate if there is the proper amount of care exercised by the auto drivers. It isn't to be expected that every new driver is going to be more careless than the others. The addition of more machines to the high traffic should not mean more disregard for the rules and regulations. The very fact that there are more machines calls for more care on the part of old as well as new drivers. It means that there is a greater responsibility to prevent accident being placed upon the shoulders of every driver.

With all drivers mindful of their duty to themselves and those with him, as well as determined to give the other fellow a square deal, there can be a reduction of the fatalities and accidents every day in the year quite the same as there can be during a week end or a holiday. Respect the rules of the road, stop the wild chance taking and give the other fellow a square deal and therb will be a most valuable contribution to that much needed highway safety.

The records in the motor vehicle department furnish the best evidence that it needs to be done. The week end response to the department's appeal shows it can be done on one of the worst three days of the year. That in itself furnishes the best proof that it can be done at all other times.

MAIL RATES.

Postmaster General Brown has undertaken the task of finding a way to reduce the annual deficit in his department. He is moved to this task because it is indicated that it may run to $100,000,000 this year.

It is perfectly evident that there are charges made against the department which serve to greatly increase this deficit for which the department is not responsible. On the other hand there are services being rendered to the public for which the department does not receive a compensating return.

Surveys have been made of the postal service with the result that it has been shown where a profit is being made, where it is breaking even and where it is sustaining a loss. A careful study of that should indicate where revisions of rates might be made that would increase the revenue, and yet revisions are ticklish things as will be recalled by that change which boosted the rate on picture post cards. It was believed the revenue would be greatly increased by doubling the postage and it would have been had the same number of cards been sent. The raise didn't meet with public approval, less cards were sent and with less return from that source under the higher rate the wisdom of going back to the cent rate was recognized and adopted.

Thus it doesn't mean that public support can always be anticipated when it comes to rate boosting, even though the returns do not balance the outlays for that particular service. The idea of advancing the first class mail rate it is believed would be decidedly unpopular, but the postmaster general has asked for suggestions to aid him in solving the problem and from them he will doubtless be able to determine the sentiment of the mail users.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

September is proving that fair days are possible without a county fair.

If there are signs that winter approaches, what of the coal supply?

The Graf Zeppelin has crossed the Atlantic enough now to be dubbed a veteran.

THOSE LITTLE SIDESTEPS.

"Oh, heck!" shouted Darwin Davis when his wife had shown him the invitation.

"Two hecks," agreed Dolly Davis obligingly. "I don't want to go any more than you do. Do you know any kindly way of telling a lady to her face that you'd rather stay home than be bored by a jamboree at her domicile?"

"Seems to me you might think up something," Darwin insisted aggrievedly. "You're smart enough at sliding out of things when it's a daytime affair. I wanta read a book. A parlor lecture with brick ice cream after it is not my idea of recreation. I don't care if it is Mrs. Whoositt who is perpetrating the atrocity. You tell her something!"

"It's easy enough for you!" retorted his wife. "Shoving it off on me like this! Why can't you be a man, telephone Mrs. Whoositt and tell her the truth?"

"Don't be rhetorical," remonstrated Darwin Davis. "This is earth, not heaven, and you just don't dare tell the truth. It isn't done. It's the most prominent thing everybody admires and wants the least of! Go on, Dolly, and think up one of your pretty little excuses, something which will still leave us on the Whoositt list but that will enable us to spend a comfortable evening at home for once. I'd like to get acquainted with you again!"

"I suppose I'll have to," Dolly Davis agreed with alacrity. "I must take care not to hurt her feelings, of course. One can't just boldly refuse. How terrible it would be if you and I didn't agree on these things!"

"You certainly have a logical mind," admired her husband. "Not only must you concoct the lie, but figure out the ensuing results. Get something which is foolproof."

"I know!" Dolly Davis told him brightly. "I'll write her that you are going on a short business trip and will be out of town Tuesday night and so we can't come. Nobody can get around that. Business really is a lovely thing when you come to think of it. The more I consider the prospect the more I feel that I'd rather stay home and darn hosiery than climb into new clothes and go. A person certainly has the right to choose how he shall spend an evening!"

"No," said Mrs. Darwin Davis sweetly somewhat later when Mrs. Boone asked whether they were going to the Whoositt party. "Darwin is out of town that night. We are so sorry."

She repeated the remark on other occasions and each time that stolen evening at home loomed more enticing. She got so that she added little artistic touches such as a regretful droop of the lips when she told it. She did such a good job finally that when she explained it to Mrs. Cramer that lady's heart was touched.

"Now, isn't that too bad!" she sympathized with Dolly. "Isn't it the luckiest thing you told me! Providential! When you would like so much to go, and I don't blame you, for the evening will be inspirational. You see, I am going out of town myself tomorrow to visit my sister and I shan't be here Tuesday, either. I know that my husband will be more than delighted to take you.

"I want him to go and there's simply no sense in his going alone, with you sitting at home by yourself. I'm sure Darwin will be lots happier on his trip knowing that you are having a good time. Claude will pick you up about 8:30 Tuesday night!"

"You can't!" Dolly Davis told her disconsolate husband with some bitter satisfaction as she got into her party clothes that Tuesday evening. "You can't go to the club nor the movies nor appear on the street at all. You are out of town. You aren't here. Truth, crushed to earth, has bobbed up again.

"And stop looking as though you had discovered me putting ground glass in your oatmeal, darling. At least you have a perfectly silent house to wander about in—remember, I have to endure Claude Cramer's chatter for four hours and act as though I liked it. Good-night, and I hope you have a horrible time!"

Left to himself, Darwin Davis sat down heavily. He reached for an encyclopedia. He was going to try and find out for his own satisfaction when white lies were first invented and what happened to the man who did it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Passing Show.

Mr. Editor: In the editorial notes on page four of the issue of The Bulletin as of August 23, this caught my eye: What are you going to do with the time and money you used to spend at the county fair?

What thoughts takes possession of me, and what memories are recalled as I read this. This was vividly brought to my mind when I was at the Orange County Fair at Middletown, N. Y., on Aug. 16, as I sat in the grand stand and watched the drivers tunning up their horses, I turned over in fancy the leaves of the book of time and could see once again the track on the old New London County fair grounds and could see some of the lovers of fast horses with their high wheel sulkies as we saw them in the days and times that are now just a memory. As I watch them today with their rubber tired sulkies and contrast them with those old timers I could not help but note how much faster they are now from the speed of other days.

It did not require much imagination to see in the ones who went whizzing by the lovers of good horses that can be recalled in Charlie McChesney, or Henry Sydleman, and others whose names have been forgotten for the moment, but whose skill is still recalled. The county fair is yet an institution that is still looked forward to each fall in many of the other states, but through the Nutme gstate it seems to have vanished like many other of the purely American institutions, and like many of the native birds they are gone and will never return, but they have left a pleasant memory of many happy days and hours.

We would go into the exhibition hall and view the many pieces of fancy work that had taken many hours of the farmers' wives' time to fashion. All these were very interesting and also very instructive. Somehow I cannot think of this without a certain regret, for this is just the passing of another one of the many things that were dear to the early people who made and created these fine old societies which were the annual meeting places where friends would gather and renew pleasant relations. But with the onward march of time other people have come in and have taken their places and now the new comers do not or will not understand the motive behind the so-called county fair. The passing of this annual treat will appeal to many as a tragedy, and yet it was inevitable, for with each successive year, as I understand it, the management had to face a loss. This, in business, could not long continue and so it was found necessary to write the final chapter. Just here I think of those splendid words of Edward Howard Griggs, which seem to fit into the color scheme of this vanishing picture. "The river of time sweeps on with a regular remorseless current. There are times when we would give all we possessed if we could but check the flow of its waters. There are other hours when we would like to speed them more rapidly, but desire and effort are alike in vain, for the river of time flows on with the same resistless flood; and it is only today when the river of time flows over the mill-wheel of today's life that we can see it. Once it is past it is in the great unreturning sea of eternity. Other opportunities will come, other things that will appeal to us and that will entertain us, other people will take our places and carry on, and other waters will flow, but the things that we knew have gone."

And as we gaze back along the years it will be with mingled feelings of sorrow and regret for we can only think of the many happy hours we spent at the old county fair, that is passed and gone, and we can only think after all it had to be, for that which has slipped by will not return again, and this old world will still move and carry on. Still we cannot forget, for the golden gloom of the past but brings us the bright hued hopes of the future.

NEW BOOKS

The Battle. By Stella Hamblen Tappmeyer. Cloth, 186 pages. Published by Meador Publishing Co., Boston. Price $2.

The divergent views on the question of evolution has brought forward many discussions. Whether mankind had evolved to the present state from a lower form, or was created according to the Bible story agitates many minds. Mrs. Tappmeyer has written a wonderful story in which one side of this question is championed.

There is in The Battle an epoch making story of modern Christian devotion, and a beautiful romance. It is being read with interest and enjoyment by both the orthodox Christian and the Evolutionist alike. The book is one that inspires and edifies and in the depicting of the leading character, Mary Gray, the author is confident that such characters exist in real life in great numbers.

Origin and Conclusion of The Paris Pact. By Denys P. Myers. Paper, 156 pages with index, published by World Peace Foundation, Boston. Price 40 cents.

As compared with other books on the treaty proclaimed by President Hoover on July 24 of this year, Mr. Myers' volume possesses the advantages of having gone to press on the day of the proclamation and of a strictly objective treatment. Thus it includes accounts of the action so far taken by the nations whose adherence has been invited, and it includes in compact form the complete narrative of the origin and conclusion of the treaty negotiations, together with the text of pertinent documents.

Forming Correct Language Habits. By J. K. Ellwood. Cloth, 173 pages for teacher, price $1. Three pads 25 cents each for pupils. Published by Meador Publishing Co., Boston.

Professor Ellwood in various supervisory capacities has tried out his series while superintendent of schools in widely separated sections of the country, as well as during many years as supervisor of elementary schools in Pittsburgh, Pa. In the absence of printed pads the mimeograph was used to prepare sheets for the pupils of one division of each primary class. Even under this handicap the pupils using the special method made incomparably better progress than did the others, not only in the primary grades, but also throughout the upper grades. It was possible at any time, in any grade, to inspect the class papers and determine therefrom which pupils had been given the special training. Neatness, accuracy, freedom from error, and correct sentence structure were among the features that made such determination possible.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3—Most Americans are more or less familiar with the fact that April is the traditional war-making month in the history of their country.

How many of them also have noted that September has played a leading part as the month in which wars ended?

As a matter of fact, September has been the calendar setting for an amazing number of events historically significant for the nation.

A compilation the Bystander has read somewhere points out that America really had its beginnings in that month, as it was in September that Columbus set sail westward over the edge of the world.

Some 73 years later the first permanent settlement from Europe on the North American continent was established at St. Augustine, Fla., in September, 1565.

Month of History

Among major September anniversaries for Americans are the establishment of the constitution; discovery of the Hudson river and of the western ocean; meeting of the first continental congress; execution of Nathan Hale as a spy; occupation of Philadelphia by the British; arrival of British troops in Boston to quell the colonists; the siege of Yortown by continental troops; John Paul Jones' capture of the Serapis after his ship, the Bon Homme Richard, had been shot from under him.

Also, the inspiration of "The Star Spangled Banner" in the British bombardment of Fort McHenry, Baltimore, and official promulgation of that banner itself as the flag of the infant nation; Perry's victory in Lake Erie and MacDonough's great fight against odds in Lake Champlain; the capture of Chapultepec and Mexico City, ending the Meican war, also Taylor's capture of Monterey; the Civil war battles of Antietam and Chickamauga and Sherman's conquest of Atlanta.

Also, President Johnson's proclamation of amnesty in '67; the battle of St. Mihiel and the cracking of the Hindenburg line with the aid of American troops in the World war; invention o the cfotton gin; assassination of Garfield and McKinley; admission of first water to the locks at Gatun, Panama canal.

April the Trouble Month

There are plenty more important September dates in the nation's history, including publication of the first daily newspaper.

Yet September dates do not approach the April claim to fame as the month of origin of American wars. All the major conflicts from the revolution to the World war, with the exception of the war of 1812, started in April. The 1812 outbreak missed it only by days, for it began in mid-June.

The Bystander recalls a time when at the state department it was customary for officials to get ready at about certain dates each year for internal conflict to break out in China or Mexico or both.

Experience had taught them that the weather had much to do with t fi n both countries, particularly in China. Troops could not be maneuvered successfully during the rainy seasons, so revolutions waited on dry weather.

Perhaps that accounts for dates of the beginning of Indian campaigns in the United States; but it hariy has bearing on the fact that the American nation has established so strong a tradition for going to war in April if it must make war. There seems no logical explanation of that. It just so happened.

CHILD TRAINING

The Spirit of Investigation

Mary Stark Kerr

A business woman was calling at the home of a young mother; while the latter was signing some papers her child was playing around the room, and investigating various articles which attracted his attention, as is natural for a child 18 months old. "Stop that!" cried the mother, "Let it alone!" and she jumped up and snatched the child away angrily.

"He is so troublesome," she said to the caller. "He is into everything. I wish he were a girl; that is what I wanted; boys are never any use to one when they grow up."

"O," said the shocked caller, "don't say that. A boy can be a great comfort to you. I have one only six years old, and he certainly is a delightful companion to me. But if you talk about your son like this, it will ruin his life, and yours, too. A child, even of his age, can feel the antagonism you are expressing, and it will cause him to have the same feeling toward you; or else, if he keeps on loving you, it will break his little heart.

"You can have your wish fulfilled, if you will take the right way of doing so," said the caller. "When children want to handle everything, they do not mean to be annoying, they are only trying to learn. Help him to learn, by showing him the objects which attract him and explaining what they are for. That will help him to grow out of this stage sooner, for when he has learned all the necessary things about these articles, he will not trouble about them any further. But the more you hinder him in his search for knowledge, the longer this stage will last."

"I never heard that before," said the mother. "I think I'll see how it works, because I surely want him to get out of this stage; it is terribly trying."

"I know it is trying to us, but do you know, I haven't a doubt that it is a good deal more trying to the child when we interfere with his search for knowledge. But if we work with him instead of against him, we shall find enjoyment in his curiosity. I am sure that if we parents do our part as we ought to, we shall get the reward as we go along, and our children, instead of being a trial to us, will be a real pleasure."

YOUR HEALTH

Breakdowns From Heart Disease Preventable Best Chances When Taken Early.

By George C. Ruhland, M. D., Commissioner of Health, Syracuse, N. Y.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

First in the list of the principal causes of death, heart disease claims its victims at all ages—from childhood to old age. Among the health problems before the public today, none is of greater importance than that of heart disease.

One of every fifty persons lives a cramped life because of it. At least fifteen out of every thousand school children have already acquired some definite disease of the heart, and at least thirty of every thousand men and women of working age must reckon with heart disease as a disability in work or a handicap in their pleasure.

Heart disease means diminished earning capacity, invalidism and frequent death at a time when the experience of years should make us most valuable. If this situation is to be changed, it is necessary that the facts concerning the cause, treatment, cure and prevention of heart disease become generally known.

Public cooperation in fighting this disease can be obtained only if there is an enlightened public that fully realizes the problem and then knows what to do about it.

The cause of heart disease may be listed under four main groupings: Infection, poisons, neglected personal hygiene and congenital defects.

Because heart disease manifests itself especially after the fortieth year of life, it is commonly looked upon as a disease of middle life or old age. The beginning of heart disease that disables or kills at middle age, as a matter of fact, frequently goes back to the reckless years of early adolescence or even childhood. It has become a well-established fact that infected teeth and tonsils, chorea (St. Vitus' dance), "growing pains" in childhood and various other acute infectious disease are a frequent cause of heart disease.

Knowing this, we are able to avoid to a considerable extent at least some of the causes that bring on heart disease, for it is relatively simple to live a hygienic life and to avoid excesses.

It is true that we cannot hope as yet to escape all infections, but we can be careful when they occur and seek medical aid promptly. We certainly can see to it that asscessed teeth, infections of the nose or other foci in the body are properly treated and cared for. Neglecting to give attention to these so-called "minor infections" contributes largely to heart disease.

Children with growing pains which is a manifestation of rheumatism in childhood, should be taken to a physician. Proper attention at that time may entirely prevent heart disease later on.

Even when heart disease has already appeared, modern methods of treatment may restore many patients to lives of usefulness for many years.

Heart disease develops gradually. Our chance for recovery is best when it is taken at the earliest possible moment.

A change in the mode of living may improve a weak heart and prevent a breaking down. The best means of preserving an efficient heart is to have a physicial examination once a year. This would be a fitting Labor day resolution to make.

It is a fashion with many smart women to have their linen shoes dyed to match their costumes, a service the best shoe shops render in a very short time. The shoes may be plain or printed, according to individual fancy.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Flip Learns About Back Doors

Who builds and knows what he's about
Has never less than two ways out.
—Johnny Chuck.

Bowser the Hound trotted down the Long Lane, through the cornfield and out across the Green Meadows to where Flip the Terrier was digging excitedly. So intent was Flip on what he was doing that he didn't see Bowser coming. It wasn't until Bowser spoke that Flip knew that he had come.

"What are you doing? Digging for exercise?" inquired Bowser.

Flip stopped digging long enough to look up at Bowser and reply, "There's somebody down in there and I'm going to get him out. Come on and help me get him."

So Flip went back to his digging and Bowser sat down to watch

"It looks to me," replied Bowser, "as if you just about fill up that hole. How can two of us dig?"

"We can take turns anyway," said Flip.

Bowser shook his head. "I'll let you do the digging, Flip," said he. "When I was your age I used to be a pretty good digger myself, but I'm not so fond of it now. You dig and I'll keep watch."

So Flip went back to his digging and Bowser sat down to watch. There was a twinkle in his eyes. In fact, if you could have looked in Bowser's face you might have guessed that he had some little joke all his own that he was laughing at inside.

After a while Flip backed out and sprawled out on the mound of sand that had piled up in front of the hole. He was hot and tired and he panted. He blew sand out of his nose and tried to shake it out of his earas. He was a little bit discouraged. "That hole goes down pretty deep," said he.

"I thought likely," replied Bowser. "I don't want to discourage you, but I think it will take you the rest of the day to get to the bottom of that hole. What do you expect to find when you get there?"

"The one who dug the hole," replied Flip promptly. "I could smell him when I first poked my nose in there and there hasn't been a chance for him to get out, for I have been right here on the job."

"Do you expect him to wait for you " inquired Bowser.

"What else can he do?" demanded Flip.

"He might be digging all the time you are digging," replied Bowser.

Flip's face fell. "I hadn't thought of that," he exclaimed. "Still, if he is, I think I can outdig him. Phew, it's hot!"

"Have you kept watch of the back doors?" asked Bowser in a most matter of fact way.

Flip lifted his head quickly. "Back doors? Back doors? What back doors?" he demanded.

"Why, this is the front door of somabody's home; so, of course, there must be a back door; perhaps two or three," replied Bowser. "When you go in at the front door to look for any one, it is just as well to have some one else watching the back door."

"I don't believe there is any back door," replied Flip. "If there is a back door, where is it?"

Bowser got to his feet and lazily began to walk around, sniffing. Not far away he found a hole partly covered with grass. "Here is one," said he. A few minuter later he found another. Flip ran over to them. He sniffed in each. At one of them he found the scent that he had found in the hole he was digging, and it was very fresh. It was stronger outside than inside. He looked up at Bowser. Bowser was grinning. "I wouldn't dig any more if I were you," said he. "There is no one at home."

A small lad who lives near the river was lost. A policeman found him playing in a boat and leading him home said to the mother: "Shall I take him to jail?"

No Blindfold Test

When the elegant inlaid box of assorted cigarettes was passed, the guest just reached in and took one, which upon inspection seemed to be none of recognized brands, although he was quite a connoisseur of smokes. However, he lighted it and began to smoke it, when at the first few puffs his hostess gasped and said: "Goodness, gracious, you've got one of grandpa's cigarettes for asthma!"

PUTNAM WATER REPORT STIRS CITY COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 3—The report on the present condition of reconstruction plan on the city water system by Ralph E. Thurston, chairman of the board of water commissioners, to the mayor and common council tonight culminated in Councilmen John Dean's and Warren Ames' disapproval of alleged stalling on the part of Henry Symonds, hydraulic and consulting engineer of the water department, and also brought forth Mayor Richard's reprimanding of Commissioner Thurston for his cooperation with members of the Putnam press regarding the water situation. After Mr. Thurston had made his remarks a newspaperman arose from his position in the council chamber and entered into a conversation with Mr. Thurston, the subject of which was not audible to others in the room. Mayor Richard, at this time interrupted the gentlemen and strongly impressed upon Mr. Thurston his opinion that matters pertaining to the water department should be revealed before the board of aldermen at their session before release for publication. Silence reigned in the council chamber for several seconds after the chief executive had expressed himself but no comments were made.

Since Mr. Thurston was appointed to head the city water commission he has always maintained a co-operative attitude toward the local press, furnishing reporters with available information, when possible and has always exercised discretion to a high degree when discussing matters relative to the department under his supervision.

Mr. Thurston informed the council that the original ditch-digging contract presented by a contractor several months ago, remains intact. He stated that the contractor had informed him that no given estimates would be altered if the council decided to accept the bid. Another bid made some time past regarding prices of pipe will remain unchanged.

Alderman Dean, a central figure in the water question since his election to the council openly expressed disapproval of Engineer Symonds' failure to furnish the council with plans and specifications of the storage tank to be erected on Oak Hill. Dean intimated that Symonds' delay to take action on that matter is jeopardizing the city's possibility of laying the tank foundation before the arrival of the winter season. Mr. Thurston informed Dean that he would take the matter up with Boston engineers at once in order to have the desired plans on hand next Tuesday evening when an adjourned meeting of the council will take place.

AUTHOR HOLDS JAPANESE SUPERIOR RACE OF PEOPLE

That the Japanese are a superior race of people is the thesis of a book just published by Dr. Adachi, of the Kyoto Imperial university. The volume, written in German, represents the fruit of 30 years' study of anthropology and related fields. The scholar's theory is that qualities of the muscles, viscera, blood vessels, nerves and glands must be taken into account in the comparison of various racial characteristics as well as height, color, shape of the head and quality of the hair. According to the findings of Dr. Adachi the Japanese have certain bones and muscles which are not found in persons of other races to so marked a degree. The general makeup of a typical member of the yellow race shows that he is a superior being and has a better physique than representatives of other races. The doctor cites the sternal muscle in the breast and the thenari longus in the palm of the hand as among those whose lack in many occidentals reveals their inferiority to the Japanese. Dr. Adachi's work is considered in general very unbiased and he has already received many letters of congratulations on his achievement from Europe and the United States.

FEWER MOSQUITOES AT RESORTS THIS YEAR

Connecticut shore folk suffer less this year from mosquitoes, as a result of extensive mosquito elimination, much of which they undertook only last summer. It was a rainy season and mosquitoes were so aggravating that nine towns raised $32,000 for control work, which was placed in the hands of the Connecticut agricultural experiment station.

Most of the salt water marshes on Long Island sound, from New York to Rhode Island, have been ditched to break up the mosquito breeding places, at the direction of the station or of the towns themselves.

Salt water marshes encourage a particularly nefarious mosquito. It bites both day and night, rather than night only, as the fresh-water mosquito does. It flies farther and reproduces in millions. The pest is controlled simply by draining off the shallow water where it breeds. Not only do the ditches drain marshland; they allow fish to swim in with the tide and feed on larvae.

Men trained to the task dig ditches ten inches wide and twenty-four inches deep through the marsh-land. The job costs approximately $12 an acre and it will remain effective for many years, if the ditches are cleaned every year.

Twelve men are working this summer at the direction of R. C. Botsford, station deputy, to maintain salt water ditches of the twelve towns for which the state of Connecticut has assumed responsibility, as provided by statute. More acreage will be accepted for maintenance as appropriations are made. In 1928, the station ditched 2,063 acres.

Mosquitoes have little chance west of Bridgeport. The six towns of Greenwich, Stamford, Darien, Norwalk, Westport and Fairfield have ditched all of their salt water marshes and they are maintained carefully from year to year, by the state or town.

Old Saybrook, Old Lyme and East Lyme ditched several hundred acres in 1927 and 1928 and Groton ditched fifty. Old Saybrook and Old Lyme have the largest single salt marsh area in Connecticut, almost 2,500 acres.

"Shore Line" Improvement

Thirty of the forty additional miles of stone ballast which the New Haven railroad recently announced would be laid this year as part of a special $11,000,000 program, will be on the "shore line" between Boston and New York, according to an announcement Friday.

Practically all of the New Haven's main lines are stone ballasted with the exception of short stretches which were not completed pending consideration of changes in line and grade. Changed conditions and further study indicate the wisdom of now rock ballasting certain of these stretches to insure smoother riding, and increased comfort to the public through elimination of dust and dirt.

RICHMONDS TROUNCE CHAMPIONS IN ONE-SIDED BENEFIT GAME

Playing headsup baseball behind Andy Kotch, who was pitching his best game of the season, the Richmond Radiators beat the Smoke Shop 8 to 4 in the exhibition game, played at the Academy campus last night for the benefit of the Junior league. While Kotch was allowing the Dusty champs but two hits, his teammates were turning in a brilliant game afield, making but a single error in the six innings of play. On the other hand Eli Beral, the Smokers sub hurler, was touched for nine safeties and the West Siders' defense was hardly airtight.

The hitting of Gaudette, Richmond center fielder, who had three hits, one a double, in four attempts and the fielding of Leo Jarvis, in right for the Moulders, were the features of the game. Leo brought the fans to their feet on three occasions with brilliant smears of hard hit balls. Lussier, playing the role of an outfielder, also turned in a nice catch in right and Phene Tombari, Smoker skipper, won himself a hand with a brilliant stop at third in the fourth.

The outstanding feature of the game was the splendid response of everyone concerned in making it a financial success. Despite the fact that there was only a fair crowd on hand a neat sum was realized for the "kids" league. The players of both clubs, Tommy Simcox and Bill McKnight in the role of umpires, Matt Sheriden and Bill Tirrell as collectors, and John Shaeffer, caretaker at the Academy, all donated their services. As a result of last night's affair the coffers of the Junior league now show sufficient funds with which to send its champs, the Taftville American Legion, to New York next week. Following the final game the directors of the circuit expressed a desire to have their appreciation conveyed to the directors of the Academy for the use of the campus, the recreation commission for what it has done during the past few weeks in the drive to raise funds, the Dusty league for its assistance and all individuals who have assisted in any way at all. The score of last night's game:

ATHLETICS INCREASE LEAD BY BEATING YANKS AGAIN

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3—(AP)—The Athletics completed their rout of the Yankees here today by plastering the champions with a 10 to 2 defeat which gave the home forces three straight in the series and increased the Mackian pennant lead to fourteen and one half games. The three triumphs over the holiday ran the Athletic string to twelve victories and only eight defeats in combat with the fading champions of 1928.

Aided by home runs by Jimmy Dykes and Max Bishop and by some sloppy Yankee work afield, George Earnshaw fairly breezed to his twentieth victory.

The Philadelphia right-hander thus became the first major league pitcher to reach the twenty-mark. One of the four hits off Earnshaw was Gehrig's twenty-ninth home run, hit in the fifth inning.

H. N. S. SWAMPS GOODYEAR IN HOLIDAY GAME

Monday afternoon at Goodyear the Jewett City H. N. S. handed Goodyear a 10-1 beating. The game was a walk-over for the H. N. S., Vachon being invincible, striking out no less than fifteen of the Goodyear batters. The Jewett City boys hit the ball whenever hits meant runs. Slonsky, H. N. S. leftfielder, had a perfect day at bat with a double and two singles. The H. N. S. infield played stellar baseball throughout the game. The Jewett City team is awaiting the outcome of the American Legion-Shyma series at Taftville, as they are to play the winner for the amateur championship of eastern Connecticut.

VIC DARR KAYOES HALL IN THE THIRD ROUND

Vic Darr, local boxer, won on a technical knockout in the third round of a scheduled six round semi-final over Jimmy Hall of Bridgeport who substituted for Teddy Barnes. Darr was master of the situation from the first round until the referee stopped the bout to save Hall from further punishment. Darr injured his thumb again in the first round of the bout but fought a winning fight just the same.

In the main attraction Ruby Bradley won the decision from Howard Artt of Newark, N. J., in ten rounds. The bout was nothing to enthuse over. The other bouts on the card were only fair.

UPSET IN GIRL'S TENNIS TOURNEY AT PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Miss Norma Taubele, of New York, created the first upset in the girl's national tennis tournament in progress at the Philadelphia Cricket club by defeating Miss Olive Wade, of Toronto, anada, 8-6, 6-3, in the second round today.

Miss Wade seeded sixth, is the women's champion of Canada, and is also entered in the women's middle states championships being held in conjunction with the girl's tournament. She put out atherine Wiener, hiladelphia junior champion, in the girl's tournament yesterday.

The Canadian girl gave Miss Taubele a keen battle, but the latter's steadiness and accuracy in placing her shots gave her the match.

Two Californians and one Boston girl advanced to the quarter final round. They were Helen Marlowe, Hollywood, Evelyn Parsons, Palo Alto, and Virginia Rice, Boston.

Miss Marlowe, Pacific coast junior champion, scored a 6-1, 6-1, victory over Audrey Ayes, Long Island. She is seeded fifth. Miss Parsons put out a prominent New England player, Katherine Winthrop, Boston, 6-0, 6-1, and Miss Rice eliminated Hilda Boehm, Malden, Mass., 9-11, 6-2, 6-1, in one of the hardest matches of the tournament.

The other favorites continued to advance. Sarah Palfrey, Boston, 16-year-old defender of the title, conquered Betty Vannaman, Philadelphia, in the second round without the loss of a game.

Play in the doubles started today, but only a few matches were completed.

HUGGINS CONCEDES PENNANT TO CONNIE MACK'S ATHLETICS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, conceded today that the pennant race in the American league was over so far as he was concerned. He intimated he was glad the Mackmen had come through.

"Its all over," he said as the Athletics tumbled the Yankees by 10 to 2 today in the windup of the final series to be played in Philadelphia this year by the leaders and the runners-up. "The A's have it cinched, tied down, nailed to the flagpole or anything you want to say. Its impossible for us to overtake them now.

"Its been a great season. The Yankees got along the best they could, considering the handicap of some weak right handed pitching. I'm not blaming any particular department for the loss of the pennant. Since I couldn't win it, I'm glad Connie did."

In his nine years as manager of the Yankees Huggins has won six pennants and three world championships.

FAVORITES COME THROUGH IN MIDDLE STATES TENNIS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Most of the favorites came through with victories today in the women's middle states tennis tournament at the Philadelphia Cricket club.

Laura Pittinger, Haddon Field, N. J., won two matches, defeating Mary Cutter, Boston, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2, in the first round and beating Janet Kendig, Philadelphia, 6-1, 6-0, in the second round.

Others to reach the third round included Virginia Hilleary, Mrs. John F. Gardiner, Mrs. William Price Newhall, Mrs. C. C. Madeira, Anne Page and Cecelia Riegel, all of Philadelphia; Mrs. William Endicott, Boston, and Dorothy Andrus, Stamford, Conn.

Only two matches in the doubles were played.

INTER-CITY SERIES STARTS SUNDAY

An intercity series between New London and Norwich for the Industrial baseball championship of the county starts Sunday at Hollyhock Island between the Smoke Shop team, winners of the Dustysleague of Norwich, and the Socony team, winners of the league title in New London. The series will consist of three games one in Norwich, one in New London and the third, if necessary, to be decided upon by a toss of a coin.

Arrangements were completed Tuesday night at a conference of the managers of the two clubs held in New London. The matter of finances which had held the series in doubt for some time was settled satisfactorily to each club.

Both clubs have agreed to use the players which competed in the league schedule and there will be no strengthening or importing of players for these games. The Socony is a strong club as is the Smoke Shop and some real baseball can be expected before the series is over. As to the relative merits of the two clubs there is little to chose from, both having played brilliant ball during the season against all kinds of opposition.

JUDGE'S HOMER IN 6TH WINS GAME FOR SENATORS

BOSTON, Sept. 3—(AP)—Joe Judge's home run drive into the left field bleachers in the sixth inning, with two mates aboard, gave the Senators the runs with which they ultimately outlasted the Red Sox in a 10 to 5 victory. Ed Morris was the pitching victim. Fred Marberry put down a Boston threat in the eighth, but Garland Braxton was called to the box when the home forces made another rally in the ninth.

Same Rice furnished the fielding feature, a racing one-handed catch at the expense of Bill Regan in the second.

AMERICAN LEGION SERIES STARTS TODAY AT LOUISVILLE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 3—(AP)—Two youthful baseball teams, victors in a long series of elimination contests in which more than 350,000 boys took part, arrived here today for the opening tomorrow afternoon of the American Legion's junior world series.

The Burke brothers of Buffalo, winners in the divisional contest at Washington, and representing the eastern half of the country, and the White Sox of New Orleans, victors in the western tournament at Colorado Springs, will meet at 2 o'clock, central time, for the first of a three-game series. The games will be played at Parkway field, home of the Louisville Colonels of the American association.

Graham McNamee will give a play-by-play account of the series over a national radio hookup.

The White Sox have won 34 of 35 games this season. The Buffalo lads emerged from a six team league in their home town without a defeat and then went unscathed through a long series of tournaments.

Captain Bill Joyce who will start as pitcher for Buffalo, has been offered a contract by Bill Clymer, pilot of the Buffalo club of the International league but says he plans to attend Holy Cross university next fall.

The winner of the "world series" will be given a trip in a special car to all the world series games this fall.

ZEREMBY WINS FROM FLOWERS ON FOUL

BOSTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)— Jake Zeremby, Lynn lightweight, won on a foul from Bruce Flowers of New Rochelle, N. Y., here tonight in the sixth round, of the Boston Garden's feature bout at Braves field. Flowers had been pounding his opponent about the body from the first bell and the blow which ended the contest was a low right hook which sent Zeremby to the canvas, where he squirmed in pain. Each weighed 134 pounds.

HORMANS AND JONES TIE FOR MEDAL IN NATIONAL AMATEUR

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

PEBBLE BEACH, Cal., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Somebody must have let loose a few good old fashioned college cheers before the battle of Pebble Beach began for the national amateur golf championship.

For the second successive day an under-graduate club-swinger jumped out of the pack to give the defending champion, Bobby Jones, a fight for scoring honors. Today bespectacled, deliberate Eugene V. Homans, of Englewood, N. J., and Princeton university, took over the lion taming role from Gibson Dunlap, Los Angeles collegian and sensation of the opening round. After a half gale had swept hopes all over the seaside course, Homans was tied with Jones for the medal and lead in the 36 hole, two day qualifying test.

Before the wind gathered full force to ruin most prospects of low scoring Homans finished with 72-73—145. Jones, playing under less favorable conditions, wound up with 70-75—145.

Fighting gamely in the wake of the Georgian, Dunlap finished with 69-78—147. The Los Angeles youth at no time was in danger of repeating his record performance of the opening day, losing control of his tee shots and on several occasions narrodly escaping disaster on the ocean's brink.

Jones, in the star double barreled encore of yesterday's main act, shook off his youthful rival from southern California but was unable to outshoot the consistent Princeton star, Homans, whose father was famous on the gridiron for the Tigers.

The champion, again trailed by the biggest gallery, had an eight foot putt on the home green for a birdie four that would have given him undisputed possession of the lead. He missed it, however, by a wid margin just as had lost opportunities on any number of greens. It was the third time in his career that Jones has figured in a tie for the qualifying medal. The Georgian, who has won the title four times in the last five years, was deadlocked with Fred Wright, Jr., of Boston, at the Engineers club in 1920 and again, in 1923 at Flossmoor, with Chick Evans of Chicago. Jones won the medal outright in 1926 at Baltusrol and at Minikahda in 1927.

Dunlap not only lost his gallant bid for the low scoring honors, but was beaten out for third place by two stars from the Pacific northwest, the veteran Dr. O. F. Willing and youthful Donald K. Moe, western amateur champion, both of Portland, Ore. as they did on the first day. Dr. Willing and Moe duplicated each other's scores and were tied with 72-74—146 apiece, just a stroke behind the leaders.

Moe's finish, where he had a chance on the last few holes to wrest the lead from all rivals, was one of the most dramatic of the day. Among the last to finish, the young Oregon ace missed easy putts on both the sixteenth and seventeenth and was on the edge of the 540 yard home green in two, missing his chip for an eagle by so narrow a margin that his birdie 4 was easy.

Scores were sent soaring by the wind that added to the terrors of Pebble Beach and it took cards of 160 or better to get within the select circle of 32 qualifiers who begin the match play, man-to-man battle tomorrow for the championship. Two 18-hole rounds will be played and by tomorrow night the field will be cut to eight.

The casualties, under the conditions, were not as heavy as appeared likely when the high scores began to roll in but the list of victims included Chick Evans of Chicago, the two-time former champion and a finalist as recently as 1927. Evans missed out by only a stroke, taking 81 yesterday and 80 today for 161.

COTTON MEN TO TRY MECHANICAL PICKER

DALLAS —(AP)— A mechanical cotton picker, whose inventors claim it will harvest 500 pounds of seed cotton in 10 hours, is to be tested by the American Cotton Growers' exchange this fall.

Already the picker has been approved by cooperative farm organizations in 14 states. If Texas tests are successful, the exchange, which is handling $90,000,000 worth of cotton this year, has been authorized by its directors to acquire an interest in the mechanical harvester.

Light in weight, the new machine is 36 inches tall, 24 inches wide and six feet long. Aluminum cages house revolving spools that remove cotton from bolls by a whipping motion.

The operator drops the picker-heads on open bolls, spools remove the cotton, suction carries it through a cleaner and it then is dropped into sacks.

A one-horsepower gasoline motor operates the pickerheads, which extend 10 feet on each side of the machine. Its inventors say the cleaning process adds $10 to each bale's value.

The American Cottonpicker corporation, which manufactures the picker, claims hand-pickers average 168 pounds in California tests, while the machine picked from 300 to 400 pounds.

RUST, FOE OF MACHINERY, PROVEN HEALTHY RATION

AMES, Iowa— (AP) —Common iron rust, that has damaged the Iowa farmer's machinery may pay him back by adding pounds to his cattle.

Experiments at Iowa State college show that iron oxide, scientific name for rust, added to cattle ration, is beneficial.

For eight months groups of cattle were fed different rations, and of the lot, the group which ate common iron rust made the best showing. Their ration included a mixture of 98 per cent of bone meal, limestone and potassium iodide, and 2 per cent iron rust. For eight months each steer received an ounce of iron rust a day.

The average gain was 2.62 pounds per head a day, almost one-third more than a lot fed a ration, similar except that the iron rust was omitted.

The cost of the gain was less for the "rust" group by 30 cents per hundredweight, according to John M. Evvard, college feeding expert.

PLANE SEEN AS BOON IN EXPORTING BUSINESS

BERLIN—(AP)—E. B. Filsinger of New York, vice president of the Royal Baking Powder company, is enthusiastic about the airplane as an aid in export trade.

Mr. Filsinger recently arrived here from Johannesburg, South Africa, a distance of 8,000 miles in 104 hours. The plane was piloted by Capt. R. R. Bentley, an Englishman.

"The airplane is the biggest thing yet for export business," said Mr. Filsinger. "In a few weeks I made contracts, investigated the east African market, native food conditions and so on, visited agencies and established new branches, all of which would have been impossible any other way.

"For the busy executive, flying is the only means for personal contact in the export field."

COURTLAND B. BLIVEN MOURNED BY MANY FRIENDS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 3—The funeral of Courtland Bradford Bliven, former proprietor of Bliven Opera House in Westerly and founder of Pleasant View beach, now Misquamicut, and proprietor of the Wigwam hotel, located there, was largely attended at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The services were conducted at Mr. Bliven's home, 94 Main street, by Rev. Lewis A. Walker, pastor of Calvary Baptist church. Burial was in River Bend cemetery. The residence was crowded with relatives and friends of Mr. Bliven, and a room of the home held beautiful floral remembrances. The bearers were members of Narragansett lodge, No. 7, I. O. O. F., of which Mr. Bliven had been a member for 55 years, F. Earle James, Seldem M. Young, Ichabod E. Burdick, W. Sinclair Barker, W. Frank Greenman and C. Fred Ellis.

TOWN COUNCIL THANKED BY MISSISSIPPI VISITORS

At the September meeting of Westerly town council at 9:30 Tuesday morning the absentees were Councilman Farquhar Smith, Joseph Fraser and Rogers Trainer. President Horace E. Burdick, announced that he was in receipt of numerous letters from all over the state of Mississipni expressing the pleasure of the members on the Know Mississipni Better special train, making the Westerly station stop Aug. 15 at the cordiality of their Westerly reception.

A victualizing license was voted John V. Keane, junction of Beach and Elm streets.

The council authorized Town Treasurer James M. Pendleton's to issue town notes to the amount of $50,000 dated Sept. 1 and due March 1, 1930, at 5.87 discount to the Old Colony corporation, Boston.

The annual report of Superintendent of Health D. Samuel C. Webster showed but one case of contageous disease, diphtheria, the first case in six years, or since the Schick test was adopted in Westerly public schools. This case was a school child whose parents had objected to that form of immunizing treatment.

Approval was voted the August report of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown showing a total of 27 arrests for the month, divided as follows:

Double parking of automobiles, 5; possession of intoxicating liquor 2; intoxication, 2; speeding, 2; fugitive from justice, 1; defective automobile brakes, 2; no operator's license, 1; larceny, 2; operation of automobiles on private property, 4; passing a red semaphore traffic beacon, 1; walking on private right of way, 1; parking auto away from curbline, 1; overtime parking, 1; not driving to right of center street line on turns 2.

A letter of complaint was read from Attorney Albert L. Saunders of Boston, with property along the Shore road, claiming that the town dump on Chapman property on Winnapaug road constituted a fire menace and was a nuisance.

In the public hearing to change the existing farming district now on property of John H. Austin of Pawcatuck near the intersection of the old Hopkinton cemetery road for a distance of a 600 foot frontage and a depth of 200 feet, Mr. Austin and his attorney, S. H. Davis appeared. The matter was continued after the hearing closed and will come before the council at its next regular meeting.

Among bills voted paid were those of the South County Public Service Co. for $1,572.05 for street lights mostly at the beaches where there were increased amounts over regular accounts and the board of tax assessors William H. Ledward, Howard E. Thorp and George W. Woodward for $500 each for 1929 services.

Building Inspector Thomas Wills reported for August a total of 70 inspections made, 29 building permits granted; eleven were asked for frame buildings and 10 granted; 2 for brick and stone and 2 granted; 17 for alterations and 17 granted. The permit denied was that heard by the zoning board Aug. 14th.

SAILOR DOZED AT WHEEL— J. E. TREBILCOX, 23, DEAD

Coroner Edward G. McKay of Norwich was at Westerly police headquarters Tuesday in conference with District Coroner John Ferguson regarding the fatal automobile accident near Anguilla brook bridge on the Stonington-Westerly stretch of the Boston Post road Tuesday at 4:55 a. m. James Edward Trebilcox, 23, a first class signalman, attached to U. S. S. Brainbridge, at Newport, R. I., with home address, 415 North 32nd street, Philadelphia, died 50 minutes later at Westerly hospital, where he was taken. Three sailors were on their way back to Newport after spending the holidays in Philadelphia, Charles Bradford, 18, a second class signalman on the Bainbridge, and Norman D. Krause, 19, also a second class signalman, were on the sea with Trebilcox, who occupied the outside position, Bradford was driving and Krause sat in the middle.

Evidently becoming drowsy after the long drive, which had started at 6 o'clock Monday night, Bradford went off the road a little after passing Bailey's filling station and crashed into the cement abutment of the bridge. The Ford bounced back and was bounced by a New York-Boston bus which came up behind.

Trebilcox was badly injured and was rushed to Westerly hospital, where he was attended by Dr. R. B. Shea. He was found to be sufferine fractures of the left forearm and right hand and numerous internal injuries. The right lower chest was crushed and there was a possible rupture of the liver and lung.

Krause was cut about the face by broken glass, while his teeth had cut through his tongue. He is still at teh hospital. The driver escaped injury.

When Medical Examiner Dr. M. H. Scanlon was called into the case, he learned that Bradford had no driving license. He could give no explanation of the accident except to say that he fell asleep at the wheel. Krause also could give no opinion in the matter, as he said he was asleep at the time.

Sergeant Webber in charge of the Groton barracks of the Connecticut state police was notified of the accident and he sent Troopers Smith and Hill to investigate. They stated that at 3 o'clock, two hours before the fatal accident, they had stopped the sailors at East Lyme because the Ford was being driven at a rate of 60 miles an hour. They let the three go on, after warning them.

Patrolman Robert M. Kessel was detailed from Westerly police department to accompany Coroner McKay to the Westerly hospital with the three Groton barracks officers who were investigating the accident. Coroner McKay stated that his inquest will probably be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Stonington town court room.

STOCK MARKET OPENED STRONG, BUT LOST GROUND BEFORE CLOSE OF SESSION

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—With the bull party still in the saddle and riding still harder, the stock market entered the new month today, but progress became increasingly difficult during the afternoon, and before the close of the session some of the ground gained earlier in the day was lost.

More than half a hundred issues were hurled up 2 to nearly 10 points to record high levels, including such leaders as American Telephone, U. S. Steel, International Harvester, Chesapeake and Ohio and Southern Pacific. Recessions of 1 to 5 points from the best levels of the day were fairly general, however, when a wave of profit-taking swept over the market in the afternoon.

Trading was in tremendous volume during the forenoon, the ticker dropping nearly 20 minutes behind the market. The trading slackened up considerably as the upward movement lost force. Selling was attributed largely to fears that the advance, on top of the upturn late last week, was proceeding too rapidly, and weakening the technical position of the market. Fairly heavy calling of loans during the morning also caused uneasiness, but call money held at 9 per cent.

The credit outlook was a factor turning some traders into the paths of caution. Report of still another shipment of more than $1,000,000 in gold from London made an increase in the Bank of England's discount rate seem even more probable at the weekly meeting tomorrow, and some apprehension was repressed lest the federal reserve take further action to restrict speculative use of credit, in view of the recent banking comment on the ineffectiveness of the recent rediscount rate rise in keeping down brokers' loans.

Outstanding points in the day's business news were announcement that Montgomery Ward's August sales reached a new high record 46 per cent. above that month of 1928, and a report that one copper producer had raised the domestic price 1-4 of a cent to 18 1-4 cents a pound. Automobile production reports for August varied. Chevrolet showing a substantial reduction, while Buick and Packard showed gains over the like month of last year.

U. S. Steel was again brought forward as a leader during the upturn, when it was pushed up about 6 points to a record price at 261 3-4, but it lost about two-thirds of its gain later. Youngstown Sheet and Tube rose 5 points to a new top, and the coppers generally responded to the red metal price increase, American Smelting selling up about 3 points to a new peak above 129.

Several of the utilities were hurled upward. American Water Works, American Power and Light, International Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey and Standard Gas and Electric reaching new high levels in wide gains. In the merchandising group, Best & Co., and R. H. Macy mounted about 7 points each to new tops, but Montgomery Ward encountered profit-taking on the August sales announcement, and closed off a couple of points.

Vick Chemical, which has been comparatively quiet for some time, was in active demand, rising a couple of points to a new top. The dividend rate was recently increased, and changes in management, as well as expansion plans, were announced last week. Food shares were a strong group, Corn Products, Fleischmann, Hershey Chocolate, and Kraft Phenix reached new peak prices. Other shares to reach new peaks included Air Reduction, American Type Founders, American Bank Note, Commercial Investment Trust, General American Tank, Otis Elevator, and Union Carbide.

Rails turned irregular. Allegheny Corp., Reading, and Norfolk and Western sold up 2 to 7 points to new tops, while Atchison, New York Central and Nickel Plate lost 2 to 5 in profit-taking. U. S. Freight, which has had a sharp rise since its recent listing on the "big board" tumbled more than 7 points.

Oils were generally inclined to ease, with such shares as Standard of New Jersey and Texas Corp., closing off a point or so. American and Foreign Power, Canada Dry, Columbia Carbon, General Electric, Proctor and Gamble, and Westinghouse lost 2 to 4 points, and Sloss Sheffield Steel dropped about 4 points to a new low for the year at 49.

Cotton was a feature of the commodities, rising 70 cents to $1.25 a bale on continued dry weather. Bullish weather reports also caused firmness in corn, but wheat lost a cent or so a bushel on reports of rain in Argentine and a downturn in the market at Winnipeg.

Foreign exchanges were steady, sterling cables rallying to $4.84 25-32.

BOND MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—Resumption of trading in bonds after the holiday interval found the market steady but listless today. Traders who earlier in the summer had predicted that Labor day would see the beginnings of a revival of interest in the long-dormant fixed-charge security list were forced to revise their opinion, for standard investment bonds gave little or no indication that a rise was in sight.

The Associated Press combined average for forty rails, 40 industrials and utilities moved up slightly during the dull session from the low it established last Friday, as compared with the almost steady recession during the latter part of August. General sentiment, however, continued unfavorable in view of the impression that time money, which was held at 8 3-4 to 9 per cent. for the past fortnight or more, would probably remain firm in the immediate future.

Convertibles, which reflect the trend of the stock market, responded to the advance in shares and a few new highs were scored. American Telephone 4½s sold up to 224½, International Telephone 4½s rose to 224, Public Service of New Jersey to 280 and Southern Pacific 4½s, with warrants, to 99 3-4, all new peaks. Atchison 4½s and both issues of Allegheny Corporation 5s equalled their previous peaks. Most of the convertibles, however, closed below their maximum prices, although they showed nominal net gains for the day. Trading in all issues but the American Telephone debentures and the Allegheny convertibles was in light volume.

Standard railroad bonds ruled irregular in a narrow market, but gains and losses were about equally divided. The stronger issues included Central Pacific 5s, Chicago Great Western 4s, Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s, Lehigh Valley general 4s, Pennsylvania 6s, Northern Pacific prior lien 4s and Seaboard Florida 6s. Texas & Pacific 5s, series C, touched the year's new low of 94 3-4, before recovering for a small net gain, while St. Paul adjustment 5s lost ground after a feeble exhibition of strength.

Industrials and utilities lagged, although some of the latter, notably La-Clede Gas 5s and New York Telephone 6s, advanced on moderate buying.

The United States government issues opened in higher ground, but some of the gains were lost in the later trading and the close was irregular. Liberty fourth 4 1-4s changed hands to a considerable extent, moving within narrow price limits. The foreign list was extremely dull and featureless.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3—(AP)—Bullish cables did their best to lift wheat values to higher ground today but a heavy volume of late sales for profits and a large increase in the visible stocks counteracted the early buoyance and the finish was weak. In contrast, other grains withstood profit-taking pressure and scored moderate gains, their strength attributable to growing alarm over the feed grain situation and diminishing corn crop prospects.

Wheat was unchanged to 1 lower at the last, while corn advanced 1-2 to 1 1-2c for the day and oats 3-8 to 1 1-8c. Provisions were quiet and steady at 7c loss to 10c gain.

The week end passed without interruption of the drought in Argentina, Australia and the domestic corn belt, and the weather news from both hemispheres had an elevating effect on wheat and corn, the only rain reported over the holiday was in the Canadian northwest, holding up threshing operations there, and today it snowed at Cardston and Calgary, Alta., and over-night frost was thought to have caused some damage. Export business picked up a little, with some orders from Australia and Argentina. The drought in the Argentine is reaching toward the danger line and causing increasing apprehension, since the North American crop is now a fairly definite quantity.

The visible supply of wheat increased 5,573,000 bushels to 182,400,000 more than double the 87,914,000 bushels in sight a year ago. Canadian country deliveries Saturday were 2,801,000 bu., against 342,000 a year ago and receipts at Winnipeg today totaled 536 cars.

Private forecasts of the spring wheat crop were a little better than a month ago, averaging 212,000,000 bu., and ranging between 205,000,000 and 220,000,000. The Canadian forecast ran about even with last month from 240,000,000 to 271,000,000 bushels.

Deliveries today totaled 4,700,000 bu., of wheat.

Crop estimates were as bullish as the trade had anticipated and with much of the crop regarded as past aid from rain now the market was strong from start to finish despite dips into profits. Private forecasts averaged 2,509,000,000 bu., a drop of 24,000,000 bu., since Aug. 1.

Lard was firmer with the grains and on buying by cash interests. Other provisions were steady.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—(AP)—Business failures throughout the country during August were less than those recorded for August, 1928. R. G. Dun & Co., reports insolvencies for last month numbering 1,762 compared with 1,852 for the corresponding month last year. Liabilities for last month totaled $33,745,452, as against $58,201,830 for August, 1928.

August sales of the Earl Radio corporation totaled $1,400,000, an increase of 25 per cent. over July, and 300 per cent. above those for August, 1928. The company sold 28,400 sets in August, a new monthly record.

Plans for consolidation of five series of insurance shares trust certificates in the formation of a new $20,000,000 investment trust under the sponsorship of the Insurance Shares Management company, have been virtually completed, it was reported today.

Crude oil production in California last week declined 4,600 barrels. The daily output was estimated at 875,800 barrels, compared with 880,400 in the preceding week.

The Phillips Petroleum company has purchased the 15 retail service stations of the State Oil Co., of Lincoln, Neb., the acquisition marking the entrance of the Phillips organization into Nebraska and is an important addition to its retail marketing facilities in the middle west.

The A. O. Smith corporation of Chicago has received a contract from the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation for 96 helium gas storage tanks for use at the Akron Zeppelin field. The tanks are to have a minimum storage capacity of 1,000,000 cubic feet. The Smith corporation also has received a contract from the navy department for 50 similar tanks to hold 320,000 cubic feet of gas, for use at the Lakehurst, N. J., naval air station.

Station sales of the White Eagle Oil company during August totaled 12,250,000 gallons of gasoline, a new high record and compared with 10,480,000 in August of last year.

An analysis of reports of radio sales as made to the radio division of the National Electrical Manufacturers' association shows that Chicago leads other cities as the most active radio market in the country.

ST. ANDREW'S R. C. CHURCH, COLCHESTER CELEBRATES ITS DIAMOND JUBILEE

St. Andrew's church, Colchester, celebrated on Labor day, its diamond jubilee with a high mass of thanksgiving, a reunion of present and former members on the church lawn and in the homes of Catholic families.

This venerable church now in its 75th year, is the oldest Catholic church edifice in Connecticut.

At ten o'clock Rev. James F. Woods of Hartford sang the jubilee mass in the presence of Rt. Rev. Mgr. M. H. May, of Norwich, Rev. David O'Donnel of Hartford; former pastors, Rev. Myles P. This congregation included former members from Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and even Colorado, as well as representatives from the other churches of the community and from the synagogue.

After mass there was a happy reunion on the church lawn where lunch was served.

Blessing of Pontiff.

After mass Fr. Mooney read a cablegram forwarded from the apostolic delegate in Washington, D. C., announcing the apostolic blessing of Pius the eleventh for the St. Andrew jubilee and signed by Cardinal Gasparri. The papal delegate, P. Fumasoni Biondi, extended his own cordial congratulations.

Fr. Mooney gave the history of the parish. He first related the development of Catholicism in the eastern United States. Noting that Connecticut Catholics were early members of the Baltimore diocese, then of the Boston diocese, later of the Hartford diocese, when it included Connecticut and Rhode Island, and finally Connecticut alone, from 1872. He paid tribute to the apostolic priests and bishops who went here and there to minister to the scattered Catholics of those years.

Mooney in the presence of the family and numerous friends of the deceased. Miss Alice Brown, the organist, was assisted in the singing by Miss Geraldine Dowd and Miss Agnes Smith.

WEDDING.

Tarnowski-Conyer.

Labor day, Sept. 2nd, Arthur Tarnowski and Miss Elsie Conyer were married in St. Andrew's church at nine o'clock by Rev. Philip J. Mooney, Henry Tarnowski was best man and Miss Florence Tarnowski was bridesmaid. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the groom, a large number of local and out of town friends and relatives being present. People from Middletown, Portland, New Britain, New Haven, Lebanon, Salem, New York city and from points in Massachusetts were included in the gathering.

THREE PAIRS OF TWINS IN FRESHMAN CLASS

A great deal of last minute pressure is just now being put upon Dr. David D. Leib, director of admissions at Connecticut college, at New London, by parents who seek to enter their daughters for the freshman class this fall. Telegrams and telephone calls are coming in from up and down the Atlantic seaboard, as well as from other states, begging that the limit be extended to admit at least this one more. But the lists have been closed, and September 18, when the new students come in for freshman week, 178 strong, they will constitute the largest class ever admitted into that institution.

An analysis of the list shows some interesting facts. In its geographical distribution, the class will not be markedly different from those of other years. It will, however, be distinguished by three pairs of twins, and one of a fourth whose other sister will be in Swathmore. These are the first twins ever to be admitted, and since several of them are said to be what is known as identical twins, hardly distinguishable, a good deal of confusion and some merriment may well be forseen. The twins are Mary and Margaretta Fife of Pittsburgh, Grace and Ruth Myers from New York, Janet and Virginia Swan from Lowell, and Betty Zerwick from New Jersey.

The class will include also several daughters or nieces of distinguished men. Among them are Jane Wiley Benedict, niece of Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times; Giola Brill, daughter of the illustrious psychoanalyst, Dr. A. A. Brill; Alice Record, daughter of Dr. Samuel J. Record, professor of forest products at Yale; Abbie Usher of Plainville, niece of Governor Trumbull; Lucile Hayward Cain, daughter of Frank C. Cain, mayor of Cleveland Heights; Mary Babbitt, daughter of James Babbitt, professor of Physical education at Haverford; Dorothy Hamilton, daughter of George T. Hamilton, the well known artist.

There has been this year a decrease in the number of students who must, in full or in part, work their way through. The number of tasks which the college has to offer such students is, of necessity, limited. Because of its location, Connecticut college is able to do little in the way of securing part-time off-campus employment for its students. And in addition to these handicaps, such scholarship funds as are available are most of them restricted to the use of upper classmen. The theory of this arrangement is that preference should be given to students who have proven their worth by at least one year of college grading. But leaves a real need to be met. Dr. Leib, pointing this out, declared that college officially everywhere recognize that students who have the will and the ability to get a college education against such odds constitute the best college material. He regards it, therefore, as one of the great needs of this young college to provide scholarship funds which will be available to freshmen.

NEW LONDON COUNCIL TABLES PLAN FOR MAPLE-PEQUOT AVS. UNDERPASS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 3—The city council held a meeting of two hours' duration this evening with four of the seven members present. Councilors May, Murray and Fox were absent. One-quarter of the time was consumed in reading minutes. About 20 applications for permits to build were granted. A contract for building a retaining wall on Bolles avenue was awarded to L. M. Beckwith. Four properties are to be protected by the wall. The Connecticut Power Co. was authorized to establish a new lighting system in the Huntington street section. Budget figures for the ensuing year were received for record.

The completion of the transfer of land from the city to the federal government for Coast Guard academy purposes was authorized.

The police force petitioned for an increase of 15 per cent in pay. The matter was referred to the new council to be elected next month.

Property owners and residents of Maple avenue petitioned for an underpass to Pequot avenue from Maple avenue, at an estimated cost of $23,311. The city engineers suggested as an alternative the construction of a 50-foot wide street below Maple avenue. A map of the proposed work was shown. The matter was tabled.

Alexander Collected $2,888,961

A statement by the tax collector showing the collections for the year $2,888,961.43, was made and received for record.

The city manager presented a communication regarding the disposition of ashes and waste. The only place the city has is Calkins park and that will soon be made un-usable. Disposition of the waste was considered by incineration, but no result was reached.

Residents and property owners on Grove street, asking for a gas main on that highway, were denied the privilege, because they would not agree to spend a sum to compensate the company for putting in the main.

Mrs. Douglas' Son Heard

Mrs. Annabel Douglas, whose land at the corner of Blackhall and Truman streets, is alleged to encroach on the sidewalk, made a proposition for an eight-foot wide sidewalk. Thhe city wanted a nine-foot walk, claiming that the Myers survey showed an encroachment upon city land. Mrs. Douglas tonight, through her son, Dr. Walter Douglas, withdrew the proposition. A hot letter was read in the council from Douglas, in which he claimed that the city manager threatened him. This was denied by the city manager, who held that the proposal of the city for a nine-foot walk was entirely legal.

Douglas offered to give a nine-foot walk if they would pay him for the damages to his property. He then asked that a petition which he had before the council for a garage on the land should be immediately acted upon, but the council would take no note of that. Dr. Douglas claimed that the property had been in the possession of the family 109 years. He said that the survey, establishing the street line was merely marks on the map. The city had refused to exercise any right it had for 79 years and had, therefore, lost its title. He also claimed that the city had grabbed land on Cedar Grove avenue to make a highway.

The council refused to give Clarence W. Thompson permission to establish a gasoline station on his property on Pequot avenue. Thep roperty in question is within the residential zone of the zoning ordinance. The government has given Thompson the right to extend a wall into the harbor. Now there is a question as to whether the authority of the government, the state and the city conflicts.

Councilor Whiton said that if the city did not have an ordinance binding its authority on water-front property, it should have one. Referred to the director of law.

The heirs of the Avery estate, Church street, who were ordered to demolish property that had gone to decay, asked for and were granted an extension of time for the demolition, for 30 days. They claim that there were three parties who desire to purchase the property and are to tear it down.

STORRS HENS FALL OFF IN EGG PRODUCTION

The egg production for the 43rd week showed a decline over last week's production of 184 eggs or 2.6 but with the lights being turned on September 1st the Storrs contest management hopes this downward trend will be checked during the remaining weeks. The total production was 3,411 eggs or a yield of 48.7. The 1,000 birds have a grand total of 132,167 eggs up to last Wednesday night. This is an average of a little better than 132 eggs per bird and within four eggs of the average per bird last year when the contest closed.

The Leghorn pens seem to be taking a turn in winning the weekly totals. For this week Hanson's pen of Leghorns from Corvallis, Oregon, came through wit ha lay of 60 eggs thus being the best pen in the contest for the 43rd week. Breed Theatre

Cocktails, swiming parties and all varieties of that great American pastume, "making whoopee," are on tap in the film version of "A Single Man," adapted from the famous stage hit in which John Drew once starred.

In this new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature, which opened today at the Breed theatre as a co-starring vehicle for Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle, it would seem that party experts acted as technical advisors during the filming.

Certainly it kept everybody on the jump to interpret all of the "whoopee" sequences that keep this film pepped up with spicy action from the opening flash to the final fadeout.

It is little wonder that Miss Pringle, as Cody's discreet secretary, was content to sit back and allow him to plunge on his belated quest for romance. Womanly, she certainly knew that he would come home a sadder but wiser man when the playing was all over.

Harry Beaumont, who directed the feature, is to be credited with another display of fine understanding of the younger generation. He has repeated his triumph of "Our Dancing Daughters" and has proven his right to be known as the film's foremost glorifier of the American boy and girl.

Marceline Day and Edward Nugent head the elaborate supporting cast.

One moment a sluggish muddy stream, bearing upon its bosom the laden stern-wheelers of pre-Civil war days, between banks sheltering stately plantations and vast estates—in the next breath a swirling, roaring flood-maddened demon of destruction, sweeping everything before it in its mad rush to the sea—the old Mississippi was truly a "river of romance." As pungent as a mint julep, as refreshing as the smile of the lovely Southern belles of the 'Sippi estates, is the all-talking romance-drama "The River of Romance," opening at the Broadway tomorrow with a stellar cast comprising Charles (Buddy) Rogers, Mary Brian, Wallace Beery, Fred Kohler, June Collyer, Henry B. Walthall, Natalie Kingston and other favorite. Filmed from Booth Tarkington's novel "Magnolia" the "River of Romance" gives a true picture of the old South of 1840, with its bewildering code of honor, calling for duels and blood feuds, when a quick trigger finger meant life or death, when river gamblers ran riot, and when the cold, rigid aristocracy of the Southland dominated all, the "River of Romance" offers at once stirring adventure, tingling romance, sparkling comedy—everything that a good talking picture should have. The surrounding program includes the Tiny Town Revue, a clever troupe of midget artists of song and dance, Codee & Orth, that ridiculous pair in "Stranded in Paris," the clever Neal Sisters, Broadway favorites in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," and the latest Fox Movietone news. Sunday next marks a red-letter day for Broadway fans, in the arrival of "The Dance of Life," that super-production which still has the S. R. O. sign busy on Broadway, New York, Hal Skelly, the original "Skid" of "Burlesque" the tremendous stage hit from which "The Dance of Life" was filmed, has his original role in the production, and is teamed with vivid, alluring Nancy Carroll as the little girl he left behind in his mad quest for fame. A Broadway chorus and a sterling cast of screen and stage favorites, with some beautiful scenes in natural colors, make "The Dance of Life" a production to remember and typical of the wonderful "new show world" program booked by the Broadway.

Palace Theatre

A cross section of college life is graphically portrayed in Columbia's all-talking drama of the campus, entitled "The College Coquette." The picture will be shown at the Palace theatre on Thursday. All the incidents that linger in the memory long after graduation and serve to make college days the happiest in a person's whole life have been caught by the camera. The thrill of the football skirmish, the rooting for the home team, the practice matches, the training in the gym, the fellow who got "peeved" with his chum for cutting in on him when he was dancing with his best girl, the "razzing" of freshmen and the initiation into the mysteries of college life and the various frats, are included as backgrounds for an appealing drama of the friendship of two girls and the boys they each admire.

Under the skillful direction of George Archainbaud, "The College Coquette," is reported to be one of the most natural campus pictures to reach the screen. The location sequences were taken at Occidental college in California and in many of them the students and faculty participate giving an atmosphere impossible to obtain otherwise.

Ruth Taylor has the title role and makes an ideal coquette. Her friend of the "clinging vine" type is portrayed by Jobyna Ralston. The masculine section of the school is headed by William Collier, Jr., as a pupil and John Holland as coach.

Also Pathe News, an all talking comedy, "The Bachelor," and Vitaphone acts.

TAFTVILLE STOREKEEPER ENDS HIS LIFE; BODY WAS FOUND IN CELLAR

Possibly affected by the extreme heat of the past few days and despondent over the death of his wife which occurred a few months ago, John Zuerner, 60, who lived on Maennerchor avenue, Taftville, where he conducted a grocery store, ended his life in the cellar of the building some time Tuesday. His body was found hanging there Tuesday afternoon about 2 o'clock and Medical Examiner C. C. Glidersleeve, who was called, made a finding of suicide.

Zuerner had the store open in the early part of the morning, but later apparently closed the store and went into the cellar where he took his life. Early in the afternoon when a man who was to deliver ice cream at the store found he could not get into the place because it was locked up and no one responded to his rapping, he went to the gasoline station conducted at 156 Norwich avenue by Mr. Zuerner's son Adam and told him of the peculiar circumstances at the elder Zuerner's place. When entrance into the building was made by breaking in, the body was found in the cellar.

Mr. Zuerner was born in Germany, but had lived for many years in Taftville and was an industrious and generally respected resident of the village. He is survived by three sons, Adam of 12 Maennerchor avenue, George, who lives in Pennsylvania, and Hartwell, who is a clerk in a Norwich bank and lived with his father in the house on Maennerchor avenue. He also leaves a daughter, Mrs. Edward Eckert of Taftville.

LITTLE GLIMPSES OF SOME WELL-KNOWN ARTISTS

When the Lyme Art association celebrated children's day at Old Lyme, Conn., last year, they arranged for some of the artists to guide the children around and begin their education in the fine arts by short talks on whatever pictures attracted them. Gregory Smith, one of the exhibiting members of the Lyme colony and a man not much given to speeches, especially before such merciless critics as children, was nevertheless asked to talk for a few minutes on whatever subject he thought would interest them. Mr. Smith chose to expand on Wilson Irvine's brook picture, taking it for granted that that particular brook was situated in Hamburg, near Old Lyme.

He had spun quite a long and absorbing yarn about what strikes a painter's eye as he wanders through meadow and field with his easel and canvas, and was allowed to finish with a flourish how enchanting that particular brook was in Hamburg (he could easily see why Mr. Irvine should have chosen it to paint) when a small boy raised his hand and, with unnecessary vim shrieked over the heads of his fellow-pupils, "But mister, the title of that picture you're talking about is 'A Brook in Wales' ".

An old song extolling the joys of life on the ocean wave which has always been a favorite might be varied, since variety is the spice of life, by an interest in the life that goes on beneath the seas. Harry L. Hoffman, who spends his summers in Old Lyme, Conn., and is an active member of the Lyme Art association, has for the past 15 years been deeply interested in underseas activities and made many sketches on the coral reefs of Nassau and Bermuda and in other tropical waters. He has been associated with William Beebe in several of his expeditions, notably that to Bermuda last spring, as a result of which he has painted a number of highly romanitc and entertaining canvases with underseas subjects. One, with angel and butterfly fish and other finny folk hovering about an alluring red-headed mermaid, was shown in the 28th annual exhibition of the association. Mr. Hoffman has also incorporated fish and coral and sponges with their multitude of graceful shapes and exquisite colorings into a scenic wallpaper called "Fairie Seas," which a prominent wall-paper house has brought out this year.

Mrs. Hoffman, known in the art world as Beatrice Hoffman, has used motifs from undersea life for silk murals, tiles, and in other ways. Young Jack Hoffman, aged nine, bids fair to follow in his artist parents' footsteps. For several years he has been painting, always in oils and frequently on quite large canvases, large, that is, in proportion to his size. This summer, however, he has painted a small, but rather remarkable, landscape wholly unaided, in which all his values are correct. He remarked recently that he was very much afraid he was going to be an artist.

Return Envelopes
THERE are many times a month, and twelve times as many times a year when you have need to enclose a return envelope in a letter you are mailing out. Indeed, return envelopes are a real necessity in a business of any magnitude.
Perhaps you have been self-addressing your return envelopes on the typewriter. Perhaps you have felt that this was well enough.
But wouldn't it be more dignified and business-like to have your return envelopes PRINTED in distinctly attractive type, in color maybe, and with a force and expression that would stamp your individuality upon your correspondent? We'll say it would!
Let us suggest a return envelope that will bespeak for your business some personality.

POETRY

The Ship Among The Icebergs

A fearless shape of brave device,
Our vessel drives through mist and rain
Between the floating ships of ice,
Those navies of the northern main;
Those Arctic ventures blindly hurled,
The proofs of nature's olden force,
Like fragments of a crystal world
Long shattered from its sky course.

These are the hurricanes that fright
The middle sea with dreams of wrecks,
And freeze the south winds in their flight
And chain the Gulf Stream to their decks.
At every dragon prow and helm
There stands some viking as of yore,
Grim heroes from the boreal realm,
Where Odin rules the spectral shore.

Up signal there! and let us hail
Yon looming phantom as we pass
Note all her fashion, hull and sail,
Within the compass of your glass.
See at her mast the steadfast glow
Of that one star of Odin's throne;
Up with our flag, and let us show
The constellation on our own.
And speak her well; for she might say,
If from her heart the words could thaw,
Great news from some far frozen bay,
Or the remotest Esquimaux.

No answer but the sullen flow
Of ocean heaving long and vast;
An argosy of ice and snow,
The voiceless North swings proudly past

Dreaming and Doing

We sometimes think: "If I were rich
What great things I would do!
I'd use my wealth in useful work,
And help the needy, too.
I'd look around to see what needs
My money could supply.
And finding any one in want
I would not pass him by."

But most of us are not so poor
That we can do no good,
There's many a need we might supply
And if we would, we could.
So, if you want to help, look Around will show you how.
Don't wait for wealth; do all you can
To help the helpless now!

AIR TRANSPORT FOUND WRECKED WITH EIGHT PERSONS ABOARD DEAD

The Transcontinental Air Transport, City of San Francisco, Had Been Struck by Lightning—Was Found 26 Miles South of Gallup, N. M.—Indications Are That the Transport Flew Out of Her Course, Seeking to Dodge Thunder Storms—It Was All Metal, Tri-motored and One of the Newest Transports in the Service.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 4—(AP)—Trans-Continental Air Transport officials here tonight confirmed a report of the wreck of one of their giant air liners 26 miles south of Gallup, N. M., in the Black Rocks wash, with the death of eight persons aboard. The official said the plane had been struck by lightning.

D. H. Kelsey, owner of a trading post of the Consolidated Mines company at at Zuni, N. M., notified Manager Moser Winslow he was sending a truck to the plane to bring in the bodies of the eight victims.

The eight persons aboard the air transport were:

Passengers:
Mrs. J. B. Raymond, Glendale, Cal.
A. N. McGappey, Albuquerque, N. M.
William H. Beers, New York.
M. N. Campbell, Cincinnati.
Harris Livermore, Boston.
Crew:
J. B. Stowe, chief pilot.
A. E. Dietel, co-pilot.
C. F. Canfield, courier.

VEERED OFF COURSE TO DODGE THUNDER STORMS

WINSLOW, Ariz., Sept. 4—(AP)—The Trans-Continental Air Transport liner City of San Francisco was reported found at Black Rock, 25 miles south of Gallup, N. M., with all on board dead.

First reports of the finding of the wrecked ship indicated it had been struck by lightning after veering off its regular course yesterday to dodge storms in New Mexico.

It was an all-metal trimotored transport, one of the newest in the service, and had left Albuquerque at 10:22 o'clock yesterday morning for Los Angeles.

Pilot J. B. Stowe, one of the veteran navigators of the line was at the controls when the big monoplane headed into the electrical storm swept western region.

Reports from the area over which the last flight of the City of San Francisco was made, indicated the ship continued over the regular course to Grants, New Mexico, then apparently seeking to dodge the thunder storms, flew to the north over Old Fort Defiance, in the Navajo Indian reservation of northern Arizona, adjoining the New Mexico border.

From that point it veered southward, flying over Houck, a trading post on the Santa Fe line, near the New Mexico border, where residents reported it proceeding at noon yesterday.

Houck is about 35 miles southwest of Gallup, N. M. Late today an Indian came into the Houck trading post and reported that a big plane was on the ground on the side of a mountain ten miles from town.

First confirmation of the story of the Indian came when the Santa Fe railroad agent at Thoreau, N. M., early to night reported a rural mail carrier had found the wrecked air liner in the Black Rock valley, twenty-five miles south of Gallup, N. M.

He said the one woman and seven men were dead, and that the ship apparently had been struck by lightning.

Trans-continental transport officials were reluctant to permit any information concerning the wreck to go out from here and ordered the field cleared of newspaper representatives.

The area in which the wreck occurred is practically all volcanic formation, Brooklyn lava beds with jagged rock. It is described by fliers as one of the worst bits of terrain in the United States.

This is the heart of the "wild west," the home of the last of the large tribes of American Indians, the Zuni reservation being near the scene of the wreck, with the Navajo reservation adjoining it.

BODY OF MAJ. WOOD FOUND 38 MILES N. W. OF NEEDLES

NEEDLES, Cal., Sept. 4.—(AP)— A sixty-hour search for the veteran pilot, Major John H. Wood, 32, Wausau, Wis., ended today with discovery of his body behind the motor of his racing airplane at a point 38 miles northwest of Needles, dashing faint hopes that he, like his mechanic, Ward Miller, 25, might have leaped to safety after a wing of the ship exploded early Monday.

The news from isolated Piute Springs was brought by E. Burli Smith and Bobby Loutt, Los Angeles air men, who led a land and air search for Wood after his disappearance on a projected non-stop race to Cleveland from Los Angeles.

Risking their lives in the treacherous, rough desert waster, they landed a small biplane near the wreckage today after locating the plane late yesterday.

In the cabin cockpit they found Wood's torn body, resting directly behind the big 425 horsepower motor.

The ship had not burned but a wing was gone. The gasoline loaded structure was believed to have exploded by a bolt of lightning.

Smith and Loutt expressed the belief that Wood had driven his machine into the heavy electrical storm that struck the district Monday. Apparently, they said the ripping crosswinds unbalanced the ship and when the wing tank exploded, threw it into a tailspin. Helpless, the plane probably dropped crazily to earth and was demolished. There were indications that the motor had been running when the ship struck.

PILOT OF MISSING PLANE HAD PREVIOUS EXPERIENCE

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(AP)—J. D. Stowe, pilot of the missing plane of the Transcontinental Air Transport, was at the controls during the only other accident the T. A. T. has had and at that time won the praise of all his passengers for averting disaster.

It was at Clovis, N. M., on July 9 on the opening westward journey of the plane-train service. One plane, with Amelia Earhart among the passengers, had just taken off and Stowe prepared to take up a second plane, the City of Los Angeles.

As he was coming down the runway a combination of adverse conditions which could not have been foreseen threw the plane into a ground-loop and headed it at 60 miles an hour straight for the hangar.

By expert manipulation of the controls Stowe swerved the plane so that it did not strike the hangar headon, although one wing cut a long gash through the hangar's side. The tip of the metal wing was crumpled and cut and the plane was put out of commission for the time, but it did not turn over, as so often happens in a ground loop and not one of the ten passengers or the crew of three was so much as scratched.

The passengers were so pleased with Stowe's coolness and ability in the emergency that they made an unanimous request of the field management that Stowe be permitted to pilot the substitute ship. The City of San Francisco, the plane now missing with its eight occupants, was then wheeled from the hangar and flown into Los Angeles by Stowe without any untoward incident.

PLAN TO REORGANIZE THE PARKER-SMITH CO.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 4—(AP)—A plan of a new organization to assist stockholders of the defunct Parker-Smith company was offered to the preferred stock holders tonight at a meeting in the Hotel Taft. The plan was not for refinancing nor for reorganization of the Parker-Smith company, but for the organization of an entirely new concern, to preserve the assets of the bankrupt firm, and to assume its liabilities.

The plan was offered by F. W. White, mortgage broker of New York, who stated he was ready to underwrite the new organization up to $750,000 and was backed by New York banking interests. This amount, he said, would be raised provided an additional $250,000 could be raised by Connecticut people, interested in the project. The plan is to raise $150,000 from preferred stockholders and $100,000 from members of the board of directors of the new concern.

White further stated that the preferred stock of the Parker-Smith company would be exchanged with certain provisions for stock in the new company. The ratio exchange according to White would be based on a person owning $10,000 worth of preferred stock at $100 a share.

DEATH OF WILLIAM RHINELANDER STEWART

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(AP)—William Rhinelander Stewart, lawyer, philanthropist and organizer of the committee which built the Washington arch at Washington square, died today at his Park avenue home. He was 76 years old.

Mr. Stewart was appointed to the state board of charities in 1882, and had served continuously since except for four years from 1900, when he declined re-election. He helped to organize the state conference of charities and correction in 1900, and was later its president.

Graduated from Columbia university law school in 1873, he practiced for a time, but retired to devote his attention to philanthropy and business. He was president of the Rhinelander Real Estate company, a trustee of the Greenwich Savings bank and a director of the Corn Exchange bank.

CARETAKER CAUGHT BY HIS OWN BURGLAR ALARM

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 4—(AP)—A burglar alarm of his own invention proved the undoing of Ovila Collard, of this city, while he was engaged as a caretaker at the home of Charles Auclair.

Collard complained to his employer that silverware had been stolen from the home and suggested that a burglar alarm be set up. He installed the apparatus himself so that further thefts would be prevented.

The Auclairs returned from their summer home yesterday unknown to Collard. They were awakened by the burglar alarm and saw their caretaker climbing in the window. Collard was arrested. Today he pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny and was sentenced to two months in the house of correction.

SENTENCED 5 TO 10 YEARS FOR THEFT OF JEWELRY

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4—(AP)—John Reid, 39, of New York city, was sentenced today to 5 to 10 years in the Easton penitentiary for the theft of jewelry from four houses in Philadelphia.

Reid, with a woman companion known as May Essex and Bessie Robinson, who is a fugitive, was charged with taking the jewelry while the couple inspected houses on the pretext that they were about to buy them.

Warrants for Reid's arrest for similar offenses said to have been committed in Fitchburg, Mass., Bryn Mawr, Elkins Park, Pa., and New York city were presented to the sentencing judge.

STRIKING OF LARGE WHALE DELAYED STEAMER YARMOUTH

YARMOUTH, N. S., Sept. 4—(AP)—The steamer Yarmouth en route from Boston to this port was delayed in arrival today as the ship struck a large whale off Yarmouth Cape, cutting into the mammal so deeply that the ship had to be stopped and backed to free the body from the prow. The whale died.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 4—(AP)—Despite the fact that several questions still are unsettled, and among them very important ones, Premier Ramsey MacDonald honestly believes that the outstanding difficulties in the naval conversations between Great Britain and the United States are not insuperable.

LONDON, Sept. 4—(AP)—Khalid Sheldrake, president of the Western Islamic association made public that he said was the first official declaration by the Arab congress in Palestine to be received here and which asserted the Zionist policy was fundamentally the cause of the outbreaks.

LONDON, Sept. 4—(AP)—Great Britain's policy toward extra territoriality in China was officially made known today with the publication by the foreign office o fthe diplomatic note delivered in Nanking, August 12 in which it was stated the time is not ripe for the Chinese government to assume full control of foreigners in the country.

EIGHT CONN. COLLEGE ALUMNAE BECOME BRIDES

NEW LONDON, Sept. 4—Eight marriages during the summer are to be set down in the records of the alumnae or of the student body at Connecticut college.

Of these summer brides, three were members of the class of 1923. Miss Carmela Anastasia of New Haven, who has been teaching in the Thompson Junior high school, was married in New London on July 8 to Ernest A. Grenquest and is now living in Springfield. Miss Katherine Parker Culver of Mt. Clair, was married on July 6 to Ronald Wilson Kent, also of Mt. Clair. On August 24 Miss Marjorie Calista Knox of Terryville became Mrs. William Henry Doland Rice and is now living at Milford. The names of two of the grooms are unknown. Report has come that Margaret Stewart Meredith of the class of 1925 was married in Balboa and that Miss Jean Satherthwaite of Long Island, was also married. June was the month which Miss Katherine Kline chose for her marriage to Frank Gookie Karslake. They are now living in California.

One of the summer brides was in fact a bride of several months before the announcement was made. Miss Frances Helen Hall of South Willington, who was graduated last June, announced after her graduation that she had been married in January to Clarke Staples. There were rumors on the campus that a member of the graduating class had been married during the year but no one at the college knew who it might be.

One senior who had expected to return to college this fall and be graduated next June, Miss Edna Whitehead of Hartford, decided also not to postpone the happy event of her marriage. On July 22 in Willimantic she became Mrs. Lowell C Gibson. This announcement will hardly come as a surprise to her fellow students. Mr. Gibson was graduated in June from the Coast Guard academy at New London and is now stationed at that post. The appointment is for a three years term, after which he will probably be transferred to service on the pacific coast. At present Mr. and Mrs. Gibson are keeping house in an apartment on Broad street. Mrs. Gibson is a dauzhter of Alexander Whitehead, chief engineer at the Pratt and Whitney factories. Mr Gibson's home is in Flint, Michigan. Mrs. Gibson plans to continue her studies at Connecticut college this fall, adding a course in domestic acclence, probably carrying the work over a term of two years.

SERIOUSLY INJURED WHEN THROWN FROM MOTORCYCLE

WATERBURY, Sept. 4—(AP)—Burl Towles, 26, of 4 Clinton street, West Haven, is in a critical condition in St. Mary's hospital here and is not expected to live. Towles was injured late tonight when he was thrown from the motorcycle he was operating and knocked unconscious on the Cheshire road, near here.

Towles was on his way to New Haven and was being trailed in an automobile by his brother, Louis, and his employer, Fred Guildersleeve of 88 Kensington street, New Haven. He was rushed to the hospital in his brother's car. Coroner John P. Monzani of this city is conducting an investigation of the accident. It is believed that Towles was thrown when the front wheel of his motorcycle struck a small stone and forced the handlebars from his control.

LARGE DISTILLING PLANT RAIDED IN BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, Sept. 4—(AP)—Making a raid on a coal yard at 613 Knowlton street, this evening, members of the bureau of investigation uncovered one of the largest liquor distilling plants ever found in the city and as a result, Steve Cheonak, 35, of 772 Madison avenue, a mechanic, is under arrest on a charge of violating the state liquor law.

Cheonak was arrested by Lieutenant Michael Arnolsky, and Detective Sergeants Walter Augur and Patrick J. Devine, and held at police headquarters under bonds of $1,000.

Police discovered a large 300 gallon still in operation, in one of the coal bins.

PILOT KILLED WHEN PLANE FELL 2,000 FEET

TALLULAH, La., Sept. 4—(AP) — Gene Schichaur, 25-year-old pilot, formerly of New York and J. L. Cason, 20, son of the Parish tax assessor, were killed late today when the biplane in which they were flying fell approximately 2,000 feet on a plantation near here. Schichaur lately was employed in cotton boll weevil dusting.

"CHICAGO WE WILL" DOWN; WAS ALOFT 290 HOURS, 57 MINUTES

CHICAGO, Sept. 4—(AP)—The plane, "Chicago We Will," in which Russell Mossman and C. E. Steel were seeking an endurance flight record, was forced down at 2:28 p. m. Chicago daylight time this afternoon after having been aloft in their Stinson-Detroiter for 290 hours and 57 minutes. Magneto trouble forced their descent.

FAKIR MET DEATH PERFORMING COFFIN TRICK

MOLDES, Cordoba, Argentina, Sept. 4—(AP)—A fakir named Blacaman, who has amazed thousands by his ability to emerge alive after being buried in a coffin, was dead today when the coffin was dug up after three hours in the ground. Examination showed that he had made strenuous efforts to release himself from his self-imposed tomb.

Officers And Crew Of Graf Zep Lionized

Had Circled the Globe in 20 Days, 4 Hours and 18 Minutes—Landed at 2.52 A. M., E. S. T., Tuesday.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin reposed in its home hangar tonight after having set a new record for world circling by any means and then setting up an ever better mark of 20 days, 4 hours and 18 minutes.

Her officers and crews, idols of a tremendous German welcome, finally obtained much needed rest after a month of blazing new air trails without a single serious damage to their ship or injury to passengers. The twenty-two passengers, including two women, who made the trip from Lakehurst aboard in the festivities to which this city, and in lesser measure all Germany, gave itself up.

Only Captain Hugo Eckener, the commander who guided his beloved ship around the world from Lakehurst to Lakehurst before turning her over to his First Assistant Captain Ernst Lehmann, was missing. He had remained in America to discuss plans for giving dirigibles added importance in the world.

Apparently the Graf and its crew are now to have a period of rest, official denial has been made that another trans-Atlantic trip was contemplated this autumn. It has been tentatively arranged for the airship to be utilized for Arctic exploration in an expedition to get under way next April.

Meanwhile, beside the hangar of the Graf, a new and larger hangar is nearly two thirds completed which will be the home for dirigibles to be built embodying ideas of Dr. Eckener making them even more suitable for long distance transport.

The Zeppelin landed here at 8:52 a. m. (2:52 a. m. e. s. t.) today amid the boom of cannon and the cheers of an immense throng. Its transatlantic voyage had required 67 hours and 34 minutes to cover about 4,495 miles.

Storms off the Azores forced detours which cut down its speed but for the remainder of the voyage across the northern coast of Spain and thence diagonally across France conditions were ideal.

TO ESTABLISH TRANS-OCEANIC DIRIGIBLE LINES

AKRON, O., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Although no definite steps have been taken, the Goodyear-eppelin and German Zeppelin corporations intend to establish trans-oceanic dirigible lines, it was announced today at the conclusion of conferences between Dr. Hugo Eckener, inventor of the Graf Zeppelin, and F. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear company.

Eckener said the two firms undoubtedly would join in forming Zeppelin lines, but said no definite arrangements had been made. Litchfield said it would require from two to four years to place the lines in operation after the details have been worked out. He said he and Eckener had "been discussing all phases of lighter-than-air transportation all over the world which will mean closer cooperation between all units involved." He did not explain what "units" were involved but revealed that his corporation had kept the Dollar steamship lines, informed of its Pacific plans and has been in touch with New York financial houses.

Litchfield also announced that Knut Eckener, son of the commander of the Graf Zeppelin, will join the Goodyear-Zeppelin staff here this fall.

Congestion of the lungs, following an illness of several months, caused his death.

Mr. Proctor retired from active work a few months ago when he sold his chain of theatres in New York and New Jersey to Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation and stepped down from his acknowledged place as dean of vaudeville managers.

Frederick F. Proctor was born in Dexter, Me., in 1851. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Georgina Proctor and two daughters, Mrs. Frank Bonnell and Mrs. Lester Reilly, all of Larchmont.

JURY SELECTED FOR TRIAL OF LABOR LEADERS

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 4—(AP)—The almost herculean task of selecting twelve jurors to try the Gastonia labor leaders and strikers for murder of a police chief was ended this afternoon, nine days after Judge M. V. Barnhill convened court to try the case—and the prosecution attorneys asked for a recess until tomorrow to enable them to hold a last minute conference.

When a tall, thin farmer, John Phillips, father of three children, was passed by the defense attorneys, the jury panel was completed and the prosecution immediately made their request for the adjournment.

The selection of the jury had taken seven days, and more than 600 veniremen had been summoned in obtaining the twelve men to sit in judgment on the sixteen who face murder charges in connection with the death of O. F. Aderholt, Gastonia police chief.

Special Courts Are Created In Palestine

British Judges Are to Deal With Atrocities Committed During the Arab-Jewish Riots.

JERUSALEM, Sept. 4—(AP)—Sir John Chancellor, British high commissioner in Palestine today issued a proclamation which was spread throughout the country by airplanes announcing the establishment of special courts consisting solely of British judges to deal with atrocities committed during recent Arab-Jewish riots.

"The proclamation emphasizes the courts will deal with all criminal offenders without distinction of race or creed."

The proclamation also announced the British government's appointment of the parliamentary commission of inquiry headed by Sir Walter Shaw, late chief justice of the straits settlement.

A proclamation of another character has been reported in circulation among Arabs. It heralds a "fighters' holy war" and calls all Arabs to help Arab insurgents in Palestine whose condition is described in the blackest terms.

Since yesterday it has been rumored continuously despite denials of official quarters that skirmishes with Bedouins have occurred around Borsheba in which six native Christians were killed.

Palestine today was generally quiet, throughout the country Jews were in mourning for the victims of Arab attacks, the day being observed as a fast daly.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT OF SITUATION IN PALESTINE

LONDON, Sept. 4—(AP)—The British colonial office in its official statement on the situation in Palestine tonight said:

"On Monday night a party of mounted Arabs attacked the village Palpoth, two miles south of Jerusalem, which is occupied by Mritish troops. The attack was repulsed with a loss to the assailants.

"Our troops in conjunction with the Palestine police have carried out searches based on Jaffa, Bethlehem and Jerusalem. 170 arrests having been made in the neighborhood of the village of Weleta, near Jerusalem. At Beisan, 66 arrests have been made, including two important agitators."

HOOVER AT WORK WITH HIS NAVAL ADVISORS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—President Hoover and his naval advisors had another taste today of the "hard work" which Secretary Stimson said is a necessary prelude to a naval parity agreement between the United States and Great Britain.

The president was still hopeful that an understanding could be reached under which it would be unnecessary for the United States to construct the entire 15 cruisers called for in the present authorized program of the navy.

Approaches which have so far been made to a determination of the level of tonnage at which equality can be obtained have been based mainly, however, on the assumption that this nation would carry out its cruiser program. Chairman Hale of the senate naval committee believes the United States ultimately will build the cruisers regardless of the nature of any agreement with Great Britain.

Breakfast at the white house ushered in the day's work for the diplomatic and naval officials handling the Washington end of the negotiations with the London government. Dominated by hopes for accord on basic principles, their meeting with the president lasted two hours.

RECESS NOMINATIONS REPORTED TO THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—The nominations of the eight members of the farm board and of three new diplomatic officers were submitted to the senate today at its first business session after the summer recess and immediately referred to committees for preliminary consideration.

Rumors of opposition to members of the farm board, which has been functioning since July, were heard, but no definite voice of opposition has been sounded and the agriculture committee will meet Friday to look over the list of nominees.

Mr. Hoover submitted the names of John W. Garrett of Baltimore, Md., to be ambassador to Italy, Garrit John Diekema of Michigan, to be minister to the Netherlands, and of George T. Summerlin of Louisiana to be minister to Venezuela. The foreign relations committee will consider these nominees at its regular meeting next week and their confirmation is expected.

None of the judicial appointments was forwarded and none are expected before next week.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED IN SENATE YESTERDAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—Resolutions asking for negotiation of a new peace treaty, additional flood relief for southeastern states and investigation of the selection of federal grand jurors in South Carolina, were introduced today by Senator Blease, democrat, South Carolina, as the senate got down to work after a summer recess.

Only the promise of an inquiry into the activities of a man claiming to represent ship builders at the unsuccessful Geneva naval disarmament conference of 1927 averted introduction of still another resolution which would have proposed the investigation. Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, threatened to offer the measure, but Chairman Hale of the naval committee agreed to go ahead without it.

HENRY FORD TO MAKE GREASE OUT OF GARBAGE

DETROIT, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The Detroit Free Press tomorrow will say Henry Ford stands ready to take all the garbage from Detroit and neighboring municipalities and use it for the manufacture of greases and other by-products.

In an interview with Clyde Ford, mayor of Dearborn, Mich., the Free Press will quote the mayor as stating that he will request the Detroit city council to meet with him and officials of other communities for the purpose of discussing the offer to be made by Mr. Ford.

Mr. Ford already has such a garbage disposal plant as he plans for Detroit, in London, England. Mr. Ford's projected offer, if carried out, would save the city of Detroit, $2,000,000 annually, the Free Press will say.

HEAT WAVE AND DROUGHT BECOMES MORE MENACIN

Forest Fires Are Smouldering in Wooded Areas From Michigan Into New England and South Into Pennsylvania and Maryland—Rain Has Become a Crying Need, as Only a Stiff Breeze is Needed to Fan the Fires Beyond Control—Springfield Reported a Temperature of 99 Degrees Yesterday—Schools Which Opened Tuesday Were Closed Wednesday Because of Heat.

By The Associated Press

Water shortages and forest fire hazards became more acute Wednesday as the unseasonal heat wave which has gripped most of the United States and part of Canada continued in its fourth day.

Temperatures which had remained in the 90's along the Atlantic seaboard and the middle west for the last three days advanced or clung to their record-breaking marks in most of the heat infested sections. Relief in some localities from rain or high pressure areas was short-lived.

The drought which accompanied the heat wave was keenly felt by forest rangers from Michigan across into New England and south into Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Hundreds of forest fires were smouldering in densely wooded areas that needed only a stiff breeze to fan them beyond control. Rain was a crying need.

The forest fire situation in Michigan was reported as "the most critical in the memory of warden's" and while rain was looked for to aid fighters in the upper peninsula. Constant backfiring was being resorted to in the lower peninsula.

Not for many years had there been so many fires in Pennsylvania forests and they were being fought with extreme difficulty because of the dry conditions of the woods.

Flames were licking at the parched mountain sides in Massachusetts at North Adams and Williamstown, and hundreds of fighters and volunteers were battling to stem the blaze, despite their efforts the fires ate their way into Vermont where several farm houses were destroyed.

The fires in western Massachusetts communities found forest patrols handicapped by an unprecedented water shortage. Cisterns had long been pumped dry and trucks were being used to haul water to the fire front.

No rain of consequence has fallen in these sections in months and there is an approaching danger of some rivers dropping so low as to be inadequate to furnish water power.

New York officials said the state faces the most serious general fire hazard in 20 years and all forest lands may be closed to the public unless heavy rains relieve the situation almost immediately.

Ontario farmers are facing heavy crop losses due to the driest spell in years. This section experienced the hottest weather of the season Tuesday but the mercury dropped some today.

Springfield, Mass., reported an unofficial temperature of 99 degrees Wednesday and schools, which opened on Tuesday, were closed. Some parts of New England found relief from the heat in a high pressure area which moved down from Canada.

The mercury climbed to a near record at 94 in New York city in the early afternoon. The suffering was not so intense as in other hot spells owing to a low humidity. It was the hottest September 4 in the metropolis since 1875.

Local rains brought relief to some sections o the middle west where the average temperature has been above 90.

The southeast and parts of the northwest, including Wisconsin were benefited by showers.

While the eastern states were in dire need of rainfall, a cloudburst was reported in Colorado, and snow fell on Tuesday night in Glacier national park in Montana.

BRUSH FIRES IN WESTERN MASSACHUSETTS AND VERMONT

BOSTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—Power lines and water supplies already dangerously depleted by a prolonged drought were threatened by forest and brush fires in various parts of western Massachusetts and Vermont tonight. Several square miles of valuable timber and second growth were burned over in spite of the efforts of 500 firemen and volunteers.

North Adams and Williamstown battled with a fire on a five mile front, which extended into Vermont. Near North Adams the flames got out of control again late this afternoon and raced to the edge of the Broadbrook water shed, a 600-acre tract which supplies half of the town's water supply.

Williamstown sent calls for help against the spread of the fire there, although at Pownal, Vt., employes of the Twin Cities Light and Power company and volunteers from the citizenry succeeded in checking the flames before they approached dangerously near a high tension line carrying current to Bennington, Vt., and Hoosick Falls, N. Y.

The fire was brought under control in that part where it approached within 1000 feet of the American Telephone and Telegraph company's toll lines to the Canadian border.

More than 350 men, working in shifts labored at Williamstown and North Adams today while the temperature hovered between 90 and 100. About 250 were kept at the front. Their chief efforts were directed toward saving the water shed, valuable for its virgin timber as well as its water.

CONFESSED STABBING MAN HE FOUND WITH HIS WIFE

ARDMORE, Ala., Sept. 4—(AP)—Eugene Poff, 60 year old restaurant operator, today confessed that he stabbed Harry Hunter, 25 year old machinist, to death last night after he found Hunter holding a tryst with Mrs. Poff.

Poff said he suspected illicit relations between Hunter and his 52-year old wife and that he followed her to Hunter's store shortly after sundown, yesterday. He said he picked open the back door and found his wife in Hunter's embrace.

He then related that he attacked Hunter, slashing him about the face with a knife and dragging his body to a ditch where he stabbed him in the heart.

Mrs. Poff said she had gone to Hunter's store last night, and as she entered someone came in from the rear and "started a racket". She said she became frightened and ran away and did not see the intruder.

Hunter's mutilated body was found early today after an all night search. Poff was arrested several hours later when he could not account for bloodstains on his clothing.

Hunter was married and the father of two children.

FISHING SCHOONER CAUGHT FIRE, BLEW UP AND SANK

BOSTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—The 26-ton auxiliary fishing schooner Zilpha blew up and sank after she caught fire 15 miles out of Yarmouth, N. S., according to word received here today. Captain William C. Tobey and a crew of seven men took to the boats a half hour before she went down and were picked up off Yarmouth cape by a motor boat piloted by Samuel Stanwood, who brought them to Yarmouth.

The Zilpha was ten days out of Boston on a swordfishing trip. Apparently something went wrong with her motor and fire and explosion followed. Captain Tobey and his crew fought the flames for two hours, only abandoning ship at the last moment.

It was understood that United States Consul Burringer, at Yarmouth, took care of the men and arranged for their passage home.

The Zilpha was built at Friendship, Me., in 1918.

total of 680 pupils was reported Principal H. K. Viner at the Nat- g grammar school. This is less than the average for the two past years, but an increase is looked to within the next few days.

The registration at the Windham street school was reported as 593, an increase of about 20 over last year, by Principal Frederick R. Noble. The construction of a large addition to this school during the year provides ample accommodation for any increase. The Oaks grammar school reported 84 pupils, a decrease of 16. Several of the children enrolled at this school last year have transferred to the Natchaug and parochial schools.

Mrs. Florence Moseley, principal of the Windham Center school, reported 89 pupils for the opening day, 16 less than last year. The registration is expected to climb to 100 by next Monday.

At the North Windham grammar school the principal, Mrs. Bernice T. Schell gave the registration as 38, an increase of 4. The South Windham grammar school had a registration of 32 today.

Leading all other schools in registration for the opening day was St. Mary's parochial school with a total of 697 at noon and the prospects of 750 by the close of the week. The registration at St. Joseph's parochial school stood at 485 at noon. A slight increase is also expected at this school.

This city is soon to have a model six-room house, erected through the sponsoring of the chamber of commerce by local labor and local capital that is intended to serve as a demonstration that any family having the desire and the will to own their home can do so. Arrangements have been made with Oliver L. Willard, director of the chamber of commerce and reputable contractor, to erect the dwelling on a lot 70 by 90 feet at the corner of North and Bolivia streets. The house will occupy this small lot in a desirable residential section and will be opened for public inspection about November 15. The building is expected to show the practicability of building modern houses and act as an incentive toward home-ownership in Willimantic. The action of the chamber follows a study of conditions which revealed a decided lack of modern six-room houses in the city.

The model home will have a living room, dining room, kitchen, breakfast nook and toilet on the first floor and three bedrooms and a bathroom on the second floor. The basement will be concreted as will be the floor of the garage built in connection with the house. All modern improvements will be incorporated in the building which will be of English type and have a sunroom or enclosed porch. Front and rear halls will be provided.

The chamber will make an effort to have the model home completely furnished by local merchants for the public inspection.

HALLVILLE MAN ACQUITTED ON BREACH OF PEACE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 4. — At a lengthy session of police court this morning the continued cases of Morris Paster, of Hallville, Norwich, a cattle dealer, and Louis Ploshinsky, of South Windham, charged with breach of the peace, were threshed out. Paster was acquitted of the charge on recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher, while Ploshinsky was fined five dollars and costs by Judge Frank H. Foss. At the close of the court, Attorney Josiah Greenstein, of Norwich, representing Paster, announced that civil proceedings would be instituted against Ploshinsky. The action will be returnable in the court of common pleas at New London in October. Paster is suing for $1,500 and a deposit of $600 at the Windham National bank in the name of Louis and Olga Ploshinsky was attached today by Deputy Sheriff Lester H. Blish.

The cases date back to August 24, when the two men got into an altercation on Ploshinsky's farm over the sale of a cow. Ploshinsky purchased the cow at Paster's farm for $125. He claimed he made an initial payment of $50, for which he did not ask a receipt. Paster denied having received any such payment. It was after taking the cow to South Windham that the two men got into trouble. Paster said that he went to get the cow out of the barn and take it back to his own farm when the trouble started. He said that while in the barn, Ploshinsky struck him from the rear. He succeeded, however, in getting the cow into the truck and as he was fastening the tailboard, both Mr. and Mrs. Ploshinsky rushed at him. He grabbed up a screw driver to defend himself but they knocked him to the ground. Both hit him, he claimed.

Ploshinsky accused Paster of rushing at him with the screw driver in a threatening position. He took the screw driver away from Paster and gave it to his wife who sent her child into the house with it. Paster then clutched at the throat of the witness and they fell to the ground with Paster on top. Ploshinsky said that his wife then rushed to them to separate them. Paster received an injury and was taken to St. Joseph's hospital in the ambulance. The witnesses were State Policeman Terrell Cousens of the Stafford Sprngs barracks, who made the arrests, Paster, his nine-year-old son, Abraham, Mrs. Paster, Captain of Police Frank McLean, Ploshinsky and his wife, Miss Anna Eschuk and the latter's mother, Mrs. Esther Eschuck, who were staying at the Ploshinsky home at the time, and Chief of Police Thomas F. COLCHESTER

HISTORICAL ACCOUNT OF PARISH DEVELOPMENT

During the interesting exercises at St. Andrew's church Labor day, the pastor, Rev. Philip J. Mooney, read the following statistics:

Father Mooney gave the history of his present territory, reading from the Connecticut archives "at a general court holden in Hartford, Oct. 13, 1698, a petition of divers inhabitants of Hartford county was granted to have a plantation on the New London road at or near a place called Jeremy's Farm."

To the young community there soon came individual Catholics and their families. While regretting the lack of records of early arrivals he traced Connecticut state records that seven Arcadian Catholics were assigned to Colchester, in 1756. He continued reading the bill given to G. Saltonstall, Feb. 12, 1756, "to cash paid Taylor and Daniels transporting 7 French persons and their baggage to Colchester in 2 carts, 2 pounds, 5 shillings and two pence."

Dec. 1, 1780, the Duke de Lauzon, with 1,600 soldiers, striking camp at Lebanon, remained until June 23, 1781. Most of these soldiers were French Catholics, many of the Irish brigade.

Fifty At Mass In 1851

July 5, 1851, Martin Minnick married to Ann Kearns by priest, Christopher Moore. This Father Moore said mass in the home of John Murphy in 1851. Fifty present.

August 6, 1852, Bishop O'Reilly bought land of Pomeroy Hall.

October 10, 1853, paid $120 for land to make St. Andrew's cemetery. The great pioneer priest of New England and Connecticut, Fr. McCabe, an Irish Franciscan friar, ministered to Colchester Catholics, coming from Danielson once a month. He built St. Andrew's church in 1854. Fr. O'Reilly, of Danielson and Willimantic, came for one year.

First Resident Pastor

The first resident pastor was Fr. Creighton, who served Colchester, Lebanon, Fitchville, Salem, Chester, East Hampton, Glastonbury, Gilead. He arrived Oct., 1860, built a rectory, served until Oct., 1867, when he went to Southington. Fr. McCarten was pastor Oct, 1867, to Aug. 1873, when he was transferred to Newtown.

Fr. Fahy was pastor Aug., 1873, until his death here, in April, 1879. Fr. Jno. Duggan, pastor, May, 1879, to April, 1880. Went to Waterbury. Fr. B. Bray, pastor, April, 1880, to Feb., 1887, went to New Haven. Fr. Jno. Cooney, pastor, Feb., 1887, to Oct., 1896. Fr. M. H. May pastor, Dec., 1896 to July, 1910, Fr. David R. O'Donnel, Aug., 1910 to May, 1917. Fr. Joseph Ford, May, 1917 to May, 1922. Fr. Philip J. Mooney, pastor since then.

Priests who have served the parish as assistants included John T. Winters, P. McClean, D. F. Bailey, J. Lee, J. Sheehan, P. Dailey, C. T. McCann, C. MacGowan, E. J. Broderick, J. McDonald, P. Piechocki, J. Sullivan S. Federkiewicz, J. McMahon, O. Baumeister, M. Foley, J. J. Keane, D. Sullivan and C. Kavanaugh.

The church was built in the year of Our Lord 1854, in the seventh year of the pontificate of Pope Pius the Tenth, Franklin Pierce being president of the United States, Henry Dutton governor of Connecticut, Bernard O'Reilly bishop and Jos. Kellog, Ralph Taintor and Alfred Loomis selectmen of Colchester town.

Worthy of note was the fact that Fr. Duggan, of Torrington, was promoted to Colchester, and Fr. Cooney was promoted from St. John's, New Haven. Fr. Mooney paid tribute to the pioneer parishioners, stressed their faith and sacrifices, explained the influence of a parish church in individual lives and in the community.

Fine Community Spirit.

He lauded the unusually friendly spirit that existed through the years between Catholics and Protestants, evidenced by the early Catholic representatives in the state legislature, by the fact that the parish priest was always a member of the town school committee, the fact that for years the town paid salaries, coal, etc., for the parish parochial school. He concluded with reading the introit and other prayers of the mass for a church dedication.

During the jubilee mass, Miss Alice Brown was at the organ, Waterman's Mass in G was sung with Miss Geraldine Dowd, of Hartford, Miss Agnes Smith of New York, Miss Claire Brown, soloists and Judge John Condren, choral leader.

Socony Special plus Ethyl has become the fastest-selling premium gasoline

Just two weeks ago we announced:

"We have added Ethyl anti-knock fluid to Socony Special, making the finest gasoline ever marketed in New England or New York. And at no additional cost to you."

IN two weeks Socony Special plus Ethyl has become the fastest-selling high-compression premium gasoline.

We knew this was going to happen. We knew it had to happen. It's hard to get a big sale on any new product which is only a little better. But when a product is so much better that every user can feel the difference, then it literally sells itself.

Socony Special alone was the best straight-run untreated gasoline that could be made. Thousands of motorists found it so good that they were glad to pay the extra cost.

But we were not satisfied.

There was just one thing that could be done to make it better and that was to add Ethyl anti-knock fluid.

Even a poor gasoline can be given a zero knock rating if enough Ethyl is added. However, a poor gasoline with a zero knock rating is still a poor gasoline.

Adding Ethyl to Socony Special meant taking the final bit of knock out of a smooth, even-burning, clean, wonderful gas. The result is just about perfection. You start with the smoothness of a summer breeze; you glide through traffic; you ease over the hills.

You get a "kick," a thrill, out of driving you never believed possible.

What ETHYL is

Ethyl fluid is the standard anti-knock compound, containing tetraethyl lead. It was developed in the General Motors Research Laboratories to meet the needs of the present-day high-compression motors.

Remember, it is the basic gasoline to which Ethyl fluid is added that determines the ultimate quality of an Ethyl gasoline. The Socony Special which you have been using was a superior high-compression gasoline. With the Ethyl fluid added, this new Socony Special will make old cars run like new cars, and will make new cars perform in a way that you have never known before.

KILLINGLY TOWN DEBT IS REDUCED $25,801 IN YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 4—Advance figures that will be embodied in forthcoming annual town reports show that Killingly's debt has been reduced $25,801.34 during the fiscal year that closed July 31. This is by far the finest showing in the way of debt reduction that has been made in any year in this town for time out of memory, and it forecasts a considerably lower tax rate for next year.

Prudent management in every department, examination in careful manner of every proposition to spend a dollar, saving something here and a little more there, handling of funds to the very best advantage and the application of approved business practices to the management of the town's business all figured in making the splendid showing that has been achieved.

The cost of operation and payments on the town's debt during the year amounted to $192,213.85, while there was collected in property taxes, interest on overdue taxes, lien fees and charges for street oiling $199,518.21.

Out of its appropriation the school committee expended $5,000 for capital outlay in improving buildings and supplying equipment, yet remained well within its budget, and the school budget for the present year is less by $2,747.36, than last year.

The net cost of the town court will show in the forthcoming reports as $256.78, as against $1,260.99 last year. Roads this year cost $31,156.76, as against $32,820.21 last year, when there was flood damage to repair.

This year there was $6,889.27 in cash on hand as against $3,246.14 at the close of the previous fiscal year. This year the accounts receivable, mostly due from grants by the state and from rents, amount to $4,190.72.

The favorable report this year is due to facing, among other things, the issue squarely when financial matters were under consideration at the adjourned annual town meeting last March. At that time First Selectman Charles A. Tillinghast made it very clear that enough money should be raised by taxation to cover the budget that might be approved, even though the tax rate was materially increased, and the arrears in current money borrowing. The meeting voted to do this and the town now has the pleasure of hearing in advance of a fine annual report.

A full list of the taxes abated during the past year, in accordance with a vote of a special town meeting, will be published in the annual reports.

At Goodyear this year 236 are registered, this being a falling off of eight from the figures for last year, when 244 registered there. Figures for other schools of the towns have not been compiled as yet, delays being due to closing grades in some schools and transporting pupils to other centers in the town.

PUTNAM

THREE CRITICALLY INJURED IN AUTO TRUCK ACCIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 4—Three local young men, employed by the Lewis & Valentine Co., contracting tree removers, engaged in work at the Murray estate, in Abington were seriously injured in a truck accident which occurred about 6.45 this morning on the Pomfret street in Pomfret. The three injured men were taken to the Day-Kimball hospital in this city for medical attention. They are Henry Tourtellotte, 20 Franklin street, who has a fracture of the skull and other injuries and who at a late hour this afternoon had not regained consciousness and his condition continued critical; Manuel Lima, 10 Pomfret street, who is suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and lacerations of the elbow; Edwin Morin, 31 Grove street, who is also suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and cuts and bruises.

Morin and Lima regained consciousness late this afternoon and were reported by the hospital authorities as improved. Tourtellotte is perhaps fatally injured.

The men left Putnam early this morning on one of the company trucks to go to work at the Murray estate, where they are employed as tree-planters. Just how the accident happened could not be learned tonight. It is thought that they were leaning on a sideboard, which it is thought gave way and the motion of the truck threw the workers on the roadbed, each landing on his head.

Increase In School Enrollment.

Enrollment statistics were compiled this afternoon by Superintendent of Schools Leon M. Farrin following the opening of the fall term in all of the schools in the town and city this morning. The grand total of students attending schools in the city this year is 905 compared with 879 scholars last year—an increase of 26. Supt. Farrin pointed out today that the registration this year is the first increase in three years. The increase the superintendent said, was noted only in the graded schools, the attendance at Putnam high school remaining unchanged.

At the high school building the figures tabulated were as follows: Senior high school 252, junior high (eighth grade) 50, Israel Putnam school: Lewis F. Battey, principal, 7th grade 38; Margaret M. MacConnell, 5th and 6th grades 35; Etta M. Whiting, 6th grade, 36; Carrie B. Gascoigne, 5th grade, 40; Roselle LaFrance, 44th and 5th grades, 37; Emma J. Dutton, 4th grade, 39; Sara C. Kent, 3rd grade, 39; Lucy M. Farrows, 2nd grade, 28; Ethel S. Strahan, 2nd grade, 29; Gertrude M. Warner, 1st grade, 24; Mildred S. Torrey, 1st grade, 29; Jessie S. Mitchell, 1st grade, 29. The total enrollment at the Israel Putnam school contains the following number of students attending session: Ella Ballard, principal 6th and 7th grades, 27; Elenor M. Murphy, 3rd and 4th grades, 27; Edith M. Fox, 1st and 2nd grades, 19, making a total of 73.

The Sawyer district school register outlines the following: Bertha W. French, principal, 6th and 7th grades, 27; Mary J. Millard, 5th and 6th grades, 27; Angelina J. O'Flynn, 1st, 2nd and 3rd grades, 32, the total enrollment being 85.

At the East Putnam school in six grades taught by Sylvia D. Kurland, 22 students are attending sessions.

Object to Gas Station.

Residents of the Grove street section of the city in the form of a petition, have voiced their objection to the common council of James R. Tatem's plans of erection of a gasoline distributing station on the site owned by him and located on the corner of Tatem and Grove streets—in the heart of the residential section. Several property owners on Grove street and thereabouts affixed their signatures to the document of opposition, read Tuesday evening at a meeting of the board of aldermen. Following the reading and a few minutes of discussion, Mayor Richard suggested that the matter be referred to the highway committee for further consideration before final action be taken upon it.

Mr. Tatem, who is owner of a chain of taxicabs in Putnam said this morning that he has no intentions whatsoever of constructing a filling station for public use on this site. He said that in the event he carries out his plans the station will be maintained only for private use of his own public service vehicles. To this statement he also added that whatever buildings are placed on this site will be in view of a decided improvement and in no way will tend to detract any beauty from the presence of that section of the city in which is located some of the best homes.

By a vote of the common council last evening an item will be inserted in a call for special meeting to be held in March to include an appropriation for the installation of sidewalk curbing on Water street, an item asked for in a petition presented by property owners living on this street. Mayor Richard and other officials of the council termed the matter a cause worthy of immediate attention. The owners, however, will not be reimbursed for the city's share of this work until next spring, the council said.

The question of purchasing street signs was again brought before the governing body of the city Tuesday evening when a representative of a manufacturing concern, with a sample of his product, subjected himself to the ordeal of attempting to obtain an order from the council. Batteries of pro and con on this matter barked throughout the interview and culminating in the council's decision not to adorn the city thoroughfares with any new signs this year. The organization that sells the signs to the city, it is quite apparent from arguments offered last evening by aldermen, must manufacture a product that will withstand the pressure of rocks hurled at them by vandals and be able to smile back at the marksmen after a bullseye has been made.

By virtue of a new motor vehicle law enacted at the last session of general assembly, trucking men in this city have equipped their trucks with reflectors of red and amber colors, that reflect light rays at a distance of 200 feet for the protection of oncoming cars. The reflectors are intended to show the width of the transportation wagons. The law was effective September 1 and observations are that nearly every driver and owner in the city has complied with the requirements of the law.

English, pastor of the Congregational church of this city and holder of a lieutenant's commission in the reserve army of the United States was the speaker at the meeting of the Putnam Rotary club held at noon today at the Putnam inn. He mentioned what should be done for the support of these various branches of national defense and related the effects of them upon our national life. No visitors were present at the Rotary session and it was adjourned following the executive routine.

Both were represented by Attorney Irving H. Miron of this city, who secured a postponement of one week in order to prepare. Two other Thompson liquor dealers caught in the state police onslaught unday were likewise granted a continuance at the request of their counsel, Attorney Miron.

DROUGHT AND CARELESSNESS.

With the absence of rain it is getting to be a serious situation in wooded areas, especially if they are visited by persons who kindle fires or who drop lighted matches or burning cigarette stubs. While great losses have been suffered they are small in comparison with what could result if carelessness should get the upper hand.

Once again it is found necessary to combat drought conditions. With water supplies seriously depleted, and in some places gone, there can be no question about the need of preventing all chances of fires. It calls for more than ordinary care for the unusual dryness of fields and woodlands make them better tinder boxes than ever.

Because of this condition and the probable throwing away of a cigarette stub without extinguishing it, the house on the top of Mt. Greylock was destroyed, and in the belief that it will furnish added protection the Mt. Tom reservation commission has closed that area to the public each evening. This is intended to prevent many of those who are not inclined to think of consequences from getting the chance to have their thoughtlessness cause added trouble and loss.

It is always a fair appeal that is made to the public to be careful in the use of other people's property. It is no more than the situation calls for whether there is in mind the prevention of fires or the prevention of other destruction such as the knocking down of walls and the leaving down of bars so that cattle can get into truck gardens, or out into the highway. Aggravating and bothersome conditions can be quickly created even though no actual loss really follows.

In nine cases out of ten there is no excuse for the heedlessness that is displayed. While there is a gross lack of appreciation for privileges that are permitted there is in many instances an attitude that borders upon criminal carelessness. As long as it does not touch their pocketbooks there are many who have no thought for the other fellow and in those cases it would be well if the guilty could be located and prosecuted. Restrictions for the prevention of fires are made necessary because there are too many of the criminally careless class endangering the property of others.

PREMIER MACDONALD SPEAKS.

The agreement in regard to naval limitations which this country has been seeking between the United States and Great Britain has not been concluded, but if we can judge by the address that was made to the assembly of the league of nations at Geneva by Prime Minister MacDonald, it is certainly on the way. There is a desire not only to come to an understanding with this country but to get the benefits of such limitations.

While there may have been no need of the statement by the prime minister that Great Britain declines to build up a navy against the United States, it nevertheless indicates national sentiment regardless of party. It makes it apparent that the British are not simply being pushed into an agreement between the nations for the premier makes it clear that while such is virtually assured it is to be simply the stepping stone to its extension to other countries. Peace rather than war, and a check upon naval construction are desired.

In such a statement, which gives much encouragement, there is a revelation of the scope of the disarmament plan, and indications point strongly to a successful outcome. This will mean an agreement upon parity and a decision as to how many ships shall be constructed. Even the building of new vessels by the United States in order to reach parity with Great Britain would be properly interpreted and not suspiciously regarded by that country. The inability to so meet national defense requirements as to avoid giving wrong impressions to other countries has been no secret, and if that stumbling block can be overcome a big step forward will be made.

The confidence of Premier MacDonald that the agreement will be completed soon indicates that the two countries are making fine progress and are apparently not far apart on the various points that have been raised. Because of the attitude that has been manifested by the British in the past and at recent conferences relative to disarmament the prime minister's declaration is highly gratifying. His enthusiastic assurance isn't taking the big navy people off their feet, but it gives much satisfaction to those who have long been striving for just such an end.

NOT AN EMERGENCY.

What constitutes an emergency and to what an extent should the safety of other be jeopardized in meeting it?

This is brought to mind by the experience of two sailors on the Boston post road. They had been on a leave of absence and had driven an auto from Newport to their home in Philadelphia. They had figured on getting back no sooner than necessary, but to do that they told the state police at East Lyme that they were driving 60 miles an hour in order not to overstay their time limit. Under such a plea they were allowed to go but they had only reached Stonington when they crashed into an abutment and a bus. One death followed and it was fortunate that the result was not much worse.

Driving at 60 miles an hour in East Lyme did not impress the state police as contributing to the safety of the highway. Even though they had had no accident at that time, being stopped evidently did not cause them to be any more cautious. Because they were trying to get back on time they were tolerated in their driving, but it is a serious question whether such an emergency as they offered as the reason for their speed was an adequate one.

There are emergencies where it is a case of life and death, where someone has been injured or where it is necessary to get aid quickly, when speed and an open road, even to the extent of having traffic cleared by the police are to be expected, but endeavoring to get to a certain place at a fixed time because an insufficient amount of time has been allowed to do it and do it safely by automobile can hardly be regarded as constituting an emergency.

It certainly doesn't warrant subjecting themselves to the dangers which are involved in such fast driving, and it subjects other users of the highway to a menace which is certainly not justified. There is too much reckless driving with no better excuse than was offered in this case, too much disregard for the rights of others. No doubt much that is as bad occurs daily but in this case death plays a too conspicuous place in the lesson.

CURBING FEDERAL OUTLAY.

It is always an easier job to run up federal expenditures than it is to keep them down. However well intentioned the administration may be there are invariably certain important or emergency appropriations which threaten to upset the best laid plans.

In recent years the federal government has practiced economy persistently under the Coolidge leadership. The benefits of it can be easily pointed out and because of the improved financial condition in which it has left the country there is an opportunity for meeting some of those delayed matters which good business judgment decided would wait.

But while there are certain projects which need attention there is no thought on the part of President Hoover to let the spending of money run wild. He has called for the keeping of the expenditures during the fiscal year 1931 to the expenditures during the year 1929 or just within the $4,000,000,000 mark. Under ordinary conditions this might be easily accomplished. If it were just a case of running the government there would be no difficulty, but there are special propositions which have developed and congress has authorized expenditures for such matters as farm relief, flood control, naval construction and other matters which mean substantial outlays and it is going to require some clever planning if the outlay for the year 1931 is kept within the desired limits.

With the special items calling for so much money there develops upon the various departments an increased responsibility to keep down their expenses, and yet there is often quite as good reason for increased departmental outlays as there is for some of the special appropriations. That is what makes the job so difficult when it comes to the paring process, but with careful planning and good cooperation it has been found that surprising results can be accomplished. President Hoover is quite as desirous that such will be the case in his administration as it was in his predecessor's.

HELPING THE CHILDREN.

President Hoover has always been interested in children. When a 14 year old boy, living in the Blue Ridge region near his camp called upon him and presented him an oppossum, he was impressed by the chap but was distressed to learn that he was seriously lacking in an education. Inquiry disclosed that this was apparently due in part to a lack of school facilities. Instead of properly combatting illiteracy there was a situation where it was getting more encouragement than ought to prevail.

The outcome of this is that the president has taken the lead in a movement to provide a school for that locality, where a number of families will be benefitted. It can safely be said that it will succeed, that the school will be built and that better educational facilities will be provided there than in the past.

But in the throwing of increased light upon the educational opportunities which the mountain families in that locality receive, it seems highly probable that it will result in similar attention being given to those many other localities where no better and perhaps not as good conditions exist.

We may not stop to realize what the situation is educationally in many of the states. The responsibility unquestionably rests upon those states to face their duty and provide the schools and the teachers that will make important contributions to the citizenship of those states. The need of fighting illiteracy in every commonwealth ought to be recognized, but the importance of seeing that boys and girls of the present day are not denied a common school education should not be overlooked. Wherever it is being neglected the interest displayed by the president in the Virginia youth should serve to awaken it.

A PECK OF TOMATOES

Bob lumbered up the back steps drooping beneath a countenance that was noticeably gloomy. Dot sent a fleeting glance toward the clock. Yes, he was fully two hours and a half early. Something must be wrong.

"The Railsback deal has gone smash," explained Bob, "and I've been depending on that commission." Dot saw her dreams for the living room vanish, but she realized the acute necessity of rallying instead of depreciating the family morale.

"Well," she said, "there's no use worrying about it. Here it's a grand afternoon, and we've got two perfectly good hours of daylight ahead of us. What's more, I need some green tomatoes for pickling and it's too late to buy them at the market. What do you say to scouting around in the country? We might locate a truck gardener who has some stored away," Bob grunted.

"There's a woman for you, eyes always out for little things; thinks more of a pickle than a commission. If you'd put four solid weeks' work on something and have it fail I guess you'd feel pretty flat."

"I know," soothed Dot, "but the sun is so bright. Come on."

And in the end he went.

"I think," offered Dot, pointing to a curve in the road ahead of them, "that just around that bend there was a great big field of tomatoes."

They stopped in front of the house adjoining the field. Bob sounded the horn. A slim, overgrown boy with piercing eyes and a haggard face peered around one corner of the porch and then came down the path to the gate. Bob pointed toward the field beyond.

"Any green tomatoes to sell?" The boy nodded.

"We've got a few in the cellar. I guess maybe there's a bushel left."

"Oh, I don't need but a peck,' put in Dot. "How much are they?"

"Eighty-five cents," replied the boy, and started toward the house. Bob turned to Dot.

"You're not going to let that kid get away with a price like that. Some folks would fleece you out of the last cent you've got."

"But tomatoes are scarce," defended Dot.

"I don't know where they get all this talk about the country," grumbled Bob. "It looks like a snap. Farmers just plant things and watch them grow. Tillers of the ground don't take the chances we city fellows do. They don't think anything of sticking you with prices, either."

"Sh!" warned Dot. "Here comes the boy.' And then to the boy: "You have a nice place here. Do you raise tomatoes altogether?" The boy nodded.

"Yes, but we got stuck this year. Frost caught us before half the crop was off. And aside from that my father was taking a load to town and he got off his truck, and, well—a car struck him, and he died before they could get him home. We're done with tomatoes. We're going to try to get to the city somehow, my mother and sisters and me."

A cry of pity caught on Dot's lips She saw the quick metamorphosis of expression on Bob's face, and sensed strange vibrations in his words.

"That's tough luck, worse than tough. See here, young fellow, this is my card with my office address on it. If you come to the city and want a job, drop around. Maybe I can help you." The boy's eyes glistened, his haggard expression twisted into a lame little smile.

"Thank you, sir. I'd be more than glad to look you up, and about these tomatoes, if the price is too high——"

"It's not." said Bob, shoving a dollar into the boys hand and at the same time stepping on the starter of the car "Just keep the change, and I'll see you some time later." The machine purred over miles of ribbon asphalt, through the dusk toward the twinkling lights of the city beyond. Bob slipped his free arm about Dot's shoulders.

"It's queer what tomatoes can do to you," he said. "I'm glad you needed those, Twinkles."

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—Word of the destruction of the ancient Spanish built fortress, San Juan de Ulua, that has stood for centuries at the entrance of the harbor of Vera Cruz, Mexico, recalls the part it has played as onlooker rather than participant in great events.

It was Spain's great citadel in the new world once. Over its moss-grown walls the royal flag of Spain flew for almost the last time on the mainland of the vast new possessions brought under Spanish rule by her adventurous sea captains.

And twice the old fort, useless for military purposes, has watched the landing of American troops on Mexican soil and echoed to the thunder of American guns.

The fort was built on a tiny island a few hundred yards off the waterfront of Vera Cruz. Eventually it was connected with the mainland by a narrow causeway, as the rock seawalls of the inclosed roadstead were built to fend off the fury of gulf northers that sweep down with chill menace now and then on the tropical shore line.

For the most part it has been a grim military prison where untold human suffering has been recorded.

Two Landings

San Juan de Ulua stood there, impotent to check the advance, when American troops moved in by that route toward Mexico City in the war with Mexico.

It stood there also with the Mexican flag proudly flying, but helpless under the threat of modern naval guns, when American bluejackets and marines were landed at Vera Cruz in 1914.

Among the already yellowed records of those April days of 15 years ago appears this bit in an Associated Press cablegram from Vera Cruz:

"In the fighting San Juan de Ulua flew the Mexican flag throughout the attack.

"The commandant and 60 armed men and 300 workers from the navy yard peered from the embrasures at the Prairie, lying 500 yards away, and with the other American ships shelling the naval academy. In the deep dungeons remain 500 prisoners, echoes of the guns reaching them faintly through 16-foot stone walls.

Safe If Quiet

"Captain Stickney of the Prairie, went through the fortress several days ago and found a few heavy guns, five torpedoes and a torpedo tube.

"When the landing of the Americans was ordered, Stickney sent word to the commandant of San Juan de Ulua that he would blow him to pieces with the Prairie's guns if he opened fire against the Americans, but that otherwise he would not be molested.

"The commandant replied that he would answer with his cannon if fired upon, but that he would not commence hostilities. When the engagement ashore began, the commandant hoisted a brilliant new Mexican flag, which flew all day long."

After the fighting in Vera Cruz which cost the lives of a score of American bluejackets and marines, had ended bodies of the dead were assembled aboard the Prairie in the inner harbor, then ferried out in small boats to a hospital ship, which bore them home. The cortege passed under the very shadow of the old fort. American and foreign war vessels set their colors at half-staff.

On the walls of San Juan de Ulua the garrison lined up to stand in statuesque silence. The big Mexican flag fluttered halfway down its staff and a bugle sounded a dirgelike call in last salute to enemy dead.

YOUR HEALTH

A Problem For Parents

By W. A. R. CHAPIN, M. D.,
Springfield, Mass.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

For the parents of children of school, or pre-school age the problem of the so-called children's diseases, is a pertinent one.

Now, at the end of a healthy joyous summer, our children will return to, or enter, the public school. If, during preceding seasons, any or all of the contagious diseases of children, have been met and defeated, either by inoculation or by having the disease, our personal problem has been solved to that degree. Let's see what we are up against.

Mumps sweep through a schoolroom rapidly, and by the time the first case is established, those who are susceptible are in their incubation period, and will be ill. Rest in bed with competent medical attention will satisfactorily handle this situation. The same may be said for chicken-pox.

In whooping cough we have a more severe problem. Once the child is suspiciously under observation, he should be segregated at home, and of course excluded from the school. Vaccine and other accepted therapy have their exponents, but here again the sensible thing to do is to follow the directions of the physician, who will early use his efforts against the complications of middle ear infection and bronchopneumonia.

We now have left that vicious and insidious triumvirate—measles, scarlet fever and diphtheria. Smallpox, in those communities which enforce vaccination, is only a memory. Incidentally, the United States public health service are sponsors for a vaccination scar which is about one-tenth the size of the old fashioned lancet scarification.

In measles we have a most prevalent and communicable disease. Starting in as a sore throat and so-called common cold, it swiftly sweeps along, spraying its infection by cough and contact. For this there is no specific treatment, but by careful care the complications of lung, kidney and mastoid are prevented very often, and upon appearance, early treated. To my mind this is the most sinister of all children's diseases.

If you will know whether or not your child is immune from scarlet fever and diphtheria, the Dick and Schick tests are available through yours physician. Many of the progressive communities direct and give these tests at the public schools. For both of these last two diseases we have a combative serum, which, if given in time, works miraculously.

For diphtheria, however, three injections of toxin anti-toxin will confer an immunity upon a child through the danger period. Inasmuc has most children, who die of diphtheria, do so before the school age, this anti-toxin should be given very early in life.

Confronted by the several diseases which a child finds itself upon entering school the parent is at first a bit stampeded and reluctant to let his child mix with forty or so children, any one of whom may infect him. Sensibly facing the situation and using modern scientific knowledge as it has been unselfishly given to us, we may not only hope to rear our children as well as we have been reared, but expect to do so very much more satisfactorily and easily.

Stories That Recall Others

A Good Suggestion.

A Sunday school teacher was telling her class all about the cannibals and missionaries who went out to foreign countries. "What do you think would be the first thing the missionaries should teach the cannibals?" she asked the class.

One bright little boy answered readily, "I know, teacher. They should teach them to be vegetarians."

Meat Hound.

Jim had a common yellow dog, who was very fond of meat. While visiting his aunt one day she offered Jim some pretzels to take home to Sport. Jim refused, saying:

"Sport won't eat them for he is a meat hound."

Flip Changes His Mind

A life of trouble he will find
Who is too set to change his mind.
—Old Mother Nature.

There never was a more disgusted small dog than Flip. He was hot and tired, and now to be told that he had done all that digging for nothing was almost too much.

"Of course," explained Bowser, "while you were digging open the front door and going in that way, the fellow who lived down below simply came out this back door and trotted off. You can keep on digging if you want to, but you won't find anybody at home down there. So you may as well quit now."

Flip knew that Bowser was right. He sighed. "If I could once catch that fellow I'd shake him to pieces," said he.

Sitting on a flat stone of the Old Stone Wall was Johnny Chuck

"You don't really mean that," said Bowser.

"I do so!" retorted Flip. "I mean every word of it. I wonder where he has gone to. And who he is anyway."

"Here's a little path through the grass," said Bowser.

Flip put his nose down in the little path and sniffed. Yes, there was that same scene that he had found in that hole where he had been digging. Flip became interested right away. He began to walk along that little path with his nose to the ground. Presently his stub tail began to wag. Then he began to trot along that little path, Bowser followed.

"If we hurry perhaps we can catch up with him," barked Flip.

"You go ahead; I'll take my time," replied Bowser. "You'll probably find that that fellow has gone into another hole."

"If he has I'll find out whether or not there is a back door," replied Flip.

Bowser grinned, but said nothing. He knew that Flip had learned another lesson. He knew that Flip would remember and never would be fooled again that way. There is no teacher like experience and Flip had now had experience. Flip was running. Every few steps he put his nose to the ground. The little path wound in the direction of an old stone wall—the old stonewall that divided the Old Orchard from the Green Meadows. Bowser saw Flip disappear among the bushes that grow along the old stone wall. A moment later he heard the exciting barking of the little dog. Bowser chuckled. "He's found him!" thought he. "I guess I'll hurry a little now. This is going to be good."

So Bowser quickened his pace and in a few minutes arrived at the point where Flip was barking. Sitting on a flat stone of the old stone wall was Johnny Chuck. Johnny was facing Flip. Flip was barking as if he were trying to bark his head off. From the corner of one eye he saw Bowser come up. "Watch me!" cried Flip. "This is the fellow who fooled me. But he'll never fool me again. Watch me shake him to pieces!"

Flip started toward Johnny Chuck with a rush. To his very great surprise, Johnny Chuck came to meet him, instead of running away. For a moment or two Johnny Chuck and Flip rolled over and over, snarling and biting. Flip yelped sharply with pain. Then he broke loose and backed away. He wouldn't run, for Flip had a stout heart, but he had changed his mind about shaking Johnny Chuck to pieces. For a moment it had felt as if it were more likely that Johnny Chuck would shake him to pieces.

POOR MEALS JADE THE APPETITE

Use a Little Sugar to Make Essential Foods More Delicious

Medical and scientific authorities are beginning to call upon American cooks to make our foods more appetizing. One noted scientist says that the fine art of cookery is declining. In an era that is threatening to become cookless, hasty preparation, poor cooking technique, and other necessities of present-day living result in bland, unappetizing meals that do not tempt us. More flavor and better flavor are called for, he says. Foods should be palatable as well as nutritious. He then emphasizes the value of sugar as a condimental food.

As a flavor, he recommends a dash of sugar on our cereals, sliced fruits, in our vegetables as they are being cooked, on our dish of bran, or even in a milk shake to encourage growing children and adults to drink more milk. He points out that this dash of sugar may help to overcome an indifferent appetite, and thus indirectly lead to a better diet.

This is the dietary need of the modern age—flavor. Help the children and adults in your family to eat varied, balanced foods, by the judicious use of proper amounts of sugar. The sugar way is the happy way. The Sugar Institute.

SPOKE TO ROTARIANS ON PALESTINE SITUATION

"The Wailing Wall and the Palestine Situation" was the topic of a very interesting talk given by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth at the meeting of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. Rev. Mr. Danforth dealt not so much with the present situation in Palestine but more with the background of the Arabs and the Jews. He said in part:

We read in the newspapers about the "wailing wall" being the bone of contention between the Arabs and the Jews in the present difficulty in Palestine, but the fact is that the "wailing wall" is only the match that touched off the powder. If it hadn't been the "wailing wall" it would have been something else. This trouble has been brewing for a long time. The "wailing wall" is all that is left of the temple of Solomon and is a very sacred place of the Jews. There is not so much wailing done at the wall as there is devotions. Above the wall is the temple of the Mohammedans, the Mosque of Omar, and the Arabs, being Mohammedans, hold the place in equal sacredness.

The Arabs were natives of the Palestine district centuries before the Jews came there and they feel that it is their country and the Jews are interlopers. They naturally resent the Jews claiming the territory as a national home. The Jew, being much more ambitious than the Arab, is fast modernizing the place and buying up the fertile lands that once belonged to the Arab. The Palestine territory is a British mandate with an Arab population that far exceeds the Jewish. The Arab is not much civilized and resents the introduction of things modern. This feeling of resentment has long been smoldering in the breast of the Arab and the Arab has now said that Palestine, instead of becoming a national home of Jewry, shall become the national cemetery of the Jews.

The "wailing wall" situation is only the match that touched off the powder and it will be a long time before hostilities settle down. Our hope is that it does not spread to India and Egypt where the Mohammedans are at cross purposes with the Hindu and the Egyptian."

Rev. Mr. Danforth was given a very hearty vote of appreciation.

At the business session F. Russell Smith presided in the absence of President F. R. Murdy. Flint Brayton and Edward W. Jewett were the song leaders. Joseph C. Worth, local chairman of the fall conclave committee, made several announcements relative to the conclave.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

APPORTIONMENTS MADE ON TOWNS FOR BUILDING THE NEW COUNTY HOME

According to the apportionments made on the towns of the county by the county commissioners towards the expense of erecting the new county home building, which will be built on the plot on Laurel Hill road adjoining land of the Norwich state hospital, the town of New London will be called upon to bear the heaviest assessment, Norwich is next in the list, Groton third and Stonington fourth.

The total appropriation for the work was $250,000 and the county commissioners have decided to ask the towns for one-half that amount the first year. REUBEN KATZ FROM YUKON WRITES TO LOCAL FRIENDS

Norwich friends are receiving greetings from Reuben Katz, who formerly lived on the West Side when his father kept the West Side garage. The family is now in Los Angeles, where Mr. Katz is a successful garageman. Reuben Katz writes from Dawson, Yukon Territory, while homeward bound, after spending almost the entire summer looking over and exploring the territory, following the coast line to the Aleutian Islands, the Yukon for about 2,000 miles, across the Arctic circle and further into the interior. It made a very interesting trip.

That the Great Northwest has not lost all of its stage and dime novel characteristics is indicated by the letter-head on which Mr. Katz writes and which reads:

"Sour Dough Hotel, 1333 Icicle Avenue. Best house north of Mexico. First-class in every particular. Rates: One ounce per day. Crap, chuck luck, stud poker and black jack games run by the management. Private entrance for ladies by ladder in the rear. Special rates for ministers and the gambling 'Perfesh'. Every known fluid—water excepted—for sale at the bar. Dogs bought and sold. Insect powder for sale. Not responsible for diamonds, bicycles or other valuables kept under the pillows; they should be deposited in the safe. If you are fond of athletics and like good jumping, lift the mattress and see the bed spring."

DRUNKEN DRIVER BROKE HYDRANT IN TAFTVILLE

The hydrant in front of the Pcnemah Wheel club building on Norwich avenue, Taftville, was snapped off just about dusk Tuesday evening when it was struck by an automobile operated by a drunken driver. After hitting the hydrant the automobile mounted the sidewalk and ran along till it crossed Maennerchor avenue and crashed into a stone post that makes the corner of the wall there. Two tires blew up and the front of the machine was considerably damaged.

When the crash brought the car to a stop, the driver got out of the machine, crawled over the wall and went to sleep on the grass, leaving the car standing where it had come to a stop. Ministrations of some friends with a water bottle restored him to consciousness long enough to enable him to stagger off into the darkness up Maennerchor avenue while several men backed his machine off the walk and ran it alongside the curb, from which it was removed later in the evening.

In his wild drive along the sidewalk the drunken motorist nearly ran down a man and two women. None of those who helped him out of his trouble would admit knowing who he was.

NORWICH RESERVOIRS HAVE QUITE SATISFACTORY SUPPLY

Norwich had a rainfall of 4.93 inches in August, which was better than the month showed in the previous year, when the precipitation was 3.57 inches, according to the water department measurements.

At the present time the two reservoirs are standing up in fairly good shape considering the long dry spell this summer, as Fairview reservoir is down 34 inches from full pond and Stony Brook reservoir is down 11 feet, 5 inches.

SUSPENDED DRIVER LIST MOUNTS TO HIGH MARK

The state motor vehicle department announced this week one of its largest lists of automobile operators whose licenses to drive had been suspended for a year for driving while under the influence of liquor. There were 64 in the list which included the following names in this section: John A. Tefft, Norwich; James W. Evatt, Waterford; Aldan Benoit, Putnam; James Stewart, Westerly.

MILLS FAMILY REUNION HAD LARGEST ATTENDANCE

The fourth annual Mills reunion, which was held Saturday at Wildwood park, near Dayville, had its largest attendance since the reunions were started in 1926. Including a number of visitors, the attendance totalled 70 persons.

At the business meeting called to order by the president, Frank J. Mills of North Uxbridge, Mass., routine business was transacted. Frank Mills was re-elected president, with Floyd Pike of Elliotts as vice president and Mrs. Foster L. Burress of Central Village as secretary-treasurer. The sports committee for next year will be Charles Pike, Floyd Pike and Clarence Pike.

As is customary with the reunion, a five dollar gold piece was presented to the couple married during the past year, in this case to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lamphear of North Windham. Carrying out another reunion custom, a gold ring was presented to Barbara Jane Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis of Hampton.

Widespread interest was manifest in the sports of the day, particularly in target shooting with spirited contests among various groups, with members of the fair sex doing their bit at hitting the mark. Horse shoe pitching occupied a number of the men while all hands, from toddling youngsters to those along in years enjoyed the slide, swings and other amusements supplied by the park management. Basket lunches were, needless to say, another important factor in the festivities so that the long picnic table was used to full capacity.

CRASHES ON MARLBOROUGH HILL, ON WAY TO HARTFORD

Samuel Fegelman of No. 449 Zion street, Hartford, finished his vacation Monday and finished up with a bang—so much so, in fact, that immediately following the bang, Fegelman found himself, his wife and a load of furniture piled up in swamp land at the bottom of Stonewall hill in the town of Marlborough. The furniture and Mrs. Fegelman were not severely hurt, but Fegelman was considerably cut up, about his person and mentally, for he has been ordered to appear in the Marlborough court on a charge of reckless driving.

The Fegelmans had spent their vacation and part of the summer at a cottage at Ocean beach. They were bringing a load of furniture back to Hartford, and on Stonewall hill, Fegelman lost control of the truck. It dashed down the hill for a distance of about 400 feet, then left the highway and went over an embankment, lost two wheels in its flight, turned over on its left side, then ploughed along on its side for a considerable distance into the swamp land. The accident happened at 4:30 p. m. and the state police, investigating, found that Fegelman had not been exercising due care in descending the hill and ordered him to appear in court.

In the West Hartford town court last Tuesday morning, Fegelman, who conducts a tailor shop in West Hartford, was fined $10 and costs for violation of the rules of the road.

Michael Matry, wanted in Hempstead, L. I., on a charge of abandonment, was presented in the city court Wednesday morning as a fugitive from justice and the case was continued until Sept. 12. This is the second time within 10 days that Matry has faced the court on the same charge. He was released Saturday by the local court when no one appeared to prosecute and Tuesday officers from Hempstead appeared at police headquarters to claim him and take him back on extradition papers but learned that he had been allowed his freedom. Tuesday night the local police again arrested Matry. He is at liberty under bonds of $500.

Attorneys for Matry dispute the charge of abandonment made against him and claim that Mrs. Matry left him when they were living in this city, taking the children with her and going to live in the Long Island town.

BIG RADIO STATION TO BE AT STATE PIER

Plans to move the big radio station of the coast guard from Block Island to the new building erected at the state pier at New London were revealed at New London Wednesday, with the departure of Lieut. E. M. Webster, communications officer of the coast guard with headquarters at Washington.

Due to the general inaccessibility of the station at Block Island, together with its remoteness from destroyer force headquarters at New London and the necessity of maintaining extra personnel, the plan to move the station has been under consideration for some time. Together with the state pier potential locations have been considered at Montauk Point and at Fishers Island.

FEW DAYS LEFT FOR TO-BE-MADE APPLICATIONS

Next Tuesday, the 10th of the month, is the limit for putting in applications by those who want to be made voters. These applications can be filed with the town clerk of Norwich, the first selectman or the registrars of voters.

There will be two days for making voters, which will be on the last two Saturdays of the month, the 21st and the 28th.

A check for $25 has been received by Chief Henry R. Taft of the local fire department, from John A. Cunningham, agent of the Thayer building, in appreciation of the department's services in pumping out the cellar of the building Monday. The cellar became flooded when a water main burst. The check, intended for the firemen's pension fund, will be deposited with the city treasurer.

MISSIONARY FROM AFRICA WAS CONFERENCE SPEAKER

The six church conference of Congregational churches in Preston City, Plainfield, Griswold, Lisbon, Hanover, and Jewett City held its 71st session Wednesday, meeting at the Pachaug church. One hundred and forty were present at the dinner hour. It was a day of intense heat, but the interior of the church was very cool and lovely with the tastefully arranged flowers, Phlox, gladioli, dahlias, zinnias, hydrangea, marigolds, calendula, begonia, spirea, marguerites and cosmos beautified the entire front of the auditorium.

The morning service opened with a prelude played by Mrs. Harold Geer. Rev. Harold Arnold, pastor of the church welcomed the guests and conducted the opening exercises. A response Allah was sung by Mrs. George Beckwith, of Franklin. The responsive reading was led by Rev. G. F. Goodenough, of Jewett City, and the scripture from Ephesians 2 was read by Rev. William Prentiss, of Plainfield. After prayer by Rev. George Clark, of Preston City, Mrs. Beckwith sang "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings". The offering was received by Revs. Mr. Goodenough and Mr. Clark.

Rev. Joseph Cooper, D. D., of Norwich, preached the morning sermon. His text was Ephesians 2-20, taking for his subject "The Personality of Jesus Christ".

Illustrative of the manner in which divine personality is made known, the speaker told of how we detect the presence of the unseen flowers by its perfume, and the nearness of a woodland bird by the notes of the song we hear. Nothing is greater in Christianity than Christ himself. In Him is its real vitality.

Bring in the mind's eye before you, a long list of the world's mightiest personalities which one can compare with the Savior? He enforced the truths He came to teach. We get for ourselves through Him, the thrill of a great help. We learn that His ever present influence is in harmony with the claims He asserts. Outstanding influences were pointed out, which we may receive from the lives of David, Paul and Isiah. In closing he said, Jesus Christ stands today as the best of our future hopes. If we see nothing else from Christianity, there is no marvel of the past so persuasive as Jesus Christ. His, is not ity, there is no marvel of the past so sonality which comes to us, clear and distinct, not to be mistaken, down through the long ages of history.

Dinner was served in Grange hall, the table decorations being nasturtiums and petunias. The blessing was asked by Rev. F. R. Bunker. Rev. Mr. Reynolds offered a vote of appreciation to the women and men who served the dinner, which was voted by applause. The afternoon session was opened with an organ prelude, and a song service led by Rev. Mr. Clark, Rev. Mr. Arnold conducting the devotional period. The scribe, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox of Jewett City read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll. This was answered by 24 from Preston City, 8 from Newent, 8 Jewett City, 10 Plainfield, 8 Hanover, 30 Pachaug and 28 visitors, a total of 106.

Mrs. Beckwith sang "Beautiful Land Called Home", and after prayer by Rev. W. J. Reynolds of Lisbon, a hymn as the response, Mrs. Herbert Richardson was her accompanist.

The afternoon address was by Rev. F. R. Bunker of Wilton, who was a missionary in Africa for twenty-five years.

Speaking from a long list of actual experiences during a quarter of a century spent in the Mt. Salinda country, and other districts under the West Rhodesia government, his remarks were of much interest. Who shall say, said he, that the African native has not the same inalienable right to enjoy the consciousness of a personal God as we have, and to share in the same Christian blessings and privileges. Like many others who have returned from the mission field, Mr. Bunker is a man, who is able to set forth, in no uncertain tone, the many reasons standing to prove that the Christian missionary's ideals in Africa, are surely coming into realization.

At the close of his address, Rev. Mr. Goodenough offered a vote of thanks for the music, flowers and addresses of the day, as well as for the hospitality of the church. The conference closed with the benediction by Rev. Mr. Arnold.

CAMBRIDGE ACTS TO CURB ITS STUDENT AVIATORS

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP)— Flying has become such a popular sport among undergraduates that Cambridge university authorities have found it necessary to draw up regulations governing student flights.

A proposal to prohibit undergraduate flying except by members of the Cambridge university air squdron was defeated, but it was ruled that no students may fly except with the consent of parent or tutor and "no undergraduate may fly in the morning without written permission."

Students who own two-seater planes are particularly subject, it has been noticed, to the temptation to "cut" lectures. All their young women friends want to go flying.

SPECULATION GROWTH BOOSTS CURB VOLUME

NEW YORK —(AP)— Some enthusiastic curb brokers predict that the volume of trading on the curb exchange soon will exceed that of the big board as a regular thing.

They base their hopes chiefly on the tendency of speculative favorites to be listed on the curb, coupled with the growing taste of the public for the highly speculative issues in preference to the more sedate and conservative shares listed on the New York exchange.

The price of curb seats creeps upwards. The latest was $253,000, compared with $395,000 for membership in the older exchange.

Hawaii's live stock industry is now valued at about $12,000,000, according to a survey just completed by Prof. L. A. Henke, of the University of Hawaii. Products marketed annually amount to something more than $5,000,000.

BOBBY JONES ELIMINATED IN FIRST ROUND OF NAT. AMATEUR BY GOODMAN

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

PEBBLE BEACH, Cal., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Pebble Beach today proved the Waterloo for the Napoleon of golf—Bobby Jones.

Coming to the far west to conquer for the first time, the world's foremost shotmaker and four time holder of the title was eliminated today in the first round of the national amateur championship by a 20-year-old Nebraskan, Johnny Goodman, of Omaha.

In one of the most sensational upsets the tournament has ever known, Goodman outplayed Jones to win one up in a match that went the full eighteen holes and was not decided until the final putt.

"Goodman's path of glory was brief. He was eliminated himself unceremoniously in the second round by an 18-year-old San Franciscan, William Lawson Little, Jr., two and one, but the Nebraskan was the main shock producer for the day."

So keenly did the gallery of 5,000 persons apparently feel the unexpected downfall of the champion at the hands of the little known middle westerner that there was as much gloom around the home green at the finish as there was enthusiastic appreciation for the astonishing fight of Goodman, as game a fighter as they come.

Goodman won because he played better golf. There was no doubt about that, just as there was no doubt about the Nebraskan's staying power as he held the champion to even terms with par golf on the last four holes after regaining the lead at the fourteenth.

In a bitterly waged uphill fight, after he had lost the first three holes, in startling succession, Jones finally squared the match at the twelfth, where Goodman was in considerable difficulty. All even and six to go, few figured there was any golfer in the field able to outshoot the king of them all but Johnny Goodman did it. Instead of the Nebraskan, it was the Georgian who slipped when every shot had its bearing on the outcome. At the 555-yard fourteenth, Jones hit his third into a trap, lost a stroke and took six while Goodman, from under a tree, fired his third close enough to the green to get his par five and took the lead that he fought successfully to hold over the rest of the route.

If there were any "breaks," Jones got them. On the ninth, Bobby's second shot hit a bank and rolled near the pin. On the thirteenth he was stymied but hopped over Goodman's ball and into the cup with his mashie-niblick. On the 18th the champion's second shot sliced so far that it hit a tree, bounding out to the fairway, but he hit his chip shot too feebly and had a 35-foot putt left that he failed by a foot to get down as the last desperate stroke of the champion meeting his downfall.

It was the first time in his career that Jones has met defeat in the first round of the championship in which he made his debut as a boy in 1916. Only once before had he failed to get as far as the third round, although in each of the last two years in which he won the title the Georgian has encountered unexpected obstacles in the opening 18 holes matches that proved the undoing of so many stars.

The removal of so outstanding a favorite as Jones, threw the tournament into a somewhat chaotic scramble for the title, with the race wide open for the last eight that go into the third round tomorrow. If there was anything one siddelly convincing about the opening day's performances, it was turned in by the giant British champion, Cyril Tolley, who crushed his first two opponents, Eddie Held, and Fay Coleman, by margins of 7 and 6, and 8 and 6.

Jones had plenty of illustrious company as he left the tournament. It was another "black Wednesday" for the double barreled day of match play as George Von Elm of Detroit, the 1926 champion, passed out quickly for the third straight year, along with Gene Homans, of Englewood, N. J., co-medalist with Jones, Gibson Dunlap of Los Angeles, whose 69 in the opening qualifying round made him a sensation, and Phillips Finlay, another California favorite.

Altogether, the first round was a succession of hectic moments and upsets, with five of the sixteen matches going to extra holes and all the stars, except Tolley, George Voigt and Francis Ouimet, of Boston, having plenty of trouble.

Chandler Egan, the Oregon veteran who wore the amateur crown 25 years ago, put the crusher on Von Elm by 3 and 1, holding the edge all the way over the former champion. Homans passed out at the hands of Fay Coleman, southern California, by 4 and 3, but the latter was given short shrift in the afternoon by Tolley. Dunlap fell before the steady shooting of Clarence Hubby, the lone Texas entry, while Finlay, a semi-finalist last year against Jones, shared the champion's fate by losing to William Lawson Little, Jr., 18 year-old San Franciscan, one up.

Fortunes shifted with dazzling rapidity. Chuck Hunter, the tall shotmaker from Tacoma, was four up at the tenth on T. A. Bourn of England, apparently headed for a quick victory. In fact the score board conceded it to him once but a re-check showed the battle still on and Bourn very much in the running. The Briton squared the contest on the sixteenth and won on the 19th. Another Britisher, Eustace Storey, was one up going to the home hole with Roland MacKenzie of Washington, D. C. There the young American sank a thirty-foot putt for a birdie four to square the match and he won on the 20th hole.

Two other stars, Jess Sweetser of New York and "Jimmy" Johnston of St. Paul, were carried to the 19th before they emerged victorious from the opening tests, Sweetser by a Californian, Ralph Hoffman, and Johnston by another native son, John de Paolo.

The effect of the defeat of Jones was so stunning that the second round was greeted by the galleries as an anti-climax, especially as it developed nothing unexpected until Goodman, the giant killer, wound up his day's exploits by fading out of the competition at the hands of the youthful Little.

After the shooting was over, the field of 32 that started out so confidently this morning, was reduced to a group of eight—three from the far west, three from the east, one each from the midwest and Great Britain. Tolley's two smashing triumphs were the quickest of either round, but Voight, the New York favorite, came back on his game to dispose of two of the northwest's threats, Vincent Doip by a 4 and 2 and then Don Moe, holder of the western championship.

Voight played close to par golf in the first round and was under par in the afternoon as he made the turn two up on Moe. This was the outstanding match of the second round, with Moe playing even par himself to the turn, only to trail, and then make a game fight to overtake the New Yorker. At the 400 yard sixteenth Moe sank a forty-foot putt to reduce Voight's margin to a single hole, but the eastern star came back at the seventeenth himself with a birdie two to settle the issue.

Voight's next opponent will be "Jimmy" Johnston who cameb ack after his close call in the first round to beat Roland MacKenzie, 5 and 3, with a typical brand of steady Johnston golf. The Minnesota star was one over par as he made the turn all square, but his even par clip for the next six holes was too fast for the Washington youth to match.

In the bracket that Jones was expected to hold, Little Faced Francis Ouimet, Boston veteran, after successive upsets scored at the expense of Finlay and Goodman, Ouimet, playing better than in any championship tournament in years, disposed of Dave Martin of California in the first round, 4 and 2, and then put out the last Texas contender, Clarence Hubby of Dallas, 4 and 3.

Tolley's third round opponent is Dr. O. F. Willing, the Portland, Ore., dentist and one of the greatest match play fighters in the game. The doctor had a tussle before he eliminated the 16 year old Los Angeles star, Danny Sangster, by 2 to 1, in the first round, but he did not have much trouble scoring a second round victory over the Englishman, T. A. Bourn, by 3 and 2. Willing was three up at the turn and successfully stood off the Briton's home-coming challenge in a ding dong finish.

The remaining third round bracket is occupied by a brace of former champions, Sweetser and Egan, whose comeback ranks well up among the tourgament's main sensations. Sweetser struck his stride in the second round to beat the ex-Purdue and big ten champion, Johnny Lehman, 6 and 4. Egan swept aside a fellow Oregonian, Rudie Wilhelm, by the crushing margin of 7 and 5, in the afternoon after putting the skids under Von Elm.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL GETTING INTO HARNESS

High school football in eastern Connecticut is beginning to look up despite the 80s and 90s that the thermometer has been courting the past few days. The latest school to call out candidates is Westerly high and Coach D. H. Rogers had his boys out Wednesday afternoon, the opening day of school. Previously, Bulkeley and Chapman Tech, of New London, in that order, had started the long grind.

The season in this section will quite generally open the last week of the month, leaving approximately three weeks from this date with which to prepare. The Eastern Conn.-Rhode Island league, of six teams, the championship of which was won by Stonington high last year, will operate for the second time this season. Stonington, Bulkeley, Chapman Tech, Westerly, Windham and the Academy form the loop. The championship this season will be decided on a point system, instead of the old percentage idea.

A football innovation will be tried at the Westerly-Central Falls game at Westerly, Oct. 4, when the kickoff at the start of the second half will be done away with. The ball will be kept in play just the same as between quarters. It is the first time that such an arrangement has been made in the United States. William T. Halloran, widely known official, will referee, and several men prominent in the game, including a representative of Walter Okeson, chairman of football officials of many colleges, will be present. This is a Rhode Island conference game.

BROWNS TROUNCE WHITE SOX FOR 17TH TIME THIS SEASON

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—(AP)—St. Louis beat the White Sox 7 to 2 in their opener today. It was the 17th time this season the Browns have upset the Chicago team in 21 encounters.

Harold McKain was wild and ineffective, allowing six passes, Johnny Ogden limited the Sox to four hits. Five double plays by the Comiskey team prevented a bigger St. Louis score.

The "good sport" lost a five spot yesterday. Nuf sed.

Some fellow says to me yesterday, "Why don't you give us something about the farm or some homely subject." Says I, "How about a write-up about yourself?" But he don't get it at all.

Now what I know about a farm you could write on the back of a postage stamp. All I know is that those who are on farms want to get to the city and those who are in the city want to get to the farms.

Yes, I was born on a farm but my folks were kind enough to take me away from it before I realized what it was all about. Now I'm not knocking the farm or the farmer 'cause it's every person to his own liking.

If somebody should put me on a farm I'd probably starve to death before I could raise a potato or coax a cow to give up a pint of milk. About all I know about farming is that if you put seed in the ground it comes up, if the crows and birds don't dig it up first.

And if the seeds did sprout and come up I wouldn't know them from the weeds and would probably hoe 'em all up. Then if it rains too much you lose your crops and if it don't rain you lose 'em too, so I wouldn't know whether to pray for rain or pray for sunshine.

Then the beautiful insects you have to fight along with everything else to keep you busy. All I know is that eggs come from hens, milk from cows, potatoes from potato vines, corn from corn stalks and cider from apples. That's the extent of my farm knowledge.

So how in time can I comply with that fellow's request to say something about the farm. The only thing I can say is that this back-to-the-farm movement has no appeal for me.

I'll admit I like to get out on a farm for a day or so and hear the birdies sing, the insects drone and buzz and the mosquito bite. It makes me appreciate all the more my little apartment in the city.

FERRELL TURNS IN HIS 17TH WIN OF SEASON

DETROIT, Sept. 4—(AP)—Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland's recruit pitcher, turned in his 17th victory of the season here today at the expense of the Detroit Tigers. The score was 7 to 2.

Ferrell yielded 11 hits, the same number that the Indians made off Earl Whitehill, but Ferrell kept the Detroit safeties scattered except in the sixth inning when four consecutive hits brought in the Tigers' two runs. Johnny Hodapp got a home run in the second with Joe Sewell on base.

Ferrell now holds four victories over Detroit, against two defeats.

LEGION-SHYMA FINAL CLASH AT TAFTVILLE SATURDAY

All Taftville is agog over their "junior world series," the final game of which will be played Saturday afternoon at the Providence street grounds. The American legion team, which recently copped the Junior league title for the second straight year, during which it also completed two years without a defeat in that circuit, and the other sensational group of youngsters of the village, the Shyma club, are the principals.

These teams split even in their Labor day doubleheader, the first two games of the series, both tilts being hard-fought affairs. Lineups for the game will appear later in the week, but it is known that both clubs will be at full strength. The winner of this series will meet the Holy Name team of Jewett City for the junior championship of eastern Connecticut, last year won by the legion team.

DODGERS TAKE BOTH GAMES FROM PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4—(AP)—Brooklyn protected fifth place against the designs of the Phillies by taking both games of a double-header from the home team here today, 4 to 3 and 9 to 7. The second clash lasted ten innings.

Dazzy Vance got credit for the opening victory when Harry Smythe weakened in the eighth to lose his first major league decision after three straight victories. Smythe also closed out the second game, but the battle already had been lost when he entered the box.

The batting race between Babe Herman and Frank O'Doul remained unchanged. Each got three out of nine in the two games, and Herman remained ahead by a fraction of a point.

Donald Hurst hit his 26th homer in the first game. Val Picinich made the circuit on a drive within the field in the nightcap when O'Doul misjudged his liner, which rolled to the flagpole.

BRAVES NOSE OUT THE GIANTS IN HECTIC GAME

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(AP)—The Braves defeated the Giants by 8 to 7 in ten innings here today. The heat brought numerous pitching changes, the Giants employing five boxmen and the Braves three.

The Giants tied up the game with two out in the ninth when Ott hit his 36th home run of the season with Terry on base. The Braves then won the game in the tenth when Benton walked Sisler with the bases full, forcing Maguire.

Phil Voyles, a Pennsylvania semi-pro, made his big league debut in center field for the Braves. He hit a triple and a single, scoring three runs and driving in two.

PUTNAM TO BUILD TEAM AROUND SEVEN VETERANS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, September 4—Seven veterans of the eastern Connecticut championship eleven under the direction of Captain-elect Carolus Tourtellotte returned to school this morning and reported to Coach Noyes their intentions of answering the 1929 call. Coach Noyes informed his 1928 "left-overs" that uniforms would be issued by the Athletic association on Friday followed by a rally and on Monday the candidates would buckle down for a three week period of strenuous limbering up training.

The Noyesmen will make their debut this season at Willimantic on Saturday, September 28, when they encounter the Windham high squad. Inspired with their success of last season, the local high school eleven will make every effort to again clinch the eastern Connecticut mythical championship which was Putnam's last year by virtue of an unmarred slate.

In all probability, Captain Tourtellotte who so ably guarded the right flank of the line a year ago will be transferred to the backfield to occupy one of the berths there, as will also Stuart Sabin, center for the past two seasons. John Elliott and Reynold Debee will also be ball carriers. Reynolds' old task of calling signals is insured for him this year. Nelson King, Tiny Tourtellotte, Bob Bulger, "Swede" and "Ban" Anderson and "Hank" Thayer, all survivors of the victorious gridiron aggregation of 1928 will scramble for vacancies in the line.

VELVETMEN CLASH WITH COLORED GIANTS ON SUNDAY

Little is needed to be said in regards to this visiting team, in as much as it is the world's champion colored club touring the country. Followers of the national pastime have read of the accounts of victories the invading team has piled up in its tour throughout

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Eastern States Exposition.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 4 — Connecticut will lead the way at the 18th annual Eastern States exposition in Springfield from Sept. 15 to 21 inclusive, and from the opening of the gates Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock until the big fall show closes on Saturday night there will be a Connecticut hue to every program on the exposition grounds.

Gov. John H. Trumbull and his staff, together with many state officials, newspaper editors and civic and business leaders of the Nutmeg state will attend the Governors' day observances of Sunday and Monday, Sept. 15 and 16. Connecticut will have an elaborate state exhibit in the industrial arts section where agricultural activities will be presented. Livestock breeders, horse show exhibitors and industrial concerns will have a prominent place in their respective divisions. Society will be represented both in the ring and among the box holders at the Springfield horse show. Boys and girls will participate in the 4-H club projects, Mohawk Indian village, junior music festival, junior achievement activities and judging contests. Students of Connecticut Agricultural college will compete in the intercollegiate contests and Connecticut colors will be found in the poultry show, dog and cat shows and on the race track.

But the stellar Connecticut attraction will be the presence of the Governors' Foot Guard band at the exposition for the entire week under the direction of Capt. William Tassio of Hartford. The Foot Guard band has been engaged by the exposition management as a headline musical feature and will play at the reception to the visiting governors of the north Atlantic states on Sunday evening, and at the grandstand every afternoon and at the Springfield horse show every evening. Appearing as assisting soloist will be Miss Dorothy Root of Newington.

Broadway Theatre.

The old Mississippi—the "Ol' Man River"—made famous in song and story, is the background for the exciting all-talking picture, "The River of Romance," starring Charles (Buddy) Rogers and starting today at the Broadway. Buddy has a brand-new character as the "notorious Colonel Blake," gentleman-gambler and cold-blooded killer, yet withal a tender lover. As in "Wing," this youthful star carries off the honors in the film, and is ably supported by a clever cast of favorites, including Mary Brian and June Collyer as lovely southern belles, Wallace Beery and Fred Kohler, river gamblers and general all round "bad-men", Natalie Kingston as a Creole beauty, and Henry B. Walthall in a congenial role as a southern "colonel" of the old aristocracy.

The impossible has been achieved in the production coming to the Broadway next Sunday, when in "The Dance of Life," the entire massive and spectacular stage hit 'Burlesque," which jammed New York theatres for a solid season, is made into an all-talking picture and makes its bow on the Broadway talking screen. Hal Skelly, "Skid" in the stage production, has the same role in "The Dance of Life," and is at once more comical and pathetic than ever as the burlesque comedian who lets success go to his head and nearly ruin his life. Nancy Carroll, alluring and sweet, is Skid's vaudeville partner, who remains true to him through everything. With the advent of "The New Show World" of which "The Dance of Life" is the initial production, Broadway audiences are assured of an entire season of "big shows," at popular prices in "The House of Hits."

Palace Theatre

A slice of campus life is portrayed in Columbia's "The College Coquette," the all-talking picture which opened at the Palace theatre last night. The plot revolves around the unselfish friendship of two girls in a co-educational institution. The girls are exact opposites in personality and habit. One is a flirt, ever ready for a lark and not happy unless surrounded by a score of jealous swains. The other is demure, a clinging vine, who has been so restricted that she doesn't know anything about men. Ruth Taylor handles the first characterization in a finished manner. Jobyna Ralston, as the unsophisticated chum, who is deceived by a carefree youth, plays her part with a sympathetic understanding.

The supporting male roles are enacted by John Holland and William Collier, Jr., John Holland, as the football coach who falls in love with the coquette, is the ideal choice for the role. He is handsome, has a striking physique and an air of reserve. William Collier, Jr., plays the gay deceiver superbly. The big moment in the picture when Ruth Taylor saves the reputation of her girl friend by sacrificing her own deserves special mention.

This production has benefited greatly by the use of talking and sound technique. The voices of the entire cast reproduce naturally and clearly. College quartettes, laughter, song, the shuffle of dancing feet and the cheering of football fans are a few of the sound effects that convey the atmosphere of the gay life at a co-educational university. George Archainbaud is responsible for the excellent direction.

Also Pathe sound news, "The Constable" an all-talking comedy and Vitaphone acts.

Breed Theatre.

Some of the leading race-horses and jockeys on the Pacific coast appear in racing scenes for "The Whip," famous stage play filmed by First National Pictures, which will begin its local showing tomorrow at the Breed theatre. British technical directors saw to it that the proper English atmosphere was retained in the racing scenes as well as other parts of the picture.

"The Whip" boasts an unusually large cast headed by such popular favorites as Dorothy Mackaill in the featured role, Ralph Forbes, Anna Q. Nilsson, Lowel Sherman, Marc McDermott, Albert Gran and others. Charles Brabin directed "The Whip" and Sam E. Rork produced the story for First National Pictures.

Capitol Theatre, Willimantic

Al Jolson has sung to many distinguished and attentive audiences but he has never had a more worshipful one than when he sang his new songs to Davey Lee during the filming of "Say It With Songs."

It comes to few children in history to have the world's foremost and highest-priced entertainer on his knees singing for their particular benefit but that is not what impressed Davey. To this unspoiled baby wonder, a year ago unknown and now loved by millions, it was not Al Jolson, the star, who was singing to him and the microphone but only his kind "Uncle Al."

It is part of the appeal of this famous pair that Davey stands in no awe of Jolson. It would be difficult to get the natural reactions and the spontaneous affection between the two if Davey realized just how fate has favored him. And there is another reason. Jolson who discovered Davey, loves the boy as he might love a son, and there is real understanding between them.

"Say It With Songs" is the third great Vitaphone special made for Warner Brothers by Jolson. It comes to the Capitol theatre, Willimantic, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Marian Nixon, Kenneth Thompson, Holmes Herbert and Fred Kohler are in the cast.

"Burton's Agency Sells Another."

Arthur and Agnes M. Durr have purchased of Miss Mira Baldwin her property located at No. 50 Roosevelt avenue consisting of a seven-room cottage containing all improvements and garage. The new owners have purchased the property for a home. The sale was negotiated through the real estate agency of Mrs. Rosa E. Burton.

FEATHERS FOUND ABLAZE IN MECHANIC ST. HOUSE

About 9 a. m. Wednesday Pawcatuck Fire Co., No. 1, was called for a strange fire in the second floor of the house at 145 Mechanic street, owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Sheffield. The blaze was found in the bedroom of the tenement leased by Charles Wilkinson. There were feathers scattered all over the floor of the room and they were ablaze when the firemen arrived. A small chest in the room was also filled with feathers. Just how the fire started is a mystery. Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson have not occupied the tenement for the past two months, according to a statement made by Mrs. Wilkinson, and nothing was left there which would start a fire. There was no one at home in the Sheffield tenement either when the firemen arrived. The damage was slight but Chief Joseph J. Purtill is conducting an investigation to try to ascertain the origin of the blaze.

The recall was sounded after the company had been out a half hour. Carelessness of parties Tuesday morning who threw a lighted cigarette or cigar into the brush at the side of the road on Crandall avenue caused a fire which threatened surrounding property. Nearby cottages were saved by the prompt arrival of the Misquamicut fire department.

At about noon Wednesday the Watch Hill and Misquamicut department were called to fight a brush fire near the Tetlow cottage, on the East Beach, between Watch Hill and Misquamicut.

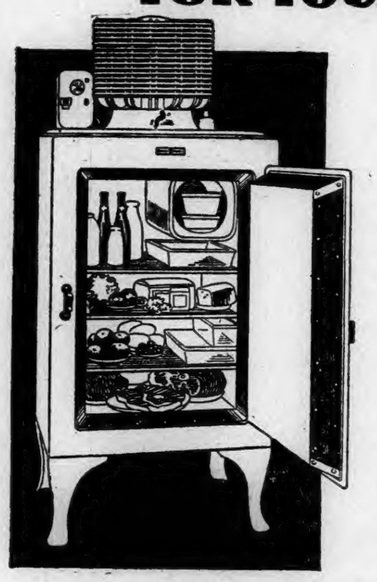
Here's a HEALTH WATCHMAN FOR YOUR HOME



During this hot weather particularly, it is most important to keep all perishable foods safely cold. When the temperature in your refrigerator rises even a degree or two above 50, bacteria multiply with alarming speed. In a General Electric Refrigerator the temperature is always below 50 degrees—low enough to check germ growth . . . to keep foods safe from contamination.

The General Electric gives you perfect refrigeration—quiet, worry-free and economical. It has a simple device for freezing regulation. Its mechanism, which never needs oiling, is safely enclosed in an hermetically sealed steel casing, mounted on top. As evidence of guaranteed reliability—there are now more than 300,000 users and not one has spent a single dollar for repairs!

The cabinet of the General Electric is the first and only one built entirely of steel—as strong and warp-proof as a safe. No other refrigerator has such simple mechanism and so sturdy a cabinet. See it for yourself. And ask about the conveniently spaced payments on which all the models are sold.

Let Us Demonstrate These Fourteen Superiorities

FITFUL WAVES OF SELLING IMPARTED REACTIONARY TONE IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(AP)—The bull movement on the stock market appeared to have spent its force today, and fitful waves of selling imparted an emphatically reactionary tone to the list.

Wall street was inclined, once more, to worry about the credit outlook, but regardless of other factors, the bidding up of stocks last week and yesterday had been so rapid that conservative traders felt that a corrective reaction was due.

The weekly Wednesday uneasiness over an increase in the Bank of England's discount rate, which would be announced before the opening tomorrow, was again apparent, but sterling held fairly steady, and private advices from London indicated that it was felt the expected increase would be postponed for another week.

The monthly stock exchange total of member borrowings, announced after the close, gave traders something to think about with another increase of more than $400,000,000, carrying the total close to $8,000,000,000, and representing an increase of more than $2,000,000,000 in the past year, and about $1,200,000,000 in the past three months.

This huge August upturn was more than the weekly federal reserve figures had led Wall street to expect, for, although they include fewer sources, they showed a gain of but $257,000,000 for the four weeks ended Aug. 28.

Call money held at 9 per cent all day and bankers stated that credit requirements for crop movement was delaying the return of funds to this center after the month end disbursements. It was pointed out that increasing demands for commercial credit as the autumn activity gets under way will also tend to keep money tight. With the enormous absorption of funds by the stock market, despite the increase in New York Reserve bank's rediscount rate, there was much speculation as to what further restrictive measures the reserve authorities might take.

Business news continued favorable. Sears Roebuck announced that August sales were at a new high record for that month, more than 20 per cent above August of last year. Iron Age reported little change in the iron and steel industry, explaining that no marked recession is expected during September, and that fall demands which cannot yet be clearly predicted, will not be felt until October. Pig iron production in August set a new high record for that month, close to the July total. Further firmness in copper prices was noted, and oil operators in the Oklahoma City pool were said to have agreed to petition for a 30-day shutdown.

Shares which have been run up rapidly of late were those which felt the brunt of the selling, such issues as U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, American Water Works, Atchison, Chesapeake and Ohio, Consolidated Gas, International Harvester, Johns Manville, R. H. Macy, New York Central, Norfolk and Western, Union Pacific, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, and Stone and Webster lost from 3 to 6 points. Columbian Carbon, Allied Chemical, and Westinghouse lost about 7 points each. Auburn Auto tumbled 19 points, and Adams Express, an highly mercurial issue, tumbled 90 points to 500 in a small turnover.

Bulls concentrated on the two favorites of last year, General Motors and Radio. In an effort to stem the tide of selling, Radio was hurled up more than 11 points to 109 1-2, the highest prices in months, in a turnover of nearly 400,000 shares. General Motors was sent up more than 3 points above 75 in a turnover of more than 300,000 shares. Trading in these two issues alone accounted for approximately 16 per cent of the day's turnover of nearly 4,7,00,000 shares.

Coppers were again under accumulation, Greene Cananea rising 3 points to a new high at 198. While the rails were generally heavy, Reading and Southern Pacific mounted about 6 points to new highs. The former occupies a strategic position in the eastern merge situation and much of the stock is closely held. Buying in the latter reflected, in part, the interstate commerce commission's approval of its petition to lease the Nevada-California-Oregon. Bufonta rose nearly 10 points to a new top, with the upturn in General Motor, and American Rolling Mill rose to a new top at 137. It was announced it had leased rights to its continuous rolling process to Gulf States Steel.

Commodities were generally lower. Cotton lost from $1.10 to $1.90 a bale on reports of beneficial rains in the south. Wheat lost more than 2 cents on weak foreign markets, and corn sagged on better weather.

In the generally steady foreign exchanges, sterling cables held at $4.84 25-32.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(AP)—The bond market staged a dull performance today, showing feeble resistance to the tendency of prices toward lower ground. Only the secondary rails were able to show an advance, and the gain in this group was made on a light volume.

With time money persisting at 9 3-4 to 9 per cent for all maturities and the immediate credit outlook regarded as unfavorable the prospects for a general improvement in bonds is regarded as none too bright. Some observers believe that funds will remain firm for some time, and until there is a relaxation the chances for the fixed charge investment securities to begin a sustained advance are slight.

The convertibles, which are being sought by investors as well as by traders because of the possibilities for profits which these obligations hold in a rising stock market, were unusually quiet today and prices were off at the close. After a strong opening the share privilege bonds gave ground and net losses of as much as 2 1-2 points appeared in the final quotations. The maximum recessions were made by International Telephone 4 1-2s and New Haven 6s. American Telephone 4 1-2s lost 1 1-2. Alleghany corporation 5s of 1949, dropped one and Philadelphia Reading Coal & Iron 6s 1 1-2.

United States government securities were firm and two or three issues met good demand. First grade rails eased. Atchison General 4s sinking to their year's low of 90, but recovering for a small fractional advance.

Some of the speculative carriers showed the strongest tone of the rail division. Seaboard Air Line adjustment 5s rose 1 3-8, while St. Paul adjustment 5s advanced nearly a point, only to lose most of the gain toward the close. Erie Consolidated 4s moved up 1 1-2.

The feature of the quiet industrial division was a 5 point rise in Fisk Rubber 8s. Goodyear Tire & Rubber 5s equalled their year's low of 90.

Utility and foreign bonds were featureless.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 4—(AP)—Pressure on the wheat market found it vulnerable today and despite continued clear weather in Argentina prices here went down grade. There was slack demand for wheat both here and abroad and available world stocks showed a big increase.

There was pressure on other grains, too, but corn and oats stubbornly resisted and at the end, while wheat was near the low point of the day, corn was at the best price of the session. Wheat finished 1 3-4 to 2 3-8 cents lower and corn 3-8c higher to 5-8c lower. Oats were 1-4 higher to 1-4 lower and provisions steady at the same as yesterday's finish to 2's lower, bellies showing the loss.

The early news from Argentina indicated rain might terminate the long drought that menaces the new wheat crop. The latest cables, however, reversed the tone of the news, for the skies were clearing and although some rain may have fallen it was not in the wheat area. Liverpool was weak on the hope of Argentine rain and on large offerings of wheat from that country.

General liquidation by longs started the market downward here and every rally invited further sales.

Bradstreet showed the world's available wheat stocks to be 345,000,000 bushels against 180,000,000 a year ago, an increase of 9,738,000 for the week; today's deliveries totaled 857,000 bushels of wheat and 89,000 of corn. Export interest was quiet.

The trade regarded as bullish the government's weekly weather and crop summary of the corn outlook, which reported crop progress in the Ohio valley but drought damage elsewhere.

Little rain was recorded over the belt during the middle west today and much corn is fired beyond help. Kansas, for example, in its weekly crop survey described 50 to 75 per cent of corn as past aid from rain. There was persistent commission house buying of oats.

Effective tomorrow, the American Sugar company and Arbuckle Brothers will reduce the price of refined sugar 20 points to 5.30 cents a pound.

It was reported in Wall street today that the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, the Anglo-Persian Oil Co., and the Royal-Dutch interests are considering a plan whereby they would cooperate in the construction of a large refinery in France.

The Anaconda Wire & Cable company and other leading drawers of wire were reported today to have advanced the price of copper rods and wire 1-4 of a cent a pound, making the new price 20 1-8 cents a pound. It also was reported that the Anaconda Copper Mining company had increased the price of coper metal from 18 to 18 1-4 cents a pound.

A BARN AND GARAGE ONLY BUILDINGS TO BE MOVED

The Griswold selectmen are proceeding today (Thursday) to adjust the claims of property owners, along the line of the new eastern Quinebaug highway, upon which work is to begin at once. It is believed that the matter of walls and fences, where slices of abutting land are taken, will figure as the main items upon which the owner's claims will need adjustment.

From all of the farms, where a long thin strip is taken for the right of way, the blue prints by the state engineers have totalled these needs into acres and fraction thereof. Over all the mileage, the only buildings to be removed are a barn and garage on the Simon Brewster farm.

Herman Bickleman, ex-sailor, now residing in Philadelphia, who is estranged from his wife, was in the police court today charged with breach of the peace. He was found guilty and sentenced to 30 days in jail, but because of the nature of the evidence against the accused, execution of the sentence was suspended. Bickleman arrived in New London a few days ago and last evening he went to the home of his wife, 66½ Connecticut avenue, where he engaged in a quarrel with the woman. He finally seized her by the neck, according to testimony and attempted to force the woman to an upper tenement. When he was interfered with by Mrs. Stevens, occupying the lower tenement, she was also attacked and struck by Bickleman. The manner the two women told their stories, together with the statement that Bickleman has another wife in Philadelphia, had much to do with the suspended sentence being meted out. Most Amazing Guarantee Ever Made to Pile Sufferers

Because there are still thousands of men and women needlessly suffering the torture and discomfort of itching, bleeding, burning piles, Peterson of Buffalo asks every druggist to broadcast his remarkable offer.

He says—"Tell every one of your customer that it doesn't make any difference what they have tried before or what lack of success they have gotten from any internal or external remedy for piles—I want them to give Peterson's Ointment a fair trial. Tell them they make this trial at my expense for if the mighty healing upwer of my ointment doesn't stop itching and burning and dry up piles quicker and better than they ever hoped for—their money will be returned." JEWISH MASS MEETING ADOPTS PROTEST RESOLUTIONS ON PALESTINE

Condemning the administration in Palestine, several hundred local Hebrew residents, at a protest meeting Wednesday evening at the Brothers of Joseph synagogue, West Main street, adopted resolutions demanding that immediate steps be taken for the restoration of law and order in the Holy Land. Among the eight demands in the resolutions are the call for an immediate investigation into the causes leading to the Arab outbreaks and that those guilty of inciting or perpetrating the attacks be punished.

Congressman Richard P. Freeman of New London, the principal speaker, expressed himself as confident that Great Britain will soon bring about peace and order in Palestine and that the present unfortunate occurrences in Palestine will lead to a thorough understanding of the underlying causes, and, then, with a better understanding, a new foundation will be laid for greater peace, security and happiness in the Holy Land.

The protest meeting arranged by Rabbi Max Stamm, included the Hebrew residents of the Norwich Zionist district, and members of 14 local Jewish organizations. Rabbi Stamm called the gathering to order about 8:15 o'clock, and after briefly addressing the assemblage in Yiddish, presented Rabbi Joseph N. Rosenberg, who also spoke in Yiddish. Rabbi Stamm, in a brief address in English, spoke of the present conditions in Palestine and said England should take steps toward restoring law and order in Palestine. "We demand to be secure in the future," he said. "We want to know that our property won't be ruined there. We also demand compensation for the Jewish lives lost in Palestine."

Congressman Freeman Speaks

At the conclusion of his talk, Rabbi Stamm introduced Congressman Freeman, who spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am glad of this opportunity to come to Norwich to say a few words to you who have assembled here tonight, regarding the deplorable conditions in Palestine. We now know that the British government fully realizes that the Jewish people have the heartfelt sympathy of their neighbors throughout the world, because of the horrible atrocities that are now being committed over there. It is not only the right, but it is the best thing you can do, to come together throughout the country in meetings like this one here tonight, to testify to your sorrow and indignation over the murder of your defenseless kinsmen, and to express your tense apprehension over the possible fate of all those living near the scenes of disorder. Such testimonials carry a decided weight in urging those in authority to exert every possible means to bring about peace and order, and then afterwards to produce a better understanding for future security in this region.

You must realize that England, with the mandate over Palestine, is confronted with a difficult problem. We would have had the same problem ourselves, had we accepted the invitation of the powers to assume the mandate over Armenia. We all knew that the Turks and the Armenians get along no better than the Arabs and the Jews. Armenian atrocities have been a reproach for centuries past. We rightfully considered that there were troubles enough for us in the West Indies and in Central America to occupy all our attention. You know that the vast majority of the rural population in Palestine is Arab. These Arabs live in tents, and in mud villages and they are for the most part so indolent that they find it hard indeed to make a living honestly. To this country in the past eight or ten years, there have come many Jews, from Poland, Russia and other parts of the world. They have brought with them modern ideas of farming, together with a patriotic zeal in the thought that they were rebuilding their ancient fatherland. The Palestine Arab is a marauder, going out in the night-time seeking loot and plunder. He is much less provident than his Jewish neighbors, and finds robbery the easiest method of getting by. The Jew is a trader in merchandise, a tiller of the soil, a man of peace and progress, and wherever and whenever possible an accumulator of means. The home lover and a fixture in one spot. The Arab, on the other hand, is altogether shiftless, he is a rover from place to place, a pillager and a fighter.

Under these circumstances you must all realize what a difficult task confronts England. But I think you will agree with me that no other people in the world are as well qualified to handle such a dangerous situation, like the one existing in Palestine today, as the English. Their experiences, both in Egypt and India, have taught and trained them, and though they have once again been taken off their guard—as at Cownpore and Calcutta—with consequent disaster, they are now thoroughly aroused, and will, I am confident, soon bring about peace and order. Whenever the honor of Great Britain is at stake, all parties—labor, conservative and liberal unite as one to uphold and vindicate it. These unfortunate occurrences in Palestine will lead to a thorough sifting of the underlying causes, and then, with better understanding, a new foundation will be laid for greater peace, security and happiness, for your kinsmen in their home land. Your pride in the wonderful improvements made there by them is fully justified, and, notwithstanding the present trouble, you must be encouraged to "Carry on," and help to complete its thorough restoration, in order that "the promised land of God's chosen people" may come back into its own.

Contribution From Mayor Robbins

Rabbi Stamm then read to the gathering a letter from is Honor, Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, regretting his inability to attend the meeting, and expressing himself as in sympathy with the purpose of the gathering. Mayor Robbins incloged with his letter a substantial check toward the Palestine Relief fund. The mayor's letter follows:

Sept. 4, 1929.

Mr. Herman B. H. Cohen, secretary
Congregation Brothers of Joseph, City.

My Dear Mr. Cohen:

The recent visit to our city of Mayor Block of Tel Aviv, Palestine, has brought home to me more forcibly the present distress of that district.

I have read the newspapers with much interest and no little concern although I have the utmost confidence in the ability of Great Britain to control, suppress and eventually punish the offending Arabs. I have been particularly impressed with the splendid defenses made by the Jewish people against the vicious attacks made upon them. News items have repeatedly mentioned the fact that the Arabs were repulsed with heavy losses. This is certainly a matter about which to feel proud.

I regret my inability to be present at the meeting this evening but I am entirely in sympathy with your purpose to raise funds for the relief of these afflicted people. We can have only a measure conception of the lamentable conditions existing throughout this region but we know from the press reports that the losses in life and property are tremendous. We also know that the need of large sums of money for the relief of the wounded and starving survivors is urgent. I sincerely trust that the people of Norwich will respond to this appeal in behalf of suffering people with that same characteristic generosity for which they are known the world over.

I personally tender my check herewith for this cause as a slight token of my sympathy for the citizens of Palestine.

Resolutions of Protest

Protest resolutions were then introduced by M. I. Silverman and unanimously adopted by the gathering. The resolutions follow:

The civilized world has been startled and horrified by the outrages perpetrated upon the Jewish population of Palestine by organized bands of fanatical Arabs. The Holy City has been desecrated and turned into a battleground under the eyes of the Palestine administration, charged with the duty of preserving law and order in the country.

All accounts point to the fact that these attacks upon Jewish life and property were premeditated, concerted and well-organized. The Arab aggressors were unlawfully armed. The Jews, particularly in the small outlying communities, were taken by surprise and put to the sword. Arab outrages reached the depths of savagery in the ancient city of Hebron, where scores of Jewish scholars and students, utterly defenseless, were brutally massacred. These events shocked mankind and filled every Jewish heart with the horror and indignation.

The civilized nations have pledged themselves to the Balfour declaration and the Palestine mandate. Great Britain has assumed the responsibility of the mandate over Palestine, granted to it by the league of nations. The Balfour declarations upon which such mandate is based reads as follows:

"His majesty's government view with favor the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people, and will use their best endeavor to facilitate the achievement of that object, it being understood that nothing shall be done which may prejudice any civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine, or the rights and political status enjoyed by the Jews in any other country."

Upon the strength of these pledges the work of the peaceful upbuilding of Palestine has been begun by the Jewish people: land purchased, cities and villages built, swamps drained, the soil cultivated, industries organized, educational and welfare instructions—including the University of Jerusalem—founded.

Tens of thousands of our best men and women have gone to Palestine to carry on the work of the redemption of the land from centuries of waste and desolation.

The Jews of America, cooperating with their brethren of other lands, have poured tens of millions of dollars into Palestine through the United Palestine Appeal, the Joint Distribution committee, the Hadassah Medical organization and other welfare agencies.

The resulting economic progress has contributed to the health and well-being of the entire population and the welfare organizations have served the people of the country, without regard to race or creed.

We are resolved to go forward with the peaceful development of Palestine, the re-establishment of the ancient homeland. We cannot be swerved by a hair's breadth from our purpose by outbursts of primitive savagery. The memory of our martyred dead must cause us to rededicate ourselves to our holy task.

We appeal to the conscience of the world.

We desire to express our confidence in the honor and faith of the government and people of Great Britain. To them we now turn, that justice may be done to the Jewish people, to the living to the dead.

We charge the administration in Palestine with laxity, inefficiency, incompetence and criminal neglect in failing to prevent the organization and arming of the Arab mobs.

We further charge the administration in Palestine with deliberate disregard of its obligations under the mandate derived from the league of nations, which calls not only for the preservation of the civil and religious rights of all but also for active cooperation thruout the establishment of the Jewish homeland in Palestine by encouraging Jewish immigration and colonization upon the soil.

On behalf of the Jewish people of America we do now therefore submit the following demands:

1. That immediate steps be taken for the restoration of law and order in Palestine.

2. That there be instituted an immediate and thorough investigation of the causes leading to the Arab outbreaks, and that all who have been directly or indirectly guilty of inciting or perpetrating the attacks be punished.

3. That all lax and incompetent officials in the administration in Palestine, including those who are not, in sympathy with the purpose of the mandate, be dismissed.

4. That the police force of Palestine be organized so as to include a large percentage of Jews, and that adequate military forces be established to provide for the future defense of the Jewish population.

5. That fullest compensation be made to the victims of the attacks, or to their families for Jewish lives lost and Jewish property looted or destroyed.

6. That provision be made for the opening of the doors of Palestine to an increased immigration in accordance with the spirit of the Balfour declaration and the Palestine mandate.

7. That the just settlement of the problem of the Wailing Wall be immediately arranged through government expropriation, after adequate compensation, in recognition of the fact that the Wailing Wall is a holy place peculiarly sacred to the Jewish people, to be safeguarded in like manner as the holy places of Christians and Moslems.

8. And finally we demand a complete and public restatement of the government of Great Britain that shall make clear and indubitable its intention to carry into eect the purpose of the Balfour declaration and the mandate over Palestine, granted to it by the league of nations.

After the resolution was read, a rising vote was called for. All stood in favor of the resolution. Congressman Freeman announced that he will send the resolution to the state department at Washington today (Thursday).

Rabbi M. A. Tonkel sang the prayer for the dead, during which the gathering was visibly affected. Many wet eyes were noticed among the audience.

At the monthly business meeting of the members of St. Jean Baptiste society held Sunday afternoon at Parish hall, the president, Desire J. Dufresne, tendered his resignation. POETRY

Vermont Fun

Ed Fuller was a man that stood
For any grade of fun 'twas good;
His farmer chum, Honestus Shedd,
Was jest the same ten cents as Ed;
One lived where Calvin Coolidge rose,
And one where Gerry Sargent goes.
When he goes home; their places lay
'Bout 16 miles apart, I'd say;
They had no tire or sparkplug cares
For both relied on Morgan mares.

Great friends they was and liked to play
Their pranks together night or day,
And so when late October grew
A full-up moon and henroosts, too;
When every farmer's soul was set
On how much poultry-pay he'd get,
And sensitive to squawks,
And supersensitive to midnight shocks,
Then Ed would tie a rooster's feet
And park it 'neath his buggy seat
That night when folks was in their beds
His mare and Ed would put for Shedd's;
They made a pair, as you can see,
As potent as the Lindbergh "we,"
Straight Ludlow north past Rescue Lake,
Through Deestrict seven his course he'd take,
Then, as he crossed the Plymouth line,
He headed plumb for deestrict nine,
Past Tyson's ruined spaffic forge
That made the iron hills disgorge,

On past Dry Hill's outstanding brow—
The world was dryer then than now—
On, past Duck Pond, Old Notch, Mount Tom,
Where Presidents are staried from,
Till Shedd's loomed up; and there they'd talk
Till one was on the Thomas clock;
Then Ed and 'Nestus took a seat
Above the rooster's tethered feet,
And 'round the countryside they went
As if by Old Satanas sent.

A-near some farmer's house they'd steer
And reach for Mr. Chanticleer;
A pinch of two brought forth such squawks
As would have startled city blocks;
Then when inside they saw a light,
A lifted rein, a cluck, "Good Night";
My! how that Morgan horsefiesh sped
With barrel round and human head;
Two hours they played their goblin game
And every farmer got the same.

That eve at Plymouth Union store
They heerd the news and somewha- more;
With blazing tongues the crowd portrayed
The horrors of the henroost raid;
Each farmer told how many head
They took or left as good as dead;
Young cockerels, pullets, "fowls" and hens,
The count was made by fives and tens;
Honestus suffered with the rest,
Of course, and told his ile with zest.

More kinds of justice, jails, and law
Than any courthouse ever saw,
More vengeance than a snake would stand
Was threatened on that nighthawk band;
"I'd like to ram a hen's nest down
Their windpipe works," said Wilder Brown;
It shows how 'magination acts
When folks are short on henroost facts
For not one single roost was shook
And not one bird was touched or took.

The Sea's Spell

Beneath thy spell, O radiant summer sea,
Lulled by thy voice, rocked on thy shining breast,
Fanned by thy soft breath, by thy touch caressed,
Let all thy treacheries forgotten be.
Let me still dream the ships I gave to thee
All golden-freighted in fair harbors rest;
Let me believe each sparkling wave's white crest
Bears from thy depths my loved and lost to me,
Let me not heed thy wrecks, nor count thy slain,
As o'er-fond lovers for love's sake forget
Their dearest wrongs so I, with eyes still wet
With thy salt tears, with heart still wrung with pain,
Back to thy fierce, sweet beauty turn again,
And though thou wreck we, will I love thee yet!

Cale Jones, near Smith Center, Ia., had fifty acres of wheat land he didn't touch the year round, yet when harvest time came he cut it with the rest of his crop and found 1,000 bushels had been produced in that strip from volunteer wheat. PLANNED TO BEAT BANKS OUT OF $500,000 IN CASH

Some Man Had Fixed Things Up to Obtain the Money, and Then Didn't Take It—Six of the Largest Banks in New York City Figure in the Game—Perpetrator Had Obtained Certified Checks For $500,000 Deposited to His Account in the Chase National Bank, But Has Not Cashed Them—Detectives Are at Work on the Case.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(AP)—The American Bankers association hired detectives today to solve a financial riddle unprecedented in the history of banking, the puzzle being that a man had apparently got it all fixed up to obtain $500,000 that didn't belong to him, and then didn't take it.

On August 30 six of the city's largest banks received code telegrams bearing the signatures of banks in Denver, Col., ordering them to place from $75,000 to $100,000 each in the Chase National bank to the account of the bank of Telluride, Col.

The banks did as they were requested. The Chemical Bank and Trust company and the First National bank deposited $100,000 each and the Guaranty Trust company, the Equitable Trust company, the National City bank and the Harriman National bank $75,000 each.

Last Saturday a man saying he was C. D. Waggoner, president of the Telluride bank, appeared at the Chase National bank and presented cashier's checks for certification. He had documents presented identifying him, and the Chase bank certified the checks totalling $500,000. The man then walked out and has not been seen since. Nor, so far as the Chase bank knows has he cashed any of the checks.

"The whole transaction was perfectly regular so far as we are concerned," an official of the Chase bank said today. "The money was deposited with us by the six banks and we are satisfied that it was Mr. Waggoner whose checks we certified. We have had no word at all from the banks which deposited the money."

But if the banks didn't take the matter up with the Chase bank they were not idle in other quarters. Lawyers for the Harriman bank reported the matter to the district attorney's office and at the instance of others the Bankers' association began a thorough investigation. The Denver banks insisted that they never had sent the telegrams authorizing the New York institutions to deposit money to the account of the Telluride bank.

The cashier's checks apparently had been signed in blank by the cashier of the Telluride bank before he went away on vacation. The bankers' association reached him by long distance telephone and was told that Mr. Waggoner was en route to New York on Aug. 30 when the telegrams were sent from Denver and that he still was believed to be here. The association said Mr. Waggoner was seen here by persons who know him on Aug. 31 but not since then.

The district attorney's office sent out a general alarm for Mr. Waggoner, or his double, in an effort to find out what it was all about and the Bankers' association hired private detectives to take up the trail.

Meanwhile the certified checks still were at large and as no complaint has been received from the depositing banks the Chase bank made no move to stop payment.

DENVER BANK OFFICIALS AT WORK ON THE CASE

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 5—(AP)—Bank officials were endeavoring today to unravel the details of a half million dollar transaction, involving transfer of that amount from Denver to New York banks on alleged unauthorized telegraphic orders sent from Denver in American Banker association codes.

In the meantime a search was being made for C. D. Waggoner, president of the bank of Telluride, Telluride, Colo. Bankers here said Waggoner presented drafts at the Chase National bank, New York, to which the Denver funds were transferred, and deposited part of the certified drafts in other banks to cover indebtedness.

The attorney here for the Chase National bank said that Waggoner had presented last Saturday three drafts made out to himself for $225,000, $200,000 and $70,000. These drafts were said to have been signed by the cashier of the bank of Telluride. The Chase National bank certified the drafts and Waggoner discharged an obligation of $100,000 of the Telluride bank and a $100,000 obligation of a packing company with the $200,000 draft. He turned in the $70,000 draft to discharge a personal obligation of that amount.

The $225,000 draft was deposited in some New York bank. C. E. Downtain, cashier of the bank of Telluride, reported today that he had been notified that the bank had been given a credit of $135,000 at the First National bank at Pueblo and $30,000 at the Continental bank of Salt Lake City.

The Chase National bank reported that Waggoner had informed it recently that he expected large shipments of money and asked the privilege of presenting drafts to check the money out.

On discovery of the alleged unauthorized telegrams sent from Denver to the New York banks, private detectives were put to work tracing the movements of Waggoner. He was learned to have left his hotel August 25 and to have been in Denver up to August 28.

On August 30 three women and two men filed telegrams to the New York correspondents of six Denver banks instructing them to deposit in the Wall street branch of the Chase National bank sums ranging from $75,000 to $100,000, a total of $500,000 to the credit of the bank of Telluride.

The Denver Post says the search for Waggoner took on an international aspect when reports were received that the man who presented the drafts may have taken passage on the Graf Zeppelin, which sailed from Lakehurst, N. J., Sunday.

MERIDEN, Sept. 5—(AP)—Charles J. Moore, of Torrington was re-elected president of the Connecticut Federation of Labor at this afternoon's session of the 44th annual convention being held here. The Torrington man defeated his opponent John W. Murphy, of New Haven, 56 votes to 45.

A resolution was adopted to use all their efforts toward the enactment of the old age pension bill.

COURT WOULD HASTEN TRIAL OF MRS. PANTAGES

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Sept. 5—(AP)—Defense and prosecution in the second degree murder trial of Mrs. Alexander Pantages was admonished by the court today to speed their efforts in selection of a jury as attempts to obtain a panel entered the third day.

Questioning of the second panel of fifty veniremen began with each side fortified with only ten remaining peremptory challenges.

Mrs. Pantages, who is alleged to have been responsible for the death of Joe Rokumoto, a Japanese, in an automobile collision last June 16 in which she was driving one of the machines, entered the courtroom on the arm of a nurse. She was accused of driving while intoxicated at the time of the fatal crash. She is the wife of Alexander Pantages, millionaire vaudeville manager, who is awaiting trial late this month on statutory charges.

ORDER CLOSES DANCING ACADEMIES IN HAVANA

HAVANA, Sept. 5—(AP)—The capital of Cuba is virtually danceless following orders issued today by the interior department to immediately close all dancing academies in Havana, on charges of immorality, and violation of laws ruling societies and club privileges.

Fifty public dance halls are affected. Protest came from women's clubs and civic organizations which branded the halls as "dens of iniquity," and "pitfalls for young womanhood."

The padlock orders will be protested tomorrow by owners of leading dance halls who claim there have been no violations of the law.

Lehmann said the world flight was evidence that the dirigible had fulfilled all hopes of those who built and navigated it.

The death list was lengthened and damage total increased with reports from isolated districts.

TWO MORE KILLINGS BY GANGSTERS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 5—(AP)—Gangland staged another of its double executions today and as usual the only evidence left police was the bullet-torn bodies of two young racketeers.

The two victims, Frank (Cy) Gawley and Edward Wescott, were found early this morning by a workman lying along side a seldom used street in a sparsely settled northwest community. They had been shot repeatedly through the back, apparently having been stood up with their faces to the street and executed.

The executioners performed their task well. Police found not the slightest trace of them, and had only the criminal records of the slain racketeers as a basis for an investigation.

In the meantime a search was being made for C. D. Waggoner, president of the bank of Telluride, Telluride, Colo. Bankers here said Waggoner presented drafts at the Chase National bank, New York, to which the Denver funds were transferred, and deposited part of the certified drafts in other banks to cover indebtedness.

CLEMENCEAU ORDERED TO STOP WORKING HARD

SABLES D'ORLONNE, France, Sept. 5—(AP)—Former Premier Georges Clemenceau was given a thorough physical examination today by Dr. De Gennes and his local physician and then was ordered to stop working so hard.

For several weeks the Tiger has been laboring night and day on his memoirs, which have aroused the keenest curiosity in France and has slept very little and rested seldom.

These memoirs, part of which the Tiger dictated and part of which had been writing with his own hand, are near completion and will be published simultaneously in France, England and the United States.

Dr. De Gennes, who was summoned from Paris when Clemenceau's son Michel and his local doctor began to worry over a cold the Tiger contracted, found the patient already getting better. The doctor and Michel Clemenceau left for Paris by automobile tonight after the Tiger had sarcastically laughed at the precautions they urged him to take.

The Tiger protested against the examination but Dr. De Gennes, who used to give commands to the insurgent Marshal Foch, before his death, took aim in hand.

SHRINKAGE OF $1,000,000,000 IN QUOTED VALUE OF STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(AP)—Upwards of one billion dollars in quoted values was washed away in a sudden flood of selling which swept over the New York stock exchange in the last hour of trading today. The reaction, which came with startling suddenness after pools had succeeded in marking up scores of issues $2 to $14 a share, many of them to new high records, was the worst since the break which followed the raising of the New York federal reserve rediscount rate from 5 to 6 per cent., a month ago. Net declines in many active stocks ranged from $3 to $18.75 a share.

At first, Wall street was inclined to lay the blame on the publication of a statement by Roger Babson, well-known economist, that a break in stock prices rivalling the Florida land boom was imminent. Later, many observers agreed that it was a natural correction of a top-heavy speculative position created in the feverish bullish activities of the last few weeks.

ANNA MARIA MUSSOLINI NEW CITIZENESS OF ITALY

FORLI, Italy, Sept. 5—(AP)—Anna Maria Mussolini, latest addition to the family of the duce and sublimely unconscious of breaking precedents and rules, was duly enrolled today as a citizeness of Italy, her birth certificate bearing the signatures of both the premier and Finance Minister Mosconi.

Imposing delegations of functionaries, headed by Fascist Grand Officer Guido Farello, prefectorial commissary of Forli commune, repaired to Premier Mussolini's villa to receive the official paper from the proud father.

The duce pressed Signor Mosconi into service as a witness, interrupting the finance minister's report on the weighty deliberations at The Hague reparations conference.

ARAB RAIDERS WERE REPULSED BY BRITISH

LONDON, Sept. 5—(AP)—The regular colonial official communique on the situation in Palestine tonight reported that 26 casualties had been inflicted on Arab raiders in a successful action by British troops defending El Mesha village, east of Mount Tabob, on the evening of Sept. 3.

"Twenty-six casualties were inflicted on the raiders, while one soldier was slightly wounded.

"French authorities in Syria have posted detachments on the Palestine frontier north of Safed, in order to prevent the incursion of Arabs into our territory.

"During Wednesday the situation remained generally quiet.

"Aircraft continue to carry out systematic patrols over the whole country."

NURSE ALLOWED PATIENT TO SMOKE IN BED—FIRE

TORONTO, Sept. 5—(AP)—Taken to the Sisters of St. Joseph's hospital in what he admits an alcoholic condition, F. H. Prosser, said the nurse assigned to him, let him smoke in bed. The bed caught fire and he was badly burned. He is suing the hospital for $5,000 damages alleging that his injuries were due to the negligence of the nurse, who failed to supervise his action as it was her duty to do so.

Break In Drought And Heat Forecast

Forest Fires in Several Parts of New England Reported Under Control.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(AP)—The belated heat wave which has scorched the country for the past five days continued today, even splitting across the Atlantic into Europe, where new heat records were established, but relief was in sight.

Showers and cooler were forecast in many sections and though in others the prediction was for warmer tomorrow the break in temperature even there was only put off until tomorrow night.

The showers were more important than the drop in temperature as drought was threatened in several districts and forest fires were raging through parts of New York, New England and Ontario.

Temperatures of 90 and above were still common today, although not so general as in the past several days.

Forest fires in the Adirondacks and Catskills in New York and in several parts of New England were reported under control but in Ontario valuable pulpwood and timber was being destroyed in a score of places, one fire alone covering 500 acres in Alice township.

HEAT WAVE IN ENGLAND AND CONTINENTAL EUROPE

LONDON, Sept. 5—(AP)—There was no sign tonight of a diminution of the excessive September heat prevalent in England and continental Europe. The Royal Observatory at Greenwich said the average temperature this week had been 6.6 degrees above the average for the same period for the 65 years from 1841 to 1905.

The heat wave in the Rhineland has been accompanied by terrific thunderstorms which have caused loss of life and property damage.

In Hungary the heat has been extreme since early in August with daily temperatures of between 85 and 95 in the shade.

Athens reported torrential rains. In several quarters of the city, especially those at low levels, houses have been undermined and abandoned by tenants.

The heavy rains have been prevalent too over northern Africa. A report from Cairo tonight said that Nile floods were threatening the cotton crop of Egypt.

WILL BE OPPOSITION IN SENATE TO WORLD COURT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5—(AP)—Administration endorsement of the Root formula for American adherence to the world court was given today through Secretary Stimson and adverse reports were forthcoming quickly from the administration group in the senate, which eventually will be asked to ratify the proposal.

The opposition at the capitol, which came from the league of nations irreconcilables, lulled in volume, however, with word from the state department that it appears unlikely that President Hoover will submit the world court proposition to the senate before another year.

The president is understood to hold that the assembly of the league of nations shall formally approve the revised American reservation to adherence, and that each of the signatory nations shall go through the necessary steps for ratification before he calls upon the senate to act. Such a course means a year, at least, it is believed, before the issue again goes before the senate.

JEWISH POPULATION IS RETURNING TO SAFAD

JERUSALEM, Sept. 5—(AP)—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—The Jewish population of Safad is gradually returning to the city where they are staying in the protected area which is being daily enlarged. A portion of the Jewish quarter which was destroyed by fire is uninhabitable. Relief work is being organized by the Jewish agency with the aid of funds received from the Palestine emergency fund in the United States and other countries.

In many instances the attackers were recognized as the former Arab neighbors of the Jewish residents who were on friendly relations for many years. Some 90 Arabs were arrested in Safad on charges of assault and looting. An English missionary, Dr. Semple, declared that the looting continued in Safad until the following afternoon.

UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPT TO REFUEL AT WICHITA

WICHITA, Kas., Sept. 5—(AP)—The endurance monoplane City of Baltimore landed at municipal airport here early this afternoon, two hours after it had unsuccessfully attempted to refuel at Central avenue airport here. Only 50 gallons of gasoline remained of its 600-gallon load.

George R. Hutchinson, owner and pilot of the plane, and his co-pilots, Lieut. William L. Snowden and A. G. Graham, abandoned an attempt to reach Las Vegas, N. M., after the unsuccessful refueling attempt here late this morning and after a short flight returned to Wichita.

Hutchinson planned to refuel the monoplane and to start a new endurance attempt from here tomorrow, flying to Los Angeles and back to Baltimore, from where the craft departed shortly after 7 o'clock last night.

Sing has been confined in a padded cell since his arrest since undergoing a cure for a drug habit. He was held without bail.

Establishment Of A European Federation

Premier Briand of France Launched the Project at Geneva Convention.

GENEVA, Sept. 5—(AP)—Premier Aristide Briand of France, orator preeminent among the statesmen of Europe, today added new laurels to his crown as he launched his ambitious project for the establishment of a European federation which has been popularly interpreted as a "United States of Europe."

He appealed to the nations to make deep study of this proposal and applause greeted his remarks. He raised the subject during a stirring tribute to the decade of work by the league in which he made a memorable appeal to women of the world to protect their children from false ideals of strife and from those doctrines calculated to inculcate prejudice and hate among peoples.

The address before the league was mainly devoted to a review of its work and analysis of problems still to be solved, but later at a luncheon attended by international journalists M. Briand went further into the plan for a European federation and indicated the goal as a political as well as economic organization. He said that although the idea had been described as a dream he was nevertheless convinced that the nations of Europe could establish closer ties to their mutual benefit.

Premier Briand in asking the governments to give close study to the possibilities of an European federation said that in addition to military disarmament, economic disarmament also was needed and in his opinion this problem could be attacked from the political standpoint. The ovation accorded the veteran French statesman did not end in the assembly hall itself. Crowds had gathered in the streets and they hailed him with cheers.

PROGRESS OF TARIFF DEBATE IN THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5—(AP)—The combination of democrats and republican independents in the senate, which for weeks held the export debenture plan in the farm relief bill against the wishes of President Hoover, was renewed today to oppose the administration group in the pending tariff bill contest.

As a result of an agreement as to procedure reached between Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, and Senator Borah of Idaho, spokesman for the western farm state group, the effort to limit the tariff revision to agriculture will be deferred. After the senate reconvenes Monday, a motion will be made to start debate on the administrative provisions of the republican measure.

Robinson contended the merits of the bill should be debated first and said that after the country was adequately acquainted with the changes proposed by the finance committee majority in the house measure many democrats would favor a motion to recommit similar to the Borah resolution which lost by one vote last June.

In announcing the "understanding" between the two groups, Borah would not go into details, but he said the independents would have no objection to deferring a recommittal motion, if it was decided to make one, until after the debate had proceeded a while.

UNABLE TO IDENTIFY NEGRO AS MAN WHO ROBBED HER

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(AP)—Mrs. Sidney E. Hutchinson, of Beverly Farms, Mass., was unable to identify Byron Beaucaire, Boston Negro, as the man who robbed her home of jewels worth $114,000 August 10, but Beaucaire and James Salley, Negro barber, were held without bail in police court here today.

Mrs. Hutchinson identified as her property several pieces of jewelry recovered when Beaucaire was arrested August 26. Beaucaire was charged with felonious assault, bringing stolen jewels into the state, and violation of the Sullivan law. Salley was charged with receiving stolen property.

Seven policemen who participated in the arrests divided a $10,000 reward offered by Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson for recovery of the jewels. It later was announced that Beaucaire had confessed.

SITUATION IN THE FAR EAST STILL IS STRAINED

MOSCOW, Sept. 5—(AP)—The situation in the far east between Russia and China still is strained, said Izcestia, official Soviet newspaper, today, commenting editorially on the address made yesterday by Dr. C. C. Wu, Chinese minister to Washington, before the league of nations.

The communist organ said provocative attacks on Russian territory in the far east have not yet ceased nor has the oppression of soviet citizens been discontinued. The newspaper takes violent exception to Dr. Wu's analysis of the Manchurian situation and declared that further "unfounded accusations before the league of nations may result disastrously for the Chinese government."

WESLEYAN TO HAVE NEW SYSTEM OF PLEDGING

MIDDLETOWN, Sept. 5.—(AP) — A new system of pledging will be tried out at Wesleyan this year, according to an announcement made today. The new plan provides the newcomers with more advance scholastic and financial information about the various fraternity houses than has been available heretofore. Under the new plan, freshmen will indicate the "houses" to which they would like to be bidden and the fraternities likewise indicate the freshmen whom they wish to entertain. The committee in charge of the date making for the freshmen is composed of Professor J. W. Hewitt, dean of freshment; William H. Coffon of Fitchburg, Mass., and William G. Guernsey, of Wellesley, Mass.

Captain Stryker said because of the low lying clouds, it was impossible to proceed with the plane, and he took the mail to New Haven by automobile, whence it was forwarded to New York by train.

PLANE PROBABLY DOWN IN AN UNINHABITED SECTION

Previous Report of the Finding of the Air Transport Plane, City of San Francisco, Proved to Be Erronerous—Planes and 200 Indians Are Scouring the Country in the Vicinity of Gallup, N. M.—$5,000 Reward Has Been Offered For the Man Who Finds the Missing Transport—Service of the Air Transport Company Has Been Suspended.

GALLUP, N. M., Sept. 5—(AP)—The Transcontinental Air Transport passenger plane "City of San Francisco" which flew out of Albuquerque, N. M., Tuesday morning with eight persons aboard, still was missing tonight, apparently down in the wild and almost uninhabited section along the New Mexico-Arizona border.

The army, navy, T. A. T., and other air lines in the vicinity were combining in the greatest search from the air ever witnessed in the west, but the fate of the plane, its five passengers and three crew members was as much a mystery today as it was Tuesday.

Tracing a report, accepted as true last night by the T. A. T., that the plane had been found and that its eight occupants had been killed, T. A. T officials today found that a Gallup schoolbus driver, credited with being the one who started the rumor, had heard the story from an unidentified man in a shoe shining establishment here.

Further reports that the plane had been seen from the air; that the approximate spot of its crash had been located, and a half dozen other rumors, proved erroneous as searchers systematically traced them down.

While searching planes droned overhead, 600 Zuni Indians, crack woodsmen of the southwest, scoured the rugged country in the vicinity of their reservation at Zuni, N. M., near here. Unverified reports said the plane had fallen in that vicinity.

Acquainted with the country as no others could be, the Indians searched throughout the day but returned to their reservation without having found any trace of the plane.

One confusing angle of the search, which kept authorities from knowing whether they were searching for one plane or two was cleared up when Earl Gordon and Lindsay Gillis, Los Angeles fliers who hopped off from Albuquerque Tuesday and were believed to have crashed in the vicinity of Gallup, reported their safe arrival at Kingman, Ariz.

A section of the crew on the Santa Fe railroad reported late today they had sighted a plane near Hauk, Ariz., on Tuesday. It was thought possible that the plane was the big air liner. With it becoming momentarily more evident that the plane was not down in the immediate vicinity of Gallup as searcher after searcher returned without news of the plane, the theory was advanced that the ship may have landed in the vicinity of Hauk. Scout planes were dispatched in that direction.

Spurred by the announcement of T. A. T. officials that $5,000 would be the reward of the man who found the missing transport, searching parties on foot and on horseback went out from almost every one of the few small communities in this section.

REPORT LOCATION OF MISSING AIR TRANSPORT

CLOVIS, N. M., Sept. 5—(AP)—A report received here in a private message concerning one of the victims of the T. A. T. plane accident, said the ship had been located ten miles from Nonobez, Texas, which is 553 miles northeast of Phoenix, Arizona, near the New Mexico line. No confirmation was obtainable.

TRANSCONTINENTAL AIR SERVICE SUSPENDED

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 5—(AP)—Service on the Trans-Continental Air Transport, Inc., was suspended tonight, Donald Bartlett, assistant general manager announced. The west-bound plane will proceed as far as Winslow, Arizona, tomorrow to aid in the search but eastbound planes will not start, he said.

ARMY AND NAVY FLIERS ORDERED TO SEARCH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5—(AP)—Army and navy aviators in the southwest and on the Pacific coast were ordered today to participate in the search for the missing Transcontinental Air Transport liner City of San Francisco, believed lost between Albuquerque, N. M., and Kingman, Arizona, with five passengers and a crew of three.

Responding immediately to the appeal of Colonel Paul Henderson, president of the Transcontinental Air Transport line, for aid in the search, the war and navy departments dispatched instructions to commanding officers of two corps areas, the eleventh naval district, and the battle fleet on the Pacific coast to render all assistance possible by sending out searchers.

The number of airplanes to participate in the search over rugged and dry terrain in the southwest was left for the various commanding officers to decide.

DISAPPEARANCE OF PLANES AND THEIR OCCUPANTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(AP)—Disappearances of planes and their occupants have been numerous in Atlantic flights, but disappearance of the Transcontinental Air Transport plane City of San Francisco, with eight persons, is believed to be unprecedented in the history of flying over regular commercial land routes.

Ocean planes that have disappeared, never to be found, follow:

Captain St. Roman and two companions flying from Africa to South America.

Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli flying from France to the United States.

Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim and two men flying from England to Canada.

Monoplane Old Glory with Philip Payne, Lloyd Bertaud and J. B. Hill flying from the United States to Rome.

Captain Tully and Lieut. Metcalf flying from Harbor Grace, N. F., to London.

Mrs. Frances Grayson and four men trying to Newfoundland preparatory to a flight to Europe.

Lady Elsie Mackay and Walter Hinchcliffe flying from England to America.

And but a few days ago two youthful Swiss aviators from Lisbon to New York.

PRACTICE SESSION FOR SCHNEIDER CUP RACE

CALSHOT, England, Sept. 5—(AP)—Minor mishaps, so frequently associated with high speed contests, today marked the last practice sessions for the Schneider cup race. The tourney between the speed kings of the English and Italian air forces is to start tomorrow, the forecast being for fair and warm weather. The first day's program will be devoted to navigation tests.

As a result of the practice sessions the following teams, were officially announced tonight:

For England:

Flight Officer H. R. D. Waghorn, flying the Supermarine Rolls-Royce S-6.

Flight Lieutenant D. D'Arcy Greig, with Supermarine Napier S-5.

Reserve Pilot—Lieutenant G. H. Stainforth with a Gloster Napier 6.

For Italy:

Warrent Officer Tomaso Dal Molin, flying a Macchi 52.

Lieutenant Rano Cabringher, with a Marchi 67.

Lieutenant Giovanni Monti, with a Macchi 67.

In reserve, a Macchi 52 plane with Major Agelo and Captain Canaveri as reserve pilots.

In this Italian team the machine assigned to Dal Molin is the plane in which Major Bernhardi set up a world's record of 318.5 miles an hour in 1927. The young warrant officer must depend on this old machine because the Macchi plane in which he was to have flown suffered a punctured float in today's tests and was saved from sinking only when a speed boat poked its bow under the starboard wing.

The English outfit also had to put in reserve a Gloster Napier 6 in which Lieutenant Stainforth was practicing. It developed trouble with its gas line.

Estimates of the speed that will be attained in the races have gone up to 360 and even to 380 miles an hour.

GARAGE WASHERS AND POLISHERS ON STRIKE

NEW YORK, Sept. 5—(AP)—With one strike averted in New York's organized labor ranks today and union officials predicting a speedy end to another, some 2,500 men will be affected by the new strike order, which involves the Garage Washers' and Polishers' union local of the Bronx and Manhattan. The walkout is set for September 15. It is directed at garages employing non-union help.

Two of the largest and most of the smaller trucking firms in the city today signed a temporary agreement with the International Brotherhood to prevent a walkout of 7,500 drivers. The pact was signed just before the men were scheduled to strike.

In the strike of 7,000 needle workers officials of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union predicted a settlement of difficulties by the end of the week. Some 78 of the 100 non-union embroidery shops have met the union's demands, officials said, and most of the non-union garment manufacturers have applied for membership in the Pleaters' and Stitchers' association.

Members of the hemstitchers and embroiderers, pleaters and tuckers unions are participating in the strike.

FURTHER LOANS FOR COTTON COOPERATIVE MARKETING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—The federal farm board announced today it had arranged for additional loans to cotton cooperative marketing associations in the south whereby the unhedged cotton can receive a supplemental loan of ten per cent. above the amount loaned by the intermediate credit banks.

Previously the board agreed to advance 25 per cent. of the value of hedged cotton controlled by associations. This advance to be supplemental to a 65 per cent. loan already made by the intermediate credit banks, which gave those associations an advance equal to 90 per cent. of fixed value of the cotton.

Under the agreement today the board provided for a supplemental ten per cent. advance on cotton on which prices have not been fixed.

Alexander Legge, chairman of the board, said he expected the demand as a result of the granting of the supplemental loan would amount to $20,000,000 within the next 90 days.

DAVENPORT-STONE WEDDING IN HISTORIC MORTLAKE MANOR

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 5—In the Tyler room of historic Mortlake Manor inn, the property of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the late president, Mrs. Evia Amelia Stone of Framingham, Mass., and Henry Haskell Davenport of Pomfret were married this morning by Rev. C. C. Rowlison, pastor of the Congregational church at Brooklyn. Mr. Davenport was for years deputy commissioner in charge of state highway work in Windham county. For several years past he has spent much of his time in Florida. The wedding this morning was in a setting of old family furniture and beautiful flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Davenport have gone to the White Mountains for their wedding trip, and upon their return will remain in Brooklyn until October, when they will go south to spend the winter at the Davenport home "Palmholm, Bellair, Fla.

Mrs. Davenport is a member of the Brooklyn Congregational church and a soloist at its services. She is a member of the Danielson chapter, O. E. S., Order of Amaranth, Dorcas Rebekah lodge of Danielson and of Brooklyn grange and Quinebaug Pomona grange.

The board of directors of the Danielson chamber of commerce will place before the members of the organization at the first regular meeting since early summer, Tuesday evening of next week, a proposal that the town be asked to have published the names of all delinquent taxpayers. The proposal is advanced because of the flagrant manner in which some property owners evade paying taxes, though the collections this year by Collector James R. Walsh have been excellent, the amounts he has received being several thousand dollars in excess of the total cost of town operation for the past fiscal year. The matter is one of live interest to the man or woman who pays promptly, while others hold out.

The total enrollment in Killingly's schools at the close of today's sessions was 1314. Of this number 413 are enrolled in Killingly high school. In the Junior department of that school there are 72 in the seventh grade and 93 in the eighth grade, a total of 165 in the Junior department. In the senior department there are 102 in the freshman class, 66 in the sophomore class, 46 in the junior class and 33 in the senior class, and also one student doing post graduate work. The total in the senior department is 248.

In the Danielson grammer school it has been necessary to make changes which had not been anticipated in order that the number of pupils per teacher might be placed within reasonable limits, Supt. W. E. Parker said today. With that end in view, the grades taught by the various teachers and the number of pupils assigned to each teacher have been re-assigned as follows: Grade 1, Miss Holly, 38; Grade 1 and 2, Miss Fuller, 36; Grade 2 and 3, Miss Hammett, 37; Grade 3 and 4, Mrs. Beckett, 34; Grade 4, Mrs. Williams, 35; Grade 5, Mrs. Keach, 41; Grade 5 and 6, Miss Mann, 33; Grade 6, Miss Stanton, 38. There is a total enrollment of 293 in this building.

At the Davville school there are enrolled in Grades 1 and 2, Mrs. Burdick, teacher, 42 pupils. In Grades 3 and 4, Miss Capron, there are 31, and in Grades 5 and 6, Miss Pease, there are 49 studying. The school has a total enrollment of 122.

In the Attawaugan school Grades 1, 2, 3, Mrs. Morse, 25 pupils; Grades 4, 5, 6, Miss Germaine, 31, a total of 56 in the school. There are 62 registered at the Ballouville school—Grades 1, 2, 3, Miss Shelton, 33; Grades 4, 5, 6, Mrs. Burnham, 29. At Killingly Center, Grades 1-4 inclusive, Miss Keech, 23 are attending. The East Killingly school has 54 pupils, Grades 1, 2, 3, Miss Mellor, 27; Grades 4-8 inclusive, Miss Page, 27. The Valley school, Miss Garceau, all grades, has 22 pupils, and the South Killingly school, all grades, Miss Kelley, has 21.

Preceded by a prayer service at the home in Brooklyn, funeral services for Mrs. J. Kimball Hargraves were conducted at Trinity church in that place this afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. J. Rees Jones. Relatives and numbers of friends attended the service. Burial was in the South cemetery at Brooklyn. There were many beautiful floral pieces. The bearers were Alfred L. Reed, William S. Hunter, E. M. M. Marlor, J. Dyer Potter, Harry E. Magoon and William S. Streeter, F. W. Tillinghast and Sons were in charge of the arrangements.

That section of highway leading out of Elmville past the plant of the Killingly Worsted company via the Cat Hollow mill on the East Killingly route is closed to traffic for the time being to a point a short distance above the mill where there is a bridge over Whitestone brook. Closing of this short stretch of highway causes no great inconvenience because there is an optional route over the hill. The road is closed while the Crystal Water company continues repair work to its mains, necessitated by both of the lines coming down through that section were damaged by bolts of lightning a few days ago, though the lines are well down in the earth below the frost line.

At the Tam-O-Shanter club out on the Providence road last night a bachelor dinner was given in honor of Chester Irwin, professional at the links of the Putnam Country club and who is to be married the coming week to Miss Dorothy Hamilton of Danielson. At the dinner Mr. Irwin was presented with a purse of gold. There was an elaborate menu and a thoroughly enjoyable evening in every respect. Among the members of the club attending were Charles E. Alexander, W. E. Bitzcod, V. T. Anderson, W. K. Litch, H. J. Barnett, Herbert H. Bepler, J. F. Gardner, Jr., all of Danielson and Lewis Hoar and Roland Gaunt.

This morning at 9 o'clock the funeral of Frank Lusgnan was held from the home in Union street with funeral services at St. James' church, Rev. J. A. Demers, M. S., being celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery, Rev. Fr. Demers conducting the committal service. The bearers were F. X. Lemieux, Albert Mailhot, Eli Gaudette, Louis Savoie, Norman Reeves and Albert Larace. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Nellie M. Gay, 64, died early last evening at her home near Dayville. Mrs. Gay was the widow of Charles Gay. She was born in Moosup August 4, 1865, a daughter of Benjamin and Sarah Roberts Franklin. She had been a resident of Killingly for a long term of years. Mrs. Gay leaves one son, Harry, of New York and four daughters, Mrs. Frederick Cote, Mrs. Thomas Derosier, Mrs. Theodore Quintal, all of this town, and Mrs. Ada Tourtelotte, of Hartford.

Girls wanted. Clean, pleasing work in curtain factory. Apply at office. Powdrell and Alexander, Inc. Danielson, Conn.—adv.

As in other departments of the town, a fine showing has been made during the past fiscal year in the management of the town farm at Dayville, where Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Bassett are in charge, respectively as superintendent and matron. The per capita cost of keeping persons there has been $2.68 per week, as against $4.49 last year. The greater number of persons accommodated without proportionate in increase in expense accounts in some measure made up for the difference in cost per person between this year and last year.

Chief John McFarland is continuing his investigation of the holiday period burglary at the Church company store, and today picked up one clue that appeared to be of considerable value. A careful checkup of the stock of the store shows that the burglars got away with a little more than $500 worth of clothing, shoes and furnishings.

Another stretch of trolley track being taken out is from Dayville Four Corners into Dayville to a point where the tracks turn northward past the old carhouse.

Telephone employers from various departments of the Danielson division were at Gardner's lake today for the annual outing for employes from all parts of eastern Connecticut.

Colonel Henry W. Babson, president of the Eighteenth Connecticut Volunteers association, will leave Saturday to attend the national reunion of the G. A. R. at Portland, Me.

Omer Labarre, resident on the Wauregan road, displayed what may be termed a lobster today. The great What-is-it? was taken from the waters of Fall Brook, not heretofore known for the production of shell fish.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill said this afternoon that it was probable that his finding in the death of Edward K. Ewart of Wauregan, killed in an automobile accident at Attawaugan a week ago last Sunday night, will be completed Friday.

James E. Smith, newly appointed postmaster at East Killingly, has resigned as a registrar of voters of the town after having served in that capacity for forty years and with the greatest efficiency. He is succeeded by Hannah H. Hammond, the first republican woman to hold political office in Killingly aside from republican women who have served or are serving on the town school committee.

Howard White, resident at Pomfret Landing, has, notwithstanding the adverse seasonal conditions for crops, an acre of potatoes that promises a yield of 300 bushels.

Asa G. Merritt of Springfield was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

PUTNAM

DRIVER OF TRUCK NOT TO BLAME FOR ACCIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 5.—Orville Gosslin of Bates avenue, a truck driver employed by the Bridge street auto supply of this city, and driver of the truck upon which Henry Tourtellotte, Manuel Lima and Edwin Morin, three Putnam men, were injured yesterday, today was absolved from all blame in connection with the accident, following an investigation by State Officer Henry M. Mayo of Danielson barracks.

Officer Mayo made a thorough check-up of the case, the distance in which the truck stopped, and questioned several witnesses, passengers on the truck when the misfortune occurred early Wednesday morning. Gosslin informed the officer that the truck, when it left Bugbee's square, had the tail board raised and securely fastened. At some point between Putnam and Pomfret one of the riders lowered the board to relieve congestion and the three seated themselves on the floor. This, the driver said, was contrary to rules and regulations of the trucking company. The riders were talking loudly so as to be heard above the noise of the engine and when the Putnam men were jolted off, Gosslin did not pay much attention to the cries until he had gone several feet—but he furnished sufficient proof that he stopped within one hundred yards and went to the aid of the injured men. With no criminal negligence apparent on the part of Gosslin, Officer Mayo discontinued investigation.

At the Day Kimball hospital late this afternoon Henry Tourtellotte's condition was reported as unchanged. The hospital authorities stated that he had regained consciousness but had not recovered from the shock sufficiently enough to undergo an exray examination, that will be required before it can be definitely ascertained whether or not the patient is suffering from a fracture of the skull. Morin and Lima were reported to be considerably improved today.

A dry spell which is now on its 107th day, is beginning to spread fear among the residents of the country districts where wells are running low, brooks are drying up and ponds have disappeared. Reports from agriculturalists and cattle raisers today were to the effect that several farmers have been forced to dispose of a portion of their live stock because of the insufficient water supply, while others are carrying water a considerable distance to water their cattle. Wells of ordinary depth have dried up, while many of the artesian water supply holes 100 feet deep and over record a supply far below normal. These conditions are existing in every rural community surrounding the city and unless heavy rains are experienced within a few days the situation will materialize into a grave crisis, farmers said. The drought is one of the longest and most severe in the memory of most of the older citizens. Statistics given out today placed the dry-spell as being in existence for 107 days.

The republicans will push off the lid of the town political pot on next Thursday evening when they gather in caucus to place in nomination candidates for positions on the board of selectmen, town tax collector, town clerk, board of relief and other minor town offices. There is expected to be little change in the republican slate this year and it is felt that all present incumbents will be again placed in nomination. On the other hand the town democrats are preparing the way for a full ticket. It is rumored and it has been authoritively learned that the democratic authorities are to place two candidates on their ticket who will seek berths on the board of selectmen. Some rumors of a democratic opponent to be pitted against Town Clerk Henry N. Benoit, republican, who in all probability will clinch re-nomination by his party have been received, but no statements from the party chiefs were available today. In the event two full slates are offered to the voters this year it is certain that one of the most active and hard fought campaigns will be waged, since both parties have made substantial increases in the caucus lists during the past year.

Rev. Ernest J. Boileau, principal of St. Mary's school, announced this morning, that enrollment figures at the parochial school had been compiled by the nuns composing the faculty showing that there is a total of 789 pupils registered. These figures, Father Boileau said, represented a slight decrease from the number of students attending sessions last year. However, this is a large student body for one school and when augmented to the total registration of the public school system shows there are to be 1,694 pupils attending schools in the city.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at two o'clock at her late home in Pomfret for Mrs. Cora E. Sanderson, who died Monday. Rev. Mr. Fuller of Eatem street, retired clergyman, officiated at the service at the home and also conducted a committal service at the grave in Grove street cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Virginia Kent, of Pomfret street, who died Tuesday was held this morning at St. Mary's church at nine o'clock. A requiem high mass was celebrated by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor, who also officiated at the committal exercises in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kyrie, for many years a resident of this city, died at her home on the River road today. She was 90 years of age and had been ill for several weeks. Mrs. Kyrie is not survived by any immediate relatives and final arrangements for burial were not completed today. She was a member of St. Mary's church of this city.

Alpherie Lucier, a trouble man for the local electrical company, who was painfully burned last Friday evening at the plant of the National Rhea company is making a satisfactory recovery. He was discharged from the Day Kimball hospital Tuesday morning. Hospital authorities said this afternoon that Mr. Lucier will not suffer the loss of his hand, which was badly burned when he touched the wire.

Captain Edward F. Perry, M. D. of this city, has resigned his command of the medical detachment of the 43rd Div. C. N. G. at Danielson. Capt. Perry for the past year has been in command of the medical unit but was forced to resign his commission because of impaired health. Capt. Perry's resignation was accepted by the adjutant general of Connecticut and at the present the outfit at Danielson is in the command of Lieut. Kenneth K. Kinney of Willimantic.

Whether or not Henry P. Symonds of Boston, hydraulic and consulting engineer retained by the city water commission as an advisor in the solution of the water situation will furnish plans and specifications for the proposed one million gallon steel tank to be erected on Oak Hill in time for the adjourned meeting of the council next Tuesday evening, is not known today, nor will his actions be known until the date of the meeting, since Mayor Richard has rebuked Commissioner Ralph E. Thurston for discussing such affairs with the newspaper representatives. Mr. Thurston was approached today, but he was reserved and reminded interviewers of the mayor's desire to have him say nothing, pertaining to the water department. At the council meeting Mayor Richard explained his stand is due to the fact that he believes that water department matters should first be brought before the common council before being offered to the public through the press.

H. J. Lebovit of Bayonne, N. J., appeared before Justice of the Peace Charles F. Brown and Grand Juror Myron R. Abel in a session of local justice court, Wednesday evening. He was fined $15 and costs as the aftermath of the automobile accident on the morning of August 29 at the junction of Hayward and Norwich avenues when the Lebovit car collided with a Ford operated by Rubin Cohen, of Colchester. Five persons were hurt and one of the injured is said to still be in a serious condition at Backus hospital, Norwich, the other four having recovered from their injuries. Lebovit pleaded guilty to the charge of speeding following which Judge Brown imposed the fine. The accused was defended by Attorney Josiah Greenstein of Norwich. State Policemen W. E. McKenzie and Hill of the Groton barracks were the officers who made the investigation of the accident.

Nearly $600 For Palestine Relief

Over one hundred and fifty were in attendance Tuesday evening at the protest meeting held in Grange hall under the auspices of the local Zionist organization, Congressman Richard P. Freeman being one of the principal speakers.

Dr. Goldberg, director of the Zionist New England Regional Union, the chairman of the meeting gave an introductory address and Attorney Reuben Taylor of Hartford spoke at length on the Palestine situation.

Congressman Richard P. Freeman declared that in his opinion, these recent disorders in Palestine will make their fatherland dearer to the Jews of the world; these stirring events will clarify the issue and serve to bring the Jews nearer to their goal. Mr. Freeman went on to say that the cause of the trouble in Palestine is economic rather than religious for the English government has to contend with the economic differences in customs and habits of the Arabs and the Jews. Congressman Freeman also said that the petition asking for the enforcement of the Balfour declaration which was signed by nearly two hundred Jewish residents of Colchester has been forwarded by him to the U. S. secretary of state.

Rabbi Levenberg, dean of the New Haven seminary next delivered a very effective speech on the Palestine situation and stressed the necessity of the Jews in the United States giving assistance to their oppressed brethren in their native land.

Rabbi J. N. Levine of the Colchester synagogue closed the program with prayer after which contributions were turned over to Dr. Goldberg to be included in the national fund, being raised for the assistance of the Jewish people in the Holy land. Among the leading contributors were: Mr. and Mrs. Leon Broder, $50; Mr. and Mrs. Pincus Cutler and family, $50; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Agranovitch, $50; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Levine, $25; Hyman Levine and family, $20; Daniel Goldberg and family, $25; Mr. and Mrs. I. Cohen, $25; Mr. and Mrs. B. Dember and family, $25; the Jewish Aid society of Colchester, $20.

Many other smaller contributions made the total amount raised at the meeting, nearly six hundred dollars. Other contributions have been pledged and it is thought the Jewish people of Colchester will have a very sizable contribution as their share toward the fund for the assistance of their troubled brethren.

AIRPLANE ACCIDENTS.

Accidents, it is claimed, never come singly and such appears to be the case in connection with airplane smashes. There has been a string of them this summer which would indicate that less instead of increased safety was being obtained in flying, although this may not be borne out by statistics.

Planes involved have been those which were carrying expert fliers, those engaged in transporting passengers and those where it was evident stunts were being performed both for the entertainment of others as well as a demonstration as to what could be done by operator and machine.

With the crashes figured in by Marvel Crosson, Major Wood, Lady Heath, the crack up of the plane at Misquamicut, the loss of the passenger-carrying plane in New Mexico with eight aboard, the percentage of accidents to the number of machines in flight may be small, but such cases, nevertheless, create a demand for the ending of those preventable accidents in the air quite the same as on terra firma.

If, as intimated, the loss of the air liner was due to lightning it becomes evident that although man has slight control over that, it must, of necessity, direct thought towards preventive channels either by keeping out of such storms entirely or by other means which may be developed.

Those who sacrifice their lives in the doing of stunts would probably be taking similar chances in some other direction if there were no airplanes. Nevertheless, it is quite important that they should be restricted to localities where they do not menace the crowd below. Those instances where something happens to the plane, or where the belief prevails that all precautions were not observed in handling the flying machine whose crashing caused death, deserve thorough investigation. There is in just such cases a lesson which should not be overlooked. If there has been negligence, it is time to find it out and prevent it henceforth. Greater safety in flying is bound to come through the giving of careful attention to the causes of all accidents, and then the application of the needed remedy.

MIGHT BE TRUE, BUT ISN'T.

Speculation is active once more. This has no reference to the stock market, but to the filling and unfilling of offices in the national capital. Prospective resignations, decisions not to reappoint, or possible new appointments all furnish a field for jumping at conclusions at Washington.

The latest bit of guesswork seems to be centered about Chief Justice Taft. Inquiry at the white house disclosed that nothing was known about Mr. Taft's intention to retire, but it is known that Mr. Taft went to his summer home at Murray Bay in a wheel chair, that he has been sick since he reached there and that he has had a long and active career, all of which creates an opportunity for someone to guess that he is going to resign the chief justiceship, to point out that he is now 72, that he could retire on a pension at this time, that he has been prominently identified with public affairs since he was named as governor general of the Philippines, followed, as it was, by a term as secretary of war and then as president of the United States. He was connected with the Yale law school after he was defeated for re-election and subsequently was named as chief justice of the United States supreme court upon the death of Justice White. There he has continued for the past eight years and they have been hard ones for he has given unusual attention to reforms and the speeding up of the work of the court in which he has been particularly successful.

What is being said about Chief Justice Taft in this connection is thoroughly justified when it is restricted to his activities. When it comes to the matter of his resignation, the chief trouble with it is that it isn't so. The authority for such a declaration is Mr. Taft himself, who brands the report as untrue and states that he has no such intention. That would appear sufficient to put an end to the speculation on this particular subject, but there is no assurance that it will. If it is continued long enough, over a sufficient number of years, and in anticipation of the uncertainties of the future, it may come true.

SAFETY IN MINES.

Much is said in advocacy of increased safety provisions in coal mines, but there is always satisfaction when experience shows that such provisions are really effective.

No one welcomes explosions in mines. They seldom occur without causing death and distress, but the recent experience at Renton, Penn., is bound to be used as a convincing demonstration of the value of treating mines for the prevention of disasters.

As the result of the study that has been given to the mine problem by the federal bureau of mines, it has been persistently advocated that mines be rock-dusted. This means that powdered stone should be sprinkled on the floor and walls of the mines so as to cover up the accumulations of coal dust and thereby prevent it from exploding throughout the entire mine in case for any reason there was an explosion in a distant part of the workings. The point is that if the coal dust which fills the gallery floors and holes along the walls is open to the heat of the explosion there will be a continuous explosion throughout the mine. If, however, it is covered up by the rock dust which is not explosive the hazard will be removed.

It was in response to the government advocacy of such a move that the Renton mine owners rock-dusted their mine. At a depth of 500 feet there were 300 men at work when a local explosion occurred. It was more than the blasting of coal, but the effect of it was surprisingly light in contrast with what has occurred in other mines under like circumstances. It didn't happen without casualties but there were no deaths. Twelve of the miners were injured, but they were in the immediate vicinity of the explosion which did not race through the mine and cause the frightful firedamp which miners dread so much.

It is quite natural, therefore, that the rock dusting of that mine should be regarded by those who are directly interested in its operation, as well as the miners employed therein, as a most valuable protective measure.

That preventive method served not only to restrict the damage and avoid the loss which always attends mine explosions where great havoc is caused, but it safeguarded the lives of the miners which is the most important consideration. It was a mine explosion which is bound to give rock dusting the attention which it needs.

NOW IS THE TIME.

Encouraged by the success of his trip around the world in the Graf Zeppelin, Commander Eckener is seeking to put the dirigibles of that type to practical use. He is likewise finding many to support him in this direction.

In view of what has been done it would be surprising if some effort were not made to develop the big airships for transportation purposes between points where an adequate amount of business could be expected. Those big airships cost money and they involve a degree of risk which cannot be disregarded, especially when they are filled with highly explosive gas, but there has been a demonstration under the guidance of Commander Eckener which cannot be disregarded. He has shown what the big airships can be made to do in transoceanic trips, and in transcontinental trips, and in circling the globe there was a chance to test out its behavior under the variety of weather conditions encountered.

Dr. Eckener is naturally very enthusiastic over the outcome. Not only is he justified in it but he finds many who agree with him and it seems not improbable that he will find such financial backing as he needs to carry out his ambitions of putting a fleet of dirigibles in operation across both oceans.

This may be more than he can expect to accomplish this year or next. It would naturally be expected that he would have to approach his goal gradually and such will probably be the case. There were the days when the dirigible did not have the standing that it does today. It was regarded as clumsy and uncertain, but from the performance of the Graf Zeppelin there is grounds for a change of views and reason for desiring to make the most of the opportunities it offers. Now is the time to make the most of it.

SENATORSHIP IN TENNESSEE.

From the developments since the naming of the successor to the late Senator Tyson of Tennessee, it would appear that entire satisfaction does not prevail. The governor has selected W. E. Brock, a candy manufacturer and prominent democrat, for the office and he has accepted, but no sooner was this made known than Cordell Hull, former chairman of the democratic national committee announced his candidacy for the short term for which Mr. Brock must stand for election if he retains the office after this year.

Inasmuch as Mr. Brock has not participated in politics, as far as office-holding is concerned, in the past it is entirely possible that he has no intention of being a candidate at the polls, in which case the Hull announcement will in no way interfere with his plans, but the natural supposition has been that inasmuch as he was willing to accept the appointment he would become a candidate at the November election.

Tennessee is a state which has wavered politically. Its democratic governor has appointed a democrat, and there appears to be reasons for believing that he is a man of ability who will be duly active in looking after the best interests of his state. What the outcome might be should there be a heated contest for the nomination previous to the November election is as yet a bit uncertain. Perhaps his performance in the special session of congress will be sufficient to decide that question, even though Mr. Hull, in view of his party prominence, might be expected to have a strong following and be in a position to get about what he wants.

There has been uncertainty in the past as to what Tennessee was going to do on election day That state hasn't as yet overcome it, but it remains to be seen whether Mr. Brock will be satisfied with brief service in the senate or whether Mr. Hull is simply serving notice in case conditions are right for him to run.

ONE MAN IN TEN THOUSAND

The shop window was set out with a crafty display of fur garments. With cai ful art they were spread upon chairs and hung upon wax models while round them lay scarfs, purses, expensive oddities enragine to the female mind until possession is achieved.

Violet Marks was not looking at the coats. In the gleaming luster of the plate glass she was scanning her own reflection. She was not thinking that she must have a fur coat. She was thinking that her own coat, after three years, was still fairly good looking. Yet, cloth is not as warm as fur, and —a fur coat would be, well—

She shrugged her shoulders and walked on. She was thinking of John's last raise. She didnt mind doing without things that they couldn't afford.

"Oh, hello, Ann? I didn't see you coming. How splendid you look, and, isn't that a new coat?" Ann Donelson looked down complacently at the soft leopard skin.

"Yes, I haven't had a coat for three years, and Jimmy said it was surely coming to me." They parted with another word or two. Violet wondered what a man like Jimmy Donelson could be making. Not as much as John, she knew quite well.

That evening at dinner Violet looked thoughtfully at the man she had married nearly a dozen years ago. She never had thought of him as a stingy man. Of course, they'd both had to be economical; but economy and stinginess were two different things.

"How much does Jimmy Donelson get, dear, do you think?" she asked. He looked at her in surprise.

"Donelson? Why, I don't know. Not enough to hurt, I bet. Why?"

"Do you think he gets as much as you do?"

"Oh, no. He can't. What's the idea of harping on Donelson?"

"I'm not harping on Donelson," she said, sharply. John did not reply, but ate his dinner peacefully.

"Shall we go to a movie," he inquired, as he finished his last bite of pie. For a minute she did not answer.

"I'm ashamed to go out on the street in that old coat of mine," she said at last, and her chin quivered.

"Well, I'll be —" he paused before the futility of any word at his command. "What's the matter with your coat?"

"It's three years old, and besides the wife of every man earning half your salary has a fur coat."

"Then why don't you get one?" asked John reasonably.

"You act as if people just went out and bought fur coats as if they were getting a pound of rump steak. John Marks, and you ought to be ashamed of yourself," whimpered Violet. He looked at her and opened his mouth to speak. Then he thought better of it and said instead:

"Violet, go out tomorrow and buy yourself a fur coat and charge it. What more can I do? What are you crying for?"

"I am not crying!" she denied, swallowing a sob. "I just think you're horrid; and, besides, Ann Donelson has a simply gorgeous fur coat, even if you do say he only earns half as much as you do!" He made a hopeless gesture.

"Well I'm going to the movie whether you do or not," he said conversationally. "Come on, be a sport." She smiled through her tears.

"I'll stack up the dishes and be ready in a minute," she said.

She went about her task in a pleasant glow. After all, he wasn't stingy, and it would be terrible to be married to a tightwad. She thrilled to the memory of his remembered words, "Go out and buy yourself a fur coat," he had said. But how silly that would be. For the price of a coat she could take that trip to California with John when the company sent the selling force on its annual outing. Good old John! He'd been wanting just that for ever so long.

"Are you going to get that fur coat?" asked John as they walked down the street.

"Why, no. I don't need a fur coat. This one is good for at least another season. But you're a dear, John." She squeezed his arm and thought of the western trip.

He was thinking of the western trip, too, thanking his stars he understood women—one woman, at any rate—well enough not to have mentioned it—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5—The Bystander often has pondered the fact that foreign diplomats of long service in Washington play an important role in training successive American secretaries of state in the art of diplomacy.

It is exception instead of the rule in this country, when the secretary of state comes to his job with any previous diplomatic experience whatever.

Going back to the beginning of the Wilson administration, there have been half a dozen secretaries. Two of them, Lansing and Kellogg, had diplomatic background.

Lansing was a thoroughly trained man; Kellogg had served a year as ambassador in London. The others were newcomers to the diplomatic game.

Confidential

It would be interesting to see the confidential reports that have been cabled home as to each secretary. What was said, for instance, as of Lansing in comparison to Bryan; of Colby; of the powerful personality of Hughes; of Kellogg and, in the Hoover cabinet, of Stimson.

A friend of the Bystander who happened to participate in conferences between foreign diplomats and several of the secretaries gets considerable amusement out of recollections of those meetings.

The foreigners found Hughes always forceful, but increasingly meticulous, as time went on, in strict observance of diplomatic etiquet.

Kellogg, despite his year in London, was impetuous and rushed his visitors along in conversation. He did most of the talking, as a rule.

Stimson is inclined to let the other fellow do the talking. He addresses visiting diplomats invariable as "excellency," it is said, which Kellogg did not.

Yet already, with only a few months of contact with him, the diplomats hardly can have failed to note one thing about Mr. Stimson which a glance back at his record as war secretary many years ago would reasonably have forcast.

He has the courage of his convictions to a point that makes him willing to take full responsibility for initiating diplomatic moves, once his mind is made up.

Courage

It required that sort of courage to call in the diplomats and through them direct the attention of China and Russia to their commitments under the Kellogg peace pact.

At the time Mr. Stimson did it they had no such commitments. The pact was not in effect. Both countries merely had said they would adhere when it did become effective.

Would a more seasoned diplomat than Stimson have taken the risks involved of offending either country?

It required something of the same sort of courage when Stimson served blunt warning on both sides in the Nicaraguan internal row that the fighting had to stop.

That was his only preceding diplomatic venture so far as the Bystander knows. If the thing had failed, Stimson would have suffered for it in public estimation.

Yet go farther back and you find Stimson as secretary of war when the battle was raging between the late Gen. Leonard Wood and former Adjutant General Ainsworth over the setting up of the general staff system for the army.

Secretary Root inaugurated the project; but Stimson saw it through, giving his full support to Wood despite the political strength of the Ainsworth faction. He had courage then, and, clearly, he still has it.

Irregular Teeth

By Percy Normal Williams D. D.
Tucson, Arizona
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Recent investigation in the field of anthropology leads to a sharp difference of opinion regarding man's ancestry, but there can be no doubt about the fact that he has sacrificed physical strength for what he may have gained in reaching a higher standard of living through education. In no part of the human body does this physical deterioration show as clearly as in the masticatory apparatus, which includes the teeth, the surrounding bones and the muscles of mastication.

Prehistoric man possessed massive jaws, with enormous molars; the uppers and lower coming together like mill tones. His front teeth were used in many different ways and were extensively used in obtaining food. His high cheek bones indicated a development which was a result of the pull of the muscles in masticating. As man became more civilized, he ceased to use his teeth in the ways of his ancestors, and from that time to the present, his jaws have slowly diminished in size, until we find, that whereas primitive man had four molars on each side in each jaw, he now has but three and sometimes only two, due to the fact that the third molar or wisdom tooth fails to erupt because of insufficient room. There can be only one explanation for this degenerate trend of the jaws, and it can be summed up in one word—diet.

Specialists are beginning to recognize the need of what is called roughage or coarse foods, which give exercise to the muscles of mastication, and furnish the necessary fibrous material for the intestines.

The work of Howe, McCullum and others has proven conclusively that rickets, which is simply a deficiency of lime in the bones and teeth, is caused by food lacking in certain vitamins, especially Vitamin D. This is found most abundant in orange juice. We might state as a fact that orange juice or some fruit juice is as essential to our well being as bread and milk. A child should eat an orange morning and night. Eating the pulp along with the juice is desirable for reasons already mentioned.

A child's diet should be well balanced and contain enough hard food to compel thorough chewing. Dieting and chewing exercises are at the present time the most important means of preventing arrested development of the jaws, which occurs in eighty-two per cent. of city bred children.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Flip and Johnny Respect Each Other

When dignity is once upset
It will not easily forget.
Old Mother Nature.

Bowser the Hound sat a little distance away, watching Flip and Johnny Chuck. Bowser wasn't the least excited. He had known Johnny Chuck for a long time. He knew that even if Flip were able to best Johnny in a fight, which he very much doubted, Johnny would still get away and find safety down among the stones of the old wall.

As for Flip, the little dog was having a new experience. He had attacked Johnny Chuck without the least hesitancy and he had been sharply nipped for doing so. More than this, he had discovered that Johnny Chuck was not at all afraid. In fact, he seemed quite ready to fight. It struck Flip that Johnny wanted to fight.

The truth is, Johnny did want to fight. Johnny has a certain amount of dignity and he resented having a little dog like that upset his dignity. He was quite ready and willing to teach this impudent little dog a lesson.

"My, that fellow is a good fighter!" panted Flip.

Flip tried Johnny out by making short rushes at him, all the time barking. Johnny always turned so as to face Flip. But Flip's rushes always stopped short. He took care never to come quite near enough to come to grips with Johnny Chuck. Somehow, he didn't like the sound of Johnny Chuck's growl. Still, with Bowser looking on, Flip didn't want to appear cowardly. Down in his heart he knew that he wasn't a coward. He wanted Bowser to know this too.

So Flip pranced back and forth, barking at Johnny Chuck and doing his best to tempt Johnny to leave the stone wall. But Johnny Chuck was too old a fighter not to know when he was well off. He kept his face to Flip, but he didn't leave the old wall.

"Why don't you shake him to death?" inquired Bowser, and there was a twinkle in Bowser's eye when he said it.

Flip made no reply. There was nothing for him to say. But a moment later, thinking he saw an opportunity to seize Johnny Chuck at a disadvantage, Flip sprang at him. Now, Johnny Chuck is clumsy-looking, but he can move with surprising quickness. Just as before, he met Flip half-way and in a moment they were locked together, snarling, growling, biting and kicking, especially Johnny Chuck. He can use those stout hindfeet to very good advantage in a fight. Over and over they rolled together on the ground. Twice Flip yelped and Bowser know that Johnny Chuck had succeeded in getting a good bite. Then once more they broke apart. Each backed away, Johnny Chuck toward the old wall, where he resumed his old position.

"My, that fellow is a good fighter!" panted Flip. "Yes, sir, he's a good fighter. He's so heavy I can't do anything with him. And he isn't afraid. I've got a lot of respect for that fellow."

"You ought to have," said Bowser the Hound. "He is the sort of fellow who wins respect. There isn't a single cowardly hair on Johnny Chuck."

Meanwhile Johnny Chuck was thinking very well of Flip. "For a small dog, he's the best I ever met," thought Johnny Chuck. "He knows he can't whip me, but he isn't afraid. He has courage and plenty of it. Yes, sir, that little dog has courage. I wonder if he'll know enough to leave me alone now."

So Johnny Chuck and Flip respected each other, though neither would have admitted it to the other at the time.

Festivity

Shortly after her fourth birthday party, which was duly celebrated with cake, candles and so on, Josephine, by reason of the last minute regrets of one of her mother's luncheon guests was permitted to sit at the table to "fill in." The little girl eyed with great appreciation the floral centerpiece and the candles glowing at the table corners, and in a lull of the conversation she piped up excitedly: "Mother, who's four years old today?"

Prefers Blondes

Richard had not seemed to care much for the new baby sister. She was so red and she had practically no hair. One day he overheard his mother and a friend saying that the new baby across the street had so much black hair and it looked so cute.

Later Richard was heard to say to himself: "I don't believe I could learn to care for a baby with black hair."

Three fat prisoners are sitting in the county jail at Carthage, Ill., envying four slender comrades who cut a hole in the metal roof and made an easy getaway. The hole was not big enough to allow the 200-pound inmates to escape, so two men and a woman tipping the scales at that figure just sat and waited for the sheriff to arrive to tell him about it.

NORWICH COMMERCE CHAMBER TO DISCUSS CALENDAR REFORM

The Norwich chamber of commerce will soon give consideration to the proposed calendar reform movement, which is now gaining momentum throughout the world. Action by the local chamber will be determined by its consideration of a national referendum to be taken by the United States chamber of commerce this month.

Efforts are being made by the local chamber of commerce office through George Eastman, of Rochester, N. Y., who is an enthusiastic advocate of the plan, to secure a speaker for some future chamber dinner to discuss this proposal in its entirety for the benefit and enlightenment of the membership. It is barely possible that such an arrangement can be consummated before the vote is taken on the national referendum.

The proposals for calendar reform come from a special committee of the chamber, accompanied by a minority report advocating continuance of the present calendar.

The recommendations of the committee are three in number, as follows:

That the present calendar should be so changed as to bring about a greater comparability in business records for periods within a year and for periods from year to year.

That the form which changes in the calendar should take should be determined through international conference.

That the government of the United States should participate in an international conference to determine the form of changes to be made in the calendar.

The subject of calendar reform has been agitated for a number of years both here and abroad. The league of nations, the International chamber of commerce and the International Astronimical union are among the organizations which have given it study.

The report of the chamber's committee emphasizes especially inconveniences in business accounting arising from the fact that months, quarters and half years are of unequal length, quoting at length from a report made to the league of nations by a special committee.

The committee reporting to the league of nations went over about 200 plans for changing the calendar and recommended that attention should be centered on three fundamental questions.

The chamber's committee, in proposing calendar reform, itself puts forward no specific plan. In its report it says that a difference of opinion developed among the thirteen majority members as to what particular divisions of the year should be made equal. They developed individual preferences respecting a twelve month plan and a thirteen month plan, with the thirteen month plan receiving most favor.

The committee's two minority members Stanley H. Bullard of Bridgeport and Henry D. Sharpe, of Providence, frankly oppose any calendar changes. In their separate report they say:

"The proposal to agitate a reform in the calendar as presented has no popular backing worth mentioning. It comes to this chamber with the studied support of but few people. A large group has been circularized and, as often happens with catchy ideas, a great many people, many of them of business prominence, are giving this proposal their endorsement, without deep thinking. We have not learned that these people are giving else but lip service towards the furtherance of the idea, though apparently a considerable sum of money is being spent to launch it.

"However enthusiastic the proponents of the proposed change may seem to be, general business has little interest. The chamber of commerce can well avoid taking any step to commit itself in this matter."

VAIL MEDAL PRESENTED TO CARL A. E. HOELCK

Carl A. E. Hoelck, installer-repairman of Mystic, for the Southern New England Telephone company, awarded a Vail medal last winter for saving the life of a man overcome by carbon monoxide, has added two more rescues to his credit.

This summer at Lantern Hill pond, Mystic, hearing a young woman cry for help, Mr. Hoelck rushed to her aid in a boat, brought her ashore, and applied artificial respiration, reviving her. A few weeks later he rescued a man under similar circumstances by pushing out from shore in a boat, clutching the drowning man, and bringing him to safety.

The Vail medal was presented to Mr. Hoelck Thursday by President James T. Moran at the New London district outing which was held at Gardner lake.

About 200 telephone workers from the several cities and towns in this section of the state attended the outing, which was marked by a pleasing array of field and aquatic sports, followed by a good dinner and then a baseball game which took the attention of the visitors during the afternoon.

SALARY RAISE FOR NORWICH SCHOOL TEACHERS WITH 20 YEARS SERVICE

A good proportion of the teachers in the public schools of Norwich, probably about 65 per cent., will go to work this year under an increased salary schedule, it was learned Thursday, as a result of the town school board granting a certain salary raise when the contracts were made in the spring. The increase will add probably $10,000 to the salary budget, it is understood, but is considerably less that what it would have been if the board had allowed the increase asked for by the Teachers' league which would have run up to between $20,000 and $40,000.

For two years the Teachers' league has been trying to get an increase in the salary schedule. A year ago their request was turned down by the school board. This year the league appeared with a request for a revised salary schedule, making the revision on the basis of length of service in the Norwich school system for 30, 20 and 10 years. The school board did not accept this, but reached the decision to raise at once to the maximum salary for their class all teachers who have been in the system 20 years or more. No change was made for the 10 year class or for any teacher in the system for less than 20 years.

About 65 per cent. of the teaching force is affected by the change, it is understood, which means that about 80 teachers of the 140 or so in the schools will advance to the maximum pay for their class. In some cases this will amount to $200, it is understood, but the average increase is probably about $125. According to figures presented to the board by the Teachers' league showing the salaries paid in cities in Connecticut and other states of a similar size and character to Norwich, the present revised salary rate is still near the foot of the list, it is understood.

The sessions of the board in March and April, and subsequently, when the salary schedules were under consideration, were of the star chamber variety as far as any publicity on the matter of salaries was concerned. Reports of the school board meetings at that time, made through the usual channels, contained no inkling that any request for salary raises had been made, nor did the Teachers' league make it public that it was pushing for a revision of the salary schedule.

WILL BEGIN PASTORATE AT PARK CONGREGATIONAL

At the 10:30 o'clock service Sunday morning, Rev. Theodore Merrell Shipherd will begin his work as pastor of Park Congregational church. Rev. and Mrs. Shipherd and family arrived in Norwich several days ago and have taken up their residence, temporarily, at No. 55 East Town street. They will occupy the Park church manse next month. Rev. Mr. Shipherd is a New Englander on his mother's side, from the John Robinson and John Alden families. On the paternal side his forebares were clergymen and active in the western reserve settlement in Ohio. It was from this part of Connecticut that his great uncle, Rev. John J. Shipherd, secured the money that founded Oberlin college, nearly one hundred years ago.

A native of Chicago, where he was born in 1875, Rev. Mr. Shipherd spent all his boyhood in the old Connecticut settlement at Southold, Long Island. Here he became a journeyman printer and prepared for college. He graduated from Williams college in 1899, and is the continuing president of his class. He graduated from Union Theological seminary, in 1902. In 1904, he was married to Esther Lampman Howe, of Coxsackie, N. Y. Mrs. Shipherd is a graduate of Dana hall, and was two years a student at Wellesley college in the class of 1904.

His first pastorate was at the Congregational church in Newark, N. J. In 1909 he went to the First Congregational church of Lincoln, Nebraska, where he established the University Pastorate for Congregational students in the university and developed a settlement house among the German-Russian people of the city. In 1914 Mr. Shipherd became pastor of the old First church in Milwaukee, where he rebuilt the church in the beautiful lake section of the city. In 1924, the Shipherds went to Scarsdale, N. Y., and developed the church in that beautiful suburb in the direction of its music, educational and pulpit standards. Mr. Shipherd is much interested in the Congregational church of the nation, has served on the executive committee of the home boards, was moderator of the New York City association last year and four years dean of the Young People's conference for the metropolitan area. He is now a member of the important nominating committee of the National council of Congregational churches.

Gibbs, vice president and cashier of the Thames bank at the time of his sudden death at Noank, Aug. 29, 1929, at the age of 72, and a prominent member of the Norwich chamber of commerce since its inception, have been passed by the chamber and will be recorded in full in its records and a copy transmitted to his family.

The little animal looked as if it needed help, which Mrs. Badaloni readily gave by taking hold of one of its ears with her teeth and swimming ashore where the dog's merry frisking and eloquent tail pointedly showed gratitude for the rescue.

Raised Ruction At Carnival.

Charles Appelby, 21, who created a disturbance at the carnival being held at the Duwell field on the East Side Thursday night, was arrested on three charges, intoxication, breach of the peace and resistance. The young man, after the show in the big tent, started a rumpus and grappled with a man who tried to argue with him. The trouble was stopped but a few minutes later the local man tried to gain entrance to a tent where the show girls were changing from their costumes into street clothes. More trouble started and it took two police officers ot subdue the man. With twisters on each wrist he was taken to police headquarters in a carnival man's automobile. The prisoner was extremely abusive to the officers in his language and kept yelling at the top of his lungs throughout the ride to police headquarters. REPORT THAT DEMOCRATS WILL HAVE CANDIDATE FOR TOWN CLERK'S OFFICE

From a reliable source came the information Thursday evening that the democratic party will nominate a candidate for town clerk and town treasurer to run against the present encumbent, Harold S. Burt, republican, in the town election, October 7. It is understood that, so far, no choice of a candidate to run against Mr. Burt has been made. It was also stated on good authority that Patrick T. Connell will be nominated by the democratic party for first selectman, in opposition to William S. Murray, republican, who has held the office of first selectmen for several terms.

This will be the first town election in over 23 years that the democratic party will enter a candidate against the republican nominee for town clerk and town treasurer. Throughout his long term of service as town clerk and treasurer, the late Charles S. Holbrook, republican, was unopposed by the opposition party. Shortly after Mr. Holbrook's sudden death, March 8, 1928, Mr. Burt, who at that time held the office of city treasurer, was unanimously appointed by the board of selectman as town clerk, to fill out the unexpired term of the late Mr. Holbrook. Mr. Burt's term of office expires next month.

Among those mentioned as receiving consideration for the nomination in the party councils were Lawrence E. Miller, Milo R. Waters, formerly mayor for several terms, and Jeremiah A. Desmond, formerly city clerk.

Anson R. Grover, it was learned, will be a candidate for election to the board of relief.

WILLING, EGAN, OUIMET AND JOHNSTON REACH SEMI-FINALS IN AMATEUR

PEBBLE BEACH, Cal., Sept. 5—(AP)—The far west, host to the first Jonesless championship golf competition in six years, will fight it out with the east for the national amateur title crown.

This was assured today when two veterans from Oregon, Dr. Oscar F. Willing and Henry Chandler Egan, champion 25 years ago, swept into the semi-finals, along with the sharp shooting Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston of St. Paul, and Francis Ouimet of Boston, title-holder in 1914.

Willing and Egan will meet in the first 36 hole semi-final tomorrow, starting at 10 a. m., while Ouimet and Johnston will battle it out in the other so that no matter what the outcome an inersectional final is assured for Saturday.

In a succession of sensational quarter-final matches today, Willing disposed of the last foreign threat when he conquered the big British champion, Cyril Tolley, 4 and 3, leading all the way after the first nine holes. Egan, in his first tournament appearance since 1921, scored an even more surprising and overwhelming triumph over blonde Jess Sweetser of New York 6 and 5.

The smashing climax of the day was put on by "Jimmy" Johnston when he vanquished George Voight, the New York favorite, one up, in a spectacular match that went three extra holes, decided on the 39th green. This followed the victory of Ouimet over the 18-year old San Francisco star, William Lawson Little, Jr., in another battle, decided on the 36th green, where Ouimet sank a twenty-foot putt for a birdie to halve the hole and win one up.

These two tussles were by far the most exciting, desperately fought from start to finish, but the real hero was the veteran Egan, holder of the crown in 1904-05 and staging a sensational comeback at the age of 45, eight years after his last national tournament appearance. At St. Louis in 1921, Egan failed to qualify. He returned to the battle this year to help the far west be host to the event of the first time and also because he had a big hand in designing Pebble Beach's layout. He remains a semi-finalist now for the first time since 1909 and playing as brilliantly as any of the four remaining in the hunt for the title relinquished so unexpectedly in the first round by Bobby Jones.

Egan was two up on Sweetser at the end of nine holes, increased his margin to six up at the close of the first round, as he shot close to par golf all the way, and ended the contest on the thirty-first green. The big New Yorker, champion himself in 1922, made a game fight, winning the thirtieth hole when he was dormie seven and hitting the back of the cup with his bid for a birdie on the last hole, only to have the ball bounce out, giving Egan the half he needed to settle the match.

Tolley, after his par-crashing play of the first two rounds, was a big favorite to go into the finals but he was wild today and no match for the brilliant play of the battling dentist from Portland, Ore. One of the most deliberate performers in the game, Dr. Willing took even extra caution with his shots today, sighting his putts fore, after and sideways as he played every stroke with meticulous care.

The result was to give him a lead of two up after the morning round. He was three up at the 27th and ended the match on the 33rd hole of the afternoon play, resisting all of Tolley's courageous challenges. Seldom has Tolley been any wilder than he was off the tees, finding the rough, the trees or the trees on at least half his drives and saving himself from an even worse beating only by some miraculous recoveries or good putts. Willing left few loopholes as he went out in the afternoon in 35, one under par, and played the last 15 holes in even par, a sharp contrast with the morning round when the Orezonian was around in eighty and Tolley in a mediocre 82.

Voight and Johnston, a pair of seasoned campaigners, put on a nip and tuck duel that had a big gallery thrilled all day. Until the 29th hole of the afternoon, Voight held the edge most of the way and appeared to be headed for victory. The New Yorker, three up at the twelfth, was one up at the end of the first eighteen holes but he was two up at the 27th. There the tide shifted again and in quick succession, Johnston captured the 28th, where he sank a twelve foot putt and the 29th, where Voight got into a trap.

All square now, they fought on even terms to the thirty second, where Voigt again caught a trap and got a six as "Jimmy" made a par five. The next two were squared, but on the 35th, both hit poor tee shots, Johnston going over the sand bank, back of the green, and Voigt into a trap in front.

"Jimmy" came out so strong that his ball skidded all the way over the green and George barely exploded to the green. Johnston's putt was short by three feet and he missed an attempt to slice around a partial stymie laid by Voigt's first putt. The New Yorker won four to five and they went to the home hole all square. Both were on in three but Johnston's putt of 12 feet stopped on the lip of the cup, and they halved in par fives.

They fought each other to a standstill on the first two extra holes, both getting birdie fours on the 38th when Johnston sank a 15 foot putt, but on the 39th Voigt's second shot landed in a trap to the right of the green. He exploded ten feet beyond the pin and missed his putt only by two inches, taking five while Johnston bagged the par four that gave him the match.

Like Johnston, Ouimet made an uphill battle to put out the sensational San Francisco youngster, Little, who had scalped Phillips Finlay in the first round and put out Johnny Goodman, the conqueror of Jones, in the second round yesterday. Little was three up at the eighth, two up at the turn and only one up at the end of the first 18, as Ouimet began to overhaul his rival. The western youth was two up again at the 27th, but he began to lose control after that, finding trouble as Ouimet, growing steadier, finished the last nine in even par to win.

The Bostonian squared the match finally at the 555-yard thirty second hole, where Little got into the same trap that proved so costly to Voigt. Ouimet also won the 33rd, to go one up, as Little got into the woods. Halving the next two holes, it took a great finish by the ex-champion to save his margin on the last hole. His drive, partly topped, found a trap and he needed a fine spoon shot to reach the green in three, 20 feet from the cup. Little sent two smashing woods to within 30 yards of the green and then chipped to within three feet of the cup, dead for a birdie. But the veteran had a great stroke left and rammed his long one home for a birdie himself to end the match.

PIRATES HAMMER LUCAS TO BEAT REDS 10 TO 5

CINCINNATI, Sept. 5—(AP)— The Pittsburgh Pirates completed their solution of the mystery of Red Lucas today by hammering the Cincinnati pitcher from the mound and winning their last game of the season in Cincinnati, 10 to 5. The victory, following one scored last Sunday, completely shattered the spell Lucas had held over the Pirates since June 1927.

Ervin Brame, Pittsburgh moundsman, started the seven run rally that brought the Pittsburgh victory in the third inning by bouncing a home run into the right field bleachers. It was followed by a double, three triples, two singles and a wild throw. Lucas lasted through this storm but gave way to Jakie May in the fourth when Lloyd Waner smashed a triple with one on base.

HOLLOWAY HOLDS TIGERS TO TWO HITS IN SHORT GAME

DETROIT, Sept. 5—(AP)—Ken Holloway, a former Detroiter, held his exteammates to two hits in five innings today and gave Cleveland a 4 to 0 victory and a clean sweep in the two-game series. The game was called in the first half of the sixth inning because of rain and the score reverted to the fifth.

The Indians hit Phil Page, recently recalled from Toronto, hard and often while the game lasted. They pounded out four hits and three runs in the first inning, added one more in the fifth and put over three runs which did not count in the sixth frame before the deluge halted the contest. Three of Cleveland's seven hits were for extra bases.

Holloway fanned three Detroit batsmen and gave but one walk in hurling in the shortened shutout.

MISS PALFRY TO MEET MISS MARLOWE IN FINALS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5—(AP)—The east and west will meet in the final round for the girls' tennis championship of the United States.

Sarah Palfrey, 16-year-old Boston girl, will defend her title as national junior lawn tennis queen against Helen Marlowe, of Hollywood, Calif., in the final round of the tournament at the Philadelphia Cricket club, either tomorrow or Saturday.

Miss Palfrey, seeded first, reached the final bracket today at the expense of Evelyn Parsons, Palo Alto, Calif., 6-3, 6-3, while Miss Marlowe advanced by disposing of Mianne Palfrey, sister of Sarah, 6-1, 6-4.

Sarah and Evelyn put on a base line duel to the delight of the gallery that thronged the porch of the club house. The California girl started serving, lost the first game, but took the next on Miss Palfrey's delivery. The fifth and seventh games went to Miss Parsons on her own service and she earned them, for she sent shots across the net that would have done justice to many men players. In the first set Miss Palfrey scored 35 points to 23 for Miss Parsons.

Red Garren Beats Martin.

WATERBURY, Sept. 5—(AP)—Joe "Red" Garren, of Waterbury, scored a 10-round decision over Gene Martin, Thomaston windmill here tonight in the feature bout of the Waterbury A. C. card at Lakewood arena. Garren piled up an early lead as a result of a two-fisted attack to the head winning five rounds, Martin taking three and the remainder even. Garren weighed 139, Martin 140.

That old desire to get something for nothing can do more damage to a perfectly good bank roll than the butcher, the grocer and the coal man put together.

It's this desire that keeps the carnivals and bucket shops in business. These birds that run these things know their human natures and I don't mean maybe. If they didn't they'd go broke.

When you see somebody that you've always thought to be thrifty come along lugging a coupla papiermache dolls, three or four boxes of candy and a few other nick-nacks you think they've suddenly gone coo-coo.

They're not really looney but their desire to get something for nothing has gotten the better of their good judgment. They probably started out for the carnival with the firm desire not to spend a nickel foolishly.

Then they see a crowd around a booth and their feet hesitate, turn toward the booth where they listen to the hawker and then they are lost. Out comes the old wallet and the dime goes down on the board.

It's better than an even bet that they wouldn't give a dime a dozen for what's being auctioned off via the spinning wheel if they had to buy it. But there's the chance that they'll win something.

If they win they're encouraged to try more and if they lose they try to get their money by winning something. It may be a gaudy old lamp that they wouldn't use down cellar to make home-brew by but if they win it they're tickled as a kid with a lolly-pop.

And so it goes. They take chances on boxes of candy that the doz would turn his nose up at. They'll take chances on "all-wool" blankets that wouldn't keep you warm at the equator. They'll try and win an old tin clock that won't even keep the days of the week to say nothing of the hours and the minutes.

They'll spend anywhere from five to ten dollars and come away with a load of junk that will be dumped into the ash barrel day after tomorrow. Yet they've had a good time until they start looking over their prizes and then——

"What damned fools we mortals be" they chorus.

BABE SANTOS WILL PITCH FIRST GAME OF SERIES FOR SMOKE SHOP

Babe Santos, who played with the Smoke Shop early in the season, has been recalled by Manager Bill O'Brien to pitch for the Smokers next Sunday against the Socony club of New London in the first game of the three-game series for the New London county industrial baseball title. Santos, is one of the best little pitchers that has hit Norwich in many moons and with him in the box on Sunday the Smoke Shop stock has risen a hundred fold.

Santos is a sweet little hurler who knows his curves. In fact his pitching his attracted so much attention around Boston that he goes south next year with the Boston Braves for a tryout. After his brilliant work last Sunday against Mayor Roach's Everett Town team he was offered a contract by the Braves management. Against the Everett team Santos fanned the first twelve men to face him which, in itself, is quite some record.

With Santos in the box and the revised lineup the Smoke Shop presents a team that will represent the local Industrial league well. Manager O'Brien is contemplating a few shifts in the infield which will give the Smokers an impenetrable defense.

Just who the Socony club will start in the box has not been announced by in all probability it will be Tillie Daniels. This slim youngster has been burning up the New London league this season and is the Oilmen's best bet. Daniels is no stranger to Norwich fans who saw him pitch Bulkeley high school to several state championships during his stay at that school Daniels is all that he was a few years ago and some even go so far as to say that he is better than when he was pitching high school ball. Tillie has put on considerable weight since leaving school which gives him added power on the mound.

Manager O'Brien would not announce his lineup last night but intimated that a chance or two would be made in the infield positions, several of the present infielders being shifted around.

Both clubs are out to take the first game which in all series gives that club a big advantage. Everyone who followed the Smoke Shop team during the Duely league season knows, without being told, that the game Sunday will be a real ball game from start to finish.

PLANS FOR STATE FOOTBALL LEAGUE BEING MADE

HARTFORD, Sept. 5—(AP)—Football magnates from New Haven, New Britain and Hartford, meeting in this city tonight made plans for a Connecticut state football league which are expected to mature at another meeting, which will be held here Sunday afternoon.

Charles Brown, representing the All-New Haven eleven, gave the Hartford and New Britain men assurance that the Elm city would have professional football this year. They expect to operate at Weiss field in West Haven.

New Britain's threat of football with two major elevens operating in the Hardware City, vanished when the All-New Britain team notified the promoters that they had withdrawn from the field and would not put a team on the gridiron this fall. This left the Nutmeg A. C. as the sole representative of New Britain.

The Waterbury eleven, whose membership in the league was contingent on the leasing of Brasseo park for its home games, withdrew notifying the other teams that it had been informed today that the former home of Eastern league ball in Waterbury would be razed.

Predictions that the league would consist of two teams in Hartford, two in New Haven and one each in New Britain and Bridgeport were made as the meeting adjourned.

METRO P. G. A. SEES BOBBY CRUICKSHANK FALL

FLUSHING, N. Y., Sept. 5—(AP)—Two rounds of match play in the Metropolitan Professional Gold association championship today found most of the favorites advancing into the quarter final round.

There was one major upset, Bobby Cruickshank, the Wee Scott who led the field in the qualifying round, bowing to Sol Dibuono, of Bonnie Briar, 4 and 3, in the first round.

Dibuono then continued his streak with a round triumph over Tom Creavy also of Bonnie Briar, 4 and 3. In the quarter finals with him are Gene Sarazen, of Fresh Meadow, the defending champion; Johnny Farrell of Quaker Ridge, former national open title-holder; Joe Turnesa of Elmsford; Tony Manero, unattached; George Teron of Meadow Brook; Wiffy Cox of Dyker Beach, and W. Kozak, North Hills.

Sarazen eliminated James Hines, Hempstead, 2 and 1 in the first round and Joe Belfore, Sunningdale, by the same score in the second. Farrell crushed Joe Sylvester of St. Albans, 7 and 6, and then was carried to the twentieth hole before downing Fred Novak of St. Andrews, 1 up.

Cox, after putting out Arthur De Mane, of Sound View, 4 and 2, eliminated Jack Forester of Hackensack, 1 up, in a tight duel. Heron surprised with a one up victory in 19 holes over Craig Wood of Forest Hills, in the first round and then put out Charles Mayo of Pomonok, 2 up.

Henry Miller, of Dyker Beach, put out the New York state open champion, Willie Klein of Wheatley Hills, 3 and 1, in the first round but fell before Kozak's play in the second round, 4 and 3. Manero conquered Angel De La Torre, timber point, 2 and 1, and Tom Kerrigan, Siwanoy, 4 and 3. Turnesa gained his way into the quarter finals at the expense of Francis Madden, Yonkers, 5 and 3, and Jack Sabol, Westchester Hills, 1 up.

OLIVE WADE SPRINGS BIG UPSET IN MID-STATES TENNIS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5—(AP)—Olive Wade of Toronto, Canadian woman's champion, was responsible today for the biggest upset of the women's middle states tennis championships at the Philadelphia Cricket club.

She defeated Alice Francis, South Orange, N. J., who headed the seeded stars and is ranked No. 12 nationally, 2-6, 7-5, 10-8 to enter the semi-final round. Miss Francis had been picked by the experts to capture the middle states championship won last year by Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory of New York. Mrs. Mallory is not defending her title.

Miss Virginia Hillesry, Mrs. C. C. Madeira and Miss Cecelia Riegel, all of Philadelphia, are the other semi-finalists. In the upper bracket tomorrow Miss Wade will meet Miss Hilleary and in the lower Mrs. Madeira and Miss Riegel will clash.

Mrs. Madeira caused some surprise today by eliminating her clubmate, Anne Page, in the quarter finals, 7-5, 6-1. Miss Page is a former junior titleholder of this district.

Miss Riegel, holder of the Atlantic coast and Delaware State titles, disposed of Laura Pittinger, Haddonfield, N. J., 6-2, 6-2, and Miss Hilleary conquered Mrs. William Endicott of Boston, 6-4, 6-3.

Miss Allison Harrison and Miss Kitty Wiener of Philadelphia, were the first to enter the semi-final round in the doubles. They defeated Hilda and Helen Boehm, Malden, Mass., 6-4, 7-5.

BETTER TO KNOW A FEW THINGS FOR SURE THAN MANY NOT SO

(Written Speciall for The Bulletin)

Woman-haters are given to sneering at feminine vanity.

Such people, in their eagerness to point out the motes in others' eyes, are apt to forget the beams in their own.

If vanity is a feminine foible, self-conceit is an equally irritating masculine vice.

Very few men, and those of highly doubtful virility, pride themselves upon their pulchritude of face or figure. But altogether too many men make blithering nuisances of themselves through their fixed belief in their own superior wisdom or intellectual capacity.

The queerest thing about this self-conceit is that those in whom it is most highly developed are, usually, those in whom there is least basis for it, or, to speak more accurately, least excuse for it.

The man who thinks he knows more about road-building than the road-expert, or more about growing onions than the experienced gardener, or more about bringing up babies than the babies' mothers, or more about poker than the man who made the cards—that chap is more apt to be wrong than right, fully half the time.

The misguided people who take him at his own valuation and follow his lead, are pretty sure to find this out, when too late. It would be much safer to take his shallow pedantries as we take the weather forecasts, i. e., as probably wrong and only occasionally and accidentally right.

This would save us a good real of misfortune and wouldn't hurt his self-respect any. For he has none of that qaulity: self-conceit, by a sort of psychical osmosis, has substituted itself for the more honorable self-respect.

Jack Warwick, the veteran "colymist" of The Toledo Blade, packs a whole sermon in one short sentence when he says:

"It is impossible to learn anything from the fellow who knows it all."

For the excellent reason that the "knows it all" chap by that very claim has given preponderating proof that he really doesn't know much of anything.

If he did he would know, first of all, his own abysmal ignorance and befogged uncertainty, and be vastly more anxious to conceal it in silence than to advertise it by broadcast verbosity.

I don't assert that the proportion of these "know it alls" is any greater among farmers than other callings. But my associations for many years have been chiefly with farmers, and I fancy some of you will agree with me that there are altogether too many of them in our ranks.

Of all the vocations men follow, there is hardly another which would seem to make so strongly for humility as that of the farmer. What with erratic seasons and uncertain weather, what with bugs and weeds, what with hostilely manipulated markets and thimble-rigging speculators, his year's work is a persistent gamble, in which he goes on taking chances from April to October, and never knows, twenty-four hours ahead, whether he's going to win a pot or lose his pelt.

Under such conditions, it would seem natural that he would lie low and say as little as possible. He almost daily comes to a halt between two decisions, one of which he simply must make, but neither of which looks much better than the other. He's like the tramp in the old nigger song who comes to a fork in the roads:

"An' one goes east an' one goes west,
You take the one you like the best,
'Nd you'll wish you'd made yer chice of any of de rest."

And yet I know several old farmers who have been bucking the game for 50 or 60 years, with fortune or luck or whatever you call it dealing them out prizes and punishments with fairly equal hand, who are now, in point of results achieved, just about where they started, yet who consider themselves qualified to tell all their neighbors just what to do and just how to do it.

Then there are the few who have managed to attain a measure of success. These lucky critters assume that their good fortune is solely due to their superior ability, which, also, gives them the right to tell their neighbors just what to do and just how to do it.

We mustn't forget the larger number who have tried all sorts of schemes from sheep-raising to mushroom growing and failed in all, but who are just as cock-sure that their next plunge into, say, squab-hatching, will make them independently rich in a single season. These last are, usually, the freest of all with their advice and admonitions.

I have in mind, this minute, two neighbors. One is a hard-working, ambitious, forward-looking driver, who has actually earned better than a mere living at farming for the last ten years. The other, having made a sorry mess of everything he has undertaken, is now acting as second assistant pop-passer at a roadside refreshment stand. The drought, this summer, has practically ruined what promised to be the first man's banner potato crop. He's going to lose money on it. And the second man is strutting around, proclaiming how he knew, last spring, that No. One would make a mistake if he planted his 'taters on that dry field. Pressed for explanation as to how he knew so much, so long beforehand, it turns out that he derived his "knowledge" from the cloudings of a goose-bone, or the markings of a butterfly's wings, or some similar absurdity.

Yet he actually thinks himself a wiser man than the unlucky potato-planter, who simply made the best guess he could, and took his chance of its turning out wrong.

Actually, when you really open your mind to the full measure of the question, how much do you absolutely know? Either about farming or anything else? One may think he knows many things. One may find by experience and test many things which are reasonably probable. But thinking a thing is so doesn't necessarily make it so. Nor does a long sequence of similar events resulting from similar causes make it indubitably certain that there won't be a break in the chain, next time you put a strain on it.

An occurence may have happended so many scores or hundreds of times that we consider it a safe bet to wager it will happen again. But we don't know it.

As a matter of fact, we know a very few arithmetical and geometrical theorems which are capable of complete demonstration. Beyond them, we enter the more or less foggy area of probabilities and conjectures.

We have to live most of our lives and do most of our work and win or lose most of our battles in that fog of uncertainty. That's why we all make mistakes. Our vision is distorted by countless retractions beyond our power to control and our best reasonings are based upon probabilities which only ignorance will class as certainties.

This doesn't mean that we are not to act upon such probabilities and according to such reasonings as are available to us. Of course we are; we can do nothing else.

But we have no right to say we know when we only believe or feel convinced beyond the lawyers' "reasonable doubt."

The sun has risen in the east for nobody hows how many million years. We base all the actions of our lives upon the conviction that it will rise again, tomorrow morning. But we don't know that it will. Nor will the oldest and wisest astronomer on earth say that he knows it will. He will doubtless agree that the chances are several millions or billions to one that it will rise tomorrow and continue to keep on rising for millions of years to come. But he won't go so far as to say he knows it will.

Indeed, about the surest proof of wisdom is its frank admission of its own limitations in knoweldge. The man who really knows the most is almost sure to be the one who makes the fewest pretensions. It is your ignoramus with just a smattering of hit-or-miss education who thinks he knows the most.

One is tempted to quote Sill's wonderful quatrain:

"What mortals think they Know of God
A thousand tones rehearse;
What mortals do not know of God
Fills all the universe."

To paraphrase on a much lower level the poet's proud humility; what 10,000 know-it-alls think they know about farming they are always ready to broadcast on the slightest provocation; what they don't know about farming would fill the Atlantic ocean if it were all printed in books and dumped therein.

Going back to the columnist's terse averment that no one can learn anything from the fellow who thinks he knows it all, suggests a bit of counsel for the puzzled farmer who is facing a difficult decision between two or three possible procedures: if he wants really worth-while advice let him go to the neighbor from whom he has to drag it out by main strength and persistent pump-handling, rather than to the loose-lipped one who is eager to spray his "wisdom" over all who will give him the chance.

You may get but a small drink from the former, but it will be vastly more thirst-quenching than all the vapor the latter may emit.

In the often quoted words of Josh Billings It is better to know a few things for sure than a great many which aren't so.

If the self-appointed know-it-all really knew just one thing it would be that he doesn't know anything. Or, at least, not enough to keep him dry in a summer shower.

1000 EGGS In EVERY HEN

If You Keep Chickens
CUT THIS OUT

"The great trouble with the poultry business has always been that laying life of a hen was too short," says Henry Trafford, International Poultry Expert and Breeder, for nearly eighteen years Editor of Poultry Success.

The average pullet lays 150 eggs. If kept the second year, she may lay 100 more. Then she goes to market. Yet, it has been scientifically established that every pullet is born or hatched with over one thousand minute egg germs in her system—and will lay on a highly profitable basis over a period of four years or more, if given proper care.

How to work to get 1,000 eggs from every hen; how to get pullets laying early; how to make the old hens lay like pullets; how to keep up heavy egg production all through cold winter months when eggs are highest; triple egg production; make slacker hens hustle. These and many other money making poultry secrets are contained in Mr. Trafford's "1,000 EGG HEN" system of poultry raising, one copy of which will be sent absolutely free to any reader of this paper who keeps six hens or more. Eggs should go to top notch prices this winter. This means big profit to the poultry keeper who gets the eggs. Mr. Trafford tells how. If you keep chickens and want them to make money for you, cut out this ad and send it with your name and address to Henry Trafford, Suite 853F, Chemical Bldg., Binghamton, N. Y., and a free copy of "The 1,000 EGG HEN" will be sent by return mail.

WESTERLY

THREE DRUG STORE RAIDS YIELD PRINCIPALLY GIN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 5.—Three Westerly drug stores proved to be involuntary hosts to federal prohibition agents on Thursday afternoon, the Westerly Drug Co., corner Canal and High streets, August Larson, proprietor; C. M. Barbour & Co., 18 Broad street, Lewis E. Barbour, proprietor, and the Oscar C. Stott drug store, 46 Main street.

Headed by Deputy George W. Morrill, a squad of six agents came to Westerly by automobile from the Providence office. Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown was first visited and accompanied two of the agents to Larson's store. Here they seized a gallon jug of gin, about three-fourths of a gallon of alcohol and 13 half-pint bottles of gin.

At the Barbour drug store two agents secured about a gallon of gin and about two ounces of gin in a small bottle, after a diligent search.

Patrolman Charles E. Button, accompanied the federal officers on their visit to the Stott drug store, where two one-quart bottles about half full of gin were taken.

The proprietors of the places raided were ordered to appear before the United States Commissioner in Providence Tuesday next.

In the town of Hopkinton late Wednesday, Wilfred Main of Canonchet was knocked down by an automobile on the Nooseneck Hill road. His right leg was broken above the ankle. He was taken to Westerly hospital for treatment. Murray Penn of Ridgewood, N. J., driver of the machine, was held on a reckless driving charge by troopers from the Hope Valley barracks. He was before Judge Oliver H. Williams in the Third District court about midnight Wednesday and pleaded not guilty to the charge. He was required to furnish surety in the sum of $500 and his automobile was accepted for his appearance in court Friday. New complications arose when Penn announced that he had a quantity of platinum rings in the machine and he said they would be too heavy to carry if he returned home by train, also that he was afraid of being robbed. The jewelry is said to be valued at $8000. The problem was finally solved by locking up the jewelry in the newly purchased steel locker in the office of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, at Westerly police headquarters.

With the idea that there may have been some connection of the rings and cameo jewelry with the $8,000 worth stolen from a traveling salesman at the Parker House in Boston, Mrs. William H. Goodgeon, of the Goodgeon jewelry store, visited police headquarters to check up on the goods. The "W." marking sideways on the inside of the jewelry as described by Boston police authorities was found to be lacking.

DRILL STRIKES BED-ROCK AFTER 22 FEET BORING

The question of the depth of the bed-rock which underlies the southern boundary of the town of Griswold, was settled Thursday when the big drill, being operated by the state engineers struck the ledge 22 feet below the river bed. The cores which were taken up through the hollow drill, proves the rock to be the same hard blue formation, that is evident all through this end of the town. After making sure that the ledge is solid, by means of six foot bores into it, on the Griswold bank, drilling will begin on the Lisbon side. The fact is thus established that the three big river piers will be built on a rock foundation. It was said Thursday that Callan, of Bristol, R. I., would get the big contract, and that the figures were under $400,000 for the whole job. Within two weeks it is believed actual work will begin. Big construction gangs will arrive, and the river work will be done during low water in the Quinebaug.

MISS DRISCOLL RETURNS FROM PACIFIC SLOPE VISIT

Miss Margaret Driscoll has returned from a six weeks' western trip, having visited her uncle's family in Portland, Oregon. En route she visited Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Chicago, Detroit and spent three days in Yellowstone Park, the wonders of which she said were indescribeable. She also went to Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles and all the Pacific coast shore places. Her tour of Hollywood was most interesting: there, she said, Gloria Swanson's home was the show place. Jackie Coogan's home, even the bathing pool, is entirely enclosed by brick walls, the public not getting a glimpse of the home, it is said, for fear he may be kidnaned. She spent two days in Salt Lake City, and took the trip on the railroad going 75 miles through the lake. She stayed purposely to hear the wonderful organ and got a thrill when the Morman on duty that day said that a year ago new stops and pipes had been placed in the organ by the Austin Co. of Hartford, Conn. Miss Driscoll's trip covered miles of beautiful country and scenery and she tells of meeting delightful people all along the way.

CORRECTIVE REACTION IN PRICES OF STOCKS CAME WITH CRASH IN FINAL HOUR

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(AP)— The corrective reaction in stock prices, which conservative elements have been predicting in Wall street for several days, came with breath-taking swiftness in the last hour of trading today, after bullish operations had been pressed forward with increasing agressiveness earlier in the season.

The rapid bidding up of prices, only to have them come down like a burned out rocket, rolled up total sales for the day of 6,565,280 shares, the largest turnover since March. Most early gains were more than cancelled at the close, and scores of important stocks recorded net losses of 2 to nearly 20 points.

Many professional traders had seen in the violent bidding up of selective issues during recent weeks the rapid development of an over-bought condition that must be corrected soon by a through shake-out, but it took a bearish statement by Roger Babson, well-known economist who has been predicting a collapse of stock prices for some time, to start the torrent of selling.

Increasing signs of nervousness were evident during the session, although the market took but passing notice of the overnight monthly member loan announcement showing another $400,000,000 increase. As the unchanged Bank of England was regarded as a balancing factor, call money renewed at 9 per cent, and for a time threatened to go higher. Predictions were heard of a flurry in money over the middle of the month, when the treasury refinancing and the quarterly income tax payments will cause a turnover of funds totalling more than $4,000,000,000, and it was even rumored that the New York reserve bank might again increase its rediscount rate this afternoon. Dr. Babson's statement appeared on the news tickers during the afternoon, and seemed finally to tip the balance toward reaction.

The weekly federal reserve statements displayed a market upturn in the demands for credit over the turn of the month, but also showed that the federal reserve system was definitely acting to stabilize conditions, increasing its holdings of bills and securities by nearly $100,000,000.

Brokers loans mounted $137,000,000, the increase coming entirely from the banks, corporate sources having dried up for the time being what with the month-end interest and dividend requirements and seasonal expansion of activity. Announcement this evening that the new treasury certificates would pay 4 7-8 per cent, 1-4 of one per cent less than the last issue, was somewhat reassuring, indicating that the treasury is not looking for any acute money stringency.

The day's business news was generally satisfactory, including another record weekly total of freight car loadings, heavy sales of copper, and a few pleasing earnings and dividend announcements. These items, however, were generally regarded as discounted by the stock market, for the moment at least.

It was the recent favorites that were hardest hit in the reaction. American Telephone dropped about 9 points but rallied a little in the final dealings. U. S. Steel, New York Central, American Bank Note, Bethlehem Steel, Consolidated Gas, Eastman Kodak, International Telephone, Westinghouse Electric, Johns Manville, R. H. Macy, Public Service of New Jersey, Stone and Webster, Radio, and Westinghouse were among issues closing about 5 to 8 points lower. The chemicals broke sharply, Allied Chemical losing nearly 19 points, Air Reduction more than 13, Columbian Carbon 10, and DuPont 8. Pere Marquette dropped 10 points.

Several of the utilities, coppers and specialties were bid up rapidly during the morning. General Electric rose 7 points, only to tumble back more than 14 from the top in the wave of selling. Standard Gas and Electric sold up 14 points to a new peak, and lost 10 of its gain. American and Foreign Power, American Power and Light and American Waterworks rose 8 to 11 points to new tops before reacting. American Smelting sold up a couple of points to a new peak, then slipped back about 4. Loose Wiles Biscuit, American Chicle and Atlas Powder were among the new isolated strong spots at the close.

Commodities were inclined to sag. Wheat futures sold higher for a time, but lost their gains in realizing. Corn eased on reports of beneficial rains, as did cotton, which closed 30 cents to $1 a bale lower.

Foreign exchanges also were under pressure. Sterling cables touching $4.83 3-4 again, as no change was made in the Bank of England discount rate.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 5—(AP)—The wheat trade manifested uncertainty over the crop news today and declined to take sides for the time being. With the moment's weather reports from Argentina bullish but with some prospects of rain there, prices averaged higher through most of the day but finished a fraction easier. The price range for the entire session was no wider than 1 1-2 cents.

September wheat futures finished unchanged to 1-4c higher while deferred deliveries were 1-8 to 5-8c lower. Corn was weak, closing 1-4 to 1 1-2c down and oats 1-8 higher to 1-8 to 1-2c lower. Provisions closed easy, prices unchanged to 10c lower.

The early trend in wheat was upward, lack of rain in Argentina having turned the Liverpool market up. The news was counterbalanced later, however, by threatening weather in the southern hemisphere and pressure of Argentine grain offerings below parity with December futures.

Export demand was still lethargic, but some optimism was expressed over near future prospects, one Scotch exporter being quoted as predicting European purchases here within ten days.

The world generally seems to be crying for rain. Canadian wheat was burned up this year for want of moisture, and North American corn has been seriously damaged by firing during the critical period. U. S. department of agriculture figures showed that only .03 inch of rain has fallen in northern and southern Argentina in the last six weeks and since last October Argentine rainfall has been only 70 per cent of normal. Drought in Australia has reduced the probable wheat crop to an estimated 100,000,000 bu., with only half a crop in the eastern wheat states, according to private reports. German pastures and potatoes are reported suffering from hot dry weather. And today attention was drawn to a 25 per cent shortage of precipitation in southern China with a rice crop about 4,000,000 tons short of normal.

Good rains from Oklahoma to Illinois had a depressing effect on corn prices and support of the break seemed sluggish. The price range, however, was less than 2c. Oats lost their early firmness on the reaction of other grains and on profit-taking.

Provisions were a little easier, with some pressure on nearby deliveries of lard.

Without a single exception, the Pontiac Big Six is the fastest, most powerful six of its price available today. Its sturdy, 200 cubic inch, L-head engine develops 60 horsepower at moderate engine speed. Its speed and acceleration are the fastest to be found in any low-priced six, according to the "fifth wheel"—the most accurate speed measuring device known to automotive engineers. Unquestionably, today's Pontiac Big Six is the performance leader of its price field—and the style and value leader as well.

Bring in your present car for our appraisal. Its value will probably cover the down payment, leaving only a few dollars per month to pay.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list (f. o. b.) price when comparing automobile values . . . Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only authorized charges for freight and delivery and the charge for any additional accessories or financing desired.

UNION

Rev. Russell R. Morris preached in the Congregational church, Sunday. His wife accompanied him to Union Saturday. They came from her parents' home in Shelton, where they have been for a brief period since coming from Colorado. It is expected that Rev. Mr. Morris will again conduct the service here Sunday, Sept. 8, at 11, (daylight time). He is to preach in the Westford Village church in the afternoon.

Rev. and Mrs. Henry A. Coolidge returned from South Killingly, Monday evening. They enjoyed the two days that they were guests in the parish where they expect to make their home. The Old Home day celebration gave them a fine opportunity to meet many new friends. Rev. William S. Beard took them for a trip through the parish which was helpful in becoming acquainted with their new surroundings.

The three hot dry days of this week, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, withered vegetation as has not been the case for many years. Those farms that have good springs are fortunate. It is becoming a problem for some farmers to find water for cattle and horses. Some weeks ago wild birds nearly all disappeared, evidently searching for sections where they could find water for drinking and bathing. Barn swallows always migrate in August from this section, but this year, they started about two weeks earlier than usual.

Coye camp was closed Monday, Mrs. Ida McLean Lawson, of Middle Haddam, spent a vacation of a few weeks there with her family. Her son, Dr. George M. Lawson, and his wife were the first to leave, as he has an appointment as bacteriologist in the General hospital, Louisville, Kentucky. He has been in Massachusetts General hospital for the past four years. Donald Lawson returned to Hartford and Mr. and Mrs. Clement Lawson, to New York, while their mother returned to Middle Haddam.

The fire lookout station on Mt. Ochepetuck (or Bald Hill) is open now. With nine other stations in Connecticut, it was opened the week of August 12, but a little rain and dampness made the fire hazard less serious for a short period. Now the danger seems as great as it is in the late fall of ordinary years.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Atkinson and son, Dexter, returned to Everett, Mass., Monday after spending a vacation of two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Howard G. Barber.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Horton, with their children and a group of friends, recently spent a day at Pleasure Beach and Ocean Beach.

Broadway Theatre

A slice of the old southland is transplanted to the talking screen at the Broadway in "The River of Romance," Buddy Rogers' all-talking hit now being presented at "the house of hits." With photography so real that one can almost smell the gorgeous magnolia blossoms and the pungent mint-beds that contributed so much to southern hospitality—with voice reproduction so real and perfect that one believes that every character in the picture was born south of the Mason-Dixon line—"The River of Romances" offers a story of action and thrills, as well as a bit of romance, that everyone will enjoy. Buddy Rogers, first as a spoiled boy, then overnight a man, throwing a colossal bluff at brag and bravado that fools even his own family, has the finest character in his career, and with Wallace Beery, Henry B. Walthall, Fred Kohler and Mary Brian, June Collyer and Natalie Kingston, gives a thrilling and authentic of the "south before the war". The surrounding bill is equally pleasing with the latest Paramount Sound News, "the eyes and ears of the world," the Tinytown Revue, a classy group of midgets from the most famous troupes of liliputians, Codee & Orth, well known comedians in "Stranded in Paris," and the three Neal Sisters, singing comediennes. The initial production of "the new show world," opens at the Broadway Sunday with "The Dance of Life," the stunning all-talking film version of the big Broadway hit "Burlesque." In "The Dance of Life," Hal Skelly who became famous as "Skid" the hoofer, in Burlesque has his original role, and is teamed with Nancy Carroll who sparkles more brightly than ever. Augmented with a chorus of hand-picked beauties amid scenes of entrancing beauty, and liberal use of natural color, with some of the catchiest tunes of the season, "The Dance of Life" promises entertainment of the highest order at "the house of friendly service."

Palace Theatre

A slice of campus life is portrayed in Columbia's "The College Coquette," the all-talking picture which opened at the Palace theatre Thursday. The plot revolves around the unselfish friendship of two girls in a co-educational institution. The girls are exact opposites in personality and habit. One is a flirt, ever ready for a lark and not happy unless surrounded by a score of jealous swains. The other is demure, a clinging vine, who has been so restricted that she doesn't know anything about men. Ruth Taylor handles the first characterization in a finished manner. Jobyna Ralston, as the unsophisticated chum, who is deceived by a carefree youth, plays her part with a sympathetic understanding.

The supporting male roles are enacted by John Holland and William Collier, Jr., John Holland, as the football coach who falls in love with the coquette, is the ideal choice for the role. He is handsome, has a striking physique and an air of reserve. William Collier, Jr., plays the gay deceiver superbly. The big moment in the picture when Ruth Taylor saves the reputation of her girl friend by sacrificing her own deserves special mention.

This production has benefited greatly by the use of talking and sound technique. The voices of the entire cast reproduce naturally and clearly. College quartettes, laughter, song, the shuffle of dancing feet and the cheering of football fans are a few of the sound effects that convey the atmosphere of the gay life at a co-educational university. George Archainbaud is responsible for the excellent direction.

Also Pathe sound news, "The Constable" an all-talking comedy and Vitaphone acts.

Breed Theatre

When First National's "The Whip" is flashed on the screen of the Breed theatre beginning today, a cast whose nationality is eminently in keeping with the play will be seen.

"The Whip" has its locale in England and virtually every member of the cast comes from that country. Dorothy Mackaill was born in London, although she has been in pictures in America for some years. Ralph Forbes, who plays opposite her, has been away from England but a short time; and Marc Mcdermott, prominent in the cast, is also a native Briton. Charles Brabin, director of the picture, is of British birth and was educated in London.

Anna Q. Nilsson and Lowell Sherman are the only leading members of the cast whose nationalities do not fit the locale of the story.

Capitol Theatre, Willimantic

Al Jolson comes to the Capitol theatre, Willimantic, next Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in "Say It With Songs," Warner Bros.' latest all-talking, all-singing Vitaphone picture. In this melodious medley of mirth and tears Jolson plays the part of a song-writer and radio entertainer whose life goes away by an accidental killing—prison bars separating him from his wife and boy.

Al Jolson seems to have as much power over a microphone as he has over an audience. His voice records perfectly. The same resonant quality that causes the nerves of an audience to tingle at a Jolson personal appearance, registers. Few, indeed, among the greatest artists get across as much of that indefinable quality known as personality onto the screen and into the wax as does the inimitable jazz-king.

Perhaps his experience in making phonograph records stands him in good stead here; perhaps it is rather his long practice in making the back gallery and the S. R. O. patrons enjoy his show as well as the orchestra circle, perhaps it is just his "gift", but whatever it is, he approaches a microphone with the confidence of a master, and oddly enough the whole crew and cast become inspired with the same assurance.

"Say It With Songs," Jolson's third special release for Warner Brothers, Davey Lee, sensational baby star, discovered by Jolson and featured in "The Singing Fool" is the "little pal" about whom the tender story is built. Others in the cast are Marian Nixon, Holmes Herbert, Kenneth Thompson and Fred Kohler.

NOMINATE SIX DIRECTORS FOR COMMERCE CHAMBER ELECTION

The nominating committee of the chamber of commerce recently appointed by President Joseph C. Worth, has completed its survey of the membership roster and in a notice mailed Thursday to the membership submits the following as candidates for election as directors at the meeting to be held Monday, Sept. 16. Meeting place to be announced later.

William J. Fitzgerald, foreman, Richmond Radiator Co.; Glen R. Merithew, manager, F. W. Woolworth Co.; Frank R. Murdy, superintendent, Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.; Benjamin H. Palmer, Jr., engineer, Chandler and Palmer; William H. Stebbins, superintendent, J. B. Martin Co.; A. M. VanWagenen, president, Atlantic Carton Co.

Members of the nominating committee include Ernest O. Rodier, chairman; Max Hanover, John P. Lyston, E. LaRue Bliven and Roy D. Judd.

The slate proposed is to take the place of the six directors whose terms of office expires September 30, 1929, as follows: Arthur M. Brown, Walter F. Lester, F. Russell Smith, Henry S. Lyon, Charles W. Taggart and Charles J. Twist.

The six directors, whose terms continue for another year, are Joseph C. Worth, John R. Tarrant, Cyril E. Fitch, Abner Schwartz, Henry F. Powers and George Fellows.

Under the nominating system, an effort has been made each year to bring on the board members who have not served before, thus creating an entirely new slate of directors and officers. This policy has been continued this year. The nominating committee voted for a total of twelve men. At their second meeting they compared notes and agreed upon the six whose names have been nominated, as being the best qualified in their opinion for service this year. As indicated above, other nominations may be made in writing over the signature of fifteen members five days before the annual election or on motion from the floor at the annual meeting.

NAME DELEGATES TO LUTHER LEAGUE CONVENTION

The Luther league of the First Evangelical Lutheran church had a good attendance for its monthly business meeting at the church on Tuesday evening. All standing committees were called upon for reports and showed much activity in the society.

The social committee reported a play in progress to be given during the first week of October for the benefit of Wagner college at Staten Island. The building fund reported progress, and offered suggestions in raising money to swell this worthy fund, and was accepted with much enthusiasm. The treasurer reported a balance showing the league to be in a very healthy financial standing.

It was voted to purchase calendars again this year to be sold by the league members.

Details of the coming state convention to be held at Hartford, October 12 and 13 were discussed, and it is expected that a large number of local leaguers will attend. Delegates elected to be sent to the convention were Rev. Carl Storek, Freida Phillips, Frieda Retkovske, George Jones, Frank Decker, and alternates, Irene Werth, Anna Werth, Anna Retkovske, Elizabeth Thumm, Elizabeth Stelzner. The meeting closed with song and prayer.

Preceding the meeting a short but impressive confirmation service was held when George Jones was confirmed by the pastor, Rev. Carl Storek, and was later taken into the league as a full fledged member.

A letter was received from the Lions international inviting the local club members to meet with the international officers Sept. 18, at Bridgeport. A committee was appointed to make arrangements with the members to attend the Bridgeport gathering. Another letter received was one thanking the club members for their co-operation in the plans for the playground children's outing held last week at Ocean Beach.

Lion Edward Carpenter was the speaker of the meeting and gave an interesting account of his 10 weet tour in Europe. He was given a vote of thanks for his talk. The Lions' roar, in honor of the return of Lion Carpenter, brought the meeting to a close.

A five-year program of rebuilding and modernizing coal cars was begun this year and is progressing so favorably that 100 additional cars were included thus making 1,200 to be made new in 1929.

In Praise of Pups

The world has a lot of a number of things
That always are pleasant to see,
Of pretty girls' eyes and blackberry pies
And roses and pay days and glee;
And waffles and movies and blue china cups
And bargains and full dinner pails,
But pleasantest far are the nice little pups
That wiggle and waggle their tails!

A nice little, brown little puppy, who seems
Just brimming with wiggles and wags,
His damp little nose, as pink as a rose,
Two ears that are pert little rags;
And half of him shrinking in fear of a spank,
And half of him wiggling a plea,
And all of him ready for any old prank—
There's nothing so pleasant as he!

And how can they say that a creature is dumb
That's wise in its own sort of way?
Although we suppose there's little he knows,
Yet, Oh, how he knows how to play!
He knows how to find all the fun as he goes
Through his life in this sorrowing vale,
And especially we're glad that each little pup knows
How to wiggle and waggle his tail!

ANTI-NAVAL DISARMAMENT PROPAGANDA STIRS HOOVER

The Chief Executive Has Instructed Attorney General Mitchell to Investigate the Methods of William B. Shearer, While in the Employ of Corporations Interested in Naval Contracts—Mr. Hoover Recognizes the Right of Every Citizen to Express His Views, But Condemns Activities Secretly Carried on to Defeat the Aims of the Government.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—(AP)—President Hoover announced today he had ordered Attorney General Mitchell to investigate the activities of William B. Schearer in connection with his efforts to discourage naval disarmament while in the secret employ of corporations interested in naval contracts.

The president said he could hardly believe that the officials of these shipbuilding companies were personally concerned in Schearer's activities, but he added that a statement from them at this time was greatly to be desired to clear up any misunderstanding.

Mr. Hoover said it was necessary that the government take means to free the American people "from such influences."

The three companies Schearer named as his employers, in a suit filed recently in the New York supreme court were the American Brown Boveri company, the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company and the Bethlehem Steel corporation, which has a shipbuilding plant at Quincy, Mass.

The president said every citizen had a right to express his own views publicly but that to secretly carry on propaganda to defeat the aims of the government and to employ persons for that purpose is "not a fitting thing."

Schearer was referred to by Mr. Hoover as this "particular propagandist" who has severely criticised the Washington government's effort to get reduction of naval armaments not only at Geneva but also "my movement initiated a few months ago."

Shearer, who for years has been one of the foremost advocates of an American navy second to none, filed suit against the three shipbuilding corporations on August 22, last, claiming a total of $306,845 for services rendered over the period from December 10, 1926, to March 27, 1929. He conceded that he had received $51,230 of this amount.

His attendance at the Geneva conference between June 20, 1927 and August 4, 1927, he said, fell within this period of his employment. This conference failed because of a disagreement between the United States and Great Britain on cruiser tonnage.

Shearer says that during his period of employment he not only wrote articles, but also interviewed public officials and press representatives and delivered addresses. He also frequently has appeared before committees of the American congress in the interest of increased naval appropriations and has been a rather familiar figure around the corridors of the capitol when naval matters were under consideration.

Cognizance of details set forth in Shearer's suit against the shipbuilding corporations was taken by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, a staunch advocate of naval disarmament, who called the senate's attention to them last Tuesday in a brief address. He said he had prepared a resolution calling for a senate inquiry of Shearer's activities at the Geneva conference, but would withhold its presentation pending inquiry by the senate naval committee.

Senator Hale, of Maine, chairman of that committee, stated that his committee would look into the matter, but whether it will act in view of the move made by the president in ordering an inquiry by the department of justice remains to be determined.

Since President Hoover did not amplify his statement that, unless the shipbuilding companies could show an entirely different situation than that averred by Shearer, the government would be compelled to consider what measures could be proposed to free the country of such influences, there was speculation as to what steps could or might be taken.

One suggestion was that the government could withhold further contracts from the three corporations for cruisers which may be built under the fifteen-ship program of 1928. Also there was a suggestion for cancellation of the contracts for two of the cruisers awarded recently to the American Brown Boveri Electric corporation and the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation.

In addition to the two contracts recently awarded, the three companies which Shearer is suing are building five of the eight 10,000 ton ships authorized by congress some years ago. The Brown Boveri corporation is constructing two, the Salt Lake City and Chester, both of which are nearing completion; the Newport News company is launching tomorrow, and the Augusta; while the Bethlehem corporation's Quincy, Mass., plant is constructing the Northampton, which was launched yesterday.

The president's statement follows:

"I have been much interested in the disclosures in respect to the relations of a naval expert who over a month ago filed a complaint in the New York courts against three important naval shipbuilding corporations for services described in the complaint, in which he acknowledges having received over $50,000 on account.

"This propagandist has, during the past few years, organized zealous support for increased armament and has been a severe critic of all efforts of our government to secure international agreement for the reduction of naval arms, which include activities at the Geneva conference, and opposition to the movement which I have initiated in the past three months. A part of this propaganda has been directed to create international distrust and hate.

"I cannot believe that the responsible directors of these shipbuilding corporations have been a party to these transactions as represented in this lawsuit, but statement of the case is needed. It is due to the public, it is due to the government, and it is due to the corporations themselves.

"In the meantime, I have directed the attorney general to consider what action we can take. Unless the companies can show an entirely different situation from that which is purported in this suit, we are compelled to consider what measures can be proposed to free the country of such influences.

"Every American has the right to express his opinion and to engage in open propaganda if he wishes, but it is obviously against public interest for those who have financial interest in, or may be engaged in contracts for the construction of naval vessels to secretly attempt to influence public opinion or public officials by propaganda in favor of larger armaments and attempt to defeat the efforts of the government in world limitation of such armaments or to employ persons for such purposes.

"I am making this statement publicly so that there can be no misapprehension of my determination that our present international negotiations shall not be interfered with from such sources and through such methods."

SHEARER FILED SUIT ASKING FOR TOTAL OF $257,655

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—William B. Shearer, whose activities President Hoover today ordered investigated by United States Attorney General Mitchell, filed suit in New York supreme court August 21 last, asking a total of $257,655 from the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation, the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company, and the American Brown Boveri Electric corporation.

Shearer, who was an observer at the Geneva arms conference in the summer of 1927, alleged he was retained by the shipbuilding companies to further their interests, and that he represented them here, at Washington, in Geneva, and elsewhere. Part of his work for the shipbuilders, he stated, was interviewing public officials, newspaper representatives, and others.

Shearer set up a claim against the companies for $250,000 for publicity and other services in the aid of shipbuilding interests and $58,585 for expenses between December, 1926, and last March. He alleged only $51,230 of the amount due had been paid, leaving a balance of $257,655.

30 PASSENGER AIRPLANE WAS TESTED YESTERDAY

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6—(AP)—Like a monster seagull with sluggish wings, one of the largest commercial airplanes ever flown in America rose slowly from the Delaware river at the navy yard today, and with her four motors roaring demonstrated to marveling hundreds how they build them in Germany.

It was the thirty passenger flying boat, "Dornier," built by the Dornier Wal company in Germany, but assembled by workmen at the naval aircraft factory here. The huge plane will be put into service by the Stout Air Lines of Detroit.

The big "flying boat" was "walked" from the hangar by 22 men and rolled to a slip, where the big wheels which were attached to it, were removed.

Captain Kryzuin, taxied the plane a half mile northward on the river and back to a point below the launching slip. Then he nosed the ship full speed ahead. It rose after travelling about three quarters of a mile.

A naval officer explained that the extreme calmness of the water, offering little resistance, was responsible for the ship being slow in the takeoff. Once in the air, the giant plane cruised around gracefully. It remained in the air half an hour.

The ship has a cruising speed of 110 miles an hour, with a maximum speed of 135. Today it was flown 120 miles an hour. The ship has an over-all span of 93 feet, 10 inches and weighs 18,846 pounds when empty. It can carry a useful load of 12,474 pounds, or a total weight of 31,120 pounds.

The ship can carry 30 persons, including the crew. Its oil capacity is 567 gallons and gasoline capacity 1,050.

ATTACK ON TARIFF BILL BY SENATOR WHEELER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—(AP)—Evidence that the administration was being dominated by "giant corporations" in the evolution of the new tariff bill was seen today by Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, in the proposed higher levy on Hollow Drill Steel.

He contended the Crucible Steel company would be given "an equal or greater dole" under the increased duty than other steel companies would receive by placing manganese on the free list.

Like the proposed free listing of manganese, Wheeler said in a statement issued by the democratic national committee, the provision to increase from 1.7 to 3 cents a pound the duty on Hollow Drill Steel used in the manufacture of rock drills involved the "bribery of the public in general and the mining men in particular for the special benefit of the steel trust."

"It would be rather difficult to fit the crucible into President Hoover's classification of industries suffering a depression because of foreign competition resulting in unemployment," he said.

CONFIDENCE RESTORED IN THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—(AP)—"Bull" forces refrained the saddle on the New York stock exchange today and charged forward with renewed vigor, more than recovering the ground lost in the spill late yesterday.

Traders generally decided that yesterday's selling had swept out much of the weak holdings and greatly improved the position of the market. The prediction of Roger Babson, well-known statistician, that stock prices must sooner or later undergo a drastic decline—which appeared to set the ball of selling rolling yesterday—was quickly answered by economists who hold opposite view, and confidence in the market was restored in many quarters.

EYDTKUHNEN, East Prussia, Sept. 6—(AP)—Colonel Pletskaitis, leader of Lithuanian exiles in Poland and who was accused last May of being head of a gang which attempted to assassinate Premier Augustinas Waldemaras of Lithuania, was arrested here with five of his followers. All were armed and the police assert that 12 bombs were found in possession of the board.

MOSCOW, Sept. 6—(AP)—The soviet government today abolished Sunday as a regular day of rest by inaugurating in scores of soviet trades and other institutions what is known as "the continuous production week." The move is calculated to quicken the pace of industry, increase the productivity of labor and relieve unemployment.

TESTIMONY OPENS IN TRIAL OF MRS. PANTAGES

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 6—(AP)—After spending three days selecting a jury, trial of Mrs. Lois Pantages for the second degree murder of Joe Rokumoto as the result of an automobile collision, today went into action with the testimony of two witnesses for the state.

A brief address to the jury was made by Prosecutor James P. Costello at the opening of the session, in which he described the alleged 85-mile course of Mrs. Pantages' car down the street, and of the assertedly intoxicated woman, an "shouting profanities" at persons who attempted to aid her.

William Rokumoto, son of the victim of the motor crash, was the first witness. He testified that he was a student and that he last saw his father alive in the hospital where he died, assertedly of an operation necessitated by his injuries.

Assistant County Autopsy Surgeon Dr. Frank Webb was the second witness. He testified that Rokumoto died of shock resulting from a fractured pelvis. Dr. Webb testified to finding numerous cuts and abrasions on the man's body, a blood clot under the brain, internal injuries and a distinct hemorrhage near the spinal column.

FARM BOARD CALLED REPORT SEN. COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—(AP)—President Hoover's farm board members were called today by the senate agriculture committee to come before it for open hearings on their qualifications.

Chairman McNary said it was the unanimous wish of the committee, which has the farm board nominations under consideration, to have the members before it for an explanation of their plans and an examination into their work. Chairman Legge, representative of business on the board, probably will be heard first.

Senator McNary notified the board to arrange for the hearings at its convenience but not before the end of next week, when the full membership of the committee will be here.

UNITED STATES OF EUROPE IS NO LONGER A DREAM

WEST POINT, N. Y., Sept. 6—(AP)—Ambassador Paul Claudel of France today told an international group gathered to celebrate Lafayette-Marne day that the United States Europe "is not any more a dream, it has become a working proposition, an actual and pressing question."

The phrase is no longer on the lips only of poets and dreamers, "but of diplomats, of economists, of hard-boiled business men," he said.

He said America had taught Europe that "industry is a stronger thing than armies."

Arrest Of Banker Waggoner Imminent

Man Who Manipulated Credit For $500,000 From New York Banks.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Private detectives announced today that they were closing in on C. D. Waggoner, president of the Bank of Telluride, Colo., whom they intended to arrest in connection with a financial manipulation which placed to his credit $500,000 belonging to six Denver banks.

Officials of the detective agency retained by the American Bankers association, said that the bank president had been "bracketed" by their operatives in the west, that is that it had been determined where he was two days ago and where he was going at that time. An arrest was expected when he reached that destination, the name of which was not divulged.

On August 30, while Waggoner was on his way from Denver to New York, six New York banks received code telegrams purporting to be from six Denver banks requesting them to plate a total of $500,000 to the credit of the Telluride bank in the Chase National bank of New York.

This was done and last Saturday a man who satisfied officials of the Chase bank that he was Waggoner, presented cashiers checks on the Telluride bank and had them certified. After he left the Denver, banks heard of the transaction and denied that they had sent the telegrams. Then the search for Waggoner began.

Before he disappeared, the man representing himself as Waggoner using the certified chasier's checks, paid off a $250,000 note of Telluride and a personal note of $60,000, held by the Central Hanover bank, ordered $10,000 sent to the Bank of Telluride and bought a banker's check for $180,000 which so far as is known has not been cashed.

BANK OF TELLURIDE IN HANDS OF EXAMINER

DENVER, Col., Sept. 6—(AP)—The bank of Telluride at Telluride, Col., whose president, C. D. Waggoner, is sought in connection with transfer of half a million dollars from Denver to New York banks on bogus telegrams, was placed in the hands of the state bank examiner today.

At the same time a detective agency working for a Denver bank reported that positive information was received that Waggoner was in North Platte, Neb., Wednesday of this week. A man representing himself as Waggoner last Saturday obtained certified drafts for $495,000 from the Chase National bank on the basis of the alleged fake telegrams, Denver police had a telegram today, apparently sent by Waggoner to his son, indicating that Waggoner as on his way to Colorado.

SON OF SENATOR HEFLIN FORFEITED BOND OF $63

PHENIX CITY, Ala., Sept. 6—(AP)—Failure of J. Tom Heflin, Jr., son of the senior United States senator from Alabama, and B. M. Haines of Standing Rock, Ala., to appear in recorder's court today to answer charges of drunkenness and violation of the state prohibition law, resulted in forfeiture of their bond.

The two were arrested here several days after the attention of officers had been directed to the "regular course" of Heflin's automobile, which was being driven by Haines.

Heflin was charged first with drunkenness, but later when he admitted ownership of the automobile, an additional charge of violating the prohibition law also was preferred. Haines was charged with driving a car while intoxicated.

Heflin forfeited bond of $63 and Haines $78.

ECONOMIC POSITION OF NEW ENGLAND RAILROADS

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 6—(AP)—New England railroads today were described by George Hannauer, president of the Boston & Maine system as rapidly approaching a sounder economic position, in an address before the sixteenth quarterly meeting of the New England council. Seventy delegates attended the final sessions of the two-day conference.

Speaking for other railroad executives of the New England states, Hannauer said that expenditures for improvements during 1929 by the various companies would aggregate about $60,000,000, instead of $45,000,000, as previously estimated. The railroads of this section, he said, are rapidly reaching a condition where they will equal the best in this or any country."

BANKER KILLED WHEN PLANE CRASHES

Two Friends Were Killed—Pilot Himself Lies at Point of Death.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 6.—(AP) — Youth paid dearly for its inexperience here today, and Miss Ruth Greer, 17, and Ennis Douglas, 17, are dead, while Frank Hays, student aviator, lies at the point of death in a hospital. Hays violated instructions, took his two friends for an air ride and the ship, borrowed while its pilot was not looking, crashed near Park field.

Miss Greer lived in Woodward, Okla., and was en route to Birmingham, Ala., where she had matriculated in Birmingham-Southern college. Douglas was a high school student here. Miss Greer stopped here for a few days to visit the Douglass family and begged Douglass to take her on her first air ride.

Ennis' friend Hays, who had ten hours solo work, but still was not permitted to carry passengers, agreed to get them a ride. He asked W. E. Thomas, chief pilot for the Valley Air lines, to take them up. Thomas agreed and walked into a hangar. When he disappeared Hays, Miss Greer and Douglass jumped into his plane and were off. Thomas immediately realized the danger and followed to signal Hays to land.

He witnessed the tragedy. When Hays got the ship up about 500 feet he went into a vertical bank—easy for experienced pilots but quite a stunt for a student flier with a heavy load. Thomas said the ship stalled, hung motionless for a moment and then fell. Douglass and the girl were dead when extricated. Hays was taken to a hospital where doctors said his condition was critical.

EFFORTS TO RESCUE MAN IMPRISONED IN A WELL

OTTUMWA, Ia., Sept. 6—(AP)—Workers tonight were hastening to complete a 30-foot shaft through which they hoped to rescue Wilkins Priest, 55, imprisoned since Thursday morning in a well which caved in as he was cleaning it.

After the shaft was sunk they planned to dig a horizontal tunnel to the quicksand base of the well on which Priest was standing. Unless heavy rock layers were struck, the rescue party expected to finish its work some time tonight and remove the man who has been without food for 55 hours.

Conversation between Priest and Dr. D. L. Rather this afternoon indicated he was keeping cheerful despite increasing cold in the well. Priest complained of the rocks settling about his chest, a condition which early today caused abandonment of rescue efforts directly through the well.

WHEREABOUTS OF AIR LINER TRANSPORT STILL A MYSTERY

Hundreds of Men and Dozens of Planes Are Searching the Great American Desert, Hoping to Find Alive the Eight Persons Aboard the Plane—Col. Lindbergh is Speeding Westward to Participate in the Search.

Whereabouts of the Transcontinental Air Transport liner City of San Francisco, which disappeared Tuesday west of Albuquerque, N. M., still is a mystery.

Hundreds of men and dozens of planes engaged today in a frantic search of the great American desert, hoping they might find alive the seven men and one woman who had been aboard the plane.

Rumors Friday located the liner's supposed survivors at the desert waste near Polacca, Arizona, and across the international border from Hachita, N. M., but investigation indicated both reports, like many others, were false.

Charles A. Lindbergh, technical advisor of T. A. T. and the man who selected the route followed by its planes over the wildest part of the wild southwest, hastened toward the scene in a speed plane.

Twenty-five T. A. T. planes, made available by suspension of the company's regular transcontinental train-air service, engaged in a patrol over the routes the City of San Francisco might have followed.

Ten navy planes, three marine planes and six army planes from San Diego took the air for Arizona to join in the search, their aid being made desirable by the vast area to be covered.

Three more navy planes took off from San Francisco. These planes carried radio apparatus, but there was some question of the distance over which the wireless would be effective.

All investigators, in reporting, emphasized the inaccessibility of the country being searched. Roads are few, telegraph and telephone lines fewer. The rough terrain forces planes to fly high for safety, making scrutiny of the surface even more than ordinarily difficult.

Chief Pilot Tomlinson of the Maddux Air lines started the Polacca rumor by reporting four men in an Indian hut near Walpi, about a hundred miles north of Winslow, Arizona. They later proved to be Indians.

The T. A. T. received a report late Friday of finding the missing plane's wreckage near Hachita, with all dead except the woman passenger. This report was promptly denied by the Southern Pacific Railroad company.

LINDBERGH SPEEDING WEST TO AID SEARCH

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(AP)—In the fastest that plane ever flew non-stop from coast to coast, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh took off today to lend his aid in the search for seven men and a woman who disappeared last Tuesday in a plane of the Transcontinental Air Transport.

In the mechanic's seat behind him was Mrs. Lindbergh, daughter of the American ambassador to Mexico, who has shared in the flying colonel's exploits in the air ever since their marriage.

Climbing into the speed plane with parachutes strapped in place the Lindberghs shot into the air at 3:05 o'clock this afternoon, banked steeply and streaked off into the west.

Flew Over Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, flying from New York to aid in the search for the missing T. A. T. plane in the southwest, sped over the Indianapolis airport at 6:04 p. m. c. s. t., tonight without slackening speed and continued his flight toward St. Louis.

Landed At St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, en route to Winslow, Arizona, to aid in the search for the missing Transcontinental Air Transport's air liner "City of San Francisco" landed at Lambert-St. Louis field at 7:55 p. m. tonight. He planned to stop over night and take off at dawn tomorrow. His flying time from New York was six hours and 45 minutes.

UNCONFIRMED REPORTS OF LOCATION OF PLANE

WINSLOW, Arizona, Sept. 6.—(AP)—More unconfirmed reports which sent searchers dashing to two different sectors by air marked the hunt today for the missing air liner City of San Francisco, but nothing new as to the whereabouts of the plane or the fate of the eight persons it carried when it disappeared last Tuesday had been developed early tonight.

Airmen combed the wilderness of the Hopi Indian reservation, 100 miles north of here, without immediate success after hopes had been aroused by a report that four men had been sighted on the desert waving white cloths as signals.

Lieutenant D. W. Tomlinson, former navy flying ace, who sighted the men emerging from an Indian hut, flew back to Winslow for aid in the belief that the men might be survivors of the City of San Francisco. Officials of the Transcontinental Air Transport, owners of the missing air liner, were frankly skeptical and expressed the opinion that the men seen on the desert probably were Indians.

Another unconfirmed report sent searchers toward Hachita, New Mexico, where a plane was reported down. The chief dispatcher of the Southern Pacific railroad at El Paso, however, reported that the railroad's telegraph operator at Hachita denied that there had been a crash or that a plane had been seen there. Hachita is about 30 miles from the Mexican border.

One version of the Hachita rumor was that the City of San Francisco had been located near Hachita, Mexico, and that all aboard, except the woman passenger, were dead. There was absolutely no confirmation of this rumor.

MURDER TRIAL OF LABOR LEADERS AT CHARLOTTE, N. C.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 6—(AP)—Over the protest of defense attorneys, Judge M. V. Barnhill this afternoon admitted into the testimony alleged confessions of two of the defendants in the trial of the sixteen strikers and strike leaders charged with murder of Police Chief O. F. Aderholt of Gastonia.

The admission of the confessions came only after a spirited controversy during which the jury was excluded from the courtroom.

Today's testimony included the stories of two more of the officers who accompanied Police Chief Aderholt to the strike headquarters on the night of June 7, when he was shot.

It also included statements of two women, who though not witnesses to the shooting, were able to tell of incidents that occurred near the time of the shooting; and it brought out the story of the Cleveland county sheriff regarding the confessions.

GEM THEATRE BECOMES PART OF WARNER BROS. CHAIN

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 6.—The Gem theater of this city is one of a chain of 13 Connecticut playhouses which have passed hands from the Hoffman Brothers Theatrical enterprises to Warner Brothers, film producers. Papers certifying the sales were filed today at the offices of town clerks in the respective towns. The purchase price was given as $5,000,000 for the chain. The Gem, built in 1912 by Arthur P. Dorman, now deceased, has been owned by the Hoffman brothers and their partner, James Carrier, since January 1926.

John R. Pickett, who has been manager of the Gem for many years, will continue in that capacity under the new ownership. J. H. Brennan and Martin Mullen, representatives of the Warner brothers, have been in this city to conclude negotiations.

Harry, Jack and Albert Warner, comprising the firm of Warner brothers, are sons of immigrants their parents having come to America from Poland. Their father maintained a cobbler's shop in Baltimore, Md., to support a family of 12. The boys visited a nickelodeon in Pittsburg in 1903 and a one-reel western film that they saw there so impressed them that they decided right then to go into the motion picture business. After successful years as producers they scored their greatest stroke in sponsoring talking pictures in 1925, chosing the name of Vitaphone for these pictures. Their work in that line since has served to revolutionize the motion picture industry.

Farewell orders were received today by Captain John Berkhoudt, commander of the local corps of the Salvation Army who has been here for three months, giving him notice of his assignment as commander of the corps in Waterville, Me. Captain Berkhoudt will deliver his farewell address at a public meeting at the citadel Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

Captain Berkhoudt has notable accomplishments of relief work to his credit during his tenure of office here and there are many who regret his leave-taking. He will be accompanied to Waterville by Mrs. Berkhoudt who holds the same rank as himself, and their two children, Lucy Evangelina and Wilhelmina Faith Berkhoudt. While the names of his successors will probably not be known until the early part of next week, it is indicated that they will be unmarried officers, it having been pointed out that the work in Willimantic is better suited for single persons.

Nearly every ear contained one or more of the destructive borers, several being females which had hatched young borers. The borers average in length over one inch to a quarter of an inch. These specimen along with dozens of others taken previously have been placed in preserving tubes for shipment to the government laboratories at Toledo, Ohio. Mr. Thomas estimated that 8,000 automobiles are stopped at the Main street station on a holiday.

RUNAWAY NEW YORK BOYS FINANCED TRIP WITH $20

Joseph Kulka, 15, and Edward Grumhovitch, 14, both from New York were picked up by Police Officer George Kealy Wednesday night as they seemed to have no friends and no place to go. The boys said that they had come from New York and that one of them had $20 when they left New York, but that it had all been spent for railroad fares and eats. Officer Kealy got in touch with the police department in New York who notified Mrs. Grumhovitch, mother of one of the lads, and she came to Stafford Springs Friday morning. She said that her son had left home several days ago after he had stolen $20 from her, and she had no idea of his whereabouts until the New York police notified her. The boys claimed that they had earned the $20 delivering newspapers. When Mrs. Grumhovitch arrived, however, she showed that this story was a fabrication. The boys admitted that they were tired of their adventure and cheerfully left for their homes with Mrs. Grumhovitch Friday evening.

BRIDGE TO HAVE THREE PIERS AND FIVE SPANS IN ITS 575 FT.

In the big Quinebaug viaduct project, which is to be started within 10 days, the actual steel bridge section will be 575 feet in length with three river piers and 5 spans. Reckoned in this stretch, 300 feet will be over the Quinebaug. When the bores are sunk on the Lisbon side next week, to locate the ledge, if the distance to rock bottom does not differ too greatly from the Griswold figures, there will be no drilling in the river bed.

A battery of coffer dams, and a temporary wooden bridge are to be constructed, to facilitate carrying on the work.

Before the state began the work to determine the underlying river bottom for the pier anchorages, E. F. Burleson, whose home overlooks the Quinebaug from Sylvandale, predicted that the drillings would disclose the fact that, from being on the surface at the Aspinook and Slater dams, the Griswold ledge would be found to slope off toward the south. Such proved to be the case. Its level was depressed 22 feet within a quarter of a mile.

MYSTIC

ANOTHER FILLING STATION DISTASTEFUL TO MANY

Some time ago it was rumored that the property, corner of Willow and East Main streets, had been sold to the Shell Oil company and that the company is to erect a filling station there. This seemed to stir up a great deal of indignation among the residents of Mystic, as this would mean that the large house owned and occupied until recently by Mason Manning, would be torn down. This house was built more than 40 years ago by the late Francis M. Manning and was occupied by him until his death. At the time of its erection it was considered one of the best built and most attractive houses in Mystic. The grandson, Mason Manning, heir to the property, occupied it winters, having erected a summer residence at Wamphassuc Point. A year ago, Mr. Manning put the property on the market and quite a number considered buying it, which would have kept it as a residence. Nearby property owners are aggrieved to think another filling station may be erected on the south side of the street, with only one residence between them. When a public hearing was scheduled for Wednesday afternoon in the district courthouse on Holmes street, it was thought that there would be a large crowd in attendance, but only about 25 or 30 voters were present and not all of these were against the project. Representatives were present from the oil company in Providence and gave reasons why they wished to start a filling station here. The selectmen announced that they would withhold their decision until a later date.

STATE POLICE GIVE OUT INSTRUCTION ABOUT NEW LAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 6—Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart, commanding officer of the Danielson barracks, today gave out official information pertaining to the newly effective law requiring that motor vehicles registered in Connecticut be equipped with reflectors. Considerable confusion has been created in the minds of owners of these vehicles by conflicting information. One point is that each truck need have only one reflector, instead of the five that many have come to believe was required on trucks in excess of six feet in width.

Types of reflectors approved by Robbins B. Stoeckel, commissioner of motor vehicles, are as follows: K-S Safety Reflector No. 33, Niterday, Persons Sunbeam, Persons Vehicle Reflector, Rayflector (either in tile or button type), Stimsonite, A. G. A. button type.

When attaching to the rear of a commercial motor vehicle these reflectors, the commissioner's instructions state, should be securely fastened, not more than 48 inches and not less than 24 inches from the ground, and to the left of the center of the vehicle. The visibility of the reflector must not be impaired at any time, by any accessory, by the tailgate, either fastened or lowered, by van doors or by articles included in the load of the vehicle. The reflector must be in addition to the tail light.

The state has undertaken another landscaping enterprise in Brooklyn opposite the residence of Lieut. Albert S Field. In putting through the new state highway last year the old route was abandoned at this point in eliminating a rather sharp curve, the new route being a short distance further west. The space between the old route and the new route is now being graded and covered with loam. It is to be seeded down, shrubs set out and other work done to make an additional beauty spot another year.

This afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frederick Cote, at Dayville, funeral services for Mrs. Nellie Gay were conducted by Rev. S. F. Maine, of Attawaugan, who also conducted the committal service at the grave in High street cemetery, Dayville. The bearers were Patrick Tigue, Charles Franklin, Daniel Meehan, Edward Lowry, Thomas Moran and John O'Neil. Martin T. Burns was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

The funeral service for Edward R. Schuman was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home in Foster, with Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Danielson Baptist church officiating. Burial was in the Line Store territory. The bearers were Aden A. Tillinghast, Earl Davis, John Griffiths and August Tikkanen. A. F. Wood was the funeral director.

The present week end is being marked by considerable political activity in Killingly, and it comes about because both the republican and democratic caucuses are to be held the coming week. Up to this afternoon there was no surface indication of the possibility of any contests arising in the republican caucus, but there was every indication that the democratic caucus will be a lively one, with more than enough candidates for nominations for selectmen to fill the two places.

Danielson is to have a formal observance of Armistice day this year, and not the unobserved passing that was its lot here last year. At that time legionnaires vowed that no such thing would happen again. Making good that assertion, members of Leo J. L'Homme post, American Legion, are planning an impressive celebration of the day, which will be the eleventh anniversary of the eleventh day of the eleventh month, not forgetting that fighting ceased over there on the eleventh hour of Armistice day. It is hoped the borough will declare it a general holiday. The program of observance calls for a parade, a display of fireworks in the evening and an entertainment and dance. Chairman Arthur DeForest of the committee of arrangements hopes to have all patriotic organizations represented in the parade and also civic and fraternal societies.

Killingly grange, beginning its late summer activities after the vacation season, will be represented by a considerable number of its members at a Neighbors' night meeting with Putnam grange in Putnam next Monday evening. The Windham County Y. M. C. A. which has its headquarters here, is to sponsor a track meet at the annual Woodstock fair next week, on Thursday. Application blanks have been sent out to possible competitors in the events that are being arranged, and they are as follows: Junior boys under 110 pounds 5-yard dash and one-third of a mile relay race. That will be once around the horse race track, the only third of a mile track in this section of New England. For the seniors that will compete, this class being over 110 pounds, there is to be a 100-yard dash and a two-thirds of a mile relay race. Girls also are to figure in the program, entrants taking part in a 50-yard dash and a 440-yard relay race.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Beckley and son of Attleboro, have gone to Long Beach, Cal., to make their home. Mr. Beckley formerly was a resident of Danielson.

With town affairs coming to the forefront, the annual town meeting and election just ahead, there is one rather thorny matter that must be handled and is again claiming attention. It is the necessity of Killingly having a general revaluation of the taxable property of the town made not later than the coming year. This is obligatory under the law of the state. The thing that puzzles a great many of the town's citizens in considering this question as to the manner in which the work shall be done—whether by citizens, preferably the board of assessors, the law specifying the work as part of their duties, it is claimed in some quarters, or by experts in revaluation work, or by a group of citizens and experts. The matter may get some attention at the annual town meeting on the first Monday in October. Then again it may not, depending on whether the warning for that meeting contains the necessary clause to permit it to come up for discussion.

There is such a shortage of water that many springs in this territory that have been regarded as unfailing are going dry. Out in the country districts many wells have done so. In one instance, in Canterbury, the only available source of water for the horses and cattle is a tiny pond created by building a little dam to hold back water seeping out of swamp land nearby.

PUTNAM

RAIN WELCOME BUT TOO LATE TO SAVE CROPS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 6—With heavy rain of Thursday evening and additional showers todway, was sufficiently large enough to put the 147 day drouth at an end. Even though the dry spell is considered ended the rain of Thursday was delayed too long to accomplish anything in the way of furnishing relief to parched crops, since in many places harvesting has been started. However, many of the later garden products will be benefited by the belated showers.

Foremost among the important results of the rain is the removal of the forest fire hazards. In the past fortnight, fire has raged in timberlands a number of miles north and south of Putnam leaving a tale of woe in its path. The woodlands in this section hereabouts have been free from the ravages of fire, but the forests are exceedingly dry and until last night were not immune. Some of the parched pasturage may be revived so that cattle may renew grazing before autumn is ended. City lawns are for the most part geared and brown but with the rain, it is hoped by many that the long absent tint of green will return when the hard baked crust is penetrated by the water and the grass roots saturated.

Another important item wrought by the rain will be the replenishing of the wells, which in the country districts have been drawn to the capacity. Vegetable gardens as well as the late flower blooms of the summer will be given a new lease of life, if additional rains are received tonight as were promised.

Woodstock Agricultural society officials in completing the programme for Woodstock fair, which will be held three days next week, today made arrangements with Superintendent of Streets Frederick Dumas to use a city water wagon for the cartage of water from the city pumping station at Harrisville to the fairgrounds, a distance of about two miles. The water will be used to wet down the dusty race track. Several hundred gallons of water will be poured on the track, unless further rains are received Friday night and Saturday.

Girls wanted. Clean, pleasing work in curtain factory. Apply at office. Powdrell and Alexander, Inc. Danielson, Conn.—adv.

The city highway department is engaged in the repairing of Farrows street. The work is going through in a northerly direction from the intersection of Florence street and will continue until the sum of $1,000 has been expended. Supt. of Streets Dumas said today. The department hopes to recondition the dilapidated streets to a point near the residence of Alderman-at-Large Warren S. Ames, but at any rate will go as far as the Andem greenhouses. In the winter and spring seasons the flower growing plant is greatly affected by the poor condition of the street and several petitions were made to the city council before work was started. Supt. Dumas said that a new road bed will be made of gravel, will be rolled and with the arrival of another oiling season the city will arrange to have the petroleum product spraved over the surface.

This morning at nine o'clock the funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Kyrie, widow of Mitchell Kyrie, for many years a resident of Putnam, was held from the undertaking parlors of Smith and Walker with services at St. Mary's officiated at a requiem high mass and also conducted the committal service at the grave in St. Mary's cemetery.

Miss Ann McDonald of Pomfret, a graduate of Putnam high school class of 1929 has entered the training classes of St. Francis hospital in Hartford.

Miss Sadie Simon of School street, who was graduated from Putnam high school in June is a member of the training corps of nurses at the Beth Israel hospital in New York city.

Frank M. Bennett of Mansfield, O., has been spending the past two weeks with his mother and sister, Mrs. W. M. Bennett and Miss Grace I. Bennett of Bellevue street.

Miss Esther Gustafson of Pomfret has left her summer residence for New York where she conducts winter classes in dancing.

Within the past six months railroad business along freight lines has increased by leaps and bounds. This fact has been noted by the number of freight trains running east and west on the midland division of the road and the trains running north and south over the Norwich branch. The absence of a switch engine at Putnam, necessitates the giant engines hauling cars to perform the task once done by a lighter rail vehicle and the engines running up and down the yards at night, releasing signal blasts of the intentions of stopping and starting, their chuzzing efforts which are heard some distance from the tracks have brought forth complaints from those whose night's rest is disturbed by the working freight engines. Railroad officials at Putnam said today that the stoppage of the noise in its entirety is an impossibility but all efforts are being made to do away with many sources of the disturbance. Engineers have been instructed to discontinue the practice of blowing off steam at night hours while trains are in the yard limits and instructions to limit other sleep-disturbing railroad practices have been issued. This cooperation of railroad authorities will doubtlessly be heartily received by local people residing in the vicinity of the tracks.

FIGHTING THE CORN BORER.

When it comes to fighting a pest there is something for everyone to do. It is not a job that should be confined to a few, for with the many leaving the work to a few it imposes upon them tasks which it is impossible to accomplish. Wherever the pest is known to exist there should be a general effort made to eliminate it.

Just now much attention is being given to the corn borer? There isn't any denying the havoc that it has caused or that it can cause. It is known to be possible, however, to restrict and end its activities and damages. This should mean that not only those whose crops are infested with the borer but those who are anxious to protect their own should lend the utmost cooperation.

Methods of dealing with this destructive pest have been devised and deserve to be followed. In various sections inspectors have been busy this summer preventing persons carrying corn and plants into areas which are not infested. The proper thing to do is to comply implicitly with the requirements whether it pleases or not.

Over in the state of Rhode Island the agricultural department has been making a survey of the corn fields and the opinion is set forth that the situation is made worse because of the many backyard gardens the owners of which it is not believed will pay any attention to the burning of the stalks and the spading in of the stubble such as is needed to control the pest.

According to this there isn't much confidence in the backyard gardener. It isn't believed that he will lend the cooperation that is needed. The feeling prevails that because he has only a small area under cultivation he will make no great effort to meet requirements. Perhaps he will do nothing, but it might not be well to misjudge him. Give him a chance after making sure that he is informed and see what he will do. He may declare, as he has a right to, that when it came to fighting tent caterpillars some of the worst instances of toleration of that pest was to be found on farm property and in orchards.

The quicker the corn borer can be eliminated the better and full cooperation by all who have the opportunity should be eagerly given.

ELIMINATING BILLBOARDS.

Deeds not words are what the clubwomen of New England want when it comes to the question of ridding the countryside of billboards. They have set forth their views on previous occasions, but in their conference at Watch Hill this week they put much additional emphasis upon it and indicated that there was still much need for insistence.

The desire for the removal of billboards is to free the landscape from the obstructions that block the views and spoil the pretty vistas. At different times it has been evident that the importance of the appeals has been recognized. Observers are able to note that there has been a disappearance of objectionable bill boards. Some which were decidedly conspicuous a few years ago are rare at the present time. The sentiment that has been displayed against this form of advertising has been extensive and it has obtained results.

That the compliance had not reached the stage desired was indicated to the conference when it was intimated that the five year programme of the billboard industry, by which it agreed to have all the outdoor advertising in scenic spots removed by 1930, was not working out well. The chairman at least asked the members to use their eyes and determine whether they thought the agreement would be lived up to in another year. This would indicate that such progress as has been made is not up to expectations, and a busier year in the work of elimination than has featured the past must be expected in the future if the agreement is carried out.

The conference made it evident that it has no intention of accepting a half loaf, or that it will relent in its efforts until the goal has been reached. The women consider that inasmuch as these billboards are chiefly for the purpose of inducing them to purchase certain household requirements it is their particular duty to go contrary to such appeals.

The restoration of the countryside to the attractiveness which preceded the billboards is desired by a great number. The effort gets a tremendous backing from those who travel through the country in automobiles and there can be no question but what the demand is general and of long standing.

CRIMINAL CARELESSNESS.

What can be regarded only as a case of criminal carelessness occurred aboard the Graf Zeppelin on its latest transatlantic flights to Europe.

It was one of the strict rules of the airship that no one should smoke while aboard it. This was a measure made necessary because of the highly inflammable character of the gas with which the tanks of the airship was filled. Should a leak develop and the gas reach a point where a lighted cigarette or cigar would ignite it, there would soon be no Zeppelin, passengers or crew.

Yet there was among the passengers a man who would not resist the desire for a smoke in spite of the order and in spite of the knowledge that what he was planning to do would endanger the lives of all those with him. It wasn't a case where he was bringing the house down upon himself alone, but upon the entire party.

According to the report this did not get any consideration from him. He was determined to smoke and he did smoke regardless of the protests of the passengers. He was forced to stop when his act was reported to the officials but he got off with no more than a warning, the feeling evidently being that inasmuch as no harm had occurred there was no desire to cause any additional publicity.

That the other passengers should have been highly indignant over the bravado displayed was fully justified. Had they been disposed to take matters into their own hands and restrained the individual it would have caused no surprise. It is most unfortunate that there are persons who will display utter contempt for any and all regulations, even those involving safety, and insist upon having their own way. It is because of the acts of just such persons that so many of the needless accidents and fatalities occur, and the display of such criminal carelessness should be offense enough in itself, even though no one was harmed because of good fortune, to result in a stiff penalization. Those who are so inconsiderate of the safety of the public only lend encouragement to others and deserve proper punishment.

AUTO MARKERS.

It seems a bit strange that it should be necessary to resort to the courts in order to decide whether there should be anything upon the markers of an automobile except the registration number, the name of the state and the year, yet such has been done in Kentucky.

There the desire was to get in a little advertising and it was arranged to place upon the plate words to the effect that Kentucky is organized for progress. It doesn't appear that any exception has been taken to the statement concerning progress or that there was any objection to the state getting any advertising that it might receive, but it was felt by automobile organizations that the object of the markers was being lost.

Even though the court may decide that there is nothing in the law which prevents the placing of such a statement upon the markers, it is quite obvious that the inclusion of words which are not part of the identification simply confuse those who may be trying to determine the correct number and the name of the state.

It is no secret that great numbers of cars travel so rapidly that it is practically impossible to make a mental note of the registration. This is true when there is no legend included on the marker, but with such wording diverting attention from the vital purpose of the marker more difficulty than ever is to be expected in deciphering the numbers and the state abbreviation.

Inasmuch as there is no restriction to placing anything desired upon the Kentucky markers it is not improbable that the legislature will be asked to consider the matter and end any controversy in the future. The marker with as little wording and as large figures as possible best serves its purpose.

PUSHING GOOD ROADS.

While there has been a Pan-American highway conference and while other plans have been advanced for the purpose of building an improved highway that would extend from British Columbia down through the United States, Central America and the west coast of South America to Chile, it becomes evident that Brazil and its eastern coastline has not been overlooking the importance of similar developments.

Such a move was of course inevitable. The largest country in the western hemisphere, territorywise, couldn't sit idly by and watch the others outdo it. In a statement made by Brazil's minister of communications he believes that another five years will see a highway completed along the coast that will be equivalent in length to one across the United States. To South America that will mean much. It will afford much needed facilities for getting from one point to another and will probably be preliminary to extending the highway system back into the country as conditions justify it.

Brazil is a big country and it will be a long time before it is covered with a network of good roads but it is making an important start. It is meeting the cost through state and federal appropriations and it is in a position to draw heavily upon the abundance of experience which other countries have had in building good roads.

Along with good roads Brazil has reason to anticipate developments in other directions. It has come here so that there is today an automobile for every five persons in this country but down in Brazil there is only one auto for every 223 persons. With better roads it can be expected that that ratio will change, for Brazil will be anxious to be as enterprising as Argentina where there's a car to every 24 persons. It is quite necessary to have the good roads, however, before there can be much expansion in the number of motor vehicles. Good roads have certainly come to stay.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Even a warm September cannot delay the football plans very long.

The man on the corner says: No one is bragging about getting in a big crop of wild carrot.

The wild scramble for money hasn't decreased a bit because of the reduced size of the new currency.

Now that the Yankees have conceded the pennant to the Athletics, is Chicago ready to give them the world's series?

The Graf Zeppelin ought to drum up considerable business from those pressed for time by keeping up a steady circling of the globe.

Whether the troops are anxious to be withdrawn from the Rhineland is another question, but it is to be hoped they will never be needed for such duty again.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Do we realize how little the average man creates? Now this applies just as much to human thought as to manual labor. Our mental as well as muscular activity, for the most part, follows along well established lines from which deviation is so slight as not to be deviation. And when deviation does occur it is generally looked upon with disfavor because it is a departure from the customary. It was James Anthony Froude, the great English historian who once said that "the people will tolerate almost anything from a writer but new ideas." This idea of newness is true all the way from the style of a woman's dress up to some new explanation of the planetary system. Didn't Galileo of old feel this acutely after he had the audacity to inform the world that the earth actually revolves! The idea was so audacious that he had to retract the statement under the penalty of death.

In spite of our aversion (which is innate) to newness, as a matter of fact new things and new facts are constantly being thrust upon us. It is a feature of life to be at times in new places which introduce to us new faces, new landscapes, and necessarially new ideas. Science is all the time forcing men and women of the open mind to accept new facts of which they never dreamed before. The matter of stowaways on airships is something new like the airship itself, although it has long been common on steamers. Among the strangest of new things—at least to the writer—is the following which is vouched for: Clyde Patch, of the National museum, a well known scientist of bird lore, vouches for the following: The sparrows of Cape Breton islands, wishing to cross to Newfoundland, have been known to perch on the backs of migrating geese, and to "take off" after completing the long trip over Cabot strait.

It is quite natural for us to compare one age of the world with another. While along material lines there is a consensus of agreement that wonderful advancement has been made along all lines of mechanical activity, but when it comes to the question of morality it is quite common for writers to intimate that there has been a big slump. But is that position justified with the facts? Are the boys and girls less moral today than they were 50 or 75 years ago? Those best qualified to judge say emphatically no. Think of the scenes not uncommon in our national congress in the early days that would not be tolerated anywhere in the forld today. In the wonderful book "Meet General Grant," I find the following: "Billy Smith, a member of congress from Virginia, attempted to chastise Douglas Wallach, but Mr. Wallach succeeded in getting Mr. Smith's thumb into his mouth. The fight ended when Mr. Smith bellowed: "Let go my thumb, you're chawing it to the bone."

Our Creator, being the Absolute, is not confined to any one definite mode of revelation. Wherever and whenever there is a disposition on the the part of the creature to know the Creator, the latter in some way will grant the request. It may not always be in the exact line of the seeking, but it will be in the way best adapted to the needs of the supplicant. There are two general, but not necessarially exclusive ways, in which God reveals himself and His will to men. The first is through His fellowmen, the second is through the world which He has created. Can anyone doubt that the Apostle Paul was sent to reveal God's will to man? Is it not a fact all down the ages that when God had some great message for the world He found the right sort of a man to deliver it. Was not Francis of Assisi, John Bunyan Spurgeon, Beecher and Brooks men sent from God."

The extent to which Labor day is now observed, and the almost universal cessation of all labor except that which is absolutely necessary, shows clearly the widespread endorsement that is now given to the principle that it represents. There is no day on the calendar which we observe as national holidays, that receives larger respect than Labor day. The dignity of labor has grown in the consciousness of the American people with the expansion of labor itself. There was a time when there was no labor problem. The employer spoke ex cathedra, and with his decision there was the ultimatum. The rights of the working man have been constantly growing, and in this development many unwise things have been said and done on both sides. But as the years advance, and the whole question is looked at from a broader general standpoint, the two parties are coming more and more into a general agreement as to their mutual rights and what each has a right to expect from the other.

Every person who comes into this world has a right to live. By this I mean that he has a right to more of the world's goods than just enough to keep body and soul together. If he is able to work and wants to work and cannot get more than enough to barely subsist, then something is radically at fault with the economic order. We shall always have trouble between capital and labor until laborers have an income more than enough to buy food and clothing for themselves and families. Their income ought to be enough to regularly save something; to spend something for recreation, and to support religion. Of course I am aware that among working men some are thriftless. No matter what they earn, they will always be in financial difficulty. But this does not apply to the average working man.

That we are living in the days of great industrial prosperity is beyond all question. If anyone is in doubt of this, all he has to do is to consult government reports of what we annually produce along all lines of agriculture and manufactured products. The high record reached recently in the railroad industry; in industrials and general utilities make this perfectly clear. But in all this industry there lurks a danger, and that is in the natural tendency of identifying the laborer with the machine. In the first quarter of the present century, the marvelous progress of science, mass production, and the automatic machine in agriculture, mining and manufactures had increased our output eighty per cent. Now the danger here is perfectly natural and that is to identify the worker with the machine he operates. It will be fatal to the good relationship that subsists between capital and labor when this identity is recognized.

What work has done as a civilizing agency in the development of man can hardly be overestimated. In the early days of Greece and Rome work was done, especially in its cruder forms, by slave labor. Of course when production was the result of forced labor, there was hardly any chance for its improvement in quality. What men did with dead spirits had no reacting power in the line of their physical, mental, moral and spiritual betterment. As civilization advanced of course workmen became better qualified for their occupations. Civilization demanded a larger output of production, and greater varieties of production. Man all the time was enlarging his skill in order to keep abreast with the demand. Just as long as the human race continues to develop there will be a corresponding attempt to meet these growing demands. Hence we can see why work occupies so large a place in the world order.

Engine Trouble

By J. M. WICKS, M. D.,
Jamaica, N. Y.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

The expression "engine trouble" brings to mind the delays, inconveniences and possible serious consequences arising from some derangement of automobile and aeroplane engines. However, these difficulties are less frequent than formerly, and the reason is seen in the thorough investigation of the causes, the application of measures to prevent their occurrence, and when trouble does arise, the use of various adjustments to maintain efficiency and longer life.

And so it is with another type of engine, to which very little thought is given until some evidence of derangement manifests itself. This engine is composed of muscle, valves and nerves—it is the human heart.

The causes of heart trouble have been studied and are well known. Measures can be applied for their prevention and adjustments made in the individual's mode of living, if the derangement cannot be eliminated. Unfortunately, defects in this engine cannot be eliminated because no spare parts are available; nevertheless, proper treatment will add to one's comfort and prolong life.

The knowledge that many illnesses, particularly those associated with prolonged fevers, always produce varying degrees of heart weakness, will curb the individual's desire to hurry the period of convalescence because of business or other obligations, and thus prevent permanent damage to the heart muscle.

The knowledge that fresh wholesome food, in moderation, especially after the age of forty, fresh air, sunlight, personal cleanliness and sufficient rest are of the greatest importance in promoting good health, in which the heart shares in no small degree, should make all eager to incorporate these measures in their daily routine. This applies to the modern business-man whose ceaseless activities drive his heart to dangerous over-stimulation.

The knowledge that shortness of breath, dizziness, faintness, palpitation, cough, pain in the region of the heart, indigestion, swelling of the feet and general weakness may mean a damaged heart, should urge one to seek an examination to determine their significance.

In the presence of these disturbances self medication is worthless and extremely dangerous. The physician, skilled by training and experience, offers the only hope of intelligent management, in that he is the only one equipped to make the proper examination or suggest rational treatment.

JERUSALEM: WHERE THREE FAITHS STRIVE FOR SUPREMACY

Jerusalem, Holy City to adherents of three religions, and recently the scene of bloody riots between Jews and Arabs, is described in a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society which quotes a communication to the society from Major Edward Keith-Roach, O. B. E., deputy district commissioner of Jerusalem division of Palestine.

"The capital of the Land of Three Faiths remains unique, maintaining its position not by towering skyscrapers, Byzantine art, or Roman architecture, but by sheer personality," says Major Keith-Roach. "Centuries of religious fervor, of pilgrimage, of historical event, of great actions, have given it distinction.

Sacred to Jew, Christian and Moslem

"Almost as sacred in the eyes of the Moslems as are Mecca and Medina, Jerusalem is a place of pilgrimage for the Moslem world. For the Jewish people it is the City of Cities, toward which their thoughts ever turn. It is the first city Christians hear of at their mother's knee.

"Jerusalem stands upon two hills, with a slope to the east, facing the sunrise and the desert. Ravines have determined the limits of the city on the east, south and west. Northward the country is more open and the ancient city tended to sprawl in this direction. Today the old, gray-walled city of minarets, towers, and flat roofs dotted with domes is being encompassed by a New Jerusalem, a striking contrast of red roofs, but the valleys on its three sides still keep the modern encroachments at a respectful distance.

"In Palestine all roads lead to the capital. The south road, from Beersheba, Hebron and Bethlehem, joins the city at the Jaffa Gate. Toward the northwest corner of the city wall runs the road from the sea at Jaffa. At the Damascus Gate ends the great north highway, from Nablus, Nazareth and Damascus. Toward the northeast corner, past the Garden of Gethsemane, the serpentine trail climbs the Judean Hills from Jericho and the Dead sea, attaining a height of 2,600 feet above sea level, from 1,300 feet below, in about a score of miles.

"On alighting from a train from Egypt, Jaffa, or Haifa, the first thing to arrest the attention is the name of the station, printed in three official languages—English, Arabic and Hebrew.

"Next, choice must be made of transport, as horse-drawn gharries, saddled donkeys, or at times, aristocratic camels vie with American automobiles for patronage.

Flag of Knights Still Flies

"Taking a car, we ride down the Bethlehem road toward the citadel. On the right, high above the Ophthalmic hospital, flies the flag of the venerable order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem. Eight hundred years ago noble knights and occasionally fair ladies set forth from England, Germany, France, Austria and other parts of Europe to wrest the Holy Land from the Saracens, and under that flag the knights played a great part in the history of the city.

"Here is our first glimpse of the walls. Apart from one inclosing the Haram (the Temple area, containing the Dome of the Rock) which is largely Herodian, they were rebuilt by Sulleman the Magnificent in 1542.

"Down the road we go, past the Sultan's Pool, up to the Jaffa Gate, called by the Arabs 'The Gate of the Friend,' because it looks toward Hebron, the home of Abraham, 'the friend of God.' The citadel, a mighty fortress of five towers, looms high and imposing. The great blocks forming the foundations date from Roman times, but the building itself was probably constructed mainly in the fourteenth century. The street passes the citadel and, through a breach in the wall, enters the Old City.

"Jerusalem is now, as always, a city of many tongues. In the last census 29 linguistic groups were recorded.

"To get an intimate glimpse of Jerusalem, let us enter the Walled City by the Jaffa Gate and make our way down David street on foot.

"In few streets of the Old City are carts or motor cars allowed. So narrow are the covered ways that it would be impossible for such vehicles to pass, even were it not for the steps by which the city streets climb steep hills, once steeper than they are today. As in the Psalmist's time, Jerusalem is 'builded as a city that is compact together.' In times of festival, when the streets are congested with traffic, the sightseers, chiefly women and children, throng the flat roofs.

"Some of these buildings were destroyed or badly cracked in a recent earthquake, but, considering the intensity of the shock in other parts of Palestine, the Holy City escaped lightly.

No Universal Rest Day

"David street is a series of long, shallow, greasy, cobblestone steps, and a good stick with a sharp point is not to be despised. Walking is difficult, as one constantly skirts every sort of bundle borne on men's shoulders or donkey's backs. The world is busy bargaining amid the traffic, so it is best to take time and drift along slowly with the crowd.

"A remarkable feature of the Holy City is that, although each of the three communities has its own weekly day of rest, the city itself never has one, and every day some shops are open.

"Donkeys bearing heavy burdens pass by, pushed and prodded by their drivers, or ridden by little boys who call out ceaselessly, 'Oh-ah, oh-ah!' These children perch upon a saddle on either side of which are fastened old gasoline boxes containing all sorts and conditions of cans made from the ever-present petroleum tins.

"In a modern city, one meets people daily for years without knowing their religious beliefs. This is impossible in Jerusalem. Be he occidental or oriental, every man's religion is known to all and also the fidelity with which he carries out the obligations imposed by his faith.

"The religious festivals bring their own pageantry to the city. There are Moslems with their adherents from northern Africa, India, Afghanistan, Bokhara, Arabia and the Sudan; Christians of all denominations; Latins, including many of the religious orders and the Uniate churches which acknowledge the supremacy of the pope; the eastern churches, which comprise the Orthodox, the Armenian and Syriac, Copts and Abyssinians; the Anglican church; the Jews, divided into Ashkenazim, Sephardim, Karaites, Yemenites, Georgians and Bokharans.

"One of the most interesting sights in Jerusalem is encountered when we descend the steps from the Dome of the Rock and enter an old vaulted building which overlooks the wailing wall. Through a barred window, in deep shadows, we see the ancient wall. A chorus of lamentations beats the air like the wave roar of a distant sea, but from time to time a staccato voice, rising above the others, carries a sound of pulsating, throbbing, poignant sorrow. The voices die away, but each time a fresh burst of lamentation echoes through the vaulted room."

The famous wall is a remnant sixty feet high that has served as a buttress of the old temple area since the middle ages. The holy site of the temple itself has been in the hands of Moslems since the last Crusaders left Jerusalem; and the fragment of the old temple wall marked the nearest approach that Jews were permited to make to the old temple area of Solomon. Therefore, this wall was selected by the Jews as a place at which to lament the overthrow of Jewish nationalism and the loss of the area sacred to their religion.

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—Assuming that the reader was a congressional clerk of just normal vocabulary and powers of pronunciation, what would he do when faced by a page to be read aloud to house or senate and that contained such polysyllabic gems as "paracetaldehyde," "monoethanolamine," "tetrachloroethane" and "diethylbarbituric"?

Or if he met this monstrosity in another page: "dimethylphenylbenzylammonium"? And here's another, "tetramethyldiaminodiphenylmethane!"

Or there's "tetramethyldiaminofbenzophenone" over on the next page, or "phenylglycineortho-carboxylic" back a bit.

That's what the chemical section of the tariff bill looks like. Under coal tar products there is a solid page or two of just such chemical compound names, bristling with x's and z's. It looks like it might be a muster roll of a unit of some Balkan army. Yet the reading clerks are supposed to read every word of it out loud at sight.

And Sundry Others

Sometimes they actually do so; but not often. Once, during a tariff revision row in the senate some years ago when the late Senator Gallinger was majority leader, the reading clerk arrived at this terrifying collection of words and invented a scheme of his own to dodge it.

He started off with the first chemical compound, inserted "and sundry other products," skipped two whole pages of other names and read the proposed new tariff rate for the group.

That was fine, but Senator Gallinger, who was a doctor before he turned politician, wouldn't stand for this disrespectful treatment of names that meant something to him.

He insisted that the section be read in full. The perspiring reading clerk tried to do so and the result of his efforts sent the galleries and the staid senate itself in gales of laughter.

Most of the reading clerks of both houses are veterans, like John Crockett, chief clerk of the senate. Whenever tariff revision gets in sight, they prepare for it, house and senate readers doping out a method for pronunciation of those jaw-wrenching chemical names.

They have found that by dividing these alphabetical wonders into their component parts, using pencil marks, they can at least get by.

So you see them working hard at that job when their hour of trial is approaching. Those marked copies of the bill are precious to the men who have to read them aloud. They would be lost without them.

A Hard Job

A legislative reading clerk's job requires extreme tact and skill anyhow, particularly in the senate.

Crockett is amazingly skilled at it from his long experience. He can skip more and get caught less at it than any of his congressional colleagues. Sometimes he has a sort of game with Senator King of Utah over it.

King insists that each bill be read in full, and sits by to see it done. Crockett drones on and on, but with one eye on King.

Some other senator comes over to talk with King, distracting his attention. Crockett promptly begins jumping lines and half pages at a time, although you could never tell it by the sound of his voice.

When Senator King can get back to check up again, he finds that two or three pages have been covered at impossible speed. He may glare at Crockett, but what can he do about it?

Sunday Morning Talk

The Way of the Cross.

Jesus said, If any man will come after Me let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it and whosoever will lose his life for my sake, shall find it: Matthew 16:12, 25.

It is safe to say that that was the most important and the most supremely clear of statements. You will find an echo of it in every epistle, and you will realize as you look that Christ seems to have determined that whatever else you might misunderstand or forget, they should not this important point. If men wanted to be His followers He was determined that they should know the way. That it meant a cross. "Whosoever doth not bear his cross cannot be my disciple." What does He say, "If any man will lose his life for my sake, he shall find." Find what? do you ask. Find all that makes life really worth living. Happiness, content, peace of soul, efficiency, usefulness—all of these things the man finds who will take up his cross. It seems before hand a dreadful thing and men often shudder as they take it up, but once accepted it turns out to be the direct road to those blessings which crown life. There is your true life, it is the way to find your true life. It is the way to find that day by day you are walking in the footsteps of Christ, and that He is beside you. It is the only way in which you will come to your true self, and when you have put it to the tests, you will be able to say that by laying down your life and giving it up you really find it.

Again and again, men have tried and proved it true. They have tried the way of pleasing self, of seeking for self comfort and ease and met with disappointment; and there are others who have tried the way of the cross, and as they became familiar with the labors of that way they have found that they were dwelling near to Christ; have learned that life was turning out for them to have a meaning, a divine purpose, a glorious and divine content. It is the only way of peace and joy.

Another Sex Problem.

LONDON—When I finally get shot by some disgruntled reader because of the views recorded in this column from time to time, there is one coroner I want to preside when the jury brings in its verdict.

He is J. L. Martin of the old English town of Reading, where the biscuits come from—a man of deep understanding and keen common sense. He has been getting wide publicity recently because of the sagacity of his sayings. What really warmed my heart towards him was an utterance about dangerous motor drivers. He said:

"Women are the worst of the lot."

I salute Mr. Martin. He had the nerve to say something in public which a lot of us have been thinking, but haven't dared to voice. The advent of equal rights for women, and the well known chivalry of man, have kept us silent.

But now we rush to Mr. Martin's support and avow that there is one thing neither chivalry nor enfranchisement can do for the girls, and that is make motor drivers out of them.

Glorious England has been the motorist's dreamland up to this year. Now along come the ladies and wreck the whole show.

Heretofore English women haven't driven cars to any extent. This year however, they have taken to Roman chariot racing in swarms. The roads are full of 'em because it takes only one woman driver to fill an entire highway. The sun is obscured by the wreckage thrown up in their wake.

If you see a car speeding round a blind curve, or persistently on the wrong side of the road, or cutting in and out of a long line of traffic with roaring engine, you can bet safely that the driver is a woman. A man would get lynched for it.

And what a seraphic air of proud achievement the girls wear when they have finally accomplished some foolhardy stunt which would make a mere male turn gray even in the contemplation.

The tragedy of it is that each successive adventure gives the fair one more confidence in her ability. She thinks she is an expert driver, whereas the cold truth is that her life is being saved every 10 minutes by drivers who are experienced enough, and cool headed enough, to get out of her way.

Men motorists over here keep as far away from women drivers as possible. Personally, I always get my car over to the edge of my side of the road when I see a woman coming, and even then I often get forced into the ditch.

What gets me—and I wish somebody would explain this—is why women frequently drive almost straight for an oncoming car. There must be some sort of hypnotism about an approaching motor which they can't withstand.

I have seen this hypnotism, or whatever it is, in evidence innumerable times. No matter how much room a woman has to pass another car, she will head for that car and miss it (maybe) by only the narrowest margin.

Here is a typical example. I passed a woman driver the other day on a highway wide enough to accommodate three big cars abreast. There was no other traffic near us. In accordance with my custom I ran over to the ditch on my side. My lady headed straight for me, missed me by inches, and as she passed at high speed she calmly waved to me to get over still more. There was room enough on the other side of her for an army tank to pass. And I had two wheels in the ditch already.

Well, there you are, girls. But don't shoot yet, because I am talking about English women drivers and not American. I haven't been in the states much for many years, but I am sure that all Yankee girls are expert drivers. I am proud in the knowledge that my country women are very efficient.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Use For County Fair Spending Money

Mr. Editor:—In The Bulletin of Sept. 4th, "Dad" Shaw comments on your editorial of a previous issue regarding the question of what to do with the money we used to spend at the county fair. He didn't offer a bit of advice on how to spend that money, but just was reminiscent of the good old days.

I am going to answer your query direct and tell you that we have a good fair here at North Stonington that can handle that "change." Aside from the horse racing feature we can give you a good fair with all the "fixin's". Vegetables—lots of 'em, poultry—a house full; products of the kitchen, galore and all good; samples of needlework of such merit that you declare the girls still know how to sew, 4-H exhibits that convince you there are lots of boys and girls left on the farms today who will be found there in years to come. Last of all, and better yet, the "Old Home Day" feature where you meet everybody you ever knew and then some.

Come on down—We'll give you a chance to spend that money (or its equivalent) that you used to spend at the county fair. Watch The Bulletin for our advertisement and program.

OREGON LEGHORNS HELD FIRST PLACE FOR WEEK

In the 44th week of the Storrs contest, egg production eased off a bit but at this season of the year that is practically unpreventable in an unculled flock. Even at that, the decline was almost negligible in that it amounted to only one-tenth of an egg per hen. The total for all pens was 3,307 eggs or a yield of better than 47 per cent. The birds are now within easy striking distance of last year's final score with still seven eggs to go.

In common with the entire eastern section of the country, Storrs suffered from the almost intolerable and unprecedented heat of the first few days in September. Official maximum temperatures for the first four days of the monthranged up to 92 degrees which is fairly hot for the open country. Relatively low humidity, however, enabled the hens to stand the gaff, and in consequence there was not a single prostration in the poultry population.

A pen of Leghorns entered by Hanson's Leghorn Farm of Corvallis, Oregon repeated its performance of last week and stayed in first place with a score of 59 eggs. Rhode Island Reds owned by F. S. Chapin of Longmeadow, Mass., rode into second place for the week with a lay of 57 eggs. A pen of Pennsylvania Leghorns bred by Pequoocee Poultry Plant and Charlescote Farm's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Sherborn, Mass., tied for third place with 53 eggs each. R. C. Cobb's pen of Barred Rocks from Littleton, Mass., was right on the tail of the other two pens with a score of 52 eggs.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties:

Barred Rocks—R. C. Cobb, Old Pickard farm, Little, Moss., 2429; Hawes Bros., Union, Maine, 2218; Spring Brook P. farm, South Wethersfield, Conn., 2044.

White Rocks—E. A. Hirt, South Weymouth, Mass., 2010; Davidson Bros., Upton, Mass., 1726.

White Wyandottes— The Locusts, West Cornwall, Conn., 2047; Winlay White Wyandottes, Collinsville, Conn., 2023.

Rhode Island Red—John Z. LaBelle, Ballouville, Conn., 2339; Charlescote farm, Sherborn, Mass., 2321; F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass., 2296; Zephrim LaBelle, Ballouville, Conn., 2199.

NITROUS ETHER SOLD IN CONNECTICUT BELOW MARK

Two drugs in general use, magnesium citrate and spirit of nitrous ether, were found to be highly deficient as sold last year in Connecticut, it was revealed in bulletin No. 307 of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station, the 23rd report on food products and the 21st report on drug products, by Dr. E. H. Bailey, head of the department of analytical chemistry, which has just been published.

Of 27 samples of magnesium citrate collected in various parts of the state, 21 did not meet the standard of the United States Pharmocopeia. Not half of the 24 collected samples of spirit of nitrous ether were found to be of standard quality. Deficiencies in nitrous ether are no doubt largely due to lack of proper precautions to preserve its strength after it is made, the report states.

Five samples of nux vomica were examined and none fully met the standard. Seventeen other drugs were analyzed and most of them were within the legal requirements or showed few deficiencies.

A "diabetic wine" which was claimed to be a "valuable auxiliary in the treatment of diabetes" was found to contain no ingredients likely to substantiate the claim.

Further analyses of "denicotinized" tobacco, which Dr. Bailey, O. L. Nolan and W. T. Mateis began in 1927, were made last year. Tests show that the most effective reduction process still leaves some nicotine. Individual products may show somewhat more than a 50 per cent reduction, but, in general, the "denicotinized" products examined contained nearly two-thirds as much nicotine as the ordinary brands.

Ice cream was found to be far above the requirements of the law in milk fat. Two-thirds of the 273 samples which were analyzed contained about 50 per cent more than the legal minimum of eight per cent.

More than one-half of the official samples of milk tested was found to be This does not reflect the condition of the general Connecticut milk supply; watered, skimmed or below standard, most of the samples were taken on complaint.

POTATO FARMERS USE GOVERNMENT'S "TIPS"

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—(AP)—Michigan farmers who lost heavily by storing their 1928 potato crop are following the government's tips on the best time to market their tubers this year.

Federal observation over a period of 27 years indicate that it rarely pays to hold potatoes in years when the national production exceeds a per capita of 3.3 bushels. The trend in prices usually is upward when national production falls below 3.2 bushels per capita.

Michigan farmers stored about 75 per cent of their crop last fall despite a per capita production in excess of four bushels, and they have taken heavy losses. About a third of the crop never will leave the farm.

FRIDAY WAS ANNIVERSARY OF BATTLE OF GROTON

One hundred and forty-eight years ago Friday the most momentous occurrence for New London and Groton and the greatest military event in the history of Connecticut took place, for on Sept. 6, 1781, the British stormed Forts Griswold and Trumbull and burned the town, as that arch traitor, Benedict Arnold, sat upon his horse at a point near the present site of the Mariners Savings bank and watched the scene, nearly losing his life when a New London woman took a pot shot at him from a window nearby. It is known throughout the world as the Battle of Groton Heights.

The presence of a large amount of valuable stores at the military station in New London attracted the British, and an expedition was fitted up and given to the command of Benedict Arnold, who was thoroughly familiar with the region, his native place having been in the town of Norwich. The main object was the securing or destruction of the valuable military stores in New London. The Episcopal church, the jail, the old battery and market wharf were among the prominent places destroyed in New London in addition to many private homes.

A part of the town's shipping escaped up the river, but all that was accessible was ruined. Bank street was swept almost clean by fire.

At one time during the storming of Fort Griswold Arnold shifted his position and watched from the Antientest Burial ground. Despite the complete annihilation of the force at Fort Griswold, and the possession of New London, Arnold felt his position in New London to be insecure, and probably fearing the well-merited vengeance of the inhabitants, decided to set sail next morning.

In all 65 dwelling houses, 21 stores and warehouses, 18 shops, 20 barns and nine public buildings, besides wharves and shipping, and a large amount of property, both public and private were destroyed.

The most terrible part of the day came during the fighting at Fort Griswold, since known as the "massacre." The battle ended with the surrender by Colonel Ledyard, who thrusting his sword to a British officer, who had asked, "Who commands this fort?" said, "I did, but you do now." Whereupon the British officer rammed the sword through Colonel Ledyard, who fell dead and now lies beneath the spot of his murder. History is not clear as to exactly what British officer committed this act but two were mentioned as being the responsible officers.

Bodies of wounded Continentals were alleged to have been piled like logs in wagons and rolled down the steep hill at Groton.

As late as 1793 part of the sufferers were compensated by congress with lands in the Western Reserve, but few received any adequate return for the losses that were, in many cases, almost complete.

TOWN MEETING QUICKLY VOTES REQUIRED APPROPRIATIONS OF $50,000

At a special town meeting, attended by nine men, Friday evening, the board of selectmen was authorized to borrow $20,000 to pay the town's share of the construction of the new county home authorized last spring, and were also authorized to borrow $30,000 to pay expenses of the town's schools, including the salaries of the teachers and janitors, which will fall due October 1st. It was one of the smallest town meetings on record, indicating that there was little or no interest in the proceedings. This was evidently due to the fact that the business before the meeting was routine.

Besides the presiding officer, Selectman William S. Murray and Town Clerk Harold S. Burt, there were present Town Counsel H. H. Pettis, Tax Collector Harold T. Robinson, Prosecuting Attorney Charles W. Cassidy, Michael J. Kelly, William A. Somers, James P. Sheridan, Daniel T. Shea, Arthur L. Peale and The Bulletin representative. Selectman Murray called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock and Town Clerk Burt read the call. Mr. Murray then called for resolutions to cover the two matters in the warning.

Mr. Kelly presented a resolution, authorizing the board of selectmen to borrow $20,000, which money is to be used to pay the town's share of the erection of the new county home. Mr. Murray explained the resolution by stating that at the close of the last fiscal year, when the budget was prepared, it was not anticipated that the county tax would be any larger than it was the previous year, about $15,000. About the last of August the selectmen were notified that the county tax would be $35,447.64 due September 1st. Mr. Murray notified the county commissioners that the money would not be available September 1st but that if the selectmen could borrow it, the money would be available sometime in September. Mr. Murray stated that the matter was beyond the control of the board of selectmen and has to be paid. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Cassidy then introduced a resolution authorizing the borrowing of a sum not to exceed $30,000 to pay the expenses of the town's schools which will be due before the date of the annual town meeting. Mr. Murray explained that the salaries of the school teachers and janitors will fall due October 1st, and that if this action were not taken there would be no money available until about October 15th. The town election this year occurs October 7th, and the town meeting is usually laid over for a week after the election. The money is to be used for the expenses of the next current year and the loan will be a temporary one, to be paid off during the year, Mr. Murray explained. The resolution was adopted after which the meeting adjourned, having been in session about eight minutes.

NORWICH SENDS $2,000 FOR PALESTINE EMERGENCY

The Norwich committee on the Palestine emergency fund send off a check for $2,000 to David A. Brown, national chairman on Friday, the first money to be sent from here for that cause in response to the appeal to provide financial aid for the sufferers by the Arab atrocities in Palestine.

The total raised here up to Friday by voluntary contributions was $1,870, but Samuel Taylor, local treasurer, advanced the amount needed to make the even $2,000 as the committee is sure that considerably more than that amount will be raised in Norwich.

Saturday night the committee will meet at the Norwich Hebrew institute, 21 Fairmount street, to prepare themselves for a busy Sunday in the work. They have been greatly encouraged by the response to the appeal that has been made so far, but are confident there is still a large amount that will be forthcoming as others send in their money.

The following were additional contributions received Friday:

$10—Morris Goldberg, Lisbon; Jacob Goldberg, A. Friend, David N. Gordon.

$5—Samuel Miller, Saul Goldberg, Saul S. Alofsin, S. Ehrenberg, Benjamin Yoselevsky, Abe Kofman, Hyman Leavitt, Smotritz Bros., Lackenbach's, David Feister, Morris Sussman, Harry Brickman, G. W. Oat ($5.50).

$3—Charles Jacobson, Moe L. Ziegler, Morris Markoff, Morris Fox.

$2—Israel Budnick, Meyer Buckoff, Hyman Rappaport, Barnett Jacobson, William Fox, Louis Weber.

$1—Morris Cohen, David Buckoff.

GOVERNMENTAL EXPENSES ARE EXCEEDING RECEIPTS

Expenditures by counties, towns, cities and other municipalities in Connecticut during 1928 for maintenance of local governments are shown to have been nearly $10,800,000 more than the revenues received by them in the quadrennial report of municipal debt, receipts and expenditures for the state, made public today by Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett. The report is required by statute every four years.

Total current municipal expenditures were $90,868,080, as compared with revenue receipts of only $80,073,431, the report shows. This excess of expenditures over revenues is steadily increasing as shown by comparison with the 1924 report when revenues fell short of expenditures by less than $2,000,000.

The report calls attention to the fact that municipal expenditures during the last four years, exclusive of debt reduction, showed a percentage of increase four times greater than the percentage of population increase. While population in Connecticut increased 8.77 per cent, governmental expenditures locally increased 36 per cent. Expenses are also increasing at a much more rapid rate than tax receipts and grand lists.

The gross interest-bearing debt of Connecticut municipalities in 1928 totalled $133,428,022, an increase of nearly one-third since 1924 when the figures was $100,606,304. The net debt in 1924, amounting to $93,454,970, totalled $124,925,954 in 1928, after sinking funds were deducted.

The cost of operating all the counties, towns, cities, boroughs and fire districts in the state in 1928 was $123,014,472, the report shows. This figure includes current expenses and reduction of debt. The largest item of expenditure, $27,706,848, was for education. For roads and bridges, local governments spent $16,958,186, and payment of interest on debt required an outlay of $5,480,031.

For police protection of towns, cities, etc., there was spent $4,505,151, and for fire departments $4,938,950. Salaries and administrative expenses totalled $3,810,393. In sanitation and health, $3,369,895, was spent, and the cost of maintenance and capital expenditures for public buildings was $5,700,105. In the operation of municipal water works, it is shown that receipts were $3,445,993, and expenses $4,386,697.

Four Towns Debt Free.

Four towns in the state have the enviable condition of being free from debt. They are Andover, Avon, Goshen and Scotland. In addition the boroughs of Bantam, Branford, Newtown, and Unionville and the counties of New London and Middlesex have no debt. Twenty-six fire districts are also in the same class.

The report is replete with detailed analysis of statistics bearing on municipal finance. There is a comparison of expenses, population, tax rates, tox receipts, debt, etc., of every municipality.

It is shown that the town having the largest net debt is Waterbury with a total of $18,220,749. The net debt of a number of the larger cities and the amount spent last year in interest on borrowed money is shown to be as follows:

	Net Debt	1927-28 Interest on Debt
Waterbury	$18,220,749	$771,358
Bridgeport	14,825,000	647,514
New Haven	12,586785	572,830
Hartford	12,476,099	549,035
New Britain	6,702,781	316,284
Norwich	3,397,251	165,150

Middletown	1,007,790	39,157
Torrington	887,872	50,712
Danbury	691,254	31,987

Other Comparisons.

Waterbury, with a figure of $172.14, has the highest per capita debt, while the borough of Colchester, with a record of 42 cents and Norfolk with 49 cents per inhabitant, run in close competition for the lowest per capita debt.

In the matter of per capita current expenses, it is shown that Darien has the largest figure, with a record of $120.05 being spent annually in current expenses for each inhabitant. The town of Union is second, with $111.23, and Norfolk third, with $104.94.

The per capita current expense in Hartford is $72.71; Bridgeport, $61.97; New Haven, $54.08; Waterbury, $73.10. The lowest current expense per capita is in Preston, with a figure of $10.27.

Hartford has the largest total current expenses, its 1927-28 cost being $11,837,457, exclusive of money paid in debt reduction. New Haven has the largest total expense including debt reduction. Comparison of several of the larrer cities follows:

Total receipts including borrowing, Hartford, $12,870,870; total expenditures including debt reduction, $12,499,103; current expenses less debt reduction, $11,937,457; New Haven, $13,421,044, $13,811,378, $9,198,278; Bridgeport, $10,498,972, $10,750,050, $9,482,050; Waterbury, $13,012,513, $13,181,293, $7,914,293.

Hartford Educational Costs Lead.

For educational purposes, Hartford spent the most, having a 1928 outlay of $3,784,874. Other cities follow: New Haven, $3,309,585; Bridgeport, $2,237,357; Waterbury, $1,759,661; New Britain, $1,171,246; Meriden, $636,045; Norwalk, $471,031; Bristol $358,175; New London, $492,691.

In the protection of life and property through fire and police departments, the following expense is shown:

Hartford, fire department, $825,422; police department, $905,351; New Haven, $777,722, $554,661; Bridgeport, $1,062,088, $760,395; Waterbury, $496,161, $395,410; New Britain, $239,226, $220,139.

There is an urgent need, Commissioner Blodgett points out, of more uniformity in municipal accountips. Many towns operate under antiquated bookkeeping methods, he says, and their accounts fail to show essential information. He recommends that a standard system of accounting and budgeting be required to statute. Incomplete annual municipal reports were found in many municipalities, and the tax commissioner urges that these give way to concise and accurate statements of municipal affairs in justice to the taxpayers.

UPHEAVAL IS REPORTED IN DEMOCRATIC RANKS

An upheaval in the democratic party in Norwich is reported, which will bring about a new alignment in the town committee when it is elected by the party caucus. The "old guard" is to be made to walk the plank, new leadership is to be put at the head of the town committee, new blood infused among its membership and an effort made to nominate candidates who it is hoped by the party leaders will stand some chance of breaking the solid republican ranks in town and city government offices.

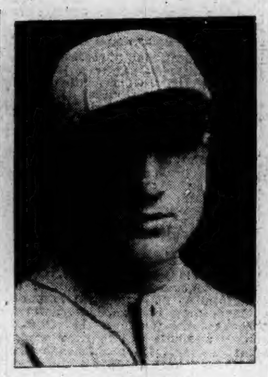
FIRST GAME OF INTER-CITY BASEBALL SERIES AT HOLLYHOCK ON SUNDAY

FRED "RED" FAGAN



ANSO TOMBARI

Probable Lineups

Socony	Smoke Shop
Burns, 3b	1b, Fagan
Foote, 2b	ss, Gibbs
Couillard, cf	rf, A. Tombari
Barry, ss	2b, Ph. Tombari
Cragan, c	cf, Sadinsky
Harran, rf	3b, Cummings
Hewitt, 1b	lf, Fitzgerald
Beany, lf	c, P. Tombari
Daniels, p	p, Santos

The above lineups appear to be the ones that will start in the first game of the inter-city industrial baseball championship between the Socony team of New London and the Smoke Shop team of Norwich, at Hollyhock Island Sunday afternoon. The game is scheduled to be called at 3 o'clock.

From a close scrutiny of the lineups it would seem that the teams are well matched and names prominent in eastern Connecticut baseball for the past few years appear in each team. Burns, Couillard, Barry, Hewitt and Daniels of the Socony outfit are especially well known in Norwich having played here with various teams. Burns, Couillard and Barry have played with the Riverview team and the J. B. Martin team while Daniels played with Bulkeley and Hewitt with Chapman tech.

Daniels will probably be the pitching selection for Sunday's game although the Socony has two other star hurlers in Chappell and Taylor. Cragan, who catches for the Socony, is former catcher for Stonington high school.

The Smoke Shop has a formidable team but is a team of younger players than the New London club. Fagan, Gibbs and Anso Tombari are high school boys while Sadinsky and Pheno Tombari are college players. The Smoke Shop, like the Socony team, is well fortified with pitchers, having Babe Santos, property of the Boston Braves, Pete Lucier and Ell Segal. They will also have Lloyd Jarvis who may be used in an outfield position.

Bill McKnight, Dusty league umpire, will officiate at the game which will insure efficient arbitration. The Smoke Shop team now has a board of strategy which has been scouting the Socony team since the series was first talked of and apparently has the low-down on the Oilmen.

WESTERLY, Sept. 6 — Arrangements have been completed for an inter-club match on Sunday on the links of the Winnapaug Golf club on the Shore road between a team representing that club and the Norwich Country club. For this event the new nine holes which were closed to play after Labor day will be opened again.

According to present plans the match will start at 10 o'clock in the morning and it is expected that there will be at least sixteen players on each team.

Capt. A. Barclay Robertson of the Winnapaug team announced that the personnel of his team would be chosen from the following players: Frank G. Ahern, C. Leo Higgins, James W. McCormick, Samuel H. Davis, M. Walter Flynn, Dr. William Veal, Edmund P. Hyde, Edward J. Butler, Archie Meikle, A. W. Bell, William Crandall, George Mitchell, Clarence E. Roche, Don M. Dickenson and Maurice Nye.

MANDELL TAKES ONE-SIDED BOUT FROM VICENTINI

CHICAGO, Sept. —(AP) — Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, scored a one-sided triumph over Luis Vicentini one of the new ranking contenders, in their ten round non-title contest in the Chicago stadium tonight. Mandell defeated the Chilean in every round.

The ease with which Mandell turned back the South American blasted any hopes Vicentini might have had for a match with the title at stake.

Vicentini was dangerous for the first five rounds, but from then on to the finish, he seemed to regard his task as hopless, and Mandell gave him the boxing lesson of his life.

The lightweight champion title was not at stake as they agreed to come in over the weight.

BUFFALO TEAM WINS AMERICAN LEGION TITLE

TAYLOR RESIGNS AS CHAPMAN TECH COACH

E. Stanley Taylor, athletic director at Chapman Technical high school in New London for nine years and one of the foundgrs of the high school league in this section, has resigned his position and will enter Teachers college at Columbia university, where he will put in a year of resident work to acquire a degree of doctor of philosophy in education. This became known Friday. The resignation was submitted during the last school year to take effect at the end of the 1928-29 session.

The Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic council, which has since grown into a conference of ten schools, was organized in 1920 by Mr. Taylor, Edward G. McKay, athletic director at the Academy and Milton J. Phillips, coach at Bulkeley high of New London. Mr. Taylor was the first president and has also served as secretary for many years.

It was not until recent years that Taylor had assistants. During his nine years at the helm Tech teams, competing for 39 championships, have won 21, better than half. They have won four out of nine football titles, five out of nine in track, eight out of eight in basketball, (although one of these was very synthetic, namely, that of 1926, when the Academy was robbed through a technicality) three out of four in cross-country but only one out of nine in baseball.

Taylor's home is in Norwalk and he is unmarried.

PALFREY SISTERS WIN GIRLS' DOUBLES TITLE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept 6—(AP)—The Palfrey sisters of Boston, Sarah and Mianne won the girl doubles tennis championship of the United States today for the third time.

The Palfreys defeated Helen Marlowe, of Hollywood, Cal., and Carolin Babcock, Los Angeles, 6-2, 5-7, 6-2, in the final round on the turf courts of the Philadelphia Cricket club.

For achieving this national honor, gained by them in 1926 and 1928, the "little Palfreys" will have their names inscribed on the huge challenge cup, a perpetual trophy, which stood in all its shining glory filled with pink roses on a table beside the championship court. The winners will receive tiny reproductions of the trophy.

BATTALINO-ROUTIS BATTLE DEFINITELY SET FOR SEPT. 23

HARTFORD, Sept. 6—(AP)—The 15 round battle between Bat Battalino of Hartford and Andre Routis for the featherweight championship of the world has been postponed from September 12 to September 23. The postponement was made at the request of Routis, who insisted that he be given ten additional days in which to get into condition.

Routis says that he has never been in his best fighting condition since he defeated Tony Canzoneri for the title but he is determined to be at his best against the dangerous and hard-hitting Battalino and could not reach the peak of condition without the ten days of training.

DUNDEE TO BOX AGAIN UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—(AP)—Joe Dundee, former welterweight champion, announced today that he will return to the fistic wars within a few weeks under new management.

The Baltimore Italian will do his fighting for the next two years under the direction of James J. Johnston, Dundee said he blamed the loss of his title on poor management and hopes to fight his way back to the crown after a month's rest in Hot Springs, Ark., Dundee lost the welterweight crown a few weeks ago to Jackie Fields of Los Angeles in Detroit.

COFFMAN BLANKS TORONTO WITH ONE SOLITARY HIT

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 6—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs 3 to 0 today in an exhibition game played before the Toronto's regular International league contest. Dick Coffman, the Brownie hurler, was cheated out of a perfect game when Sweeney singled in the fifth inning. It was the only hit Coffman granted. The score:

St. Louis (A. L.)	000 020 010	3	9 0

FINAL GAME OF JUNIOR SERIES TODAY

The final and deciding game of the series between the Taftville American Legion and Shyma clubs to determine the championship of Taftville will be played at the Providence street grounds at the village this afternoon. In a double bill, played Labor day, each of the competing clubs won a verdict and go into the deciding game of the "crucial series" with an even break. As has been previously announced the winner of the series will later meet the Holy Name club of Jewett City for the junior championship of Eastern Conn., held at the present time by the Legionaires.

Inasmuch as both clubs have good followings at the village it is expected that one of the largest turnouts of the season will be on hand for the clash. Both are confident of coming through on the long end and will put up their hardest fight of the year in view of the fact that there is so much at stake. Although neither club has made a definite announcement regarding its starting pitcher it is probable that either Paradis or Liberty will start for the Legion and either Lefty Lucier or Lemieux for the Shymas. The game will start at 3 o'clock sharp. The probable starting lineups:

Shyma	American Legion
Ulewics, 3b	c, W. Sydlo
Wilk, lf	cf, Murphy
P. Raymond, 2b	3b, Breen
Lucier, cf	1b, Perry
Benoit, rf	ss, Navick

Norwich vs. New London once again Sunday.

The Smoke Shop team and the Socony team clash for the industrial baseball championship of New London county. Looks like it was a clash between smoke and oil.

For the past three or four years Norwich has had something on the Whalers in athletics, baseball especially, through the glorious achievements of the Academy baseball team.

Now, Sunday's game would remind one of the Academy-Bulkeley games of a few years ago. The Smokers have three or four Academy stars in their lineup while the Oilers have Tillie Daniels, Bulkeley hurler.

This game coming as it does should settle the much muted question of what would the Academy team of 1929 have done against the famous Bulkeley team of which Daniels was the main pitching stay.

Facing Daniels on Sunday will be four of the Academy leaders of the 1929 team, Chubby Gibbs, Hal Cummings, Red Fagan and Anso Tombari. Their work against Daniels will be closely watched. Sadinsky has batted against the famed Daniels on several occasions.

Their work in Sunday's game will go a long way toward giving the fans an answer to the question regarding the relative merits of the former Academy teams and the one of last year.

The keenest rivalry has developed over-night regarding the series between the two cities. And it is hoped it will not be a duplicate of some of the athletic contests of 20 years ago.

I can remember when Norwich and New London teams met in football or baseball it was the occasion of a battle royal that extended to the entire citizenry. Many was the black eye sported by loyal supporters of the teams.

If there was no fight at the game it was a sure sign that the game was a flop. A real good game included at least three arrests, six or seven bang up good-fist fights and a near riot. But that is gone forever, thank goodness.

Good luck to you, Smoke Shop.

PHILADELPHIA WOMEN TO BATTLE FOR TENNIS CROWN

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6—(AP)—Two Philadelphians, Miss Virginia Hilleary and Mrs. C. C. Madeira, today reached the finals in the women's middle states tennis championship, and will meet tomorrow for the title. Mrs. Molla Mallory, who won the championship last year, is not defending it.

Miss Hilleary defeated Olive Wade, women's champion of Canada, 6-2, 6-2 in the semi-final round. Mrs. Madeira, who was not seeded, caused an upset when she defeated Miss Cecilia Riegel, Germantown Cricket club, 9-7, 6-3, in the other semi-final.

ROBINS DIVIDE TWIN PROGRAM WITH PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 6 —(AP)— The Robins opened their final western trip of the season by dividing two games with Pittsburgh here today. Brooklyn won the opener by 6 to 5 when hits were bunched on Burleigh Grimes, but the Pirates hit hard in the nightcap to gain the decision by 8 to 1. The first game was Grime's fifth defeat against seventeen victories.

With a home run and two singles in seven times at bat in the two games, Babe Herman added a fraction of a point to his lead in his race with Frank O'Doul of Philadelphia for the batting championship. O'Doul was idle. Herman's average now is .3931 and O'Doul's .3925.

WILLING AND JOHNSTON TO BATTLE FOR AMATEUR GOLF TITLE AT PEBBLE BEACH

PEBBLE BEACH, Cal., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Harrison R. "Jimmy" Johnston, investment broker of St. Paul, Minn., and Dr. Oscar F. Willing, dentist of Portland, Oregon, neither of whom has ever reached the finals before, will fight it out tomorrow for the 33rd amateur golf championship of the United States.

As a result, either the great Pacific northwest or the broad plains of the middle west will acclaim the next successor to the south and Bobby Jones, out of the finals for the first time in si years.

Johnston, playing the steadiest golf of his career, advanced to the deciding round by conquering the veteran 1914 champion, Francis Ouimet, of Bisto six and five in today's semi-finals. Dr. Willing defeated Henry Chandler Egan, of Medford, Ore., 4 and 3, after withstanding a sensational closing challenge by the 45 year old ex-champion in the afternoon round of the match.

Johnston, leading all the way, was never less than four up after the ninth hole and ended the match on the 31st green in the afternoon. It was not until the 33rd hole that Dr. Willing was able to gain the decision over his fighting fellow Oregonian, Egan, who went down in a blaze of glory if any golfing veteran ever did.

Although it was in vain, Egan put on the most dramatic thrill of the entire tournament when he cut more than half of Willing's margin away in the afternoon. Willing was eight up as he overwhelmed his rival in the morning round became nine up at the 19th and retained that margin at the 20th but from there on he had the battle of his life to stand off the spectacular comeback of the man who wore the amateur crown exactly 25 years ago.

From a tired, badly whipped veteran who seemed to be just going through the motions, Egan suddenly came to life, won four holes in a row as the big gallery broke into a tumult of applause and cut Willing's margin from nine up at the 20th to only four up at the 27th.

It was mostly a battle of stymies over that exciting stretch, as Willing's game cracked for the time being from his rival's desperate comeback.

This smashing challenge, however, seemed to have sapped most of Egan's reserve and he was unable to do more than prolong the match for six more holes. Willing steadied, won the 29th to go five up again. With a chance to clinch the contest on the 31st he put his second in a trap and took two to get out. Now four up and five to go, Willing took no chances. He halved the next two holes in par figures. Egan's last chance fading when he failed to get down a long putt on the 33rd.

All the big moments of the Willing-Egan match were packed into outgoing nine of the afternoon round. In the morning, the battling dentist played flawless golf to take the commanding lead that, as it turned out, he needed. He reeled off the first 18 in 73, one over par, to Egan's approximate 83 and there was not much argument.

Johnston, with the greatest opponent he has ever faced in a national championship played with too much determination and skill for even so seasoned a foe as Ouimet, champion 15 years ago and a semi-finalist six times in the last ten years. The St. Paul sharpshooter let loose a barrage from the outset that had Ouimet four down at the first turn and six down at the 11th hole. Only the most courageous sort of work enabled Ouimet to make it a fight from then on. The Bostonian succeeded in slicing two holes from this margin before the end of the round as he finished the last four holes in even par.

Johnston continued his steady play in the afternoon. He had his irons under fine control and putted even more consistently than Ouimet, who has been famous for years for his work on the greens. At the 27th, Johnston was again six up. Ouimet, with a long putt for a birdie on the 28th, regained a hole but after halving the next two, met his finish on the 31st. There the Bostonian was trapped off the tee and again in a sand-bunker on his second shot, short of the green. He came out short, ran a long putt dead to the hole but Johnston, well on in two got down in two putts to decide the match.

Thus 33 year old "Jimmy" Johnston, long one of the game's most popular figures, and 39 year old "Doc" Willing go on into the final of the championship in which neither before has been able to go beyond the third round. They are the survivors of a battle which has seen favorites drop right and left—the four time champion, Bobby Jones, going out in the first round and the British titleholder, Cyril Tolley, in the third round.

Tolley was among the victims of Dr. Willing, who also eliminated another Briton, T. A. Bourn, and Danny Songster, of Los Angeles in his march to the final. Johnston, in succession, disposed of John De Paolo of Bakersfield, Cal. Then Roland Mackenzie of Washington, D. C., and George Voight of New York.

That the manager of the J. B. Martin baseball club is a glutton for getting tough games for his club is evidenced by the fact that he has booked the famous Philadelphia Colored Giants, champions of the country as the opponents for his gang of ball hawks at the J. B. Martin grounds Sunday. Manager Eriback is not picking any set-up clubs for his team to play and the Velvetmen are experiencing the toughest schedule ever encountered by the J. B. Martin nine. Sunday's game is going to be one of the hardest games of the present season as the visitors are out to continue on their winning streak and a defeat at the hands of the local club will be quite some setback to their aspirations.

The Giants to date have won 98 games lost 21 games and tied 4. In the last 30 starts have won 30 straight games, holding the record for road clubs, playing to capacity crowds in all cities. This club has toured the United States the past five years and is famous for their clean sportsmanship In basketball they hold the world's colored championship defeating the Famous Renaissance two out of three. Their drawing power in sports is way above all road clubs. After this season closes the Giants journey to Cuba where they play all the Cuban leagues. The Giants will be a team that will leave its impression upon the local fans for some time to come. Little is needed to be said in regards to this visiting club. A glance at their lineup will convince the fans that this aggregation has some mighty good ball players on its roster. Come early and see the shadow baseball practice worth the admission alone.

Manager Eribeck is putting the strongest team on the field that he can assemble. For the mound duty he has Boner, Fisher and "Lefty" Dugas. Murphy or Eccleston will be on the receiving end. "Lefty" Smith will be seen back in the lineup on Sunday with the rest of the lineup same as in previous games. Morin and Simcox will officiate. Game called 3:15 sharp.

KOZAK AND TURNESA IN P. G. A. FINALS

FLUSHING, N. Y., Sept. 6—(AP)—Walter Kozak, surprising young professional from North Hills, and Joe Turnesa, veteran of America's Rider cup forces, will meet tomorrow in the 36 hole final round for the metropolitan professional golf championship over the links of the Pomonok Country club.

Kozak eliminated Gene Sarazen, defending champion, in a brilliant semi-final match 3 and 2 today, shooting the first nine in 33 strokes, three under par, while Sarazen took 34 and still found himself one down. Kozak increased his lead, fighting off Sarazen's bid on the second nine, and won the match with a birdie three on the sixteenth.

Johnnie Farrell, former open champion, bowed to Turnesa, one down on the eighteenth green as Turnesa shot a 68 to Farrell's 71. Farrell was four down at the 12th after Turnesa negotiated the first nine in 32, but his rally on the final nine could not match Turnesa's perfect golf.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

A half century ago this week the Delanoy fire engine company, then one of the prominent volunteer fire companies of the city, was re-organized, the new company comprising the best members of the old company and first class volunteers. The same week residents of "Scalpingtown," then known as one of the toughest districts of Norwich, notified the city council that if the city did not accept Oakridge street, as a public highway, that they would refuse to pay future taxes. The petition was laid on the table by the council. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of the first week in September, 1879, follow:

COLUMBIA

The first meeting of the grange after the summer was held Wednesday evening in the town hall. The general subject of the lecturer's program was "Vacations." Each gave a short description of an interesting thing seen this summer and there were several readings. The closing number was a shadow picture, "Fishing on Sunday," by Clayton E. Hunt and Clayton E. HE SUFFERED FOR TEN YEARS

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Relief in 2 Months — Doctor Recommended It

Constipation is dreaded not only for its own insidious self, but because of the many serious conditions and diseases it causes. Mr. Lind was a sufferer—but read how he found relief.

"For the past 10 years I have suffered from piles. At times I have been unable to work. I have tried suppositories, ointments, etc., but to no avail.

"Two months ago my grocer called my attention to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I began taking it regularly. Immediately the pain and annoyance from the piles was relieved. I found that it requires very little ALL-BRAN to give nature a fair chance to effect a cure."—WALTER J. LIND, R. 2, Box 137, Appleton, Wis.

Don't neglect constipation. At any time its poisons may take terrible toll from your health and well-being. Protect yourself. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly—two tablespoonfuls daily, or in chronic cases, with every meal. ALL-BRAN brings sure, natural relief. It is what doctors call a bulk food. It sweeps the intestine clean and stimulates normal action.

Ready-to-eat with milk or cream. Also try the recipes on the package. Results guaranteed. Doctors recommend it because it is 100% bran. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served in hotels, restaurants, and dining cars. Sold by all grocers.

We Offer Better Toast

To Every Woman
Who Tries This New-Day Bread

Now those who want faultless toast can get it

BY ALICE ADAMS PROCTOR

MILLIONS of American homes now enjoy toast a better way.

Today their toast is always the same. It never varies.

It is even, golden brown. Never scorched. Never a burned edge. It's faultless toast, and they get it every time.

It's a new-day bread that makes toast this way. It's called "Wonder Bread," and please remember that is what you must always ask for.

Will You Test It?

Many women sceptical of what we claim have been won by toasting this Wonder Bread in direct comparison with other brands. This we urge you to do, knowing what you will find. Even golden brown. No scorched edges. Every slice is perfect. Every time.

* * *

Cost Us $6,000,000

We spent two years in its development. It cost us $6,000,000. Today it is the largest-selling bread in America

It is baked by matchless chefs working in immaculate model kitchens. They use only tested ingredients.

They use only a specially milled "short patent" flour made from the heart of the wheat berry. They use double the usual amount of milk, and they pasteurize every drop. Extremely costly ingredients these. But they do give a better bread. So we benefit through tremendous extra sales.

Also they employ a unique baking method. Wonder Bread is "slo-baked." A method that brings you greater digestibility. More delicate flavor. Longer-lasting freshness.

Please Try At Once

So do, please, as the country's wisest women did. Try this new-day bread immediately. Remember to say "Wonder Bread" distinctly.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall or Liggett Drug Store.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY
"Poor Old Dad."

Ye can sca'ce pick up a paper
An' its "poet's corner" greet,
'Cept we'll see a pirty poem
'Bout the mother, saintly, sweet:
But we'll have a time, I say—
Eyes will be ar-achin' bad
Ere ye'll overtake a poem
At this time for pore old dad:

No, it isn't willful in 'em—
Them that write of mother dear—
That thar's never notice taken
Of her old man settin near.
No, it's never meant to slight him
But hit looks a little sad—
All the boquets made for mothers,
Not a bloom for pore old dad;

True our mother watched above us
'Till her gray old eyes would ache,
But old dad he humped to feed us
'Till his back would nearly break.
Mother crooned above the cradle,
Gave devotion, all she had;
Still there wasn't any circus
At this time for pore old dad:

Do not take one line from mother
When you write the soul sweet song,
But if thar's a word for father
Now and then it won't be wrong.
Pore old dad; 'twould make him glad
If, while you are praisin' mother,
Somethin's said for pore old dad.

The Story of a Kicker.

There lived two frogs, so I've been told,
In a quiet wayside pool;
And one of those frogs was a blamed bright frog
But the other frog was a fool.

Now a farmer man with a big milk can
Was wont to pass that way.
And he used to stop and add a drop
Of the aqua pura, they say.

And it chanced one morn in the early dawn.
When the farmer's sight was dim.
He scooped those frogs in the water he dipped.
Which same was a joke on him.

The fool frog sank in the swashing tank.
As the farmer bumped to town.
But the smart frog flew like a tug-boat screw.
And swore he'd not go down.

So he kicked and splashed and he slammed and thrashed.
And he kept on trop through all;
And he churned that milk in first class shape
In a great big butter ball.

Now when the milkman got to town.
And opened the can, there lay
The fool frog drowned; but hale and sound.
The kicker he hopped away.

MORAL

Don't fret your life with needless strife.
Yet let this teaching stick:
You'll find, old man, in the world's big can
It sometimes pays to kick.

The Washer Girl

No time has she, the washer girl,
Her dress to trim, her hair to curl.
To read her books, or write.
For whether summer breezes play,
Or wild and wintry is the day,
She toils from morn to night.

Her graceful arms are chaped and bare,
And dark the hands that would be fair
If life were less severe.
The while she rubs and boils and wrings
Her blue eyes sparkle and she sings
Some simple song of cheer.

Deep in the bubbles, round and bright,
She views her cheerful face;
Her arms, though red and bare they be,
Show in the bubbles prettily,
Their rounded tapering grace.

And oft I think how patiently,
We our burdens should receive,
And whether high or low it be,
Or dark and drear, or fair and free,
Should never idly grieve.

But follow in the steps of One
Who teacheth little Mary Bond
Of life and love the way,
And every other humble heart
How patiently to bear its part
Though dark may be the day.

The Old Kitchen Clock

The old kitchen clock, gaze on it now,
To me is ever dear;
Its busy hands have told the time
For many a long, long year.
In boyhood days, those moments gone,
I saw its welcome face,
And listened to its gentle tick
While standing in this place.

Chorus

'Twas ticking, ticking, ticking, ticking,
Ticking night and day,
I love to hear is as of old,
When it ticked the time away.

The old, old clock I love to see,
It looks like olden time
In this old kitchen of my sire,
When he was in his prime.
It brings to me some happy thoughts
That I would still retain;
There let it stand—oh, may it e'er
A treasure long remain.

The old, old clock, the kitchen clock,
Of thee I love to sing.
Thou art a relic of the past
Well worth remembering.
Tick on, tick on, the selfsame way,
Though scattered are the flock
That loved to hear the ticking once.
Thou dear old kitchen clock.

TRIP TO WHITE MOUNTAINS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Through the kindness of Beers and her husband, friend husband and myself have just returned from a delightful trip to the White mountains and we had such a wonderful time I feel as if I must pass it along to the Social Corner sisters. We left home early Saturday morning, before sunrise. As we drove into the country the land for was very dense and cold but as the sun rose and the fog lifted it was a beautiful sight to look at the hills and trees in the distance. At times the fog would look like a large lake surrounded by trees. We soon left Connecticut and entered Massachusetts where the scenery is indeed beautiful and the villages and cities through which we passed busy and prosperous looking. We crossed Massachusetts and entered New Hampshire and stopped at a wayside tourists' camp where we had dinner and a rest. I had thought Connecticut and Massachusetts beautiful but of all the states I have ever visited I think New Hampshire the prettiest. Several things impressed me. One was the neat appearance of the farm places. In nearly every instance the houses were neatly painted clean and well kept lawns and the most gorgeous flower gardens I have seen anywhere. Another thing I noticed was the large number of filling stations and as we got nearer the mountains the sandy shores of the rivers and streams and the sandy beaches of the lakes, also the size and number of lakes. It seemed the nearer the mountains we got, every house had something to offer the tourists, either food, candy, home-made rugs, antique furniture or rooms. Some of the signs were unusual and unique. One I noticed at an antique shop was very appropriate and would surely be seen. It was a group of figures dressed in very old costumes representing a lady and child calling on a friend, with a colored servant waiting nearby for his mistress' orders. I have never seen so many railroad crossings anywhere and it's a wonder that there are not more accidents than there are as very few autoists stop or even slow down to see if any trains are coming. We drove until 4 o'clock and then thought we would try and find shelter for the night but that was easier said than done, as not one cabin did we find that could be had. However, after driving a few miles we secured rooms at a farm house with every convenience and very comfortable beds. As we planned to have our meals in true camper's style, Beers and I set about getting supper. After eating we were all ready to call it a day and retire for the night, get what sleep we could and start early Sunday morning. We left this place Sunday at about 7 o'clock, drove about an hour and reached Franconia Notch. Here we stopped and saw the Indian's head, and visited the flume. If any of the sisters are planning a trip to the mountains do not miss this, as it's the most wonderful natural scenery I have ever seen. I hardly thought I could make the trip to the top but perservered and was very glad I did. We had to climb three quarters of a mile on a board walk to reach the summit. There the water cascades down over a ledge the entire three quarters of a mile. From here we came back to the pool, also purchased some souvenirs for the home folks, saw three large black bears that were chained up, but they seemed kind of gentle and many tourists were feeding them candy and apples. I have never seen so much traffic in my life. There were cars from every state in the union but there were plenty of state police to keep the traffic moving. From this place we went on to Profile lake and saw the old man of the mountains. No pen can describe the grandeur of the mountains from this place. We drove on for a number of miles, made camp, took a short rest and had dinner; then on to Mount Washington. Here we met some folks from our home town, the first we had seen that we knew since leaving Connecticut. By this time we thought it time to secure a place for the night and were indeed fortunate to get a place to sleep as many had to make camp beside the road and some even slept on blankets by the roadside and sitting up in cars. We started for home Monday morning about 6 o'clock over the same route we had gone, stopping along the way to get dinner and supper and reached home about 7:30 p. m., having driven more than 680 miles, tired but but having had the nicest trip of our lives and my husband and myself extend our heartfelt thanks to Beers and husband for making it possible for us to have such a wonderful holiday. After hearing of two fatal accidents in my home town it seems almost a miracle that in all the traffic we saw but one acident. That was a truck that overturned, but think no one was injured. Best wishes to all.

HINTS FOR AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHERS

Dear Social Corner: I suppose there are many enthusiastic photographers in the Corner and doubtless many who know much more about the subject than I. However, here are a few hints which I have gained from reading and experience:

Mothers of young children are especially fond of taking pictures perhaps because their victims are more helpless to resist, though when one has spent valuable time in trying to persuade a lively baby to stay quiet just one moment this theory doesn't hold exactly true. But children change so from month to month and as we are with them constantly to recall just how they looked at any one time is difficult. One's snap shots bring the little incidents and changes that have faded from our minds back again and when one looks over his collections a few years later, one is somehow convinced the time and money is well spent.

One can learn a lot from looking over one's own snapshots. For instance in many pictures the results would have been more pleasing had the background been chosen with a little more care. The clapboarded side of a house looming large behind a close up of a person, or animal is not very attractive though at certain distances, it might be all right.

Occasionally a tree branch, or trunk of a tree may seem, because of the position, to be growing directly from the head or shoulders of the subject.

Bare trellises making sharp outlines and shadows should be avoided.

When taking close ups, if a hand, arm, or leg of the subject is extended much beyond the body toward the camera it will appear abnormally large.

Remember to look beyond the subject to be photographed when making your picture and bear in mind that whatever you see in the finder will be included in your snapshot.

Story telling pictures are many, times the most interesting. Few of us, grownups or children, find it easy to assume a natural expression when told to face the camera and to look pleasant, please. If taking the picture of a child, get his interested in looking at something or engaged in some fascinating activity. I find it particularly helpful to notice well arranged pictures of this type in magazines, books, etc. Right away, ideas of your own as to arrangement will pop into your head and thus you can add variety to your picutres.

This summer I purchased, for 50 cents, a portrait attachment for my Brownie, it is a little disc that slips on over the lens and keeps the subject in focus at close range. Result is a large clear picture without the blur one usually gets in a closeup. Small objects such as flowers can be pictured to advantage and one can use it either for a snapshot or time exposure but the distance from the subject must be three and one-half feet.

The Kodak sky filter (price 75c.) is attached in same way and gives one better views in any landscape that includes cloud formations.

Canterbury Bell: Your letter about protection of birds was fine. The quail is one of our favorites and all through the summer they are so gentle flying up from the orchard and scurrying along the road. Too bad such useful little things have so many enemies. Write us about your ideas for a bird club.

Indian Traveler: Many thanks for the information about Nipmuck path.

BO PEEP.

ADDING TO THE BIRTHDAYS

Dear Editor and Social Corner friends: The last of our summer months will be gone for this year before this letter reaches the office. Tomorrow will be my birthday and as Little Benny says, "It is 'painful' to think of it sometimes for the years roll round so fast and before we hardly begin to realize it a year has slipped away and another year is added to my long list." I am sending "Pane and Piezzure," by Little Benny. Perhaps it will cause a laugh on some sad and gloomy face as some one thought there should be more funny things written up for the Social Corner page.

"Every day is mixed up with partly plezzure and partly pane. It is paneful to wawk to skool in the morning but it is plezzant to wawk away from it in the afternoon with one more day's education in your brane.

"It is plezzant to spend your money in a candy store and paneful to think of diffrent more permanent things you could of bawt with it after the candy is lost in your stummick.

"It is pane to be hungry with supper nod reddy yet, and plezzure to smell swell smells coming out of the kitchin at the same time.

"But too much plezzure is libel to get paneful, and if you laff hard enough you will proberly get a pane in the side with nuthin; funny about it.

"Whats plezzure for some is pane for others, such as when some kid wawks pass you eating a ice cream cone when thats just the very thing you wish you was doing yourself ony you haven't got the money.

"The thawt of some things is their most paneful part, such as when you have a splinter some place and your mother is looking at it and pointing the point of a needle at it without even touching it yet. This proves it would be a convenient thing if we could ston our imagination from werking whenever it wasent imagining any fun for us.

"One of the most paneful sensations is having the hot water come out of the shower when you are underneath expecting the cold, and one of the most plezzant is sticking your face in a whole tomato at a picknick."

ANTENNA.

CORNER MIGHT REPLACE FAIRS

Dear Editor and Sisters: Some one says "Why don't you write to the Corner?" Not much to write about only the weather. I never saw it so hot. I have moved to the historical town of Brooklyn since I wrote and while it is a beautiful place, it is hotter than where I had been living. As I go by the equestrian statue of General Putnam I am reminded of the poem of "The Battle of Bunker Hill: "Up with the shout for Putnam comes,
Upon his reeking bay,
With bloody spur and foaming bit,
In haste to join the fray."

Now our warlike poems will soon pass away—no more war, a blessed condition.

I was reading today of the passing of the fairs. Brooklyn still has her fair this year. It has always been an entertainment for all the country people to look forward to, but now we have the Social Corner with its different clubs. If we could coax a few more men to join, wouldn't it be a little more like a fair?

Tomorrow we meet and greet again in Danielson and I hope it will be cooler. We are having some beautiful letters and descriptions of fine trips. It does one good to read them even if they can't go.

Someone asked the opinion of others in regard to education. I think the physical condition of a child is the first consideration and they should not be forced beyond their ability to learn. Anyone learns a great deal after they get out in the world.

SOME TESTED RECIPES

Dear Social Corner: I have been three weeks trying to answer the roll call. Better late than never.

I also would like to get the names of all the members of club No. 4. As I am a new member and have only attended two meetings I know very few.

I think it would be a good idea if each member could add the year they joined as well as the club number.

Then we would know the old members from the new ones.

Here are some original recipes my family all like:

Salmon Salad: 1 package lemon gelatin, 1 can peas, 1 can salmon. Place a small amount of gelatin in a mold and set, add ½ the can peas then the can salmon, flaked then the other half of the peas. Add the rest of the gelatin and cool. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Pear Delight: To ½ cup hot water add 1 cup sugar, when boiling drop in 6 to 8 pears, pared and quartered. Cook until tender. Remove the peas and cool. Add enough hot water to the syrup that make one pint and dissolve one package orange gelatin in it. Place in a mold with the pears. Serve with cream.

Pa's Daughter: Have you found any way to keep your glasses from steaming yet? When you do, please pass it on as I have the same trouble.

THAT'S THAT. (Club 4, 1928)

PICNIC AT TOO LATE'S SEPT. 18

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I am giving another picnic at my home, Pleasant Valley, Willimantic, Conn., Wednesday, Sept. 18, and would like to see a good crowd. I do think Club No. 1 should turn out better than they did before as it is some job to get prepared for a large crowd and only have a few home.

Take the South Coventry bus from the Willimantic depot and get off at the city line at the new Willimantic cemetery and follow the yellow how. Please bring soup plates, knife, fork, spoon and cup. Please do not bring salad or beans. But bring something good to eat.

Hope to see Bachelor Maid, Olga and Lonesome Pine.

TOO LATE (Club 1)

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER

Dear Social Corner Editor: Have attended several meetings of the Social Corner, also the picnic at Atlantic beach and enjoyed them all very much. Would like to become a member of the Corner and of Shore Line club No. 6.

Kindly send me a Social Corner pin.

SUSANNA'S VISIT TO FLORENCE

Dear Social Corner: We have been in Florence, Italy, three weeks. The guide book tells you "It is unlike any other city in the world, has 250,000 inhabitants and is the Athens of the west." It is on a plain, both sides of the river Arno. A dirty muddy stream that is sometimes nearly dry. The city seems unaltered from the 13th century with solid walls of marble, bronze and stone. The palace where the king of Italy lives when in Florence, is also the famous Pittie gallerles with erotesque and and Siamese altar pieces, valuable tapestry, antiques and marble statuary work of Michelangelo, Lemordo Vinci, and Giotto. The palace is built of enormous blocks of stone, only cut at the corners and extend sometimes three feet beyond the one above it. The gardens go up the hillsides and were planned in the 16th century. Marble fountains, statuary, artificial lakes, and flowers are on every side and above all the peace and stillness of the place. After seeing pictures of the "Crucifixion" and the "Death of St. Sabastian" and so many like them, it gives you a feeling of rest. The oldest bridge over the river, built in the 14th century carries most of the city traffic and has on each side shops that sell silver and jewelry of all sorts and kind. The city streets are very narrow, sidewalks never more than two feet and often only one. People walk in the streets and auto carriages and busses drive around them. The "landaus" are a one-horse chaise like One sees in old pictures of the south, with a mudguard over the wheels about a foot from the walk. They have open sides, you step in and find about room for your feet, as they carry only two people. There's a big white umbrella over your head, and the driver on the box way above you. We took them very often, it was such fun. The first time when they turned around, and the horse's head came almost in my lap, I was scared. The horses have on a straw hat or white canvas one. We visited the baptistry built in the seventh century, where Dante was baptized, and all children born in Florence of Catholic parents are baptized now. The celebrated bronze doors, with a world of thought, are wonderful. They were made by Lorenzo Ghitet, occupied 27 years of his life, and Michelangelo said they were "worthy to be the gates of paradise." Very interesting to me was the Loygia or the foundling hospital where in circles of each arch are original terra cotta medallions of babies in swaddling clothes. Thousands of foundlings are annually maintained in the building, a large number soon after admission are sent out among the peasantry who our paid to care for them until old enough to return to the institution. Any baby is taken in, that is left in a place fixed to place it, by some sister who does not see who leaves it, and they are tenderly cared for and it is always a home for them.

The Pazzo Vacchio, where once was the Roman forum, with the Fountain of Neptune. So many things happened here. On the last day of the carnival 1497 Savonarola had a huze pile of so called vanities, masks, false pair, cards, dice, books, paintings, parchment and art tragures collected from the people, and burned with song, trumpets and pealing bells. The following year, 1498, Savonarola and Prior of San Marco and two others were hanged and burned. A bronze medallion marks the spot.

We visited the hats market where every kind of hat is sold. There is table after table of hats, bags, other clothes, bed spreads, with the wonderful Italian embroidery on them. It seemed to be also a visiting place as women with their babies and children, sat all around; and such a chatter. But when you reach their table they jump up and try to sell you something. If not at their price make one yourself. It is at one of the many plazas that are all over the city. At each corner there is a flower mart where flowers and plants are sold. I could scarcely pass them by, I so wanted to take one home with me. The shop where they make Mosaic is wonderful. They sew the pieces and fit them in to make beautiful pictures, people, flowers and landscapes, every bit done by hand.

All over the city are large squares called plazas that are built up on three sides. One is open to the street. We are on one "Victor Emanule." On the sides there are lunch tables, and a large statue of "Victor Emanule" on a horse. Orchestras play from 5 to 10 o'clock each evening, and on Sundays there were movie pictures thrown on the wall of one of the buildings.

I was sick here and so had to stay over, but am glad as I have seen Florence.

Every one was so nice to me, even the steward wanted to know the word in English for "better," so our hostess told me. If he speaks to you you'll know he wants to ask, "Are you better?" He had, but I had no idea what he said, just smiled and nodded my hand. We have had a wonderful summer, very cool here, people do not go out in midday. Shops close at noon for a while. We could get a carriage for a few cents. On long trips we took trolleys, up on the hills that surround the city. We are soon going back to Paris and will be sailing for home the 21st of this month.

So hope to meet with the sisters at their September meeting.

SUSANNA.

Florence, Italy, August 10, 1929.

STOCK TAKING

Dear Members of the Social Corner: This pleasing observation by Wilhelmina Stitch on stock taking is worth passing along I think:

"It isn't such a bad thing, every now and then, to take a piece of paper, a pencil or a pen, and make a list of all the things that give us daily pleasure. It's really most surprising to find so full a measure!

"We didn't quite remember, e'er we began to write, we had so many causes for feeling deep delight. But now the lists' completed, we're filled with honest shame to think we ever grumbled and considered life too tame.

"For we find we've work that claims us and the blessing of good health. A combination surely that argues golden wealth.

"And we find that we are needed by someone or the other, a husband, wife, or sister, a father, child, or mother.

"And this, too, is a reason for gratitude sincere. We know the joys of friendship throughout the moving year. We've eyes to see great beauty, despite the gloom and murk. We've health and love and friendship; and, best of all—we've work." EVE.

SOME INTERESTING BOULDERS

Editor of Social Corner: It has been a long time since I have contributed anything to the Social Corner, I used to enjoy the Corner very much. Now, nearly 90 years of age, and in excellent health, I think I could give a few interesting facts out of my own experience. I am not a geologist but am very much interested in it and it is of three big rocks I wish to speak. In the town of Waterford, Conn., two miles from New London, my ancestor, Joseph Bills, owned a large tract of land on which was a huge boulder, which had been brought down, probably in the glacial period. It landed on a sloping bit of ledge, leaving a space between ground and front of rock, about three feet or possibly four, where Mr. Bolles used to keep his sheep in the winter season. This rock came to have the name of House rock. I used to know a man who slept there nights occasionally.

Another great boulder in the town of Montville rests on a bed of slate rock and is quite a little larger than House Rock. Out of a crevice had grown quite a tree several feet high and seemed to be in a healthy condition, and room shelter was also used for housing sheep at night. A few years ago it was found to be the second largest boulder in the United States. It is located about two miles from the turnpike road going west from Witch Hazel mill.

My third rock story is different from the other two. In or on this slate ledge, also in town of Montville, there were some quite interesting sights. One in particular had a carriage track, two ruts as wide as carriage tracks would be and this had been called devil's carriage tracks.

Another small boulder was a large armed chair where the devil had his seat, as natural looking as if it had been carved or hewn.

My purpose in writing this may induce some of the young people to visit these ancient and honorable rocks.

FOURSCORE

DELIGHTFUL DAY AT AUNTY NO. 1'S

Dear Editor: Your readers have, no doubt, seen the account of Aunty No. 1's picnic in last Saturday's issue. The reporter covered the assignment so well, nothing remains to be said except that we all had a glorious time. I started about 9 a. m., Aug. 29th, to get a bus for Norwich after having gathered a large bouquet of flowers to carry to Palm Leaf in Norwich. As I had half an hour before the bus would come along I walked slowly toward Plainfield, inspecting the new bridge and improvements in road building meanwhile. Presently a smiling lady in a spiffy little car drew up and asked if I wished to ride. Most assuredly I did. She rolled along to Jewett City where she allowed me to alight and grab the bus for Norwich. Arrived there, I paid my respects to Palm Leaf, one of our first writers in the Social Corner, then hurried back to the square to get a car to Norwich Town.

Georgette, who was on the car, pointed out buildings of note as we were carried along, a most interesting ride to Aunty No. 1's home. You know the rest. Many people, all smiling and gracious, a few little children to enliven the party and a couple or more dog friends to enjoy the "big time" with us. The large green of the square around which the homes seem to gather and the dear old fashioned church there, too, gave a picture we seldom are privileged to see now-a-days. Old Glory greeted our eye first of all. Then the yellow streamers waved a welcome. The weather was fine the friends kind and thoughtful; the food tasty and abundant; and no accidents happened of which I am aware.

Several of us left early, thinking of doing a little shopping in Norwich but found the stores all closed, it being a half holiday there. So we left for the "big sticks" delighted with life in general, and wishing that some one else would have a picnic before snow flies.

NOGO.

TOMATO SOUP CAKE WANTED

Dear Social Corner: When we had a picnic at Atlantic beach Aug 20th, there was a dark cake passed and some of us thought it was applesauce cake. At any rate 'twas very good but one of the sisters said "tomato soup cake" was even better.

She said Susanna sent it in once upon a time but none of us at the table had seen it.

Will Susanna please send it in again and put the title "tomato soup cake" at the top of her letter so no one will miss it?

WHISPERING PINES.

GRATEFUL FOR ASSISTANCE

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Just a few lines to thank all who so kindly assisted me in making my Social Corner picnic a success and especially all who helped me in serving the dinner and doing up the work. I am very much pleased to hear so many tell what a good time they had. I was some tired after but can stand those things as long as everyone can say what a good time they had and such a beautiful day.

Aunty No. 1: I would have liked to go to your house but was not able as I had pluriisy in my side so bad. I want to thank Mrs. Mildred Jackson, Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. John Home for coming and giving me a helping hand. Will close with best wishes to all.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

A Truce Is Declared

By Thornton W. Burgess

When fighting cannot be of use
The time has come to call a truce.
—Johnny Chuck

Flip glared at Johnny Chuck and Johnny Chuck, on a big stone of the old wall, glared at Flip. In the heart of each was resect for the other. They had tested each other and each knew that the other was no coward. A little back, looking on, sat Bowser the Hound.

"Well, Flip, are you going to shake him to death?" inquired Bowser.

"No," replied Flip, looking a bit sheepish, "I would like to, but I can't." You see, Flip was quite honest.

"Do you mean to tell me that you are going to let it be said that you were whipped by a Woodchuck?" asked Bowser.

"No," said Flip. "No one can say that. I haven't been whipped by him. Neither have I whipped him. We are just where we were before we met. If he is willing to call it quits, I am."

Johnny Chuck all this time had been sitting still listening. The hair along his shoulders and back no longer stood up. He was no longer growling. In fact, Johnny was settling himself comfortably. He had a feeling that there would be no more fighting. Nevertheless he didn't intend to drop out of sight between the stones of the old wall while Bowser and Flip sat there. It would look too much as if he were running away. No dog the size of Flip would ever make him run. In fact, even Bowser, big as he was, would hardly have made Johnny run.

"Then come and fight," said Johnny.

Flip advanced a few steps and stood looking straight at Johnny. Somehow there was not that fierce look in Flip's eyes that there had been. Johnny's own eyes began to soften somewhat. Flip wagged his stub of a tail. He didn't say a word. He didn't have to. His whole expression showed exactly how he felt. Johnny Chuck on his part felt just about the same way.

"Do you want to fight some more?" said Johnny, "I'm ready if you are."

Flip shook his head. "No," said he. "Are you afraid?" demanded Johnny Chuck.

"No," replied Flip.

"Then come on and fight," said Johnny.

"No," said Flip. "What's the use? I can't whip you and you can't whip me. I'm not afraid and you're not afraid. But what's the use of fighting?"

"There isn't any use," declared Johnny. "I really ought to punish you for digging open my house over on the Green Meadows. But I guess you are young and didn't know any better. If you leave me alone I'll leave you alone."

"All right," replied Flip. "We'll leave it that way. I wouldn't hurt you if I could. I thought I wanted to, but I don't now. Come on, Bowser, let's go home."

"Good by, Johnny," barked Bowser. Then he turned and led the way back toward the Long Lane and Flip trotted along beside him. There was a truce between Flip and Johnny Chuck. Whatever Flip might do to one of Johnny's children, or his grandchildren, he never again would attack Johnny Chuck.

STOCK PRICES REGAINED LOSSES AND WERE PUSHED FORWARD TO NEW HIGHS

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—(AP)—Stock prices rebounded in spectacular fashion today, regaining the ground lost in the panicky retreat late yesterday, and rushing forward to new high ground. Trading was in large volume, the day's transactions again surmounting the 5,000,000 share mark.

The rebound was sharper by far than that of about a month ago which followed the collapse of prices caused by the increase in the New York Federal Reserve bank's rediscount rate. Today's upturn had the advantage of the accelerating influence of an abundant supply of call money, which carried the rate from 9 per cent to 6 for the first time in a fortnight.

The Standard Statistics Co.-Associated Press price index of 50 leading industrials rose 6.9 points, more than cancelling yesterday's drop of 6.3, and by a slim margin recording a new record high level. The index of 20 utilities, which dropped 7.3 points yesterday, soared 9 points.

Bankers attributed the large influx of call money to the liquidation of weak holdings in yesterday's shakeout, and to the return to this center of funds paid out over the month end. Call money was offered in the "outside market" as low as 5 1-2 per cent late in the day. Time money, however, held at 6 3-4 to 9 per cent, and there appeared no prospect of sustained easy money.

The day's upturn was undoubtedly hastened by short covering, but the trading was of a character to indicate that powerful operators had welcomed the shakeout as improving the market's position and offering opportunities for renewed forward operations. Several commission houses took a conservative stand, however, doubting that the reaction had been severe enough materially to improve conditions, and warning their customers to keep accounts liquid in preparations for further corrective liquidation.

There was little in the day's news to influence the market. The increase of $157,000,000 in federal reserve brokers loans was in a measure counterbalanced as a market influence by the September treasury financing coupon rate of 4 7-8 per cent, 1-4 of one per cent lower than the last issue. It was pointed out, however, that the treasury had deemed it wise to make the new certificates tax exempt in order to attract investors to the reduced coupon rate.

The weekly business reviews pointed to some slackening of activity, largely attributable to shutdowns over the Labor day holiday, but indicated that preparations are being made for active fall trade. Iron and Steel Institute reported that steel ingot production in August was at 92.03 per cent of rated capacity, a moderate decline from the 94.58 per cent of July. Several chain stores reported heavy August sales. General Electric directors declared only the regular dividends, although there had been persistent rumors of a split-up of an extra.

Utilities led the upturn, with the widest gains, Standard Gas jumping 17 1-2 points to a new peak, and American and Foreign Power, American Power and Light, and American Water Works rising 9 to 14 points to record levels. Consolidated Gas, Stone and Webster, and Public Service of New Jersey surged up 6 to 7 points.

Radio and General Motors, however, were the pool favorites, each surging forward with a turnover of more than 400,000 shares. Trading in these two issues accounted for about 18 per cent of the day's business. Radio sold up 11 points to 115 3-4, which is 1-4 of one point from the record level for the present stock. General Motors rose 5 points to 75. It was rumored that an arrangement had been completed for the retailing of Radio's products through General Motors sales organizations.

Such shares as U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone and International Telephone, mounted about 4 or 5 points. Some of the chemicals were buoyant. U. S. Industrial Alcohol jumping about 12 points. Several specialties such as Worthington Pump, Anchor Cap, American Bosch, and Simmons reached record levels with wide gains.

Loose Wiles Biscuit was a feature, jumping 13 points to a new peak. Otis Elevator sold up nearly 13 points to a new top, but lost much of its gain. Coppers were uniformly strong. Anaconda rising about 4 points in a large turnover. The rails generally made good headway. Chicago & Northwestern rising 6 points to a new peak.

Commodities were steady to firm. Wheat mounted a cent and more a bushel on better export demand, and corn moved up similarly on reports of frost in the northwest. The cotton market was quieter, and closing prices were 15 to 60 cents a bale higher on the sustaining influences of low private crop and condition reports.

Foreign exchanges were inclined to sag, the Canadian dollar reaching a discount of about 2-3 of one cent. Sterling cables, however, held at $4.84 3-4.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—(AP)—Except for the convertibles, which rallied from one to two and a half points, bonds travelled over soft ground today. Announcement of the 4 7-8 per cent rate on the new treasury financing failed to arouse support, for although a higher figure would not have occasioned great surprise. The fact that the forthcoming issue is tax exempt was taken into consideration and traders saw no indication that the government's rate was a sign of easier money.

Listed securities of the United States registered small declines in an uninteresting market. The Fourth Liberty 4 1-4s showed some activity, but the other issues were sluggish in contrast to Thursday's activity.

Share privilege bonds, with the exception of the American, and International Telephone convertibles, drew scant attention. Price changes held within narrow limits throughout the session and the gains shown at the close were generally smaller than the advances made by the stocks for which the debentures are exchangeable. The American Telephone 4 1-2s enjoyed the maximum improvement, 2 1-2 points.

All grades of rails dragged and finished easier, Illinois Central 3 1-2s dropped to the new low of 76 3-8, suffering a 3 5-8 point loss. Missouri Pacific general 4s and Missouri, Kansas & Texas adjustment 5s worked against the trend for net gains of 1 and 1 1-2 points, respectively. Atchison General 4s lost nearly a point, or virtually all of yesterday's gain.

Few changes of consequence developed in the industrials and utilities, International Cement 5s advanced 1 3-4, New York Telephone 6s were up 1 and Warner Sugar Refining Refunding 7s fell to the new low at 59 5-8 on a 2 3-8 point decline.

The market for foreign obligations ruled a trifle firmer, but activity was at a minimum. Brazilian issues showed uniform fractional improvement.

Total sales dipped below the $10,000,000 mark for the first time this week.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—(AP)—Business failures in the United States last week, covering five business days, numbered 390, a daily average of 60, which is lower than last week's average, R. G. Dun & Co. reports. In the corresponding week last year, the insolvencies numbered 321.

It was reported in Wall street today that a plan had been effected whereby General Motors corporation will handle sales of Victor Talking Machine and Radio corporation products through a new sales agency. It also was reported that General Motors is arranging with the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing and the General Electric company for similar distribution of some of their products.

Negotiations were reported today to be under way between the Shubert Theatres corporation and Pathe Exchange, Inc., for a working agreement by which Pathe would aid financing of certain Shubert productions and receive in return the motion picture rights and an outlet for production in the Shubert chain of theatres.

The recently announced plan for the exchange of stocks of United Cigar Stores, Tobacco Products corporation and the Union Tobacco company for stock in the United Stores corporation has been declared operative, sufficient stocks in the aforementioned companies having been deposited.

August sales of the Berland Shoe Stores, Inc., amounted to $349,152, compared with $205,013 in August, 1928, an increase of more than 70 per cent.

The American Iron and Steel Institute today estimated steel ingot production during August at 4,925,302 tons, the largest monthly output since the record of 5,273,167 established in May. Operations, however, showed some slackening, the larger output than that of the previous two months being accounted for by a larger number working days. Approximate daily output was 182,437 tons, or at 93.03 per cent of rated capacity, compared to 186,080 tons, or 94.88 per cent in July; 195,255 tons, or 99.56 per cent in June, and 195,302, or 99.59 per cent in May. August operations were far in advance of August 1928, when 4,178,610 tons were produced, mills running at only 82.10 per cent of capacity. Total production for the first eight months of the year was placed at 38,731,069 tons, as compared to 32,752,281 in the like period last year.
